DISPENSARY LAW.

Senator Moody's Proposed Liquor Measure.

FULL TEXT OF BILL

Introduced in the State Legislature by the Tuscaloosa Senator—A Muchly Discussed Measure—Fashioned on the Order of the South Carolina Law.

Montgomery, Ala.—The dispensary bill introduced into the late session of the State Legislature by Senator Moody is attracting intense interest throughout the State. The whisky men of the State realize that they have a fight before them, and the promoters of the proposed law feel certain that the measure will go through. For the benefit of all interested the full text of the proposed measure is here given:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, as follows, to-wit:

Section 1.—On the first Wednesday of August, 1897, an election shall be held in this State at which all persons shall be allowed to vote who would be qualified to vote if an election were held on that day for State officers. The Probate Judge of each county shall prepare for use of the electors of his county printed ballots on which the words, "For Dispensary," shall appear on a line, and the words, "Against Dispensary," on a line under. Voters wishing to vote for the dispensary system hereinafter provided shall, in voting, make on their ballot a cross mark (X) in front of the words, "For dispensary," and voters wishing to vote against said system shall make, on their ballots, a cross mark in front of the words, "Against Dispensary." The notice of such election, the manner of conducting same, the method of canvassing and ascertaining the result thereof, and the manner of paying the costs and expenses of said election shall be the same, in so far as practicable, and consistent with the provisions of this act, as is required in this State in elections for State officers. In general, the laws of this State pertaining to the election of State officers, as far as the same are suitable and proper and not in conflict with the provisions of this act, shall be applicable to the election herein called. The Board of Supervisors of each county shall forward to the Secretary of State at Montgomery a certificate of the returns of their several counties on the third Wednesday in August, 1897, the Secretary of State shall deliver all returns to the Governor of the State, and he, in the presence of the Secretary of State, the Auditor and the Attorney General, and with their assistance, shall open and count the returns. At said election, the Governor shall make known to the people the information published in two columns in the State. If a majority of the electors from the Governor's county shall vote "For Dispensary," then the Governor shall incorporate as a county seat, a dispensary of liquor is not law, shall have authority, to carry out its duty, to carry out its name, in its corner, through its law, the business of buying and selling of vinous and malt liquors, under the conditions and after mentioned.

Sec. 2.—If a city having a population of ten thousand or less, there shall be one place at which such election shall be carried on. In counties having a population of more than ten thousand, and not exceeding fifty thousand there may be several dispensaries. In general, there shall be one dispensary for each city or town of its population. If the population is between ten thousand and fifty thousand, the excess over ten thousand shall be divided into three parts, and for each part thereof shall be one dispensary, but each of the three parts shall be divided into three parts, and for each part thereof shall be one dispensary. The Board of Supervisors of each county shall be authorized by the last preceding census to determine the number of dispensaries shall be carried on within the corporate limits of the towns and cities. Each of the towns and cities shall invest in said dispensary a sum of not less than three hundred dollars, nor more than two thousand dollars, for each dispensary to be carried on. The liquors bought and sold as herein provided, shall be of the purest and best quality.

Sec. 3.—The office of "Public Dispensary" shall be created for each county in which a dispensary may be established. Its term of office shall begin on the first day of January succeeding the election, and shall continue two years. At the last regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors, prior to the first day of January, 18-98, of the Court of County Commissioners or Board of Public Revenue of each county at whose county seat the sale of liquor is not prohibited by law, and at the last regular meeting of said court or board prior to the first day of January every two years thereafter, said Court of County Commissioners or Board of Public Revenue, shall furnish the mayor or other chief executive of the town or city, which is their county seat, the names of three men who are residents of their county, twenty-one years of age, and esteemed as honest, temperate, law-abiding and competent to carry on a dispensary in their county.

From the names of these three men the law-making body of said town or city shall, before the first day of the following January, elect a "Public Dispenser" for their town or city. Said dispenser, under the direction and control of the town or city in which the dispensary is situated, shall buy and sell liquors and carry on the dispensary for the term of two years, and until his successor is elected and qualified. The first dispensers shall begin business on the first week day of January, 1898. Each town or city having a dispensary shall provide its dispenser with whatever money, within the aforesaid limits, that it wishes him to use in carrying on its business. Before entering upon the duties of his office, each dispenser shall make affirmation before an officer authorized to administer oaths, that he will obey all the laws of the State of Alabama, and of the town or city of which he is a dispenser, and, for cause, to be judged of by said body, said dispenser may be removed from office. Whenever a vacancy occurs in said office from any cause whatever, the Mayor or other chief executive of such town or city shall certify the fact to the Judge of Probate in which said town or city is situated. Said judge shall immediately call a meeting of the Court of County Commissioners or Board of Public Revenue, and said court or board shall furnish the said Mayor or chief executive the names of three men having the qualifications for a dispenser and from these three names the law-making body, of said town or city shall elect a dispenser to fill the vacancy.

Sec. 4.—The legislature or governing bodies of the towns or cities in which dispensaries may hereafter be carried on shall pay their respective dispensers a salary which shall be fixed by said body before the dispensary is opened, and shall not be less than five hundred dollars, nor more than five thousand dollars per annum, and shall be payable quarterly. Said legislative body shall not make the amount of said salary to depend on the amount of sales made by said dispensers.

Sec. 5.—Said dispensers shall not sell any liquor of any kind in any quantity less than one-half pint, and shall not make more than one sale to the same person in any one day. Nor shall he make any sale between the hours of 10 P. M. of any one day and 5 A. M. of the next day.

Sec. 6.—Such dispenser shall buy and sell for cash only. He shall keep an accurate account of his purchases and of the amount of each day's sales. He shall make to the legislative body of the town in which he is conducting the dispensary a monthly report under such forms and directions as the said legislative body may require, giving full and accurate information as to the condition and status of the business. On the first day of February of each year the towns and cities doing business under this act shall pay into the treasury of the state, a license tax for the current year, the same amount of money that was paid into the state treasury during the year 1897 for all licenses issued during the said year for the sale of liquors in the counties in which the said towns or cities are severally situated. On the same day the said towns and cities shall pay into the treasuries of the several counties in which they are situated as a county license tax for the current year, the same amount of money that was paid into the several county treasuries for all licenses issued during the year 1897 for the sale of liquors in the said counties. All the assets and profits connected with or growing out of the conduct of said dispensaries shall be the property of the several towns and cities carrying them on.

Sec. 7.—Said dispenser shall not drink, consume or give away any liquor of any kind, or in any quantity, on the premises on which said business is carried on. But this shall not be construed to prohibit the dispenser or some employee designated by him from sampling liquors which he may contemplate purchasing. Said dispenser shall not permit or suffer any other person whomsoever to drink, consume or give away any liquor on said premises. Said dispenser shall report to the grand jury any one whom he believes to be guilty of violating the provisions of this section.

Sec. 8.—Any person who drinks or consumes any liquor on said premises shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be fined not less than fifteen nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 9.—No spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors or intoxicating drinks shall be sold in this state except as hereinabove provided. Any person guilty of violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be fined not less than twenty five nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 10.—The city of Anniston shall carry on a dispensary just as if the said city were a county seat, and said city, at the times at which other towns and cities having dispensaries are required to pay license taxes, shall pay into the treasuries of the State of Alabama and County of Calhoun, as license taxes, the same amount of money that was paid into said treasuries for licenses to sell liquors in said city during the year 1897. The City of Jacksonville in said county, shall pay into said treasuries at the times aforesaid, as license taxes, the same amount of money that was paid into said treasuries for licenses to sell liquors in said city during the year 1897. Each county whose county seat is not an incorporated town or city shall conduct a county seat and through its Court of County Commissioners or Board of Public Revenue, one dispensary subject to the terms, conditions, privileges and license taxes herein given to and required of incorporated towns and cities carrying on a dispensary.

Sec. 11.—On the election day referred to in Section one of this act and prior to the close of the polls on that day, and on the two days preceding, it shall be unlawful for any person in this State to sell any spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors or intoxicating drinks of any kind. Any person who violates the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be fined, for each offense, not less than twenty five nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 12.—This act shall not be construed to repeal any law, local or general, that tends to prohibit, retard, restrain or restrict the traffic in spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or intoxicating drinks of any kind.

Sec. 13.—All laws and parts of laws that conflict with the provisions of this act, except those referred to in the 12th Section of this act, are hereby repealed.

ONLY TWELVE SAVED.

The Filibusterer Commodore Sinks Off Florida.

Jacksonville, Fla.—The steamer Commodore, which cleared from this port for Cienfuegos, Cuba, on Thursday with a cargo of arms and ammunition, foundered off New Smyrna at an early hour Saturday morning. Twenty-eight men were on board the steamer, and so far as known only twelve were saved. One boat was washed ashore empty, and another one landed with the twelve men.

The Commodore carried two other boats, but these have not been heard from. The steamer is reported to have sunk about twenty miles out to sea. The Commodore struck twice while crossing the bar at the mouth of the river, and had been leaking almost from the start. Major Ricardo Delgado, one of the crew, arrived here this evening on the train from New Smyrna accompanied by eleven other survivors, all of the latter Cubans. Major Delgado was met at the train by J. A. Huan, Florida representative of the Cuban Junta, to whom he told the story of the wreck.

Delgado reported that he was awakened about 12 o'clock, midnight, Friday night, by the report that the steamer was leaking. The pumps would not work, and the men set to work to bail the steamer out. This proved ineffectual, and soon the engineer reported that it was impossible to go any further, as the water had put out the fires in the boilers. The Commodore was then twenty miles out to sea, and was running toward Mosquito Inlet Light. The boats were lowered, and Delgado and eleven others got into one boat and pulled away.

The sea was rough. It was 3-30 a. m., everything dark. Delgado was of the impression that the other boats were lowered at the same time, but he was not certain. He knew nothing about the sinking of the steamer or whether any others than those in his boat were saved. Stephen Crane, probably the best known American on board, was with Captain Murphy in one of the boats. They have not been heard from.

COAL MINERS TO STRIKE.

Pittsburg, Pa.—About 1,200 coal miners, employed in coal mines along the Wheeling division of the Baltimore and Ohio railway, struck Monday. The strike is the result of the refusal of the operators to pay the 60-cent rate, as proposed at the last joint convention of miners and operators.

Nashville had a $1,000,000 fire on Saturday night last. The loss was insured, except $600,000.

Texas, according to interviews published in the Huston Post with legislators, wants a new constitution. Arkansas, according to the Gazette, is agitating the question. Mississippi and Kentucky have recently adopted new constitutions, and Alabama needs one more than any state in the Union.—Huntsville Tribune.

It is gratifying to note the rapidly increasing demand for Alabama iron in the foreign markets. Within the last few days our sister State on the other side of the Chattahoochee has shipped 1,000 tons of pig iron to India, while handsome orders have been received from Liverpool, Genoa, Rotterdam and other points. Georgia heartily congratulates Alabama on her good fortune. With each step forward which she is taking in the march of Southern development there is a corresponding element of satisfaction on this side of the line.—Constitution.

The bill before Congress to guarantee to the amount of $10 registered letters, is meeting with a great deal of favor. At present there is no guarantee against loss, the greater protection against theft, because of receipts from each party handling registered matter, being the incentive to register letters. If there is a guarantee against loss even in a limited amount, it is thought the business will be greatly increased. Out of the vast number of registered letters passing through the mails during the last fiscal year, only 600 were lost in the whole country.—Advertiser.

A constitutional convention seems to be the demand in Alabama at present as the majority of the general assembly are in favor of it. A revision of the judicial system, a readjustment of the school and road laws, equally demand improvement. Also the suffrage question and the elimination of the illiterate and corruption vote call for correction.

Alabama is a great state, richly endowed with all the resources of a healthy climate and inexhaustible mineral riches, and with agricultural possibilities unsurpassed. Yet with all the splendid capabilities she is second to last on the list of illiteracy. Where are our boasted energy, intelligence and thrift to develop and utilize these great gifts? Can the progress and future wealth and enlightenment of the state be hampered by obsolete and unwise laws?—Tuscaloosa Times.

CAPT. A. B. McEACHIN.

The legislature passed an act creating a city court for Tuscaloosa, and Capt. A. B. McEachin will be a candidate before the legislature for the Judgeship of the same. We hope he will get it. The Times sincerely hopes that the Dallas delegation will vote for him. Capt. McEachin is in every way qualified to fill the position. He is a man of wide information, a fine lawyer, a polished writer, a genial, whole-souled gentleman. He is not a man who would allow his personal feelings to enter into his judicial rulings should he get the position he seeks. We know of no man in Alabama better qualified to fill a Judgeship than Capt. McEachin.

Besides being all that is claimed of him above, he is one of the best democrats in the state. He went down with Joe Johnston two years ago and triumphed with him last year. He has never held an office in his life. He is one of those fellows who has always been helping the other fellow get the office, and now that he has come out for one we sincerely trust that he will get

The Evening News of Monday gives an extended account of the pursuit and capture of five negroes by Sheriff O'Brien of Jefferson county, who it seems, by their own confession, were implicated in the attempted wrecking of the train at McCombs trestle on the A. G. S. railroad on the 19th ult.

The governor has ordered the Railroad Commission to thoroughly investigate the cause or causes that led to the terrible wreck at Cahaba bridge on the Southern Railway on the morning of the 27th ult. It is said that the Southern and the L. & N. roads will lend the commission every assistance in their power.

The marriage of an aged couple near Manchester, New Hampshire, takes the lead. The groom, Mr. Jacob Witham, is 87 years old, and his bride, Mrs. Georgiana Rivers, is 97 years old. Both are said to be hale and hearty and apparently very happy. This is the groom's third and the bride's fourth matrimonial venture.

The Advertiser of today says: The Auditor is busy sending out the blank applications for the pensions for the indigent Confederate soldiers and their widows. This amount is small but it helps along the needy considerably and shows a spirit to do all in our power for those who are so deserving of our charity and aid.

During the past week six persons, all negroes, have been lodged in the county jail of Jefferson at Birmingham charged with train wrecking. Their names are Andrew Fagon, Emanuel Billings, Tom Parker, Tom Ingram, Rome Scales and Nat Trannum. Several of them have made confessions of their guilt. Their arrests were largely due to the untiring efforts of Sheriff Frank O'Brien and his deputies.

A HORSE DITCHES A FREIGHT TRAIN.

A peculiar accident occurred on the Alabama Mineral Railroad on Tuesday evening near Spring Junction about five miles east of this place. As a local freight train in charge of Conductor Meigs and Engineer Prince, approached the junction, west bound, it was signalled by the section boss to slack up as the track just ahead was being repaired and was not quite ready for the train to pass over. The train therefore slacked its speed until it had gotten down to about five miles an hour. Just about this time the horse that a man in an adjacent field was plowing became frightened and commenced running away, dragging man and plow with him. Strange to say, that though frightened at the train, he did not run in the opposite direction from the train but towards it. Having escaped from his driver and with plow and lines dangling at his heels he approached the railroad at a point on the hillside where the train was passing and ran between two of the cars. The result was that the horse was killed and five cars thrown from the track and piled up promiscuously in the ditch. Shortly after the accident a woman came running up and eagerly inquired if the horse was hurt. One of the trainmen replied very promptly that the horse was dead but that the plow and lines were all right. The plowman, it seems, did not put in an appearance to see after his runaway horse.

The road was blocked by the wreck for several hours and passengers and mails had to be transferred, and consequently the regular mail train due here at 5:05 p. m., did not reach here until 11 o'clock the next day.

DETAILED REPORT
RELATIVE TO THE CAHABA WRECK FURNISHED THE ALABAMA RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS.

Special to the Birmingham News:

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 5.—The report of Superintendent Newbold of the Birmingham Mineral railway, submitted to the Alabama Railroad Commissioners, has been received here, giving a full and detailed account relative to the wreck on the Birmingham Mineral on the 27th ultimo at the Cahaba river bridge, resulting in twenty-two deaths, of whom five were employees, seventeen passengers, besides nine injured.

He says the Cahaba bridge is on what is known as the B. B. & B. railroad, owned and controlled by the Southern Railroad Company, and both the Southern and Birmingham Mineral operate trains over the bridge under contract; that the ill-fated train was about on time when the accident happened, and while there is much evidence tending to show the accident was the result of the wilful, intentional and wrongful act of some miscreant or miscreants, but such evidence is deemed inadvisable to put in record, as this might possibly defeat the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties if divulged at this time.

All the physical facts show conclusively that the accident was due to the train wreckers. The bridge was a substantial iron structure, built upon stone piers, all the details of which, both stone and iron, were worked out in splendid manner, the workmanship being excellent and built according to modern and approved plans by the Keystone Bridge Company in 1890, and regarded as a model of its kind, and nothing has occurred at any time in its history to indicate any fault in its construction or weakness of any character whatever.

The track over the bridge was of heavy steel rail, was perfectly straight, in good condition and had been inspected by the bridge inspectors of the Louisville and Nashville as late as November, 1896, while the entire track on this particular part of the road was constantly inspected by officers appointed for that purpose. The engine, No. 37, pulling this wrecked train, was one of the best, if not the best, engine owned by the Louisville & Nashville Company, Rogers make, and exhibited at the Atlanta Exposition. The cars were also recently built by the Louisville & Nashville at the Decatur shops and were operated on this line since about four months in all, and very strong, without any visible defects. There was nothing in the engine or cars that could in any possible way have contributed to the accident.

A careful scrutiny of the several statements attached to the report show that it was a physical impossibility for the weight of the passenger train which went down to have contributed in any way to the wreck of the bridge, and when the fact is considered that the heavy passenger trains which went over this bridge in 1894 carrying the heaviest engines and cars, including heaviest sleepers, and most rapid time failed to develop any weakness whatever in the bridge or anything indicating any mistake in its construction, and as this bridge was subject to the constant observation of the employees of the Birmingham Mineral and the Southern, and as trains of both of these roads passed over this identical bridge the evening before without accident or without anything indicating weakness or danger in the bridge, this of itself, in the absence of any suspicious circumstances whatever would show conclusively that the accident was due to the act of some malicious scoundrel or scoundrels. Further, Superintendent Newbold adds significantly:

Now over, there are very many circumstances aside from these physical facts which we deem imprudent to report to your honorable body now which show conclusively that this accident, resulting so unfortunately to so many people, was the result of the criminal act of one or more persons.

The report is accompanied by voluminous exhibits showing the respective weights of local trains daily going over the same bridge immediately before the accident, and the trains crossing over several branches, including Tacoma and Bierton lines.

Geo. A. Wilkins, of Selma, vice-president of the Commercial Bank of Selma committed suicide on the morning of the 31st ult. in the St. Paul's Episcopal church. He was missed by friends last night, and a search was made for him. About daylight they went to the church and found it locked. A window was raised and he was seen standing in the angel. As soon as he saw his friends coming he put a pistol to his head and fired.

He was a very honorable, high toned man, and a devout member of the church and a leader in the church here. It is plain that the excitement leading up to the bank failure deranged his mind. It is not believed that any dishonor rested upon him in connection with the failure.

sick with the Grip at their home, the

The express messengers have had their hands full in handling the immense business of the holiday season.

Henry C. Randall, at his home in Dallas

Christmas day was unusually quiet.
The day, though pretty cold, was beautiful beyond description and fittingly typified the beautiful life and character of him whose birthday anniversary it was.

young railroad man on the Alabama Mineral road, came in Thursday morning

3 CONDENSED TESTIMONY. 3

Chas. B. Hood, Broker and Manufacturer's Agent, Columbus, Ohio, certifies that Dr. King's New Discovery has no qual as a cough remedy. J. D. Brown, proprietor of St. James Hotel at Fort Wayne, Ind., testifies that he was cured of a cough of two years standing, caused by La Grippe, by Dr. King's New Discovery. B. F. Merrill, Baldwinville, Mass., says that he has used and recommended it and never knew it to fail and rather have it than any other doctor, because it always cures. Mrs. Hemming, 222 E. 25th St. Chicago, always keeps it at hand and has no fear of Croup, because it instantly relieves. Free Trial bottles at C. B. Duran's Drug Store.

A trainload of immigrants from the far Northwest passed through the city Wednesday over the L. & N. road for points south of here, where they go to settle. They were in charge of Immigration Agent P. Sid Jones of the L. & N. Railroad. Others, it is stated, are to follow. Most of the men were farmers seeking better lands and a milder climate.

DEATH OF MR. A. D. WORTHAM.

Mr. A. D. Wortham, an old and highly esteemed citizen of Columbiana, died at his home in that place on Tuesday night the 5th inst., aged about sixty-five years.
The deceased had been in feeble health for a number of years. He was a man in every respect a most estimable citizen, and enjoyed the confidence of all. It may be said of him that he was an unswerving democrat and a Christian gentleman—"true as the needle to the pole" to his political and religious convictions. He leaves a wife and an adopted daughter and many relatives and friends to mourn his departure.
Truly a good man has passed away. The Sentinel sympathizes with the bereaved ones.

The Supreme Court is hearing the cases from the 7th Division.

The "grip" is still holding forth in our midst and there are several victims reported.

J. D. Farrington, one of Shelby county's most successful farmers, was in the city Monday.

Capt. James Crook, of Calera county, was a pleasant caller at the Sentinel office on Monday.

Rev. L. F. Goodwin filled a regular appointment at the Cumberland church at 11 o'clock Sunday.

Our vicinity was visited by a light rainfall on Sunday evening, which the weather has been cold and clear.

Hon. W. B. Brown of Columbiana passed through the city this week en route to Montgomery to attend the Supreme Court.

The Sentinel force is badly afflicted with the grip this week and we hope our readers will overlook the shortcomings of the paper.

The appeals in the statutory proceedings pertaining to municipal officers at this place were dismissed by the Supreme Court on last Tuesday.

The Court of County Commissioners has been in session this week looking after the public roads and other matters of general interest to the county.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Frost, of Waco, Texas are visiting relatives in this place and vicinity. This is their first visit to the home of their youth for twenty-two years.

The Sentinel has heard of several marriages during the holidays, but the names of the contracting parties have not been furnished, hence we cannot publish them.

Mrs. S. O. Humphries and child arrived at home on Tuesday from an extended visit to relatives and friends in East Alabama and Georgia during the holidays.

Rev. C. L. Herring, pastor of the Cal-era and Helena circuit, after an absence of several weeks to relatives in North Alabama, returned to his work last Friday night.

Rev. W. B. Carter, pastor of the Ep-ist church at this place, filled his regular appointment Sunday last, but owing to the rainy evening there were no services at 7:30 p. m.

Capt. H. C. Reynolds, president of the Industrial School, was in Calera Monday. He reports the additional buildings progressing finely. He also reports the school under good headway and giving perfect satisfaction.

DEATH OF D. N. MUNROE.

Mr. D. N. Munroe, died at his home in Oxana, yesterday afternoon about 10 o'clock. He was considerably advanced in years and injuries received in a fall about two weeks since proved fatal. Mr.
Munroe has held important positions with iron making companies in this section for twenty years or more—first at Shelby, then at Cedartown and later here. He was a brave and faithful confederate soldier during the war, a part of which period he was in the quartermaster's department. Just about the close of the war he had charge of a train which conveyed confederate treasures to the amount of several million dollars.
from Montgomery to Columbus, Ga., and for several years prior to the war was purchasing agent for a big tobacco firm in France. He leaves a wife and several grown sons and daughters besides a host of friends to mourn his taking away.
The time for his burial has not yet been set. Many years ago, before the family came to Anniston, Mr. Munroe fell ill and it was thought died. The body was prepared for burial, a funeral preached and the interment was about to occur when a near relative pressed a last kiss upon his forehead. It was thought then the flesh seemed warm but no special notice was taken of it. The casket was closed but there was considerable delay in lowering it into the grave, and before this was done it was seen that there was a slight moisture on the inside of the glass. The casket was then hastily opened and further signs of life were noticed. It was not long until consciousness was restored, and a few weeks later he had regained his usual health. On account of this experience Mr. Munroe requested that his body be kept out of the grave as long as possible and this wish will be respected.—Anniston Hot Blast, December 21.

H. C. RANDALL MURDERED.

The news reached town, Sunday, of the killing of H. C. Randall at Marion Junction, Saturday evening, by a negro named Bates, who is now in jail at Selma awaiting trial for the murder. The facts, as stated by John Randall, of Calera, a brother of the dead man, are as follows:

"At the time the difficulty started,
Mr. Pettus Randall was in the store.
His attention was attracted by a difficulty in front of the store and when he ran out he saw Shadrick Bates with a pistol drawn on his father. The negro snapped it, and when quick as thought the young man sprang upon the negro from behind, grasping the pistol and pinning his arms to his side at the same time. The negro, who is a giant in strength, threw young Mr.
Randall over his head and he fell upon his face and shoulder, receiving several cuts about the face. He was quickly on his feet with the negro's pistol in his hand when Mr. Henry Randall got between them saying, 'don't shoot, don't kill him.' At that time Jonas Bates, who had not before appeared, ran out from the corner of the store and dealt Mr. Henry Randall the awful blow which crushed his skull. Jonas then ran with Mr. Pettus Randall in pursuit.

Jonas dropped the stick, a piece of cord wood weighing six and a half pounds, which he had secured at a wood pile a considerable distance away. This, connected with the fact that Jonas did not appear until time to strike the fatal blow, gives the affair the appearance of a conspiracy."

Mr. Randall was raised in this county and has many relatives and friends now residing here who will hear of his death with genuine sorrow. He was a thorough going, practical farmer was about forty-seven years of age and leaves a widow and several children to mourn his loss. His remains were laid to rest at Marion Junction on Monday last.

The cure of Rheumatism has often taxed medical skill, but it's prevention has been very easy by an occasional use of Simmons Liver Regulator. It keeps the liver well regulated, and the system free from poison. Therein is the secret of health. "I have used it for years for Indigestion, Constipation, and have found it gives me relief from a touch of Rheumatism."—N. Hughes, Lordsburg, N. M.

The Youth's Companion begins 1897 with an unusually good New Year's number. It is especially strong in story features. A New Serial, "Track's End," by Hayden Carruth, describes the adventures of a boy who was the only inhabitant of a little Dakota town all one winter. "Lon's Triumph" is an absorbing and sympathetic tale of school life, by W. B. Downs; "Her Majesty's Feather Bed," by Annie Hamilton Donnell, sets forth the good sense with which a bright New England girl turned an embarrassing situation to her own advantage. "Afloat on Ice in Lake Superior" is a situation pleasanter to read about than to experience. C. J. Stone is the author. In addition to the fiction, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts gives the readers of The Companion an entertaining and instructive glimpse of "The Daily Life of a Senator." The paper is brimful of good advice, useful information and amusing anecdote. It is astonishing that a paper containing such excellent matter written by men and women whose work commands such high prices, can be sold for 25 a year. But this is the real explanation of its enormous circulation.
The New Year's edition is 650,000 copies.

The Recompense.

Sometimes I wonder if the man
Who wins renown on earth
Finds that the pleasures of the crowd
Are of exalted worth.
I wonder if, when in the tomb
His wasted days lie laid,
The labor and the loneliness
He knew have been repaid.

I wonder if the common man,
Who drifts along through life,
Content with love and praises from
His children and his wife,
Has not less cause to murmur at
The firm decrees of fate
Than he that frets the future men
To find that he is great?

A Scheme That Succeeded.

BY BARRY IRVING GORTON.

Yes, I'm engaged to Fred Warren.
When did I say "yes?" One night
last week.

How did that bashful fellow ever get up courage to propose? Sit down and I'll tell you the whole story.

You see, I had known for a long time that Fred loved me. He had never told me so in word, but those eloquent eyes of his had told me so more than once. However, that wasn't enough. I couldn't accept him and name the day on the strength of what his eyes said. So I decided that in some way his lips must be unsealed and his tongue made to confirm the language of his eyes. Do you follow me?

How did I fix it? Well, I thought and thought, and finally hit upon a scheme. I loved Fred, and, knowing that he loved me, I felt that the end justified the means.

Late one afternoon I received a note from him saying that he would call that evening if I would be at home.
Here was the opportunity that I had been waiting for, and I assure you that I improved it. I sent him word that I would gladly see him. Then I rushed over to May Barnard's home. Finding her at home, I asked her to call me up by telephone at half-past eight.
I told her that I wanted her to stick to that old telephone until I had finished talking. She wasn't to say anything, but to just keep the line open while I talked away. I said I would explain later on, and back home I went.

Evening came and with it Fred—
the same old bashful Fred, yet loving, lovable and loved. Promptly at eight-thirty the telephone bell rang. You know that our telephone is in the library. I excused myself and answered the call, being careful to leave open the door between the library and the reception room, where I had left Fred.

Shall I give you the dialogue?
Well, it wasn't a dialogue, for May said nothing, but just held the fort—I mean the 'phone—and listened. Here is what I said. Of course there were pauses at frequent intervals, in order to give the imaginary fellow at the other end of the line a chance:

"Really, this is terribly sudden. I have never dreamed that you had anything more than a friendly regard for me. But how can I marry you when
I don't love you?—Learn to love you?
No, I couldn't do that.—Do I care for anybody else? You have no right to ask that, and I refuse to answer.—No.
I will not marry you, and I don't mind telling you that I wouldn't marry any man that would propose to a girl by telephone. The man who wins me must have the courage to look me in the eye and tell me that he loves me and not get a half a mile away and shout it through a telephone. It comes with a shock to hear anybody say, 'Hello! hello! Will you marry me?' Well, here is my answer: 'Hello! hello! No.' Good night, and better luck next time."

Then, leaving the telephone, I returned to the reception-room, where I found Fred with a look of determination upon his face—a sort of do-or-die expression, that I had never seen there before. Of course, I assumed an air of surprise at finding the door open.
I told Fred that May Barnard had just called me up. That ended my conscience a little, for it was true, but it didn't take half an eye to see that Fred didn't believe it, and that made me happy for it told me that he must have heard the whole talk. I didn't have to wait long for further proof of it, for Fred's diffidence was all gone.

As I took a seat he seated himself beside me, and in a manly way told me that he loved me. I didn't tell him, as I told the telephone, that it was so sudden. It wasn't, you know; I had been expecting it for years. I told him that I would change my name to Warren, so everything is at last settled.

I haven't told May the good news yet, for she has been out of town; but she returned last night, and I shall thank her this afternoon for her part in the programme. And that dear old telephone ought to be human, so that I could kiss it.

Did I tell Fred that I had used
the telephone to bring him to terms?
No, I didn't, but I shall after we are married. I am not going to take any more chances of losing him. I rather surprised him the other day by asking him if we couldn't have a telephone in our new house. He seemed puzzled at my request, but said "yes." How could he say "yes," when it was the telephone that gave him the needed courage?
And he has his own secret, or rather he thinks he has, for he has never told me what he heard or asked me who the other fellow was, although I know he is dying to know his name.

How will he take it when he finds out my trick? He will forgive me, of course. You can't get a divorce, because you have no business to hear
—and, besides, Fred loves me.—

In the Diamond Mines.

The first diamonds discovered in Africa were found by a trader who saw some children playing with what they supposed were pebbles, one of which, at least, proved to be a diamond worth $3,000. Even at that early day the news of the discovery was not long in spreading to different countries, and not many years passed before so many claims were taken up that it was impossible to keep them separate, and the result was one vast mining district some 15,000 square miles in area, controlled and worked by various corporations and syndicates. Besides these there are a large number of individual diggers.

The mining in the African fields is done by thousands of wild-eyed, black-skinned natives. The Kaffirs are large, powerful men, cleanly in their habits, and during the time for which their labor is contracted, usually a month, they are deprived of all freedom. Communication with any one outside the limits of the mine is for-bidden. They are compelled to live within the walled inclosure or compound owned by the company. While in their employ the Kaffirs are clothed and fed by the company, and if sick or injured they are cared for by and at the expense of the corporation.

Every possible precaution is taken to prevent the native workmen from stealing the gems. A wire netting covers the top of the compound, making it impossible to throw a stone over the walls, to be picked up by a confederate or an illicit diamond buyer. Every night at five o'clock, as the miners leave their work, each is searched with great rigidity by the company's agent. So expert have the natives become in their robberies that every portion of their body is carefully examined with a "sounding hammer," and by the light of a candle the sole of each foot is examined for the tell-tale refraction of light which reveals a diamond pushed under the thick skin of the foot through an incision so deftly covered that it is easily overlooked. But the searcher has become as great an adept in his work as the robber in his robberies, until it is almost impossible for the thief to successfully secrete a stone, and the prospects of severe punishment or of several years' imprisonment in a south African dungeon has no doubt had its influence in reducing the robberies to a minimum.—The Chattanooga.

Comfort for Her.

"Sometimes I think I shall never marry," said Miss Elder in a burst of confidence.

"O, don't despair," replied Miss Flip; "we read in the Bible that Maomi was 580 years old when she married."

It is claimed that during the last twenty-five years but one person for every 3,500,000 carried by the railroads of Denmark has been killed.

The Lovely Greek.

If the Grecian women were beautiful, it was not wonderful, considering the care they gave themselves. The fashionable Grecian woman was of free customs, but she was not depraved. She resembled a professional beauty more than any other class of modern women, but she was far superior in learning and accomplishments. She could be a politician and write eloquent speeches for the head of the republic to deliver. She was versed in sciences, and taught them in public, and she was also a poetess, winning her laurels over male competitors. Her toilet was not her only and sole occupation, though it did take a great part of the morning.

It begins by her slaves frictioning her from head to foot, then placing her in a bath of perfumed water, after which she was again frictioned, this time with ivory brushes, called strigiles. This done, she is anointed with perfumed oils and aromatic fumigations, and then, being wrapped in a sheet, she is laid on a couch, where she partakes of refreshment before the dressing process begins.

The hair is first attended to. It is brushed, combed and rubbed with perfumes, then it is waved or curled with hot irons previously to being dressed in the latest fashion. Gold bands, jeweled pins, pearls and silken nets are in turn worn to complete the headdress, which in itself is an artistic study, as every statue of Venus tells us. The hair being dressed, the eyebrows and eyelids are touched with incense, and the teeth are brushed with perfumed powders. A perfumed water is also kept for some time in the month to perfume the breath.

The whole person is finally sponged with an astringent lotion to prevent wrinkles; and, finally, the face and neck are gently touched with a white wash. The hands and feet are also scrupulously attended to. They are rubbed with softening pastes, and the hands are dyed pink, and polished until they shine like glass.—Philadelphia Times.

The Useful Wasp.

By common agreement the wasp is accepted as emblematical of irritability and petty malignity; but even this much-abused hymenopterous insect plays a beneficial part in the work of nature.

A number of wasps were seen by R.
M. Barrington, an Irish naturalist, buzzing about his cows. Closer inspection revealed that they were all busy catching flies, and pouncing with the rapidity of hawks after birds on the flies as they tried to settle or rest on some favorite part of the cow. One white cow drew more wasps than any of the others, because the moment a fly alighted it was seen at once against the skin. When a wasp catches a fly it immediately bites off both wings, sometimes a leg or two, and occasionally the head.

Mr. Barrington saw some of the wasps when laden with one fly catch another, without letting go the first,
and then fly away with both. There was a constant stream of wasps carrying away flies, probably to feed the larvae in their nests, returning again to the cows to catch more. In about twenty minutes Mr. Barrington estimated that between 300 and 400 flies were caught on two cows lying close to where he stood. Perhaps this narrative of good deeds accomplished will lead people to think more leniently of the vices of the wasp.—New York Journal.

Infant Incubators.

The latest novelty in the Berlin Exhibition is the stall with Dr. Lion's baby incubators, which prove a great attraction not only to the medical profession, but also to ladies. The babies exhibited are between five and eight months old. They would not be living if it were not for the invention.
They are fed on milk.—New York Tribune.

The Poor Tramp's Lament.

"This is a strange world," said a poor tramp, relating his latest adventure. "I had not been able to get anything to eat for two days. Finally, in despair, I attempted to drown myself in the Seine. A fisherman saved me. He received twenty-five francs reward for his deed, and I—got nothing."—Paris Figaro.

BRUTAL CALIFORNIANS

Hang Six Unoffending Japanese Until Life Is Almost Extinct.

Sacramento, Cal.—A crusade against coolie labor has been inaugurated at Orangeville, a citrus colony in the Southeastern part of this country. C.
G. Reese, an orchardist, employed six Japanese on his place, and Saturday night fifteen citizens with gunnysacks over their heads seized the Japanese and placed ropes around the neck of each and took them to a big oak tree.
There they were strung up and left hanging until life was almost extinct.
The Japanese were then lowered, and when they revived the hanging process was repeated several times. The Japanese were then forced to march out of the settlement and were warned never to return on penalty of being hanged until dead.

Reese, the employer, remonstrated at the outrage, and then a rope was thrown about his neck with a threat to hang him if he interfered or employed any but white labor on his ranch hereafter.

GRAVEL RIDGE.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

New York.—Bradstreet's makes the following report:

With the exception of reports from a dozen South Atlantic coast and gulf cities, jobbers at nearly all distributing centers say business is dull and without new features. Demand has improved at Chicago and St. Louis for hats, hardware, shoes and dry goods, but trade in those lines is fair only. Cold weather has stimulated purchases of clothing at some points.
Little general recovery from holiday
dullness is reported as yet.

NEBRASKA BANK FAILS.

Alma, Neb.—The First National Bank of this city was closed Saturday morning by order of the Controller of the Currency, and is now in the hands of the Bank Examiner. Liabilities are $125,000. Assets about the same. The chief item of indebtedness is a State deposit of $40,000.

FIVE WERE SAVED.

While Seven of the Crew of the Steamer Tobacco Were Lost.

St. Louis, Mo.—A special from America, Mex., dated Saturday, says that parties who arrived there last night from Ponitas, on the Pacific Coast, report that a boat containing five half-famished men had landed there last Thursday. The men claimed to be the only survivors of the crew of twelve men of the schooner Tobacco.

The story of the men was that the schooner was loaded with lumber, and was bound from Mazatlan to Acapulco.
She was struck by a heavy sea, and foundered near Bandera Bay. The other seven men of the crew went down with the schooner before another boat could be lowered. There were no passengers on board.

TRAIN WRECKING EPIDEMIC.

It Even Reaches the Philippine Islands.
A Town Burned.

Seattle, Wash.—Philippine Island advices received by the steamship Agaphantus tell of the wrecking by the rebels of a train at San Marcos, near Manilla. The rails were loosened for a distance of twenty metres, throwing the engine and four coaches down an embankment.

About a thousand rebels appeared,
made prisoners of the trainmen and passengers, and took possession of the mails and freight.

While the train was being plundered another gang of rebels set fire to the near-by town of Calumbit.

MURDERED HIS BONDSMAN.

Seth T. Foreman Shot By Postmaster
Landers.

Williamsport, Pa.—George K. Landers, postmaster at Newbury, a suburb of this city, this afternoon shot and fatally injured Seth T. Foreman, one of the most prominent men of Williamsport, and one of the postmaster's bondsmen. The men quarreled over a shortage in Landers' accounts, which his bondsmen have made good.

TO HIDE A ROBBERY

A Fire Is Started, Which Destroys
One-Half of a Town.

Charleston, S. C.—A special to the News and Courier from Olar, S. C., dated Monday, says:

Fire last night burned nearly half of Olars, a small station on the Florida Central and Peninsula Railroad,
Barnwell County. It originated in Griffin's store, about 2 o'clock, and spread rapidly, everything being dry and the wind high and water scarce.
The town is built on both sides of the railroad, and nearly the whole of the side on which the fire started is now in ashes.

Griffin's store, in which the fire originated, had the appearance of having been broken open and robbed, and that is the only solution so far offered for the fire. The total loss is estimated at $15,000; the total insurance at $2,000.

Congressman Money at Last Finds a Resting Place.

Washington, D. C.—Senator-elect
Money, of Mississippi, returned here
from Cuba Saturday. Mr. Money made a flying trip to the island with the object of ascertaining for himself
the condition of affairs there. He has been away since before Christmas, and created some excitement while there by absenting himself from his friends and acquaintances at Havana for a few days. He has steadfastly refused to talk for publication about his trip, and to-night begged to be excused from seeing newspaper reporters.

A WATER HAUL.

Meridian, Miss.—The Southern Express Company's office was entered by burglars early Monday morning by drilling a panel out of the rear door.
The express messenger's safe was taken to a prominent resident street and burst open with a hammer. Express agents claim that nothing was in the safe. No clue to the robbers.

CALERA, ALA., JANUARY 14, 1897.

The Alabama presidential electors met in Montgomery on last Monday and cast their votes for Bryan and Sewall.

A heavy snow storm is reported in the northwest. The Missouri valley and the great lake region are covered with a mantle of white.

The General Assembly of Alabama will reconvene on the 20th inst. The committees appointed to sit during the recess seem to be busy at work.

The taking of testimony in the Alabama congressional contest cases has commenced, and the indications are that these fights are to be prosecuted and defended most vigorously.

For the first time in twenty-four years North Carolina has a Republican Governor. On the 12th inst. Hon. Daniel Russell, of Wilmington, was inaugurated. This is one of the results of the populist movement in the Old North State.

The Treasury gold reserve is climbing rapidly to the $140,000,000 mark. The big trade balance in our favor is doing it. Yet the republicans cannot wait until McKinley is inaugurated before they begin perfecting plans for the construction of a tariff wall along American shores.—News.

The little town of Centre, the county site of Cherokee county, was almost completely destroyed by fire on the morning of the 12th inst. only four business houses were saved from the flames. One account seems to indicate that the fire was incendiary, robbery having been first committed. Another account thinks that it was accidental. Very little insurance.

Capt. T. S. Plowman has replied to the charges of Congressman W. F. Aldrich in his matter of contest for Plowman's seat in strong and forcible language. He does not mince his words and he tells some startling and sensational things concerning Mr. Aldrich of a most damaging character. Mr. Aldrich, it seems, is not going to find very smooth sailing in his present contest.

The Governor of Indiana recommends the passage by the Legislature of a compulsory education law. We do not know how it is in Indiana, but in most of the other States there is considerable difficulty experienced in providing accommodations for the children who present themselves under voluntary education laws. The States will do well if they take care of those who present themselves to be taught of their own free wills.—Savannah News.

EDUCATE THE CHILDREN.

If you want to keep your children out of crime, educate them. Let them know something about the great nation in which we live and they will make better citizens. Educate! Educate!! The safety of our nation rests in the enlightenment of its citizens.—Edwardsville Democrat.

The Washington Post tells a little story about Congressman Catchings, of Mississippi. Mr. Catchings was a sound money Democrat during the early days of the administration and until the question of his return to Congress depended on his change of heart. Then he came out for silver and was re-elected. The other day some Democrats in the House were discussing the possible Democratic member of the committee on Ways and Means to take the place of the late Judge Crisp. Some one suggested Mr. Catchings. "But Catchings is a silver man," said a Southern member. "Oh, no," instantly remarked Representative Owens, of Kentucky "his silver term doesn't commence until the 4th of March."

SIMMONS' REGULATOR

ASK the recovered dyspeptics, bilious sufferers, victims of fever and ague, the mercurial diseased patient, how they recovered health, cheerful spirits and good appetite; they will tell you by taking SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR.

The Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World!

For DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, Jaundice, Bilious attacks, SICK HEADACHE, Colic, Depression of Spirits, SOUR STOMACH, Heartburn, etc.

This unrivaled remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of MERCURY, or any mineral substance, but is containing those Southern Roots and Herbs which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases caused by derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

PURELY VEGETABLE,

The SYMPTOMS of Liver Complaint are a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; Pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Sour Stomach; Loss of Appetite; Bowels alternately constipated and lax; Headache; Loss of Memory; with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; Debility; Lumpy Sputum; a thick, yellow appearance of the Skin and Eyes; a dry Cough, often mistaken for Consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few; but the Liver, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease, and if not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and DEATH will ensue.

The following highly-esteemed persons attest to the virtues of SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR: Gen. W. S. Holt, Pres. Ga. S. W. R. Co., Rev. J. R. Elder, Perry, Ga.; Col. F. K. Sparks, Albany, Ga.; C. Masterman, Esq., Sheriff Bibb Co., Ga.; J. A. Butts, Birmingham, Ga.; Rev. J. W. Burke, Macon, Ga.; Virgil Powers, Supt. Ga. S. W. R. Co., Hon. Alexander H. Stephens.

We have tested its virtues personally, and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Throbbing Headache, it is the best medicine the world ever saw. We have tried forty other remedies before SIMMONS' Liver Regulator, and none of them gave us more than temporary relief; the Regulator not only relieved, but cured us."—Ed. A family reunion of the Frost family was held on New Year's day at the home of Mr. George Frost, near this place. The children, grandchildren and great grandchildren of the late Mr. Jesse Frost were present to the number of fifty two. Mrs. Frost, the aged widow and mother still survives and was present. The descendants of this couple, the late Jesse Frost and wife, number one hundred, hence only about one half of them were present at this reunion. The day was a most delightful one and passed most happily and pleasantly to the kindred present on this occasion.

4 YOUR BOY WON'T LIVE A MONTH. 4

So Mr. Gimran Brown of 34 Mill St., South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had Lung trouble, following Typhoid Malaria, and he spent three hundred and seventy-five dollars with doctors who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restore him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present health to use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for Lung trouble. Trial bottles free at Duran's Drug Store.

The attention of our readers is invited the local advertisement appearing elsewhere by H. Fox. For the past year Mr. Fox has been manager of the Columbian Mercantile Co., and has conducted the business most successfully. He now proposes to open, or has opened, a store on his own account at Columbiana. He needs no introduction to the people of Shelby county for with the exception of a short absence he has been a citizen of the county for the past twenty years, and during that time has been engaged in the mercantile business. He solicits the patronage of his old friends throughout the county, assuring them that in the future as in the past, fair and honest dealing will mark his course. Read the announcement of his new store and when you want goods in his line give him a call.

We understand that Mr. H. Fox will open up at the Moore corner next week with a full line of all kinds goods such as he kept while with the Columbian Mercantile Co. The people of Shelby and surrounding counties who have traded with the Columbian Mercantile Co. know Mr. H. Fox. He is one of our people. He came to this county while a boy and has been identified with our interests and with our people and we will say to you, "Stick to your old friends. When you go to Columbiana see your old friend Fox and he will do what is right in your purchases.

NEEDHAM LEE.

On the 14th day of September, 1896, the spirit of Bro. N. Lee departed this life and took up its eternal abode in the region of eternal bliss and happiness.

Our much lamented brother died at the ripe old age of eighty-eight years, nine months and four days. While his death is a great loss to us, yet we can realize, as did our departed brother, that the Supreme Grand Master knoweth what is best and doeth all things well. He was of a gentle disposition, upright and honest in all his transactions with his fellowman. This we cannot doubt when we remember that he was J. P. in his own vicinity for forty years in succession. Such a man's place will seldom, if ever be filled. But we can only bow in humble submission and say, "Where he now is we soon shall be."

Resolved 1. That as a Mason, our departed brother adorned our lodge; and that his death causes profound grief in each of our hearts.

Resolved 2. That we emulate his noble christian principles, so as to hand them down to all future generations.

Resolved 3. That upon the record of Helen Lodge be inscribed his name, age, and day of his death.

Resolved 4. That we extend our sympathies to the bereaved family and commend them to the Good Shepherd for safe keeping.

Yours respectfully,
L. F. Goodwin.

BORN—To Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Gurn on Monday the 11th inst., a daughter. The Sentinel extends congratulations.

Mrs. Nettie Leeper of Anniston and Mrs. N. A. Graham of this place visited relatives and friends at Jemison yesterday.

The grip continues to afflict a number of our citizens. Several of them have been quite sick during the past week but we are pleased to be able to report none as being seriously ill at this time.

Mr. A. J. Powers, who has been merchandising at this place for the past year or more, is we learn, making his arrangements to move to Anniston. We regret very much to lose him from Calera, but wish him success in his new home.

The Sentinel learns that Mr. A. C. Wade, a former citizen and merchant of this place, but for the past year or more has resided in Montgomery, contemplates returning here at an early day and will again engage in the mercantile business at his old stand, where Mr. Powers has held forth during the past year.

There is nothing that causes women greater discomfort and misery than the constantly recurring Headache. Men suffer less with headache. "My wife's health was very indifferent, having Headache continually, and just two packages of Simmons' Liver Regulator released her from all Headache and gave tone and vigor to her whole system. I have never regretted its use."—M. B. DeBord, Mt. Vernon, Ky.

OYSTER SUPPER.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Calera Baptist church will give an oyster supper at Mrs. Jones' boarding house for the benefit of the church on Tuesday night the 19th inst. Let everybody attend and aid the ladies in their good work. Don't forget the time and place.

DEATH OF MR. S. T. ANCHORS.

DIED—At his home in Columbiana on Monday morning the 11th inst. Mr. S. T. Anchors, an old and highly esteemed citizen. Mr. Anchors had been in feeble health for some time and his death was not altogether unexpected. He had lived to a ripe old age, nearing the four score mark. He leaves a widow and several children and grandchildren to mourn his decease. He was a good man and a good citizen. The Sentinel extends sympathy to the bereaved household.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

ROBERT T. DUNNAM.

Another light has gone out, another life is ended. On the 25th day of November, 1896, the spirit of Bro. R. T. Dunnam, responsive to the summons of the Supreme Grand Master's gavel, was borne on pinions of light to the Lodge Celestial.

At the day of his death our lamented brother was seventy-two years, eight months and eleven days old. Calmly and peacefully, surrounded by friends and loved ones, at home, and fully aware of his approaching dissolution, he passed away without one murmur, without one groan. Having made peace with God, through our Lord Jesus Christ, he had no fear that he would lose the things eternal. He was a man of strong convictions, a cool and calculating mind, honest to a fault, truthful in his dealings with his fellowmen, considerate of the poor, a good citizen, an obliging neighbor, a loving husband and an indulgent father.

Such a man will be greatly missed, but to this yoke of affliction we bow the neck in humble submission to the fiat of inscrutable wisdom, and plant the ever blooming sprig of acacia at our brother's grave—where we shall all soon rest.

Resolved, That our departed brother adorned the noble principles of our fraternity, and his death produces feelings of profound grief in the hearts of his brethren.

Resolved, That his many virtues shall be cherished and emulated by his brethren, and his faults if any, shall be covered with the mantle of charity, and his name shall go down to future generations as a light in our "Masonic Temple," and his memory shall be perpetuated upon our records, and kept alive in our hearts.

Resolved, That a page in the records of Helena lodge be appropriated to his memory, whereon shall be inscribed his name, age, and day of his death.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family and commend them to the Holy Spirit of God, who alone can heal a broken heart, or satisfy a longing soul.

Respectfully submitted,
F. M. Woods,
Chmn. Com.

The Sentinel is glad to learn that the Baptist denomination of Calera have about perfected their arrangements to rebuild their church. It will be remembered that their church, which was the largest and one of the handsomest church buildings in our town, was destroyed by fire about a year ago. Since that time the members of this church, though comparatively few in number, have been steadily at work to rebuild their house, and since Rev. W. B. Carter became the pastor, a few weeks ago, they have redoubled their efforts, with his hearty cooperation, and most gratifying results have crowned their efforts. It has not been decided as yet, we understand, whether the new building will be erected on the same old lot or whether a different location will be secured. However, it has been decided that the work of rebuilding will begin at an early day. The Sentinel hopes that every assistance and encouragement will be given by all our people to this good cause and that the day is not far distant when our Baptist friends will again have a beautiful and comfortable house of worship in Calera.

The Youth's Companion begins 1897 with an unusually good New Year's Number. It is especially strong in story features. A New Serial, "Track's End," by Hayden Carruth, describes the adventures of a boy who was the only inhabitant of a little Dakota town all one winter: "Lon's Triumph" is an absorbing and sympathetic tale of school life, by Mary B. Downes; "Her Majesty's Feather Bed," by Annie Hamilton Donnell, sets forth the good sense with which a bright New England girl turned an embarrassing situation to her own advantage: "Afloat on Ice in Lake Superior" is a situation pleasanter to read about than to experience. C. J. Stone is the author. In addition to the fiction, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts gives the readers of The Companion an entertaining and instructive glimpse of "The Daily Life of a Senator." The paper is bristling with good advice, useful information and amusing anecdote. It is astonishing that a paper containing such excellent matter written by men and women whose work commands such high prices, can be sold for $1.75 a year. But this is the real explanation of its enormous circulation. The New Year's edition is 650,000 copies. For prospectus for the Volume for 1897, printed in many beautiful colors, address The Youth's Companion, 219 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.

Our Lost.

They never quite leave us, our friends who have passed Through the shadows of death to the sunlight above;
A thousand sweet memories are holding them fast
To the places they blessed with their presence and love.
The work which they left and the books which they read Speak mutely, though still with an eloquence rare,
And the songs that they sung, and dear words that they said,
Yet linger and sigh on the desolate air.
And oft when alone, and as oft in the throng,
Or when evil allures us or sin draweth nigh,
A whisper comes gently, "Nay, do not the wrong,"
And we feel that our weakness is pitied on high.
In the dew-threaded morn and the opaline eve,
When the children are merry or crimsoned with sleep,
We are comforted, even as lonely we grieve,
For the thought of their rapture forbids us to weep.
We toil at our tasks in the burden and heat
Of life's passionate noon. They are folded in peace.
It is well. We rejoice that their heaven is sweet.
And one day for us will all bitterness cease.
We, too, will go home o'er the river of rest,
As the strong and the lovely before us have gone;
Our sun will go down in the beautiful west,
To rise in the glory that circles the throne.
Until then we are bound by our love and our faith
To the saints who are walking in Paradise fair.
They have passed beyond sight, at the touching of death,
But they live, like ourselves, in God's infinite care.

A DECEIT OF DEVOTION.

A good deal of water has flowed under the bridge since then. I was a novice at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, where I had arrived from my native village, and as I necessarily received a very meagre allowance from my parents I boarded at a modest "pension" in a quiet little street on the outskirts of Paris, at Montrouge. The meal hours were at noon and six o'clock, and I soon remarked that when those hours came around a big bell, like a bell that announces the suspension of work in a factory, was set ringing. This puzzled me greatly, for there was not a factory, or even a workshop of any importance, in the neighborhood. At length I discovered that the ringing came from a little miserable dwelling-house opposite, whence I had occasionally seen an itinerant cutler issue and start on his rounds, leading a sedate old horse that was harnessed to a small pedler's cart, very much the worse for wear. My curiosity was aroused, and one morning at luncheon, when the bell rang, I questioned the boarding-house keeper about it.

She gazed at me with indulgent pity, and said: "Why, it announces the dinner hour of Rizel's workmen, of course."

Rizel was the name printed on the card of the itinerant cutler. I concluded that she was poking fun at me. "Rizel's workmen!" I re-echoed, with depreciating incredulity.

"I am not joking," she went on seriously; "I said that it announces the dinner hour of Rizel's workmen, and so it does. Hasn't anybody told you about it?"

"Of course not," I remonstrated "otherwise I should not have questioned you."

"Well, I will enlighten you," she said. "About twenty years ago the Rizels were master cutlers. Besides a shop in the centre of Paris they had a factory and carried on a good wholesale trade. When their parents died the two sons, John and Edward, assumed control of the business, Edward, the younger, managed the shop, and John who was far cleverer, managed the factory. He was a very skillful workman, and used to toil at the trade as hard as any of his men, with whom he lived on terms of the most cordial camaraderie.

"The brothers were devotedly attached to each other. There was never the slightest cloud between them. What John decided upon Edward ratified without question. They would have died for each other. One day when the question of marriage was brought up by John, Edward observed:

"If we both marry, our wives may quarrel and cause trouble between us; whereas, if only one takes to himself a wife there can be neither jealousy nor dispute, and nothing can come between us. You are my senior, marry if you wish to; I shall remain a bachelor."

"John would not at first entertain such an argument, and asserted that he would remain a bachelor. Shortly after the above conversation he fell madly in love with a daughter of one of his customers, and married her, after vainly endeavoring to persuade his brother to follow his example.

"It would, however, be impossible to imagine a more united family. John's wife was a good, affectionate little woman, who adored her husband and Edward loved her like a sister.

"Suddenly their happiness was turned to sorrow by a catastrophe from which they have never recovered, and probably never will. Eight months after his wedding John's right eye was destroyed by a steel splinter. This accident in itself was terrible enough, but it was nothing to the consequences that followed. Notwithstanding the care with which he was surrounded, and everything that science could do for him, after months of terrible suffering, John became stone blind. The operation necessitated by the ablation of the injured eye induced complete and incurable paralysis of the optic nerves.

"John had been the very soul of the business. Edward knew absolutely nothing about the manufacturing part of it, and even had he possessed sufficient initiative to assume direction of the factory, his sister-in-law was too crushed and broken by her despair to replace him in the shop. Moreover, the money they had succeeded in saving had largely melted in the hands of the surgeons, physicians and druggists. Edward, being unable to attend properly to the business, the latter went from bad to worse, and though he made superhuman efforts to avert it, the final crash came, and they found themselves reduced to penury.

"Yet during all the trouble, amid all their sorrow and worry, while the edifice built up with so much labor was crumbling about their heads, Madame Rizel and Edward never allowed the blind man to know anything about it. Both were animated by the same noble anxiety—to make the sufferer believe that the business continued to prosper. While their creditors were knocking at their door and they knew that failure was inevitable, and that poverty stared them in the face, they choked back their sobs, and with tears of anguish in their eyes talked cheerfully about the activity of business and the orders that were pouring in.

"And when all was over, when they had been forced to give up the hopeless struggle, and, the shop having been sold, they came to live in yonder house, after buying a horse and cart with which to peddle cutlery in the suburbs, they kept up, and continue to keep up, the illusions of the blind man, whom grief and suffering have confined to a bed of pain, from which he will soon be released by death. In order to do this they reserved the old factory bell, which now hangs in the little garden in the rear of the house.

"At noon and six o'clock in the evening when the workmen used to be rung out, the wife or brother sets the bell a-ringing, and John's pale and wrinkled face lights up with a feeble smile as he exclaims:

"Ah! there go the boys!"

"On New Year's day, when the workmen were accustomed to call in a body and pay their respects to him my husband and about a dozen of the neighbors troop up stairs to shake hands with him and drink to the governor's health. And he thanks them and calls them his dear comrades, and chinks glasses to the success of the firm.

"Ah! sir, it is sad enough to make you cry your eyes out."

This was the story told me by my boarding-house keeper, and it has remained graven on my mind as one of the most beautiful examples of devotedness and charity of which I have ever heard.—From the French in Twinkles.

A Tomcat on the Roost.

A farmer living near here, owns a hen concerning which he tells the following interesting fact:

About a year and a half ago the hen went to setting, stealing her nest in the corner of the carriage house. Not wishing to encourage a migratory propensity among the poultry, Henderson told one of his children, a bright little boy named Tom, to break the hen up and coax her back to the fowl house. Tom made repeated efforts to carry out his father's instructions, but it is easier said than done, to break up a setting hen. Day after day the hen went back to her nest in the carriage house till Tom was in despair, and he hit upon the following novel plan to oust her from her chosen abode:

There chanced to be a litter of kittens on the place that needed disposing of, and Tom thought to combine business with pleasure by putting one of the mewling young kittens in the old hen's nest. This would seem to be a very effectual way, not only of breaking up the hen's housekeeping, but of getting rid of the kitten as well, as she would no doubt turn upon the disturber of her peace and destroy it. This was Tom's idea, at least, but the plan did not work.

Instead, the old hen, in lieu of something better, hovered over the kitten until it passed beyond the stage of adolescence, thereafter caring for it as dutifully as if it had been the most loving of chicks. In turn the kitten seemed well pleased with its new quarters and its strange foster mother, and would follow at her heels, answering her clucks with a dutiful mew, picking up crumbs and stray bits of meat that found their way into the chicken food. That strange affection thus engendered between the hen and the kitten continues unabated, though the latter is now a full grown cat, and Henderson says it is worth its weight in gold in keeping rats out of the fowlhouse. Of course the rodents are not prepared to find a cat perched upon the pole among the fowls, and when he pounces down he bags his game every time.—Philadelphia Times.

Tunnels Under Tunnels.

One of London's underground railways, the Metropolitan, is about to make an extension which will demonstrate at least one of the advantages of the underground system for urban transit. Finding that the demand on its lines is greater than can be met by its present facilities, the company is about to construct two tunnels under its present roadbed, one of which will be used for inbound and the other for outbound trains, and both for express trains only, leaving the present road to carry the way travel. The tunnels will be operated by electricity, thus avoiding the annoyance of smoke, steam and gas, and permitting perfect ventilation, while the fact that they are to be constructed on the property already owned by the company, does away with the enormous expense for right of way, which is a serious drawback to surface or elevated roads in cities. It also does away with the expense and annoyance of consequential damages, which is an obstacle to the erection of a second story to the elevated railroads in New York. No matter how many tunnels are constructed, one below another, they shut off nobody's light and air, and give nobody a chance to complain that he is injured in his business or the enjoyment of his home, nor do they obstruct streets or injure in any way the appearance of the city.—Philadelphia Ledger.

What Attracts Them?

It has frequently been asserted that the brilliant colors of many flowers serve to attract bees and butterflies to them. Experiments recently reported to the Belgium Academy of Science seem to show that the perfume rather than the color of the flowers is the real attraction. Bright colored blossoms were covered with leaves and papers pinned closely about them, yet the insects not only visited the hidden flowers, but endeavored to force their way under the papers in order to reach the blossoms, which they could not see.—Ram's Horn.

It takes 72,000 tons of paper to make the postal cards used in the United States each year.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—No special change in trade features is reported by The Tradesman's Southern Correspondents, but a large number of idle manufacturing plants have resumed operations since the first of the year, and this, of course, means an increased demand for manufactured products.

The iron and steel trade continues quiet, though pig iron is considerably more active in the Pittsburgh market, and a somewhat better feeling is reported at Chicago and Louisville. Southern brands of iron are a little weaker. The export trade in Alabama iron shows signs of decreasing.

Business in lumber and textiles makes a fair showing for the season.

The Tradesman reports the most important new industries for the week as follows:

Brick works at Edenburg, Va.; the Capital Construction Company, capital $100,000, at Alexandria, Va.; a large cotton compress at Columbus, Ga.; the Gainesville and Chattanooga Power and Manufacturing Company, capital $50,000, at Gainesville, Ga., and the Sistersville (W. Va.) Electric Light and Power Company, capital $12,000. The erection of a blast furnace is contemplated at Covington, Va.; a $10,000 company will develop pyrites mines near Hot Springs, Ark.; the Powhatan Oil and Gas Company, capital $300,000, has been chartered at Wheeling, W. Va.; the Newberry Phosphate Company, capital $25,000, at Newberry, Fla.; the Georgia Underwear Company, maximum capital $100,000, at Barnesville, Ga., and $50,000 coffin factories will be erected at Chattanooga, Tenn., and Tyler, Tex.

HEAVY SNOW IN NEBRASKA.

Omaha, Neb.—Telegrams from Northern Nebraska and South Dakota points, dated Saturday, report that the heaviest snow storm of the Winter was then in progress. Railroads in the Jim River Valley are blocked, and at other points the situation is equally bad.

WRECKED A TRAIN

And Robbed the Passengers.—Ten Spanish Officers Captured.

Havana, Cuba.—Official news has been received here of the wrecking and plundering of a railway train near this city on the night of January 16 by hands of plateadors. The train was the last one running from Regla, a suburb of Havana, on the East side of Havana Bay, to Guanabacoa, five miles further East. The robbers stopped the train at 10:30 p. m., and covering the passengers with their guns, proceeded to rob them of everything of value they had about them. There were ten Spanish officers on board the train who had been on a pleasure trip to the city, and were returning to Guanabacoa. These the robbers made prisoners and took them away. Nine of the officers were subsequently released, but one of them, a native Cuban, was killed for being found in the Spanish service.

ROUGH ON ALTGELD.

His Successor in Office Finds the State Treasury Almost Empty.

Springfield, Ill.—For the first time since the adoption of the constitution of 1870, the Legislature of Illinois may be asked to authorize the borrowing of money with which to replenish the State treasury until the next instalment of taxes is received. Governor Tanner, who has just been installed as Governor Altgeld's successor, finds the State treasury almost empty. Payment has been stopped by the State on nearly everything except expenses of the Legislature.

INDUCTED INTO OFFICE.

Columbia, S. C.—At noon, Monday, in the hall of the house of representatives and in the presence of all classes of people, William H. Elerbe, the new Governor of South Carolina, was inducted into office, the oath being administered by the chief justice of the State Supreme Court. The lieutenant-governor, Miles B. McSweeney, subsequently, was also inaugurated.

SILVER MINTAGE.

Washington.—The issue of standard silver dollars from the mints and Treasury offices for the week ending January 16, was $247,749; and for the corresponding period last year was $233,400.

The shipment of fractional silver coin from January 2 to 16, aggregated $212,000.

The President to-day nominated Thomas D. Boyrum, of North Carolina, to be Collector of Customs for the District of Albemarle, N. C., and F. M. Mumford to be Postmaster at St. Francisville, La.

GOOD NEWS COME.

An Envoy Says Gomez is Pushing Toward the City of Havana.

Atlanta, Ga.—General Laceret, of the revolutionary army of Cuba, has sent to the United States Lieut.-Col. Eugenio Varella, who has placed the facts in his possession in the hands of Dr. A. J. Diaz, of this city.

Colonel Varella reports the Cubans to be in excellent condition. General Laceret is at present operating in Matanzas Province, while General Gomez is in Havana Province, pushing toward the city. The greatest enthusiasm prevails among the people. Colonel Varella's mission is to secure material aid for General Laceret.

HENDERSON LYNCHED.

Columbus, Miss.—Meagre particulars of a lynching, which occurred sixty miles west of here, on the Southern railway, Saturday night, reached here Monday. The body is identified as that of Peter Henderson, the negro sleeping car porter, who assaulted John Griffin, a flagman, with an ice pick, one day last week. Griffin, though seriously wounded, has recovered. There is no clue to the lynchers.

It is absolutely denied that the plague has made its appearance at Marseilles, and it is asserted that there is not even a suspected case at that port.

A Wonderful Cure.
I was a martyr to muscular rheumatism for thirty years; tried all medicines and doctors with no permanent relief. I was advised to take P. P. P., and before I had finished two bottles my pain subsided so I was able to work. I feel better than I have for years, and am confident of a complete recovery.
J. S. DUPRISS, Newsauville, Fla.

Testimony from the Mayor.
I suffered with Rheumatism for fifteen years, tried all the so-called specifics, but to no purpose. My grandson got me a bottle of P. P. P., and I feel like a new man.
W. H. WILDER, Mayor of Albany.

From Two Well-known Physicians.
We are having a big sale for your P. P. P., and we prescribe it in a great many cases, and find it an excellent thing. We handle about one dozen bottles a week.
Drs. J. M. T. RICHARDSON, Piedmont, S. C.

Hot Springs Surpassed.
A bottle of P. P. P. has done me more good than three months' treatment at the Hot Springs, Ark.
JAMES M. NEWTON, Aberdeen, Brown Co., O.

Pimples, Sores and Eruptions Cured.
I take great pleasure in testifying to the efficient qualities of the popular medicine for skin diseases known as P. P. P.. I suffered for several years with an unsightly and disagreeable eruption on my face. After taking three bottles in accordance with directions, I am entirely cured.
Capt. J. D. JOHNSTON, of Johnston & Co. Savannah, Ga.

The above letters are taken from many received by us. P. P. P., (Lippman's Great Remedy), is a medicine whose virtues are known from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

P. P. P. begins its work by purifying the blood, which is the source of all life, and does not cease until a perfect and entire cure is effected.

The mortifying eruptions that mar the complexion, the tired feeling that prevents thorough accomplishments of the daily tasks, sleepless nights, loss of appetite, irritability of disposition, all mean a derangement of the system consequent from impure blood, which can and will be cured by P. P. P.

P. P. P., (Lippman's Great Remedy), is conceded by physicians and the people to be the Greatest Blood Purifier of the Age. It positively and permanently cures. For sale by all druggists or direct from us; price $1 a bottle, six bottles for $5.

The Alabama legislature reconvened on yesterday.

The wheat crop of Texas is reported to be in fine condition.

Capt. R. E. Jones, coroner of Jefferson county, died recently.

Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls lectured in Birmingham on last Thursday night.

Eulogies in memory of the late Speaker Chas. F. Crisp will be delivered in the U. S. Senate on next Monday.

The Harbor Improvement and Coast Defense convention met at St. Augustine, Florida, on yesterday. Reports indicate a good attendance.

There remains only twenty-five days before the legislature of Alabama, hence the members will have no time to waste. Many measures of great importance to the general public are knocking at the doors for attention.

The Supreme court of the United States has given the South Carolina dispensary law another black eye. It has sustained the decision of the lower court declaring the act invalid as in conflict with the constitution of the United States.

It is now definitely announced that Senator John Sherman will be McKinley's Secretary of State. It is also stated that Ex-Gov. Long, of Massachusetts, will be Secretary of the Navy and Ex-Congressman Wilson, of Iowa, Secretary of Agriculture.

The indications continue to grow brighter for a healthful revival of business this spring. The railroads are beginning to take steps for repairing and bettering their roads. The iron market begins to show signs of improvement, and the outlook for general business improvement gradually grows better. Better times are surely but slowly approaching.

A Dahlonega, Ga., special to the Atlanta Constitution of the 19th inst., says that the gold fever is on in that district and is running higher every day. The people are wild with excitement at the rich finds of the precious metal and options are being gobbled up like hot cakes. The scenes are said to be a repetition of those in California in 1849. The old mines are being opened up and immense outputs are reported. Some of the veins discovered are of unusual size and richness.

The house committee of the Georgia legislature, which has been investigating the charges made against Judges Seaborn Reese and Joel Sweat, made their report on the 18th inst. Judge Reese, who was charged with being drunk on the bench, was exonerated. The committee reported that there was no ground for the impeachment of either Judge, but some of the members will express censure of Judge Sweat for conduct unbecoming a judge in his course toward Mrs. Crossly and Miss Bradley at Indian Spring.

The state democratic executive committee met in Montgomery on yesterday. It was called to make some rulings as to the qualifications of those participating in future primaries of the party. Every true democrat in Alabama earnestly hopes that wisdom, conservatism and patriotism will govern the members of the committee at this meeting. An important crisis confronts the party, and its future welfare will depend largely upon the rulings of the committee at this time. May they be such as to bring about harmony and unity. The Sentinel hopes as much, for every democratic vote is needed.

The sentiment favoring a constitutional convention is growing daily throughout the state. Its necessity is forcing itself to the front. The people are beginning to realize that it is of vital importance that Alabama should no longer be hampered by her present constitution. Let us all pull together for a constitutional convention. Let us urge the general assembly to immediate action in this direction.

A Montgomery special of the 19th inst. to the State Herald gives a glowing description and account of Alabama's infant city, Fruithurst, located in Cleburne county. The indications all point to a wonderful as well as a most satisfactory success, so far as this town is concerned. Mr. J. A. Westerlund, the General agent for the Fruithurst Company, was the informant of the special correspondent, and among other things that he said we note the following: New comers from the northern and western states tell us that nearly half the population of these states want to come south, and that very many of them will do so this year."

The Dixie Mill Company's plant, valued at $50,000 and situated about five miles above the city of Mobile, was destroyed by fire on the 19th inst., entailing a loss of $25,000, there being about $25,000 insurance. During the progress of the fire sparks from the mill set fire to the city magazine, located across the T. & N. railroad from the plant, and a terrible explosion followed, shaking up the country and the city for miles around. There were at the time of the explosion 5,000 pounds of powder and three hundred pounds of dynamite stored in the magazine. Several persons are reported seriously injured and it is thought that at least two negroes were blown to atoms. A number of houses, chimneys, etc. were badly shaken.

The following are among the United States Senators selected on yesterday by different states: Arkansas reelects Senator Jas. K. Jones, democrat, by an overwhelming majority; North Carolina elects F. P. Venable, a republican; Pennsylvania elects Penrose, republican, to succeed J. D. Cameron; Missouri reelects Vest, democrat; Illinois elects Hon. Wm. Mason, of Chicago, republican, to succeed Senator Palmer, democrat, North Dakota reelects H. C. Hansbrough, republican; Colorado reelects Senator Henry M. Teller, the vote being non partisan and almost unanimous; New York elects T. C. Platt, republican, to succeed Senator David B. Hill, democrat; Delaware elects Richard R. Kennedy, democrat; Indiana elects Chas. W. Fairbanks, republican, to succeed Daniel W. Voorhees, democrat.

The christian people of the state are aroused and demonstrate the fact that they are terribly in earnest in their efforts to put down gambling in Alabama. On last Sunday night three mass meetings were held in the city of Birmingham for the purpose of protesting against legalized gambling in the state and to create sentiment in favor of the Anti-Pool Bill, which has been introduced in the legislature and is now with the Committee on Judiciary of the House. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather the audiences were large. Distinguished speakers addressed them, among them being some of the most prominent ministers and laymen in the state. Every denomination and creed was represented in these meetings and among the speakers, and at each meeting resolutions calling on the state legislature to expel pool selling from Alabama were adopted. This same sentiment prevails throughout the state and it is earnestly hoped that the legislature will respect the wishes of the great religious and moral elements of our people and enact a law expelling "legalized gambling"—the great national evil, from our state. It could not do anything that would be more in the interest of the whole people.

THE MUDDLE SETTLED.

STATE DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The State Democratic Executive Committee met in Montgomery on yesterday and adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the State Democratic Executive Committee, in order to secure harmony in the party and uniformity in the matter of the qualifications of voters in the party primaries throughout the state, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the democratic state executive committee of Alabama, That we hereby cordially invite all conservative voters, irrespective of past political associations, or differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure and economical and constitutional government; and who will support the nominees and principles of the democratic party, to participate in the primaries of the party throughout the state

Resolved, further, That all persons so participating in the primaries, conventions or mass meetings of the party hereafter to be held, thereby pledge themselves to support the nominees of said primary, whether municipal, county, state or federal

Resolved, further, That it shall be competent for the local executive committee of each county to determine whether or not any other than white voters shall be allowed to participate in said primaries.

THE WHOLE SOUTH AROUSED.

The people of the south, says the Jackson, Miss., Evening News, are becoming aroused on the subject of juvenile reformatories for the youthful criminals. The Mobile Register of a recent date contains the following:

"The women of Mobile have organized an association known as the 'Woman's Reformatory Committee,' and have been busily engaged for the past week in an earnest endeavor to arouse the people of Alabama to immediate action looking to the prompt establishment of a reformatory at Mt. Vernon. As is shown in the columns of yesterday's Record, the need of such a reformatory is most pressing. The Register, quoting from Judge Semmes, says: 'At the present term of the criminal court there have been convicted of grand larceny ten boys under 14 years of age. If I sentence these boys to the county jail for one year, the shortest time, it will cost the state $1,195.10.' Such facts as these need no commentary. They speak louder than words, though angels spoke them. By all means let us have this reformatory. Humanity, justice, self-protection, economy demand it. Let every honest man, every good woman in the state join in demanding from the present legislature that this reformatory be immediately established."

The people of Georgia and the Carolinas have also aroused themselves on this subject. In Mississippi there is a strong sentiment for a reformatory. The last legislature passed such a bill, but unfortunately the Governor did not have time to examine it and give it his signature before the legislature adjourned. It should be the policy of every state to make its convicts better men when they leave the prison. It should ever be the aim of the people of the state to separate the youthful offenders from the hardened criminals. Juvenile reformatories have for years been a part of the prison system of the north, but until recently the people of the south have given but little thought to the subject, but now the south is being aroused and it will not be long before there are juvenile reformatories in every southern state.

EDITORIAL NOTE.

NEW SERIES VOL. IV. NO. 25

Once in a While,
Once in a while the sun shines out
And the arching skies are a perfect blue,
Once in a while mid clouds of doubt Faith's fairest stars are peeping through.
Our paths lead down by the meadows fair,
Where the sweetest blossoms nod and smile
And we lay aside our cross of care,
Once in a while.
Once in a while within our own
We feel the hand of a steadfast friend;
Once in a while we hear a tone
Of love with the heart's own voice to blend,
And the dearest of all our dreams come true,
And on life's way is a golden mile;
Each thirsting flower is kissed with dew,
Once in a while.
Once in a while in the desert sand
We find a spot of the fairest green;
Once in a while from where we stand
The hills of Paradise are seen.
And a perfect joy in our hearts we hold,
A joy that the world cannot defile;
We trade earth's dross for the purest gold,
Once in a while.

WHAT HAPPENED.

Aunt Patty awoke early with the bright April morning, feeling sure something was going to happen. She had heard High Top Calvin, the king of the flock, crow nine times at midnight, and Lympathy Limp, the lame white pullet, was cackling before sunrise. As the moments passed, and Aunt Patty began putting on the garments that lay so smooth and orderly on a high-backed chair, she felt surer and surer her convictions would come true. She put one stocking on wrong side out, the right shoe on the left foot, and skipped three holes in lacing her stays. She tried twice to put both arms into one sleeve of her dress, and buttoned it by leaving two holes at the top with no buttons, and two buttons at the bottom with no holes. She could no longer still her reasoning, but burst out,—

"Patty Prentice, are you a fool?"

Just as she had got the refractory buttons into place there came a prolonged knock at the porch door below. "Oh, dear me!" she said, "what's coming now? Somebody must be dead." Her thoughts and tongue ran swiftly as she tried to untie the night-cap strings that in her hurry had got into a hard knot. "Praps it's Deacon Hopkins' wife. Belinda Johnson said last night the doctor said she couldn't pull through; or maybe it's Martha James' husband's mother; she's awful feeble. Or what if it should be Joe Backus' boy Jim! He always throws a stone at Sancho every time he passes here"—Sancho is her cat—"They say Jim's likely to get killed any time."

Aunt Patty had conquered the strings and hung the cap on the bed-post. She started down the narrow stairs, still thinking of Sancho's persecutor, and repeating, "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord." She crossed the kitchen and reaching the porch moved aside from the door the woodbox with its pile of tin pans. Aunt Patty had not the protection of a man in the house, "But tin pans make as much noise as a man, any time," she said, "and perhaps are as good in protecting."

She slid back the bolt, turned the button, and asked anxiously,—

"What is it?"

"Mover wants you to come right over, Aunt Patty," a childish voice said. "She's got unexpected company. Don't stop to get any breakfast. I ain't had none, neither."

"Unexpected company," repeats Aunt Patty. "I wonder if the day will ever come when I am not at the beck and call of everybody's company and piled-up mending basket." But she reaches out, pats the child's head, and kindly says, "Well, come in, Johnnie, and you can eat some doughnuts while I'm getting ready."

Her doughnuts are known to every child in the village; they are a generous kind, or, as the children say, "not all hole." It is a bright gleam of sunshine in her lonely life that children love her, and many childish sorrows and wrongs are soothed by her ready sympathy and the contents of the never-empty tin box in the square cupboard.

Aunt Patty is soon ready, for she is not a precise old maid who must leave everything at an exact angle. She often says, "There are old maids from compulsion, and old maids from choice, and I am a sort of betwixt and between."

But many of the village people remember the lover of Aunt Patty's girlhood, and often over the tea cups has the prediction been given,— "They'll both get tired of living alone, and make it all up. You see if they don't."

Johnnie feeds the hens while Aunt Patty puts Sancho's breakfast under the doorstep, with the always added admonition—

"Now, Sancho, if you see Jim Backus coming, run right under the hen-house."

She closes the gate, and stops to look at the lilac bush, and thinks of the purple plumes hidden so closely in the bright green buds.

"How kind Nature is to all life entrusted to its care!" she says; "and it never makes a mistake."

She thinks how sweetly the birds sing, and how much of life there is in the bright spring morning. She finds herself singing,—

"If it were always May, sweetheart,
If it were always May."

She stops suddenly, remembering the weight of nearly fifty years. But she cannot close her eyes to the swelling buds and sweet awakening that shows at every step along the roadside. They cross the narrow bridge, and Johnnie, growing impatient, runs ahead and calls,—

"Let us hurry, now, Aunt Patty, for mover is waitin'."

She follows Johnnie into the house, through the long entry, and stops just at the parlor door to leave her bonnet and shawl. She hears the child's voice,—

"I didn't tell! I didn't tell! Now, Uncle John, div me the candy."

Mrs. Hastings meets her at the door and says in a glad voice,—

"Uncle John has come back, Aunt Patty, and we want you here for a nice long day."

She hears another voice speak her name, she feels a warm hand clasp hers, and like one in a dream she enters the room. She hears the questions and replies, but all sound far away—only Johnnie's happy voice seems real.

"You ain't got to do nuffin' today Aunt Patty—not sew, mend, nor nuffin'. Mover said so—didn't she, Uncle John?"

"Unless she will mend a broken life," he slowly answers.

"I dess she can," says Johnnie, "for my wocking hoss dot his tail bowked off, and she stuck it on jist as good as ever."

Aunt Patty takes the mending basket, thankful for once to busy herself with its contents.

So the quiet spring day goes on. Neighbors drop in to see the wanderer. Talk of travels, Western life, and many changing scenes she hears, but her own heart is treading the path that thirty years have made. Many pictures were dim and almost forgotten; but today the fires of memory are all lighted, and every image is shown in truthful outline. The hasty words, the parting, the waiting and uncertainty, and then the lonely years.

The sunbeams had just failed to enter the west window as Aunt Patty folded the last garment and put the needles and thimble into the workbag. She spoke of Sancho and the hens needing their supper, and hurriedly put on her bonnet and shawl.

A tall form waits at the door, and together they walk down the path, across the bridge, and along the country road. They talk but little. Each heart is asking and answering its own questions. They enter the yard; she closes the gate, and turning to the road, they stand and gaze at the picture. There is the green meadow below with the winding river, the blue hills beyond, all softened with the lights of the spring sunset. She sees it all tonight with a girl's clear eyes of years ago. He speaks her name; she turns to see him standing with head bowed and hands clasped.

"Patty," he says, "will you repeat the words you said here at the gate thirty years ago: 'You are all to blame, John Hastings. I will never marry you, and leave the never out?'"

Her face shows a startled look that changes to a tender smile, and softly she answers:

"I will leave the never out."
And that's what happened.

There are now 500 cotton mills in the South.

Novel Wedding Ceremony.

The novel spectacle of a man and woman dressed in bridal costume riding on yoked bicycles up to a clergyman and going through the form of marriage was witnessed by an audience of over 600 curious people in the gymnasium of Temple College quite recently. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Robb, active members of Grace Baptist church, whose happy wedded life is of eighteen years' standing, were the central figures in the act, and they took their wedding vows anew before their pastor, Rev. Russell H. Conwell.

The central part of the floor was roped off, and as Mr. Conwell took a position at one end of the enclosed space a door at the opposite end swung open and a pair of daintily-attired little flower-bearers rode forth on coupled wheels. After making a few turns around the arena, they were joined by five sets of bridesmaids and ushers, and finally by the bride and groom, all similarly mounted. The attending couples were Louis Kirlin and Miss Marian Neisser, Frank Barto and Miss Ada Tracey, Charles Briggs and Miss Ola Hummel, Frederick Wishart and Miss Olive Logan, Llewellyn Probert and Mrs. Frederick Wishart. The flower-bearers were Master Harrison Barcus and Miss Edna Wimer.

Pink cycling suits, with leggings and jaunty caps to match, added to the charms of the fair maids. Their escorts wore knickerbockers and had pink carnations on their coats. The bride and groom wore white costumes and rode on white machines, she carrying a big bunch of chrysanthemums and he displaying a big bunch of red and blue on the lapel of his coat.

Slowly they circled about and then lined up in front of the minister, dismounted, and the pledges of eighteen years before were renewed.—Philadelphia Record.

He Raised Them.

A few nights ago a miner from the North who had lately sold a claim, had money to burn, and was in an incendiary mood, came down to Spokane to make the currency bonfire. He was rather rusty looking when he struck Spokane, but he was hungry, and before going to a barber shop or bath, dropped into an up-town restaurant to get something to eat. There was but one waiter, and he, busy carrying champagne to a party at another table, paid little attention to the hard-looking miner. Finally the waiter was called over, when the miner said:

"See here, kid! Do I eat?"

"Sorry, I can't wait on you now," was the prompt reply, "but the gentlemen there have just ordered a fifty-dollar dinner."

"Fifty-dollar dinner be hanged! Bring me $100 worth of ham and eggs and be quick about it! Do I look like a guy who can be bluffed by a mess of popinjays?" He was waited upon promptly.—Spokane (Wash.) Review.

Rumor Had Preceded Him.

A certain country doctor, who was also the village dentist and surgeon, was a severe looking man, and had beside the reputation of being most "heroic" in his methods of treatment, so that many people stood in a kind of terror of him.

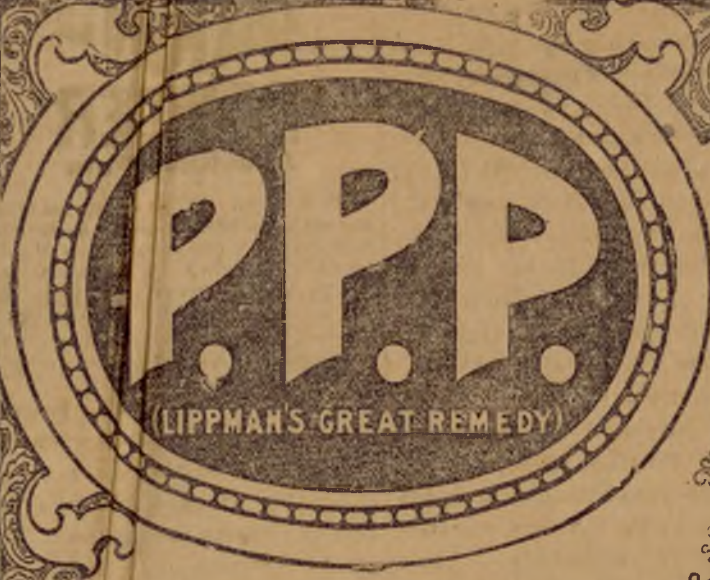

One day he was passing a house that was in process of building when he saw a boy fall from a pretty high ladder. Pulling up his horse the doctor jumped out of his sulky and hastened to the rescue.

"Are you much hurt, my boy?" he asked as he came near.

"No, sir," answered the boy, springing to his feet and hobbling away as fast as he could. "No, sir; not a bit. In fact, I feel all the better."—Youth's Companion.

Thousands of Tons of Dust.

According to the estimates of Mr. J. A. Udden, who has studied the remarkable phenomena of dust and sandstorms in the arid regions of the West, every cubic mile of the lower air during an ordinary "dry storm" contains at least 225 tons of dust, while in severe storms of this kind as much as 26,000 tons of dust and sand may be contained in a cubic mile of air. Dust-storms sometimes last for twenty or thirty hours.

CALERA, ALA., JANUARY 28, 1897.

AN UNUSUAL PROCEEDING.

The citizens of this county and especially those of Calera have, during the present week, witnessed an unusual proceeding. This proceeding was the overriding and treating as a nullity the action of Judge McMillan, probate judge of this county, in discharging from custody a prisoner on a writ of habeas corpus, by Judge Brewer, of Talladega, the circuit judge of this judicial circuit. So far as this article is concerned it is not necessary to go into particulars further than to say that the habeas corpus case grew out of a statutory proceeding had before Judge Brewer, of Talladega, as circuit judge, in vacation, at Talladega, Ala., in December, 1895, to compel Mr. H. C. Moss, acting treasurer of the city of Calera, to turn over certain books and papers to Jasper Holcomb, who claimed to be the treasurer. Judge Brewer granted the petition of Holcomb, and issued an order to the sheriff to arrest Mr. Moss and confine him in the county jail until he delivered said books, papers and notes to Holcomb. Mr. Moss, feeling that an injustice had been done him, as well as seventy-five per cent of the white people of Calera, by this decision of Judge Brewer, appealed to the supreme court, but the appeal was dismissed at the recent call of the cases of this division by the supreme court for failure to comply with a certain rule of the court requiring a printed abstract of the record to be filed, and hence the case did not get before the court on its merits. The dismissal of the appeal, however, restored Judge Brewer's order, and on or about the 13th inst., Judge Brewer issued his warrant to the sheriff of this county, directing him to arrest Mr. Moss and confine him in the county jail until he complied with his order to turn over said books, papers, etc., to Holcomb. Mr. Moss endeavored to comply with the order, but finding it impossible to do so, and through no fault of his own, sued out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge McMillan at Columbiana. He was placed under bond by Judge McMillan and Thursday the 21st inst., appointed as the day for the hearing. The case being heard, Judge McMillan, after a thorough and painstaking investigation of the matter, decided to release him from custody and on Friday morning discharged him. The sheriff immediately made his return to Judge Brewer, whereupon Judge Brewer at once issued an alias warrant on his same order and sent it to the sheriff with instructions to ignore the action of Judge McMillan's court on the ground that McMillan had no jurisdiction in the case, and to at once comply with his order and rearrest Mr. Moss. Early Monday morning Sheriff Vest with Deputy Jim Pilgreen went to Mr. Moss' home and made the arrest. Mr. Moss was sick at the time and objected to being taken from his home, but the sheriff regarded his instructions from Judge Brewer as imperative and using force took him in custody, striking him a severe blow on the head in doing so. Mr. Moss naturally felt outraged at being subjected to such treatment, particularly as he had been set at liberty by a regularly organized court of the county and one regarded by him and his attorneys as a court of fully competent jurisdiction. When the sheriff and his deputy appeared with him in custody in Calera, and it became known to the white citizens of the town that he had been rearrested under such circumstances, seventy-five per cent of them, who are the supporters of Mr. Moss, felt indignant at the proceedings and the excitement, though suppressed, was intense, and the lawabiding spirit of the best people of the town alone prevented an outbreak, which had it occurred, would have been of a most serious nature. It is not the province of the Sentinel to decide whether Judge Brewer is right or wrong or whether Judge McMillan is right or wrong, or whether the sheriff used unnecessary force in making the arrest, but it does seem to us that with the supreme court of the state open before him, Judge Brewer might have pursued a course less fraught with danger to the peace and welfare of the community. Mr. Moss had committed no felony. He is one of the best citizens of the county, a lawabiding, peaceable, home-loving man. He has been the treasurer of the city of Calera for a number of years, and during the past twenty months, since the municipal controversy commenced and Mr. Holcomb claimed the treasurer's office, Mr. Moss has been the recognized treasurer of the city and has conducted all the business, whether rightly or wrongly. After being taken to Columbiana he was enabled by the strenuous efforts of friends to secure the missing papers and thus enabled to comply with the order when he was released from custody.

A large brick building at Fort Payne, in which several offices were located, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday morning last.

The attendance at the Industrial School for White Girls at Montevallo continues to increase. New pupils are enrolled constantly.

The bill pending for the establishment of a State Back Tax Commission passed this House by a close vote on last Monday but Mr. Altman, of Jefferson, gave notice that he would move for a reconsideration.

The explosion of a lamp caused the burning of the New Windsor Hotel at Fort Smith, Ark., on the morning of the 26th inst. One guest was burned to death and a number of others had narrow escapes.

Birmingham is making a considerable effort to have the committee on rivers and harbors now in the south to stop over and pay her a short visit and take a look around the city on their return to Washington.

The legislative committee appointed to investigate the affairs of the State University during the recess made their report last Monday. It is full and comprehensive and makes some wise suggestions. We print elsewhere a synopsis of same.

There is no telling what the populists will do in politics when they hold the upper-hand either directly or indirectly. In Nebraska they elected Allen, a strong Bryan man, to the Senate. In North Carolina they have just been instrumental in the success of Pritchard, the republican. The populists are liable to do anything to boss.—Advertiser.

The citizens of Calera are having a practical and forcible demonstration of the correctness of the above proposition just at this time.

Senator Moody's dispensary bill with the amendments passed the senate on last Tuesday by a vote of 18 to 14. One amendment provides that it shall take effect January 1, 1898, without being submitted to a vote of the people. Another excepts twenty-four counties, as follows: Dallas, Marengo, Mobile, Talladega, Clay, Coosa, Tallapoosa, Covington, Conecuh, Jefferson, Shelby, Elmore, Barbour, Calhoun, Cleburne, Lowndes, Autauga, Limestone, Lauderdale, Cullman, St. Clair, Perry, Bibb, Madison, Winston and Blount. As local prohibition exists in thirty-one other counties, the bill as passed the senate effects but eleven counties.

REPORT ON UNIVERSITY.

The feature of the day's proceeding in the house Monday was the presentation of the report of the committee which visited the university during the recess. The committee made a voluminous report. It began by denying the charges that skepticism and immorality existed at the university. The committee assures the assembly that there is less of vice of this character now than perhaps in any similar institution in the land.

The committee recommends a radical change in rule of the management of the university. It intimates that the trustees, or at least some of them, are officious about the management of the institution and insist on having direct control of every little detail. The president, the report states, is entirely helpless. He has scarcely a voice in the employment or discharge of instructors. The committee recommends that the trustees be given supervisory control over the institution and that the management of details be vested in the president and two other persons living in the vicinity of the university, who shall constitute a board of control. The committee contends that this would serve to get the school out of politics, and recites an instance where a youth was recently expelled from the university and through political influence was reinstated by the trustees. The committee also recommends that the alumni be authorized to nominate the trustees to the governor.

The committee reports that the law department badly needs reforming; that the positions of instructors in this department have been farmed out to the Tuscaloosa lawyers of late years and the department has run itself to a great extent. It is recommended that a competent dean, at a salary of $3,000 be employed and that he be authorized to secure such assistants from among the Tuscaloosa attorneys as he may find the needs of the school demand. A two years' course instead of one year is also recommended.

The committee suggests that the military feature be gradually abolished. The senior class were last June exempted from military duty by the trustees, and it recommends that the rule be extended so as to apply to the junior class. The committee suggests that as soon as practicable the military system be abolished entirely.

The report recommends the reduction of the faculty by combining the chairs of literature and ancient languages and history, philosophy and English, and if the military is abolished that the quartermaster and commissary be done away with. These considerations would save the university $5,100 annually. To the school of civil engineering might be also added with additional cost a school of electrical engineering, in the committee's opinion.

The committee thinks the budget at the university might, by the employing of proper methods, be reduced from $12 to at least $10, and perhaps $8, per month. It recommends also the abolishment of the $15 initiation fee.

The total endowment of the university is $27,000, $25,000 of which goes to pay the salaries of the officers and professors. The rate of attendance, however, to the endowment is shown to be greater than in almost any other institution in the states. The committee suggests that the endowment must be increased before any great results can be obtained.

The report was received and the committee discharged.—Montgomery special to Atlanta Constitution.

The New York state senate a few days ago adopted strong resolutions advocating freedom for Cuba.

A tussle will be given the "Shylock" loan companies—these institutions that lend $5 or some such amount to a negro with a mortgage on all his household effects and almost on his life, and then charge him $15 dollars interest before the debt is finally paid. Mr. Waller, of Montgomery, introduced a bill, by request, to assess each of these loan companies a license tax of $300 annually.—Advertiser.

It seems that the failure of the Commercial Bank of Selma has taught some of the legislators a lesson. Mr. Coleman of Calhoun, introduced a bill in the House to require every banking institution in the State of Alabama to publish statements showing their financial condition, simultaneously with the reports of the national banks. The statements are to be sworn to by President and Cashier and attested by at least three directors. A penalty of $500 fine is attached to the bill for failure of the bank to publish said statements.—Advertiser.

Prices 50 cents and $1.00. Get a bottle at Duran's Drug Store.

Notice is hereby given to the stock holders of the Alabama Iron & Steel Company that there will be a meeting of said Company at the office of the Company in Brierfield at 10 o'clock a. m. on Monday, February 1st, to elect a director to fill the vacancy caused by the death of T. Gordon DuBose of Columbiana was in the city yesterday and gave the Sentinel a pleasant call.

John Leeper came down from Birmingham today enroute to Columbiana and spent a few hours in the city with relatives.

The Sentinel is not accustomed to making excuses but we must ask the indulgence of our readers for the shortcomings of the paper this week. The extreme cold weather and illness of our foreman are the causes.

There are two reasonable things which everybody should do: take good care of one's health; and if lost regain it quickly and to this everybody will agree. And there are a great multitude of people who are agreed that for both purposes Simmons Liver Regulator is a great helper. "I am troubled with torpid liver and nothing gives relief so quick like Simmons Liver Regulator."—R. R. Strange, Lake City, Fla.

BOGUS FIFTY.

The Jasper Eagle says: Monday Mr. A. Stein, manager of the Jasper Liquor Company, sold a jug of whiskey for $3 and was handed a fifty dollar bill out of which to get his pay. Young Rolly Morris, living between here and Oakman, was the purchaser of the whiskey and was the possessor of the fifty dollar bill.

Not having the necessary change in his drawer, Mr. Stein stepped into the New York Store with the bill to get it changed. Mr. Gus Stovall, with his accustomed politeness, counted out the change and laid the fifty away. Morris got the whiskey and $47 in change and went his way rejoicing.

But this does not end the matter. We wish it did, and so does Mr. Stein. Mr. Stovall that evening, as is the custom of the house, carried the money for the day's sales and deposited it in the bank, along with the fifty-dollar bill. The bill passed muster before the keen eye of Cashier N. M. Davidson, and was accepted at its face value—$51. Afterward Mr. Davidson's attention was attracted to the bill and imagine his surprise to find that it was only an innocent little two-dollar bill masquerading behind Confederate figures. Figures and the words "fifty" of a Confederate fifty-dollar bill had been pasted over the figures and words showing the denomination of the two-dollar bill, and it had been done in such an artistic manner that close inspection was necessary in order to detect the fraud.

Of course the bank went back on the New York Store and the New York Store went to Mr. Stein, who, notwithstanding his surprise, made the bill good, and there the matter rests for the present.

Mr. Stein sent a man down to see Morris this morning, but he was not at home and the messenger returned without accomplishing his purpose.

Young Morris is a son of Mr. Jim Morris, and bears a good character, and has many friends in the community in which he lives. The friends of the family do not think he is guilty of any wrong intent in the matter, but think he has been imposed upon also, and can establish his innocence by giving a satisfactory account of how he came in possession of the bogus bill. His relatives assure Mr. Stein that he will get back his money.

Head, Shoulders and Back Affected—Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured.

The vast number of testimonials which have been received by the proprietors of Hood's Sarsaparilla telling of wonderful cures by this medicine, have been prompted by the gratitude of those who have been relieved of great suffering and restored to health by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The following testimonial is a sample of the grateful letters which are constantly being received:

"Oxmoor, Ala., Oct. 25, 1896
"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sirs:—
Please allow me to say a few words in praise of your wonderful medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have been in poor health since 1889. I suffered with severe pains in my head, shoulders and in the small part of my back. I went to physicians and they told me I was afflicted with CATARRH in the head. I tried everything they gave me, and everything that others recommended, but nothing seemed to do me any good. In September I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I began taking it. I began to gain weight taking the first bottle, and the pain in my back was relieved. I procured three more bottles and was soon confident that this was the medicine I had been looking for. I continued its use and it has made me feel like a different man. I wish others who suffer with painful diseases similar to mine would give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial. I am grateful for the relief I have found in taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A NEW CHARGE
Will Probably Be Made Against The Three Friends.

ARE THEY PIRATES.

United States Attorney General Harmon is Considering the Matter of Charging the Officers and Crew of the Fillbuster

WITH BEING PIRATES.

Spanish Gunboat Burned by Cubans.—Citizens of France Arrested and Thrown Into Prison.—Recent Crimes and Casualties.—Chinese Holocaust.

Washington, D. C.—If the sensational stories in certain New York newspapers regarding the Cuban filibustering tug Three Friends, on her last voyage, training a Hotchkiss gun on a Spanish gunboat and firing at that vessel have any foundation in truth, the Attorney-General of the United States Government declares that the Three Friends is amenable to the laws of piracy, and her officers and crew are liable to be surrendered and punished as pirates.

Attorney-General Harmon, it is officially stated is considering the advisability of instituting proceedings against the Three Friends on that charge. The Attorney-General was originally of the opinion that the Three Friends had not committed a piratical act, even assuming that the reports published of her exchange of shots with the Spanish vessel were true. But a careful consideration of the law and decisions on similar cases had made him doubt his primary view.

In order to expedite the case of the Three Friends the Attorney-General has prepared an application to present to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari on the United States Circuit Court at New Orleans for the transfer of the case to the Supreme Court, so that the latter tribunal may pass on Judge Locke's decision, given at Jacksonville. Judge Locke held that the Government in its bill of libel against the Three Friends did not show that the vessel had violated any law. He gave the Government ten days to amend its libel, and declared that unless this was done, he would dismiss the application.

SPANISH GUNBOAT BURNED.

Brave Attack of Cubans, with a Successful Result.

Key West, Fla.—Havana advices received in Key West are to the effect that the Spanish gunboat Cometa has been captured and burned by the insurgents.

The Cometa, one of the most powerful of the smaller Spanish vessels in Cuban waters, has been cruising near Cardenas to prevent the landing of filibustering expeditions. For some time she has been accustomed to anchor at night off Scola Morena. The place where the gunboat anchored was favorable for an attack from shore, and the insurgents determined to capture her. Last Tuesday night they opened on the vessel with a twelve-pound Hotchkiss gun. The vessel was struck several times and badly damaged. While the crew was in confusion, boats loaded with insurgents left the shore, and the Cometa was boarded. A desperate hand-to-hand fight took place on the deck of the gunboat, the Cubans using the machete with deadly effect. Finally after the Spanish commander and half of his men had been killed, the survivors surrendered. The vessel was then burned.

CITIZENS OF FRANCE

Arrested and Sent to Cabanas Fortress.—Plantations Destroyed.—Havana, via Key West, Fla.—Salvador and Pedro Laborde, brothers, citizens of France, and owners of an estate in Jobo were sent to Cabanas Fortress under Weyler's orders for grinding cane against his commands, and also made responsible for the defeat the Spaniards suffered in their recent fight which occurred on that estate.

Anna Sotolongo, a lady, imprisoned as a political suspect in the Manila Hospital, managed to escape last night.

All the buildings of the valuable estate, San Lino, in the Cienfuegos District, owned by Lino Montalvo, has been burned. The loss is estimated at over a million dollars. Over eight million arrobas or quarters of cane were burned.

THE AERONAUT FOREST.

Key West, Fla.—The Forepaugh show has been exhibiting in this city for the past week, a balloon ascension being the main feature. After several failures to ascend, the aeronaut succeeded Saturday afternoon at about 5 o'clock. The breeze was stiff from the Northeast, and a young Cuban named Perez, ascended. After going up about 1,000 feet he became rattled and the ropes became tangled. The balloon went out about a mile from shore and fell into the water. Boats from a revenue cutter went to render assistance, and the balloon was recovered, but Perez is given up for lost.

STRONG POINTS ON HIM

Birmingham.—John Calloun Ward, who was arrested last night near Eldridge, Ala., on suspicion of being one of the three men who robbed the Southern Railway train twice within the past month, near Berry, was brought here Saturday and closely questioned by the officials and detectives of the Southern Express Company. To-night they state that they have the strongest reason to believe that Ward was one of the robbers.

Conductor Wilmer, of the train that was robbed Thursday night, says he closely resembles the robber who put two pistols in his face. Ward had two pistols, which Wilmer says are exactly like those drawn on him.

Ward claims his home to be at Ben the famous Rubé Burrows committed Brook, Tex., which is the place where he left Texas January 4, and camped alone in the woods near Eldridge Thursday night, the date of the last train robbery.

Several people from around Berry say Ward resembles a man seen about that place before and since both train robberies, who had considerable money.

Two other men were arrested near Carbon Hill, but released for lack of evidence.

VEST PULLED DOWN.

Huntsville.—Ed. Vest, a notorious murderer and horse thief, wanted in several States, was captured at Dallas Mills Saturday evening. Vest was at the home of his mother, where he had been sick several weeks. When officers called for him he shoved a man out the door. This man was arrested by mistake, but on of the deputies having occasion to go back to the house, found Vest armed with a large pistol. He attempted to shoot, but the deputy was too quick for him.

Vest was wanted in Arkansas for murder, and in Missouri, Tennessee, and a number of other States for horse stealing. Large rewards are up for his capture.

DIED FROM THE SHOT.

Athens.—Press Lacy, the eighteen-year-old boy who was shot Wednesday by his first cousin, Andrew Todd, died here Saturday. The ball took effect in the stomach. The shooting was purely accidental.

GOOD NEWS COME.

An Envoy Says Gomez is Pushing Toward the City of Havana.

Atlanta, Ga.—General Lacret, of the revolutionary army of Cuba, has sent to the United States Lieut.-Col. Eugenio Varelli, who has placed the facts in his possession in the hands of Dr. A. J. Diaz, of this city.

Colonel Varelli reports the Cubans to be in excellent condition. General Lacret is at present operating in Matanzas Province, while General Gomez is in Havana Province, pushing toward the city. The greatest enthusiasm prevails among the people. Colonel Varelli's mission is to secure material aid for General Lacret.

DR. DIAZ A FREE-LANCE.

Atlanta, Ga.—Dr. Diaz, the well known Cuban patriot, of this city, has decided to sever his connection with the Missionary Board of the Baptist Church. The Baptists own extensive property in Cuba, and they fear that it will be imperiled by Dr. Diaz's active work in behalf of the Cubans.

Dr. Diaz, now that he is not hindered by his church, has established himself at the head of the Cuban Junta in Atlanta.

SENT FROM SEASPORT.

Miss S. Mollie Percy, the Well-Known Seaport Dressmaker, Gives Her Experience of Her Life-long Suffering and Cure.

From the Commercial, Bangor, Maine.

The following communication has just been received from Miss S. Mollie Percy, of Seaport, Maine, where she is well and favorably known:

"I was a sufferer from constant headache all my life, frequently accompanied with nausea and sick stomach, especially before and during severe attacks. I am now thirty years old, and as far back as I can remember I was never free from these depressing and distressing attacks, and did not know what it was to feel well, until last winter, when, having seen so much written and heard so much spoken about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, I made up my mind to see if they would do me any good. I therefore bought some of them and began to take them according to directions.

"I soon began to experience relief, and have improved ever since. I am still taking them, and shall continue so to go until I am free of the slightest symptom of my old enemy. I am a firm believer in the efficacy of Pink Pills, and shall never be without them as they have done me so much good.

"I have recommended these pills to others, among them C. G. Coburn, who is ill of heart trouble.

(Signed) "S. M. PERCY

Witness: Mrs. J. E. Nichols.
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sorrow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. They are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold by all druggists at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

It Fitted the Place.

is a little restaurant over on S. S. de that was opened only a week or so ago, and the proprietor has not yet had time to select a name for it. He is a professional genius, is the proprietor, and he has bothered his patrons considerably by coming around while they were eating and consulting with them about the name for the place.

Last night two men dropped in there for a bite. The food was none too good, and they grumbled quite a bit. As they were at the desk paying the check, the proprietor began at them.

"Everything satisfactory, gentlemen?" he inquired in his blandest tones.

"Oh, I guess so," said the older man; "I guess so. How much is that check?"

"Ninety cents. I am glad you are pleased. By the way, I am in a quandary as to what name I shall give this restaurant. What would you suggest?"

"Want a name, eh?" said the older man.

"Yes, I do, and I would be very glad if you would make a suggestion."

"I suppose a name for a restaurant ought to be, in a measure, descriptive of the place?" said the younger man.

"That would be my idea," replied the proprietor.

"Well, then, I would suggest that you call it The Paradox."

"The Paradox?" said the proprietor.

"Why, that would be a queer name. How is that name applicable to a restaurant?"

"There are quite a number of reasons, but the one most vividly impressed on me this evening is that your milk is sour and your pickles are sweet."—Buffalo Express.

"Healtaps" of Soup.

Five bowls of soup is not too much for some of the poor little girls who are fed gratuitously at some of the industrial schools on the East and West Sides. When the little boys and girls who have been bidden to the feast have satisfied themselves, they take what is left over in the bowls and empty it into buckets, to be taken home to the starving mothers at home.

The mothers are glad to get these buckets of soup, even though it has been collected from a hundred bowls that have been used by the children at school. The little girls take turns in collecting these healtaps of soup. The privilege is a blessed one to starving families, and the children soon learn, in the bitter school of poverty, how to make the most of any unconsidered trifle that may come in their way.

It might be thought that an extra gallon of soup could be made for the sake of the mother were it not known that the supply of soup to equal the demand would be an impossibility. The officials make a great quantity of soups of various kinds. There is bean soup, pea soup, vegetable soup and plain soup, and it is all enjoyed. The most popular kind seems to be bean soup. There are great quantities of this soup consumed, and the children always seem to be hungry for it. The soup collected in the buckets is necessarily mixed, but the poor women at home do not mind that. They warm it up, when they have a fire, and enjoy it all the more, perhaps, because it is unlike any soup made by the ordinary cook.—New York Journal.

For Breakfast.

Sometimes even the most fastidious woman forgets that the keynote of daintiness is struck by the morning toilet. A model of all that she should be at other times, her breakfast apparel gives every outward evidence of haste, and leaves much to be desired.

A woman who has made a hasty morning toilet is by no means a thing of beauty. Therefore, she who is wise valiantly foregoes the joy of the forbidden nap. She rises betimes, supported by the thought that of such stuff martyrs are made, and after her matutinal dip, as she arranges her hair as becomingly as she would later in the day for a luncheon or a shopping expedition, she finds herself at peace with all the world, even including the cook.

It's only a little thing in the day's doings, but it tells. The woman who presides at the breakfast table, neat, fresh and rosy, is fulfilling part of her mission in life.

Her husband is as much stimulated by her presence as by the fragrant cup of Mocha which she dispenses, and, though seemingly absorbed in his newspaper as he sips his favorite beverage, in reality he sees every detail of the dainty toilet, knowing that it was made for his eyes alone, and, man-like, appreciating it all the more for that very reason.

What a time a man must have who makes a night of it at the North Pole! Think of going on the rampage for six months!

Goose Barnacle.

One of the oddest things they have at the marine aquarium is a goose barnacle. This particular specimen is very small, very much alive, and has been living in the aquarium for months in spite of the fact that some of its normal barnacle necessities are supplied by most peculiar artificial means. The goose barnacle differs from other varieties in that it hangs from ships, floating timber, or other substances near the surface of the water, and has only the power to attach once to any object. This barnacle being taken from its means of support, an artificial one had to be supplied. This was done by means of a piece of common cotton string. This is tied around the barnacle and to a cork from which the barnacle hangs near the surface of the water in a glass in the aquarium. The barnacle is so small that the string is as large as a rope in comparison, and it looks very comical hanging, the feathery looking cirrus down and grasping out into the water for food.—New York Times.

Castor Oil a Hair Tonic.

The fashionable coiffure for young women and girls is waved at the sides, where it droops a little. Small combs hold these waves in place. The coil at the back is placed rather high. Castor oil, pure and simple, is said to be an excellent tonic for the hair, used once a month.

It is applied with a small, fine sponge, which is dipped in the oil and rubbed on the scalp, the hair being parted with the fingers.

Sweetness and Light.
Put a pill in the pulpit if you want practical preaching for the physical man; then put the pill in the pillory if it does not practise what it preaches. There's a whole gospel in Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills; a "gospel of sweetness and light." People used to value their physic, as they did their religion,—by its bitterness. The more bitter the dose the better the doctor. We've got over that. We take "sugar in ours"—gospel or physic—now-a-days. It's possible to please and to purge at the same time. There may be power in a pleasant pill. That is the gospel of

When reading, don't you constantly come across references you fail to understand? Isn't 50c. a small amount to pay for having such knowledge at hand? Do you know who Croesus was, and where he lived? Who built the Pyramids, and when? That sound travels 1120 feet per second? What is the longest river in the world? That Marco Polo invented the compass in 1290, and who Marco Polo was? What the Gordian Knot was? The book contains thousands of explanations of just such matters as you wonder about. Buy it at the low price of half a dollar and keep it for years!

The Wealth of Love.
I was as poor as the poorest, dear,
And the world—it passed me by;
But not that day
When heaven itself drew nigh—
Sweetheart!
For heaven itself drew nigh.
I was as lone as the loneliest, love,
With never a dream of bliss—
But not that day
When you walked Love's way
And leaped to his thankful kiss—
Sweetheart!
And leaped to his thankful kiss.
And dear to my life is your love—your love,
And my soul has ceased to sigh;
For sorrow seems
But an echo of dreams,
And the stars are in life's sky—
Sweetheart!
And the stars are in life's sky!

"FROM JIM."

Dell Irving tripped down the garden path, with its fringes of feathery ferns and pale, sweet-faced violets. She was looking as cool as if the day were filled with delicious sea breezes. Scissors in hand, she stood and contemplated the sweetly-blooming flower-beds before her, filled with their old-fashioned favorites; as well as newer, rarer flowers!

Another figure flitted up the garden-path—that of a young man, tall, dark, stalwart and handsome. The "dark, dark eyes" lit up when he saw Dell, and he waved his hand gaily to her.

"Isn't it warm today?" Rick said with a profoundly wise look, as if afraid Dell might not yet have discovered the fact. Then he fanned himself vigorously with his straw hat.

"Do you really think so?" with sarcasm. "Why, I was laboring under the mistaken impression that it is rather cool. I'm glad you came to undeceive me," gratefully.

"Don't be ridiculous!" said Rick Anderton, severely. Then: "Won't you give me a flower, Dell?" with an insinuating smile.

"Here is the 'last rose of summer,'" said Dell, cutting the "last rose" off its stem with a vicious snip of the scissors. "It's rather faded and old, but of course you don't mind," in a tone impossible to translate.

"No, indeed," said Rick, provokingly, while Dell pinned it to the lapel of his coat. "Of course I don't mind if it is a trifle faded."

He was looking straight into her eyes as he said it, and as he was her lover, Dell took a very unfair interpretation of his remark.

"Dell, where did you get that ring?"

Rick Anderton took Dell's snowflake of a hand on his own great, strong one, and gazed at it, a frown, half playful, half real, in his eyes.

"Oh, somewhere!" said Dell, in a manner as exasperating as it was vague. "But which one do you mean, Rick? This one? Why, you gave it to me. Don't you remember?"

"I don't mean that one," said Rick, the frown in his eyes growing more ominously dark, the playful expression entirely gone.

"This one, then? Aunt Belle gave it to me on my last birthday. You've seen it ever so many times before, I'm quite sure."

"I don't mean that one!"

And Rick's voice was so harsh and stern and jealous that Dell almost skipped out of her dainty slippers.

She heaved a reluctant sigh; there was only one ring left—a delicately chased gold one—so she supposed she would have to tell him all about it. She meant to teach him a lesson, though, for being so jealous.

"This," she began, with a charming, as well as exasperating air of reluctance—"er—Jim sent me yesterday. Isn't it lovely?" gazing up at him with bewitching blue eyes.

Rick made no reply, but held her hand tightly crushed in his own, displeasure and pain in his eyes.

"You hurt me, Rick," said Dell, plaintively, gently essaying to withdraw her hand.

She was rather enjoying the scene, but she had no intention of permitting her hand to be broken to bits.

With an impatient gesture, Rick dropped it.

"Who is Jim?" he said, abruptly.

"A dear old friend of mine, Rick," with enthusiasm. "I only wish you knew Jim. You would be perfectly delighted."

"I beg leave to differ with you," said Rick, freezing. "I would not be delighted with him, for I'm sure he's a prig and a fool!" Dell looked snubbed.

"But isn't the ring pretty?" she said, at last, holding it up tantalizingly. "And see what's engraved on it."

"To Darling Dell, from Jim." As Rick read, the passionate, jealous pain at his heart became almost unendurable. He dared not trust himself to speak, so he turned abruptly and strode rapidly down the garden-path.

"Dell laughed, though just a little uneasily. "He will come back tonight," she thought, "to ask to be forgiven for doubting me, and then how he will laugh when he knows all about it!"

But the lovely blue eyes were a trifle clouded for that when she returned to the house laden with flowers.

Aunt Belle noticed the cloud and said:

"What is the matter with Rick Anderton, Dell? He walked away as if racing for a wager?"

"Oh, he got mad!" said Dell, delightfully vague, as was her wont.

"The mountain and the squirrel had a quarrel!" laughed Aunt Belle, resuming her book without giving further thought to the matter.

She was quite accustomed to Rick's and Dell's little squabbles, and did not imagine that this was anything more serious than usual.

But Rick did not come back that evening, not the next; and Dell became dispirited and uneasy, and then indignant.

What a fuss Rick made about nothing, on account of jealousy and ill-temper! Why couldn't he have waited for an explanation, instead of starting off in such a huff?

Well, she was glad to get rid of him, and hoped it was for good and all.

But for all that, Dell did not feel quite happy. If only Rick were not so inclined to misjudge her!

Good news! Jim Harper was coming on a visit, that very afternoon, and Dell was to be at the railroad station at two o'clock, with her pony phaeton.

She made herself look very bewitching in a light summer dress, with great, golden-hearted pascies at her throat and in her belt.

She was radiant with joy. How nice it would be to see dear old Jim again! After all, this world was a very glad world to live in, in spite of the jealous Ricks who tried to make it so unhappy.

Rick Anderton was at the station, lounging about with a dissatisfied and not altogether happy look on his face.

As the train swept up, shrieking and puffing, Dell fitted past him without even a nod of recognition, and gazed delightedly at one of the car windows.

There were not many passengers bound for this sleepy village, but among them was one dainty little brunette, who threw herself rapturously into Dell's arms.

Rick stared in astonishment. He had heard, as naughty Dell well knew, that a certain Jim Harper was about to pay a visit to Mrs. Belle Irving, and he had haunted the station in order to find out what sort of a looking fellow this Jim was. He found out at last.

"Jimma Harper—dear old Jim—how delighted I am to see you again!" gushed Dell, rapturously, taking good care to speak loud enough for Rick to hear every word.

And then she and her old school friend drove away, while Rick Anderton stood and stared after them like one dazed.

But when he came to her that evening, so repentant and humble, what could she do but "forgive and forget."

Rick promised never to be jealous again, and bids fair to keep his word.

Dell was a little sorry, however, that she surrendered so soon, for, as her old school-mate herself declared, "Rick would never have found so ready a pardon from Jim!"—Saturday Night.

Cost of Wild Animals.

The most costly of wild animals held in captivity is the elephant. A fine one costs from $6,000 to $10,000. A fine Indian elephant would cost about $5,000.

Giraffes cost about the same as the best elephants, about $6,000 or $7,000, but that quotation is only nominal; it would be difficult to get a giraffe at any price. This is due partly to their increasing scarcity and partly to the difficulty of obtaining them, due to the civil wars of the natives in the giraffe country. Giraffes very rarely breed in captivity.

A fine hippopotamus would probably cost about $3,000.

A good African lion, with a full and perfect mane, would cost from $1,000 to $1,500; a fine lioness $800 or $900.

Good Bengal tigers cost about the same.

Camels usually cost from $400 to $500 apiece.

Many wild animals breed in captivity, and the supply of wild animals is now made up to some extent from that source. In New York's menagerie in Central Park, for example, a large number of wild animals have been born, some of them of rare kinds and great value. The same is true, in a greater or less degree, of menageries and of zoological gardens in various parts of the world. It is customary to sell or exchange the surplus animals born.

Wild animals in captivity may finally cease to breed. Wild animals born in captivity are not so likely to be as fine specimens as those born in a wild state, and in succeeding generations they degenerate and become weaker and more susceptible to disease. This stock is improved by adding to it, from time to time, wild animals from their native homes. —New York Sun.

An Ingenious Signal.

Few pedestrians who have passed along Walnut street between 7th and 8th have ever noticed the little black shingle extending from the third-story window of No. 715, and still fewer know that it has any significance. Dr. Henry W. L. Mann, the well-known analytical chemist, occupies the third story front office of the building, and the shingle is a primitive means of announcing to his regular callers that he is in or out. The end of the board nearest to the window is hinged, and to the other is attached a cord which passes over a pulley and dangles from the wall inside of the room. When the doctor is in he hangs his hat on a hook on the end of the string, and the weight pulls the shingle up into a vertical position. When he puts his hat on before going out the sustaining weight is released and the sign board drops to horizontal. It can readily be seen from the street, and Dr. Lefmann says that automatic annunciators are crude when compared with his scheme. —Philadelphia Record.

Structure of Coral Reefs.

In order to prove, or disprove, the accuracy of the generally admitted subsidence, or "Darwinian," theory of coral formations, it has been considered necessary to know more thoroughly one element in the construction of these peculiar formations—namely, the thickness of the coral-made rock. With a grant of $4,500 made by the Royal Society of London, Professor Lillias was commissioned to execute borings in the coral reefs of the Funi-Futi atoll of the South Pacific. News has recently been received that the borings have proved unsuccessful, a quicksand, by clogging the bore-hole, preventing more than a superficial penetration into the rock. It is now urged that a second effort be made in the Bermuda islands, where greater facilities are afforded for such operations, and where the general conditions for success appear much more favorable.

FIRE AT FORT PAYNE.

A Large Brick Building Consumed by the Angry Flames.

Fort Payne, Ala.—Tuesday morning the people of this city were awakened from their slumbers by the awful cry of fire, to find that the fine, large brick building belonging to a gentleman in a Northern city was wrapped in quickly consuming flames. A railroad crew first discovered the fire, being on a through night freight train, due here about 1 a. m. By the time any citizens of the town had come to the fiery scene the flames had gained such headway that to save the burning structure was an absolute impossibility.

The postoffice is just across the street from the unfortunate building, and but for the timely aid of the city fire company the office would have met a like fate. As it was, the large, expensive glass front was seriously damaged, and the loss will exceed $75, while that of the hardware company, whose stock was in the burning building, was upward of $8,000, with no insurance. The office of the Fort Payne Basket Company and the Standard Stove Works were in the second story, and if their books had not been in the safe, and thereby saved, the owners of the same, Messrs. Saunders and Polson, say their loss in these industries would have been about $15,000.

The office of the DeKalb County Abstract Company was destroyed, with a great loss of valuable documents. Charles M. T. Sawyer is the sole owner of the same.

The furniture in the Knights of Pythias hall was lost, which is valued at about $1,000, but they had an insurance of $500. A photograph gallery on the third floor was burned, and in this place it is claimed that the fire originated. Photographer Howard said it must have caught from a piece of wood falling from the grate during the night.

The fire is quite a sad loss to Fort Payne, but it is thought everything will get straightened out in a few days, and that the stove works will continue in operation.

FIFTEEN BOATS SUNK

By Insurgents, Who Used a Cannon with Good Effect.

New York, N. Y.—A Key West special to a morning paper says that another marine disaster to the Spaniards is reported. This time the naval department will not be charged with it, as one of General Weyler's own river expeditions was badly used up.

Fifteen boats are said to have been sunk, 100 men were reported to have been killed or missing, and the number of wounded is put as seventy-five.

Hearing that the insurgents had fortified some heights near Paez, on the river Caunao, Santa Clara Province, General Weyler sent Colonel Serves with 300 men in small boats to capture the place and destroy the forts.

After proceeding up the river about twenty miles, on rounding a sharp bend, a heavy fire was opened on the expedition with rifles and a six-pound field piece. The river there was shallow and narrow, the channel being near the bank where the insurgents were.

The fourth shot from the cannon sunk one boat. A moment later another boat was sunk. The Spaniards leaped out of their boats, waded to land, and charged the insurgents, who were protected by the high banks and the thick bushes. The Spanish drove the insurgents off, but could not capture the cannon. Resuming the journey, the expedition was harassed at every bend of the river.

A few miles from Paez the Cubans opened fire with two cannon. Six boats were quickly sunk, and then the rebel rifles played havoc with the Spanish soldiers as they struggled in the water. Four of the wounded were caught by alligators, near shore, and dragged under water.

Colonel Serves was forced to order a hasty retreat, which speedily became a rout. Hastily the Spaniards pulled back, but the boats were pursued by the patriots, who kept up a constant fire, sinking more boats. Had not a reinforcement met the Spanish ten miles from Cienfuegos, not 100 men would have escaped.

General Weyler has made no special report of the disaster.

HARD LUCK FOR HARDY.

A Georgia Doctor Kills a Negro, and Is Kept Humping.

Columbus, Ga.—A tragedy which occurred a week or two ago, near LaGrange, has been recalled by the developments in the matter, which took place Saturday. On that day Deputy Sheriff Reid left the city with a warrant for the arrest of Dr. Hardy, formerly of near LaGrange.

A short time ago Dr. Hardy shot and killed a negro at his home. The negro had called at his house in the earlier part of the night for the purpose of having a tooth pulled. Just as he completed the operation the doctor was called away to visit a patient. When he returned his wife told him that the negro had been attempting to break in the house; that he was then on the other side of the house, and had been trying to raise the shutter. He procured a pistol, and going around to the side of the house where the negro was, shot him dead.

That night a large crowd of negroes collected, and it was feared that there would be trouble. A large number of negroes surrounded the house, and for awhile a lynching looked imminent. The doctor managed to escape, however. He went to LaGrange and there surrendered to the Sheriff, telling that official his story. The sheriff did not place him under arrest, however. Dr. Hardy thought it best not to linger in that section longer, as he thought his life was in danger, and so, with his wife and family, he came to Columbus. He has been stopping with his brother-in-law, Oscar Rodgers, five miles North of the city.

After the killing a Coroner's Jury was impaneled, and an investigation begun. The Coroner's Jury adjourned until further evidence could be obtained.

It was generally thought at the time that a verdict of justifiable homicide would be returned. The situation has recently changed considerably, however, it would appear.

R. W. Christian, a negro who turned Democrat during the last campaign, has fallen from grace, having been indicted for bigamy.

THAT BOND BILL.

The Sentinel notices that Mr. Longshore, the representative in the General Assembly from this county, has introduced a bill to authorize the Board of Mayor and Councilman of the city of Calera to issue bonds of said city for an amount not exceeding ten thousand dollars for the purpose of building and furnishing public school buildings in said city.

Now while the possession of commodious school buildings is a thing to be desired by every community, yet there are other things to be considered before a community or corporation undertakes to become the possessor of such.

The first consideration should be the ability of the community or corporation to erect said buildings.

2nd, The ability not only to float its bonds after they are issued but to pay the bonds themselves and the interest on them.

These are very important as well as practical considerations that should be well weighed before any steps should be taken. Is the city of Calera in any condition to issue bonds? Is not the corporation too small and are not the people too poor to burden the city and themselves with such a debt? Do the people want any such bill passed by the general assembly? The Sentinel, speaking for itself, and as we believe, for an overwhelming majority of the white people of the town—the tax paying people—says that the city of Calera is in no condition to assume such an indebtedness. Our corporation is too small and our people too poor to incur such a responsibility. Besides the people of the city do not want any such bill passed. They would much prefer the enactment of a law abolishing the city charter. Many of them have long since come to the conclusion that if there is ever to be any peace and harmony among the people of the town it can only be secured by abolishing the charter. The experience of the people of the city from the date of its first incorporation as a municipality up to the present time has not been such as to impress them favorably towards the incorporation of small towns. Strife and contention, discord and confusion have been and still are the prevailing conditions. The fact has been forcibly impressed upon them, that a municipal government in a small town furnishes the opportunity for a few designing, turbulent and contentious persons to keep the whole community in turmoil and confusion.

The Sentinel hopes, therefore, that instead of passing Mr. Longshore bill to issue bonds that a substitute in the interest of peace and harmony, concord and agreement, will be offered by some other member of the house to repeal the charter of the city and that said substitute will be enacted into law, to go into immediate effect. This, we believe, would be pleasing to the large majority of the best citizens of Calera.

The Capitol building of the state of Pennsylvania was burned on the 2nd inst.

The grand jury of Cherokee county, at its recent sitting, returned eighty one indictments.

The legislature is down at work in earnest and a number of important measures are receiving attention. The indications are that the anti pool bill will become a law.

There is no questioning the fact that a new constitution is one of Alabama's greatest needs. The legislature should not fail to pass the bill calling a constitutional convention.

GROUND HOG DAY.

Today is ground hog day. As a weather indicator the ground hog is more infallible than old Wiggins, the weather prophet. The Indian has abiding faith in his prognostications, and the white man does not altogether ignore or despise them.

The legend of the ground hog is an old story. On February 2 he rouses himself from his long sleep, crawls out of his winter burrow, looks at the thermometer, and takes a few observations on the weather. If the sun is shining strong enough to enable him to see his shadow, he crawls back to his old quarters and resumes his winter snooze, in the serene confidence that there are six more weeks of severe wintry weather in store for the hapless denizens of the upper world. On the contrary, if the day proves cloudy and overcast, so that it is impossible to see his shadow on the snow, he knows that the backbone of old winter is broken and that spring is close at hand.

The Alabama ground hog today cannot fail to see his shadow, as the sun's rays are in evidence, which means that for six weeks more we are to be at the mercy of the plumb-ers and coal dealers.—Birmingham News, Feb. 2

The British Ambassador, Sir Julian Pauncefote, and Senor Jose Andrade the Venezuelan minister, affixed their signatures in the office of Secretary Olney, at the State department in Washington at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon on the 2nd inst. This signals the termination of a controversy that had lasted nearly a century, and restores diplomatic negotiations between two countries which had been suspended for ten years. This is a feather in the caps of President Cleveland and Secretary Olney that will go down in history as marking one of the ablest administrations that this great republic has ever enjoyed.

COUNTRY EDITORS' TRIALS.

The Northport Breeze gives the following to show why it appears at all times "happy and content," and as the Sentinel has some experience on the same line we copy that outsiders may know with the average country editor has to mar his pleasure:

"We will mention a few things with which we have to contend in order that you may understand why we always look so 'happy and content.' After reading our paper for twelve months a man moves and authorizes the postmaster to inform us the paper is not taken out. But we will excuse that man—he will be sufficiently punished hereafter. Another one says: 'Give us more local news. I want to hear of every man, child and 'yaller dog' that comes to town every week.' Another says, 'For God's sake quit giving us so much local news. I don't care whether John Smith went to Birmingham or to h—.' Another will say, 'Not enough politics.' Another wants religious matter strictly; another wants anything else. Some are mad because we don't keep on abusing Kolb. Others are as mad as the devil because we did abuse him. Some say, 'You have got your old paper filled with advertisements (those kind are behind with their subscription and very ignorant besides). Merchants kick because their ad don't occupy the most prominent part of the paper. Our printers kick because we want them to work regularly. The landlord kicks because half of the time we are unable to pay his rent. The 'devil' kicks because we kick him. Well, we have made up our mind to stick to it one more year if it takes the hide off."

THE GREENBACK QUESTION IN A NUTSHELL.

New York World:

This Government has outstanding against it demand notes that call for $345,000,000 in gold.

It cannot destroy these demand notes when it has once redeemed them, but must reissue and redeem them indefinitely.

These demand notes must be paid each time in gold. The Government has no certain means of getting gold except by buying it with interest-bearing bonds.

So long as these conditions remain, raids on the gold reserve, and therefore on the stability of business, can be made whenever unscrupulous "financiers" feel so inclined, and bond issues to add to the burden of our public debt can be compelled.

The business men at Indianapolis, speaking for the business men of the country, said that the greenbacks must be retired, because it's foolish for any one to keep on issuing promises to pay something which he may have to buy at a premium when payment is demanded.

Does this not seem sensible?

THE BACK TAX ASSESSMENT LAW.

The Governor has approved the bill relating to back tax assessments and appointed the Chief Commissioner in the person of Judge Wm. J. Wood.

We regret to state that quite an error was made by us in stating that the five year clause was stricken out by the Senate. This was our understanding from a hasty glance at the Senate proceedings but closer examination of the bill as amended, passed and approved shows that the commissioners can go back as far as five years. This is an imposition on the tax payers that has not been equalled since the days of the carpet bag legislature.—Advertiser.

of the back tax assessment law, we are not at this time prepared to say, but we do say that the Governor has made a most excellent appointment in naming Judge Wm. J. GETS AT THE ROOT.

Grover Cleveland some time since advised the various states to enact a law to suppress trusts and combinations, as congress did not have the power to check them. In accordance to his recommendation, several states have taken steps to enact such laws, as in their judgment, will break these combines. Hon. Dan Greene, of Jefferson, offered a bill in the General Assembly last Friday that will strike at the root of the evil,—Hayneville Citizen-Examiner.

THE MONEY QUESTION.

Washington, D. C. Feb. 2.—The monthly statement of money in circulation in the United States, issued by the Treasury Department, shows that on February 1st the circulation per capita was $23.05, based on an estimated population of 72,288,000. On that date the amount of money in circulation was $1,665,977,673, an increase of $76,257,081 over the amount in circulation February 1, 1896. The circulation of gold coin one year ago was $499,262,686, while yesterday it amounted to $645,568,492. During the month of January the increase in circulation was $15,754,288. The gold coin in the Treasury increased $9,461,765 during that period while the gold bullion there decreased by $2,278,626.

Last Friday was President elect McKinley's 54th birthday. Nine presidents were younger than Major McKinley at the time of their inauguration—Grant at 47, Cleveland at 48, Garfield at 49, Pierce at 49, Fillmore at 50, Polk at 50, Tyler and Arthur at 51 and Lincoln at 52. The oldest president was William Henry Harrison at 68. The average age of the presidents at inauguration, including McKinley, was a fraction under 58. Major McKinley adds another to the remarkable list of presidents born in winter. It is an extraordinary fact that only two presidents were born between April and October. The record by months is as follows: January, 2; February, 3; March, 4; April, 4; May, 0; June, 0; July, 1; August, 1; September, 0; October, 3; November 4; December 2.—Birmingham News.

A Hazardous Occupation.
Since balloon ascensions began there have never been so many aeronauts injured as during the year 1896. Fourteen of them have either been killed or badly injured by accidents. Two of these unfortunates were women and both were killed. Professional balloon men ascribe the accidents to ignorance and carelessness. Only three of the fourteen aeronauts referred to were of long experience. It has happened that this season there has been a great demand for aeronauts from circuses and fair associations.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Cathartic cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Cathartic Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The Battered Song.

"Nothing will live but a song," he said;
"Not love?" she asked. "No, nor aught," said he
"But the singer's spell." So she bowed her head,
And the poet turned to his minstrelsy.
Art is a shadow; deeds vanish ere long;
And nothing forever abides but a song.
And the whole world leaned to the poet's lay
A thrill with the touch of his master hand;
From afar she saw him crowned with bay;
Apart from the crowds he saw her stand.
Heroes are dust, but to poets belong Immortelles; for nothing abides but a song.
* * * * *
The poet stood at a closed gate
And they opened to him the book of years;
"I sang—" he said; but he saw his fate—
His song was blurred by a woman's tears.
To the end of the world may abide a song;
To the end of Time there will live a wrong.
—W. A. Bright.

HIS LAST RESOURCE.

Richard Hotelling was in the depths of perplexity as to his status in the affections of a certain, or, more properly speaking, a very uncertain, young woman whom he much adored.
He had been so deeply in love for more than a year, that he had eyes, ears and thoughts for none other than pretty, fascinating Miss Damer. Yet, so skilfully had he been managed, (whether consciously to herself or not he little knew) that no word of his could have been construed to give evidence of more than a friendly feeling.

There were others in his predicament, and misery always loves company.
At the same time he felt there must be an end to all things, and had resolved to bring matters to a state of certainty without further delay, knowing full well that he had made a similar decision a score of times before.
She had a way of turning the conversation at most interesting stages, without giving offence and with a show of tact worthy a weightier cause.
He could recall any number of times when he was on the eve of making a full avowal, and thought her particularly sympathetic, when a turn of her head or a glance of her clear gray eyes would throw him back into the old state of dejection, and he would leave with the words unsaid. Again, interruptions had come when he was at the point of growing serious, and there had been much in the way of his declaring his love.

He felt she must have read it in his eyes, in his every act, yet there were several other fellows who wore their hearts on their sleeves in a much more amazing manner than did he, and who were treated with the same calm impartiality.

There was Hilton, member of every club in town, and possessor of such an income as is never an objection in affairs of the heart. There was Resler, the captain of his college Eleven, adored by all the girls, adoring Miss Damer only. There were Mallard, Hollister and Smith, all rattling good fellows, to say nothing of one Book-leigh, a sort of literary man with long hair, ready made ties and original poems. No man feared him, as a rival, however, for he made his love as common as postage stamps by talking of her to everyone he knew. Moreover, he was the kind of fellow to make a hit with old ladies at afternoon teas, and the men not only considered him more different kinds of an ass than any one of their acquaintances, but actually guyed him to his face.
Among themselves they jestingly accused him of imperfect cerebration.
But in spite of these facts, and that he enjoyed a fair share of Miss Damer's favor, they liked him because he was kindly-natured and altogether harmless.

As Hotelling chewed the end of his pen he meditated upon these things; particularly Hilton's ten thousand a year, and wondered if the latter consideration would weigh with Miss Damer.
He believed it would not, and wrote her a note accordingly. He asked for an engagement during the week, adding that he had under consideration an offer to go abroad as foreign correspondent for a New York paper, and that in case of accepting he would sail the next Saturday. He would leave it for her to decide whether he should go or stay. It was his last resource, and he felt that it would bring things to a crisis. If she refused him, he could go away—and forget. If she—but the other possibility plunged him into such a delirium of delightful dreams that he destroyed the missile and resolved he would see her that evening and set his mind at rest.

There is a popular fallacy that vanity is the prerogative of woman exclusively.
Many hold that the soul of man is above such petty considerations as dress and personal adornment.
Go to! Vanity bath no imitations or sex. As Mr. Richard Hotelling carefully accomplished his toilet that evening, with frequent glances toward the mirror, he thoroughly appreciated his good points and valiantly strove to make the most of them, in order to look well in the eyes of her he loved.

After donning his dress suit, which he loathed, as most men do, it occurred to him that he would feel easier and consequently appear to better advantage in his Tuxedo. At length, attired to his satisfaction, he felt that he was not so bad a figure of a man after all, and that a girl might well be pleased—but of course no one ever really knows what a fellow thinks under such circumstances, and, all things considered, it were unkind to speculate. However, it was with a feeling akin to hope that he closed the street door and went out into the night.

He was ushered into the music-room, where he found her playing a dreamy melody of Chopin. She was alone and very lovely in soft turquoise erape which brought out the ruddy gold of her hair and the fairness of her skin to exquisite perfection.
She heard him and turned quickly, with a bright smile saying,—

"How good of you to come tonight!
Mother and the boys have gone to the opera, and I am alone for the evening."
"I did not dream of being so fortunate," he murmured as he took her hand.

In some way it did not sound exactly right, but he was fast losing courage, and hardly knew what he said. She sank on a low divan, and as he took the place at her side he observed that she was tantalizingly near to him. Of course he would have given worlds to take her in his arms at once and tell her all that was in his heart, and have done with suspense. He felt it would be a trifle irregular, however, and dismissed the thought as he became more at ease under the influence of her smiling eyes. He endeavored repeatedly to lead up to the point in question, but in vain, for she was altogether oblivious to the trend of his thoughts.
At length they spoke of the opera of the night before.

"To my mind," she said, "there is nothing more exquisite than Romeo and Juliet. The music is heavenly, and the story, beautiful, mournfully beautiful."

"Every story of love is beautiful," he said quickly.

"Yes, love is best of all. It is perfect," she returned, with a far-away look in her eyes.

"I have a chance to go to Vienna as foreign correspondent," he began, precipitately,
"but before I decide there is a story I want to tell you."

She was still smiling, dreamily, but turned to him with a look of interest.
Her silence gave him courage;
she seemed to await his next words.

"It is a story of love, of my love for you," he said desperately, taking her hand.

She withdrew it quickly, with a look of dismay, seeing he was terribly in earnest.

"Will you hear it?" he continued, mistaking her consternation for coyness.

"Is it possible that you have not heard—that you did not receive my note announcing it?"

"Announcing what?" he demanded in amazement.

"My engagement to Morris Book-leigh," she replied with a happy smile.

He sailed for Havre the next Saturday.

Departed Grazing.

"Just thirty-three years ago today," said the old soldier, "the top of my head was grazed by a bullet."

"There isn't much grazing there now, is there, grandpa?" was the comment of the youngest grandchild, and as the old gentleman rubbed his bare poll he had to admit the correctness of the assertion. —Indianapolis Journal.

Water Rich in Copper.

One of the most interesting sights in the great mining town of Butte is the process by which copper is caught from the emerald-colored water that flows from the Anaconda and St. Lawrence mines. It is estimated that this water, which for four or five years went to waste, is now bringing the Anaconda Company $30,000 a month, at a cost of about $1,000 a month.

During the last three years Thomas Ledford had a lease on the water. He paid a twenty-five percent royalty to the company. It is claimed that he realized at least $100,000 a year from the water. Ledford is a pretty rich man today. Now that the company is operating the water on its own account it has discovered what a great money-making enterprise it is.

At the present time several acres of ground are covered with wooden vats.
These are filled with all the old scrap iron they can hold. It has proved a splendid scheme for disposing of the tons of old iron the company has accumulated for years. Old hoisting cages, water pipes, wheelbarrows, railroad iron, in fact, any old thing that consists of tin or iron is appropriated to this service.

It is said for every pound of iron put into a vat a pound of copper is produced. Where the water first attacks the iron the copper absorbs the iron completely within three weeks.
After the precipitation is effected the water is drawn off and the slimy copper is transferred to another tank, where the water is further drained off.
These latter vats hold about fifteen tons of the copper, which now has the appearance of a clayish substance.
This is sacked into packages of about 100 pounds. When in this shape it is sent to the smelters in this city. The product carries an average of 86 per cent pure copper. The iron remaining in it makes a fine flux, and when mixed with other smelting ore it is said to bring the ore up to a value of about $300 a ton. —Anaconda (Montana) Record.

America Still Ahead.

Russia is a very large country, and with Siberia's immense area included, the size of the United States suffers in comparison with her. One of her newspapers has vaunted the proposed transporting of a whole town some forty odd miles along a frozen river (a heretofore unknown feat, as it claims), the object of the removal being to place the town among some hills that lend themselves admirably to the purpose of fortification thus securing a valuable military station.
It will undoubtedly be quite a feat to accomplish such a task, and if the Russian engineers find any hitch in their plans, they can surmount the difficulties by reference to a similar undertaking successfully accomplished in the State of Illinois, namely, the moving of the town of Nauvoo over a frozen river. In the course of three winters this was done, and seven hundred houses were transported, and a new town, now a prosperous place, was established. The Russian newspapers can boast of the great work of moving one of their towns; but it is a pleasure to know that the United States long ago anticipated them in such matters. —Harper's Round Table.

Monuments in Our Great Cities.

Our great cities are not now exactly poor in statues; but the exceedingly accidental character of these memorials, due to the fact that they are mainly the result of private subscription, is evidenced by a glance at the public out-of-door statues and other memorials in New York city. To American literary men, distinctly as literary men, not one statue has been raised in that city; but there are statues of Shakespeare, Walter Scott, and Robert Burns. One bust of an American author—Washington Irving —is found; and there are also busts of Cervantes, Schiller, and Thomas Moore! It would be hard to object to these memorials of Old-World authors provided they are works of art;
but one would like to see them accompanied by at least as many Americans. —Atlantic Monthly.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

This paper is entered in the Calera Post-office as second-class matter.

N. A. GRAHAM,.....EDITOR.

CALERA, ALA., FEBRUARY 11, 1897.

The indications now are that Chairman Hanna is not in it for a portfolio in the cabinet and the strmise is that he will aspire to Senatorial honors.

Gen. S. D. Weakley, an aged and prominent citizen of Florence, Ala., dropped dead on the street in Florence on the 3rd inst. He was about 85 years of age.

It is now stated that there is to be a southern man in McKinley's cabinet and it is thought that he will be chosen from a southern state that went republican—either Kentucky or Maryland.

Hon. Cecil Browne, of Talladega, and the Montgomery Advertiser are having a little tilt. The matter of difference between them seems to be a question of democracy, or which is the democrat.

Shelby county will have a legal execution by hanging on tomorrow in the jail yard at Columbiana, the first in a long number of years, unless the Governor should reprieve the condemned man. The negro McAdams, convicted of rape-murder, is the subject.

The meeting of the Alabama Field Trials club at Madison, Ala., has been postponed to February 15, and the closing of entries extended to February 14. The Memphis & Charleston Railroad will make a rate of one fare for the round trip, and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad one or one and one-third fare.

The lower house of the General Assembly on Monday passed the proposed new mining law without amendment by a vote of 82 to 2. It is a voluminous bill, covers the whole mining situation and repeals all mine bills now in force in the state. It is believed to be a particularly equitable one to both the mine operators and operatives. The Senate devoted most of its time Monday to the passage of the guarantee bond company bill which requires that all guarantee companies doing business in the state shall deposit with the State Treasurer $50,000 to guarantee the payment of the Alabama policy holders. It is stated that if the bill as amended becomes a law the foreign companies will retire from the state. The revenue bill is one of the most important measures that has been engaging the house this week.

SKULL CRUSHED BY AN AX.

A special of the 8th from Blocton to The Montgomery Advertiser says:

A deplorable tragedy occurred here this afternoon about half past one. Ike Creel killed Lige Price by striking him on the head with an ax.

Creel is a half witted fellow and the boys of the town have been in the habit of throwing rocks at him and teasing him in every conceivable way. This evening Mr. Price got drunk, pulled his knife out and told Creel he was going to kill him. Creel had an ax in his hand and told Price that he wasn't going to do any such thing and then stepped up to Price who shoved him away from him. Creel then drew his ax and struck Price on the head with such force as to break the skull and make a big hole. Doctors were called to the scene immediately but they were unable to do the poor fellow any good. Mr. Price leaves a wife and two small children.

About two weeks ago Creel hit a small boy on the head with an ax which almost killed him, but he was allowed to go free on account of his being an idiot. Constable Tom Talford caught Creel shortly after he had done his bloody work and now he is peeping through the bars.

LATER—Later reports state that Price is still alive and there is a possibility of his recovering.

The papers of Monday announced the purchase of about $1,000,000 worth of print cloths. The whole matter is, that Mr. Borden and his associates of Fall River, having confidence in the future market, have advanced this large sum in order to relieve the mills. There will perhaps be a slight curtailment of production by the mills, for the present, but it is hoped that it will not be very many weeks before the consumption will be in excess of the current supply. Mr. Borden, in the meantime, will be able to dispose of the stock which he has just purchased and the mills will again be put to work at their full capacity. There are many other men, like Mr. Borden, who stand ready to risk their money in business enterprises, just as soon as they can be reasonably assured that a fair profit upon their investment will be the result. Alabama is an inviting field for such enterprises. Let our legislators be careful that they do nothing to darken the present encouraging outlook for the State.—Advertiser.

The Journal de St. Petersburg of January 19 speaks very discouragingly of Senator Wolcott's bimetallic mission, saying it is greatly to be feared on Mr. Wolcott's behalf that he will not carry back any hopeful impressions for believers in the white metal. Of course he won't. Everybody knew that before he started, Mr. Wolcott best of all. His trip was solely to justify his action of last fall in the eyes of his Colorado constituents. International bimetallicism is the merest moonshine, judging from present conditions.—Courier-Journal.

Last week's issue of The Chronicle announces that Mr. C. C. DuBose has leased that paper to his brother Mr. H. C. DuBose, who will hereafter be its sole editor and manager. In "Hamp's" salutatory he announces that the politics of The Chronicle will remain as heretofore—strictly democratic—and as he is well versed in the art preservative, The Sentinel can assure the people of Columbiana and Shelby county will have, in The Chronicle, an up to date paper, both in its editorial and mechanical control. The Sentinel wishes The Chronicle success under its new management. Mr. C. C. DuBose will give his entire attention to the job department and The Sentinel predicts for him that success his talent and energy deserves.

WHAT BECAME OF THEM.

State Herald 10th inst.

News reached this city yesterday afternoon that the little town of Magline on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad was disturbed over the disappearance of two of its young people. A young man named Bengé went for a walk Sunday afternoon with Miss Ingram, and they were last seen going toward Dogwood station, about a mile distant.

From parties who were on board the afternoon train last Sunday it was learned that the young people had boarded the train at Dogwood station. On board they met a friend and told him that they were coming to Birmingham to get married. The gentleman, wishing to assist the young people in the accomplishment of their desire, advised them to leave the train at Bessemer and come into this city over the dummy line and that by doing so they would escape any officer who might be waiting at the Birmingham depot.

The couple got off at Bessemer, as directed, but have not succeeded in getting married as yet. No license was issued to such a couple up to last night.

Although they spoke in all seriousness of their intentions of getting married the young people may have returned to their homes without having become husband and wife. At any rate, nothing has been seen of them since they left the passenger train at Bessemer Sunday afternoon.

IT OUGHT TO BE REPEALED.

The Tax Commissioner law is daily growing in unpopularity with the people of Alabama. Its bad effects upon the business of the state are incalculable. It should be repealed at once. Governor Johnston could then call together at Montgomery the tax assessors of the several counties for consultation and concerted action. The Governor could point out to them their duties and urge upon them the importance of a faithful performance of them. A system of assessments might be agreed upon under which first, second and third classes of lands and all other properties in the state might be assessed at a uniform valuation. These assessors have been chosen by the people of their respective counties for the express purpose of executing the assessment laws of the state, and there has not been any good cause shown why they should be superseded by officers appointed by the Governor of the state.—Advertiser.

The Way To Weigh More

Good weight means good health. Good health means good blood. Good blood is at the bottom of it all. If a man or woman is losing flesh, chances are ten to one that the blood is impure and lifeless. Pure blood builds up good, firm flesh. It makes muscles that you can use. There is no fictitious fat about it. It gives you a balance in the bank of health that you can draw on without fear.

Sarsaparilla is Nature's remedy for impure or impoverished blood. It is just the sort of remedy that grandmother used to dig up in the garden. It is simple, pure, efficient. It puts the digestion into perfect order, stimulates the appetite, assists nutrition, cleanses and purifies the whole body.

MONTEVALLO LOCALS.

From The Montevallo News.

The formal dissolution of the firm of Morgan, Meroney & Co. took place on the first day of this month.

Hon. W. W. Wadsworth, of Wadsworth, one of the trustees of the Industrial School, was visiting the school Tuesday.

Dr. Givhan attended the meeting of the Shelby County Medical Society which was held at Columbiana last Tuesday.

Miss Relia Sessions, who has been very sick the past few months and recently suffered a third relapse, is now rapidly recovering.

Mrs. Millie Tennor of Texas has purchased lots opposite the residence of W. B. Reynolds and adjoining the property recently purchased by John B. Randall, and will at once erect thereon a fine $1000 residence.

W. S. Cary was called to Calera Tuesday as attorney for the new board in the Calera municipal fight. An effort was being made by the new board to close up the saloons in the town and Mr. Cary was employed to furnish the legal advice in the matter.

E. E. Forbes, the music dealer of Montgomery, was in town Tuesday and secured an order for three pianos for the musical department of the Industrial School. The pianos arrived Thursday morning and are now at the disposition of the pupils in that department.

Capt. John B. Randall has purchased two lots opposite the residence of W. B. Reynolds and will immediately proceed to the erection of a handsome dwelling house thereon. As soon as it is completed he will move his family here and become a permanent resident of Montevallo.

Henry Wooley, an employe of the Southern railway, was injured at Birmingham Junction last Wednesday evening by a railroad spike flying up and striking him in the face, cutting a deep gash in his left cheek. Dr. Givhan was summoned and sewed up the wound and made his patient as comfortable as possible.

It appears that Johnson Frost, the negro who was arrested last week on suspicion of having been the man who made the assault on Miss Battle of Six Mile, was not strung up as at first reported, there being some doubts as to his being the guilty party. He is, however, being guarded pending the return of the posse which is still scouring the country.

G. H. Powell, a brakeman on the "Three B" road, had his right hand badly mashed while making a coupling at Birmingham Junction Monday evening. He was brought to this city and placed under charge of Dr. Givhan who found it necessary to amputate two of the fingers in order to save the balance of the hand. The patient is doing very well and will soon be able to be at work again.

The Holcomb-Pratt Lumber Company at this place is daily turning out great quantities of splendid yellow pine lumber. Calera is proud of the mill, and justly too, for it is one of the best saw mill plants on the line of either the L. & N. or Southern roads. Mr. Pratt, the manager of the mill is a saw mill man with few equals.

If you are in doubt whether your trouble is indigestion or dyspepsia, just take a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator and it will settle the whole question. The Sentinel job office has reason to feel complimented this week. Montgomery and Eufaula have first class job offices and each are much nearer than Calera, still we have received an order for the printing of a neat pamphlet of several pages, from Barbour county, to be completed without delay. Of course this comes from the Sentinel always being prompt and correct in all it does for the public.

Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. The Calera Land & Lime Co's kilns at this place are in full blast and are turning out quantities of the famous Shelby lime. The company has recently opened up some new rock quarries and is using some of the very best rock in this highly favored lime rock section.

Rev. W. B. Carter, the pastor of the Baptist Church at this place, was unable to fill his appointment here on last Sabbath on account of illness. He had a very severe attack of la grippe and narrowly escaped pneumonia. At last reports he was rapidly recovering, which is very gratifying to his many friends here.

Rev. G. B. Russell of Piedmont has accepted an invitation from the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at this place to supply the church for the present year. He preached two interesting and instructive sermons on last Sabbath to appreciative congregations. This was his first visit to Calera and he made a most favorable impression upon our citizens as an earnest and zealous servant of the Master. The Sentinel welcomes him as one of Calera's pastors and hopes that his services to the church here may result in much good to all our people.

The Recompense.

Sometimes I wonder if the man
Who wins renown on earth
Finds that the plaudits of the crowd
Are of exalted worth.
I wonder if, when in the tomb
His wasted clay is laid,
The labor and the loneliness
He knew have been repaid.

I wonder if the common man,
Who drifts along through life,
Content with love and praises from
His children and his wife,
Has not less cause to murmur at
The firm decrees of fate
Than he that frets for future men
To find that he was great?

A Scheme That Succeeded.

BY HARRY IRVING HORTON.

Yes, I'm engaged to Fred Warren.
When did I say "yes?" One night
last week.

How did that bashful fellow ever get up courage to propose? Sit down and I'll tell you the whole story.

You see, I had known for a long time that Fred loved me. He had never told me so in words, but those eloquent eyes of his had told me so more than once. However, that wasn't enough. I couldn't accept him and name the day on the strength of what his eyes said. So I decided that in some way his lips must be unsealed and his tongue made to confirm the language of his eyes. Do you follow me?

How did I fix it! Well, I thought and thought, and finally hit upon a scheme. I loved Fred, and, knowing that he loved me, I felt that the end
justified the means.

Late one afternoon I received a note from him saying that he would call that evening if I would be at home.
Here was the opportunity that I had been waiting for, and I assure you that I improved it. I sent him word that I would gladly see him. Then I rushed over to May Barnard's house. Finding her at home, I asked her to call me up by telephone at half-past eight.
I told her that I wanted her to stick to that old telephone until I had finished talking. She wasn't to say anything, but to just keep the line open while I talked away. I said I would explain later on, and back home I went.

Evening came and with it Fred—
the same old bashful Fred, yet loving, lovable and loved. Promptly at eight-thirty the telephone bell rang. You know that our telephone is in the library. I excused myself and answered the call, being careful to leave open the door between the library and the reception room, where I had left Fred.

Shall I give you the dialogue?
Well, it wasn't a dialogue, for May said nothing, but just held the fort—I mean the 'phone—and listened. Here is what I said. Of course there were pauses at frequent intervals, in order to give the imaginary fellow at the other end
of the line a chance:

"Really, this is terribly sudden. I have never dreamed that you had anything more than a friendly regard for me.—But how can I marry you when
I don't love you?—Learn to love you?
No, I couldn't do that.—Do I care for anybody else? You have no right to ask that, and I refuse to answer.—No,
I will not marry you, and I don't mind telling you that I wouldn't marry any man that would propose to a girl by telephone. The man who wins me must have the courage to look me in the eye and tell me that he loves me and not get a half a mile away and shout it through a telephone. It comes with a shock to hear anybody say, 'Hello! hello! Will you marry me?' Well, here is my answer: 'Hello! hello! No.' Good night, and better luck next time."

Then, leaving the telephone, I returned to the reception-room, where I found Fred with a look of determination upon his face—a sort of do-or-die
expression, that I had never seen there before. Of course, I assumed an air of surprise at finding the door open.
I told Fred that May Barnard had just called me up. That eased my conscience a little, for it was true, but it didn't take half an eye to see that Fred didn't believe it, and that made me happy for it told me that he must have heard the whole talk. I didn't have to wait long for further proof of it, for Fred's diffidence was all gone.

As I took a seat he seated himself beside me, and in a manly way told me that he loved me. I didn't tell him,
as I told the telephone, that it was so sudden. It wasn't, you know; I had been expecting it for years. I told him that I would change my name to Warren, so everything is at last settled.

I haven't told May the good news yet, for she has been out of town; but she returned last night, and I shall thank her this afternoon for her part in the programme. And that dear old telephone ought to be human, so that I could kiss it.

Did I tell Fred that I had used
the telephone to bring him to terms?
No, I didn't, but I shall after we are married. I am not going to take any more chances of losing him. I rather surprised him the other day by asking him if we couldn't have a telephone in our new house. He seemed puzzled at my request,
but said "yes." How could he say "no," when it was the telephone that gave him the needed courage?
And he has his own secret, or rather
he thinks he has, for he has never told me what he heard or asked me who the other fellow was, although I know he is dying to know his name.

How will he take it when he finds out my trick? He will forgive me,
of course. You can't get a divorce,
because you have no business to hear
—and, besides, Fred loves me.—

In the Diamond Mines.

The first diamonds discovered in Africa were found by a trader who saw some children playing with what they supposed were pebbles, one of which, at least, proved to be a diamond worth $3,000. Even at that early day the news of the discovery was not long in spreading to different countries, and not many years passed before so many claims were taken up that it was impossible to keep them separate, and the result was one vast mining district some 15,000 square miles in area, controlled and worked
by various corporations and syndicates. Besides these there are a large number of individual diggers.

The mining in the African fields is done by thousands of wild-eyed, black-skinned natives. The Kaffirs are large, powerful men, cleanly in their habits, and during the time for which their labor is contracted, usually a month, they are deprived of all freedom. Communication with any one outside the limits of the mine is for-bidden. They are compelled to live within the walled inclosure or compound owned by the company. While in their employ the Kaffirs are clothed and fed by the company, and if sick or injured they are cared for by and
at the expense of the corporation.

Every possible precaution is taken to prevent the native workmen from stealing the gems. A wire netting covers the top of the compound,
making it impossible to throw a stone
over the walls, to be picked up by a confederate or an illicit diamond buyer. Every night at five o'clock, as the miners leave their work, each is searched with great rigidity by the company's agent. So expert have the natives become in their robberies that every portion of their body is carefully examined with a "sounding hammer," and by the light of a candle the sole of each foot is examined for the tell-tale refraction of light which reveals a diamond pushed under the thick skin of the foot through an incision so deftly covered that it is easily overlooked. But the searcher has become as great an adept in his work
as the robber in his robberies, until it is almost impossible for the thief to successfully secrete a stone, and the prospects of severe punishment or of several years' imprisonment in a south African dungeon has no doubt had its influence in reducing the robberies to a minimum.—The Chautauquan.

Comfort for Her.

"Sometimes I think I shall never marry," said Miss Elder in a burst of confidence.

"O, don't despair," replied Miss Flip; "we read in the Bible that Naomi was 580 years old when she married."

It is claimed that during the last twenty-five years but one person for every 3,500,000 carried by the railroads of Denmark has been killed.

The Lovely Greek.

If the Grecian women were beautiful, it was not wonderful, considering the care they gave themselves. The fashionable Grecian woman was of free customs, but she was not depraved. She resembled a professional beauty more than any other class of modern women, but she was far superior in learning and accomplishments. She could be a politician and write eloquent speeches for the head of the republic to deliver. She was versed in sciences, and taught them in public, and she was also a poetess,
winning her laurels over male competitors. Her toilet was not her only and sole occupation, though it did take a great part of the morning.

It begins by her slaves frictioning
her from head to foot, then placing her in a bath of perfumed water, after which she was again frictioned, this time with ivory brushes, called srigilles. This done, she is anointed with perfumed oils and aromatic fumigrations, and then, being wrapped in a sheet, she is laid on a couch,
where she partakes of refreshment before the dressing process begins.

The hair is first attended to. It is brushed, combed and rubbed with perfumes, then it is waved or curled
with hot irons previously to being dressed in the latest fashion. Gold bands, jeweled pins, pearls and silken nets are in turn worn to complete the headdress, which in itself is an artistic study, as every statue of Venus tells
us. The hair being dressed, the eyebrows and eyelids are touched with incense, and the teeth are brushed with perfumed powders. A perfumed water is also kept for some time in the month to perfume the breath.

The whole person is finally sponged
with an astringent lotion to prevent wrinkles; and, finally, the face and neck are gently touched with a white wash. The hands and feet are also scrupulously attended to. They are rubbed with softening pastes, and the hands are dyed pink, and polished until they shine like glass.—Philadelphia Times.

The Useful Wasp.

By common agreement the wasp is accepted as emblematical of irritability and petty malignity; but even this much-abused hymenopterous insect plays a beneficial part in the work of nature.

A number of wasps were seen by R.
M. Barrington, an Irish naturalist, buzzing about his cows. Closer inspection revealed that they were all busy catching flies, and pouncing with the rapidity of hawks after birds on the flies as they tried to settle or rest on some favorite part of the cow. One white cow drew more wasps than any of the others, because the moment a fly alighted it was seen at once against the skin. When a wasp catches a fly
it immediately bites off both wings, sometimes a leg or two, and occasionally the head.

Mr. Barrington saw some of the wasps when laden with one fly catch another, without letting go the first,
and then fly away with both. There was a constant stream of wasps carrying away flies, probably to feed the larvae in their nests, returning again to the cows to catch more. In about twenty minutes Mr. Barrington estimated that between 300 and 400 flies were caught on two cows lying close to where he stood. Perhaps this narrative of good deeds accomplished
will lead people to think more leniently of the vices of the wasp.—New York Journal.

Infant Incubators.

The latest novelty in the Berlin Exhibition is the stall with Dr. Lion's baby incubators, which prove a great attraction not only to the medical profession, but also to ladies. The babies exhibited are between five and eight months old. They would not be living if it were not for the invention.
They are fed on milk.—New York Tribune.

The Poor Tramp's Lament.

"This is a strange world," said a poor tramp, relating his latest adventure. "I had not been able to get anything to eat for two days. Finally,
in despair, I attempted to drown myself in the Seine. A fisherman saved
me. He received twenty-five francs reward for his deed, and I—got nothing."—Paris Figaro.

Southeastern part of this country. C.
G. Roose, an orchardist, employed six Japanese on his place, and Saturday night fifteen citizens with gunnysacks
over their heads seized the Japanese and placed ropes around the neck of each and took them to a big oak tree.
There they were strung up and let hanging until life was almost extinct.
The Japanese were then lowered, and when they revived the hanging process
was repeated several times. The Japanese were then forced to march out of the settlement and were warned never to return on penalty of being hanged until dead.

Roose, the employer, remonstrated at the outrage, and then a rope was thrown about his neck with a threat to hang him if he interfered or employed any but white labor on his ranch hereafter.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

New York.—Bradstreet's makes the
following report:

With the exception of reports from a dozen South Atlantic coast and gulf
cities, jobbers at nearly all distributing centers say business is dull and without new features. Demand has improved at Chicago and St. Louis for hats, hardware, shoes and dry goods, but trade in those lines is fair only. Cold weather has stimulated purchases of clothing at some points.
Little general recovery from holiday
dullness is reported as yet.

NEBRASKA BANK FAILS.

Alma, Neb.—The First National Bank of this city was closed Saturday morning by order of the Controller of the Currency, and is now in the hands of the Bank Examiner. Liabilities are $125,000. Assets about the same. The chief item of indebtedness is a State deposit of $40,000.

FIVE WERE SAVED,

While Seven of the Crew of the Steamer Tobasco Were Lost.

St. Louis, Mo.—A special from America, Mex., dated Saturday, says that parties who arrived there last night from Ponitas, on the Pacific Coast, report that a boat containing five half-famished men had landed there last Thursday. The men claimed to be the only survivors of the crew of twelve men of the schooner Tobasco.
The story of the men was that the schooner was loaded with lumber, and was bound from Mazatlan to Acapulco.
She was struck by a heavy sea, and foundered near Banderas Bay. The other seven men of the crew went down with the schooner before another boat could be lowered. There were no passengers on board.

TRAIN WRECKING EPIDEMIC.

It Even Reaches the Philippine Islands.
A Town Burned.

Seattle, Wash.—Philippine Island advices received by the steamship Agaphantus tell of the wrecking by the rebels of a train at San Marcos, near Manilla. The rails were loosened for a distance of twenty metres, throwing the engine and four coaches down an embankment.

About a thousand rebels appeared,
made prisoners of the trainmen and passengers, and took possession of the mails and freight.

While the train was being plundered another gang of rebels set fire to the near-by town of Caluminit.

MURDERED HIS BONDSMAN.

Seth T. Foreman Shot By Postmaster
Landers.

Williamsport, Pa.—George K. Landers, postmaster at Newbury, a suburb of this city, this afternoon shot and fatally injured Seth T. Foreman, one of the most prominent men of Williamsport, and one of the postmaster's bondsmen. The men quarreled over a shortage in Lander's accounts, which his bondsmen have made good.

TO HIDE A ROBBERY

A Fire Is Started, Which Destroys
One-Half of a Town.

Charleston, S. C.—A special to the News and Courier from Olar, S. C.,
dated Monday, says:

Fire last night burned nearly half of Olmers, a small station on the Florida Central and Peninsula Railroad,
Barnwell County. It originated in Griffin's store, about 2 o'clock, and spread rapidly, everything being dry
and the wind high and water scarce.
The town is built on both sides of the railroad, and nearly the whole of the side on which the fire started is now
in ashes.

Griffin's store, in which the fire originated, had the appearance of having been broken open and robbed, and that is the only solution so far offered for the fire. The total loss is estimated at $15,000; the total insurance at $2,000.

Congressman Money at Last Finds a Resting Place.

Washington, D. C.—Senator-elect
Money, of Mississippi, returned here
from Cuba Saturday. Mr. Money made a flying trip to the island with the object of ascertaining for himself
the condition of affairs there. He has been away since before Christmas, and created some excitement while there by absents himself from his friends and acquaintances at Havana for a few days. He has steadfastly refused to talk for publication about his trip,
and to-night begged to be excused from seeing newspaper reporters.

A WATER HAUL.

Meridian, Miss.—The Southern Express Company's office was entered by burglars early Monday morning by drilling a panel out of the rear door.
The express messenger's safe was taken to a prominent resident street and burst open with a hammer. Express agents claim that nothing was in the safe. No clue to the robbers.

CALERA, ALA., JANUARY 14, 1897.

The Alabama presidential electors met in Montgomery on last Monday and cast their votes for Bryan and Sewall.

A heavy snow storm is reported in the northwest. The Missouri valley and the great lake region are covered with a mantle of white.

The General Assembly of Alabama will reconvene on the 20th inst. The committees appointed to sit during the recess seem to be busy at work.

The taking of testimony in the Alabama congressional contest cases has commenced, and the indications are that these fights are to be prosecuted and defended most vigorously.

For the first time in twenty-four years North Carolina has a Republican Governor. On the 12th inst. Hon. Daniel Russell, of Wilmington, was inaugurated. This is one of the results of the populist movement in the Old North State.

The Treasury gold reserve is climbing rapidly to the $140,000,000 mark. The big trade balance in our favor is doing it. Yet the republicans cannot wait until McKinley is inaugurated before they begin perfecting plans for the construction of a tariff wall along American shores.—News.

The little town of Centre, the county site of Cherokee county, was almost completely destroyed by fire on the morning of the 12th inst. only four business houses were saved from the flames. One account seems to indicate that the fire was incendiary, robbery having been first committed. Another account thinks that it was accidental. Very little insurance.

Capt. T. S. Plowman has replied to the charges of Congressman W. F. Aldrich in his matter of contest for Plowman's seat in strong and forcible language. He does not mince his words and he tells some startling and sensational things concerning Mr. Aldrich of a most damaging character. Mr. Aldrich, it seems, is not going to find very smooth sailing in his present contest.

The Governor of Indiana recommends the passage by the Legislature of a compulsory education law. We do not know how it is in Indiana, but in most of the other States there is considerable difficulty experienced in providing accommodations for the children who present themselves under voluntary education laws. The States will do well if they take care of those who present themselves to be taught of their own free wills.—Savannah News.

EDUCATE THE CHILDREN.

If you want to keep your children out of crime, educate them. Let them know something about the great nation in which we live and they will make better citizens. Educate! Educate!! The safety of our nation rests in the enlightenment of its citizens.—Edwardsville Democrat.

The Washington Post tells a little story about Congressman Catchings, of Mississippi. Mr. Catchings was a sound money Democrat during the early days of the administration and until the question of his return to Congress depended on his change of heart. Then he came out for silver and was re-elected. The other day some Democrats in the House were discussing the possible Democratic member of the committee on Rules to take the place of the late Judge Crisp. Some one suggested Mr. Catchings. "But Catchings is a silver man," said a Southern member. "Oh, no," instantly remarked Representative Owens, of Kentucky "this silver term doesn't commence until the 4th of March."

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs which are all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

The SYMPTOMS of Liver Complaint are a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; Pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Stomach Troubles; Loss of Appetite; Bowels alternately constive and lax; Headache; Loss of Memory; with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done. Debility; Nervousness; a thick, yellow appearance of the skin and Eyes; a dry Cough, often mistaken for Consumption! Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few; but the LIVER, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease, and if not regulated in time, great suffering, weakness and DEATH will ensue.

The following highly respected persons attest to the virtues of SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR: Gen. W. S. Holt, Pres. Gal. S. W. R. Co.; Rev. J. M. Felder, Perry, Ga.; Col. E. K. Sparks, Albany, Ga.; C. CITY AND COUNTY

Hon. E. W. Cobb was in the city a few hours on Monday.

Miss Della Staples of Oxford is visiting Mrs. J. P. McMillan this week.

Mr. Frank Miller of Highland gave the Sentinel a pleasant call on last Monday.

Miss Sallie Veatch of Bessemer is visiting Miss Sarah Francis in the city this week.

Mr. Christopher of Birmingham was a pleasant visitor at the Sentinel office on Monday.

Rev. C. L. Herring filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church on last Sunday.

Miss Lottie Duran has returned home after a pleasant visit to relatives and friends in Texas.

The tramp brotherhood continues to be numerous. Calera seems to be a favorite stopping place for them, so much so that they are becoming a nuisance to the citizens.

On next Saturday and Sunday the first quarterly meeting of the year for the Calera circuit will be held with the church at this place. Rev. S. L. Dobbis, the presiding elder will be present.

A family reunion of the Frost family was held on New Year's day at the home of Mr. George Frost, near this place. The children, grandchildren and great grandchildren of the late Mr. Jesse Frost were present to the number of fifty two. Mrs. Frost, the aged widow and mother still survives and was present. The descendants of this couple, the late Jesse Frost and wife, number one hundred, hence only about one half of them were present at this reunion. The day was a most delightful one and passed most happily and pleasantly to the kindred present on this occasion.

4 YOUR BOY WON'T LIVE A MONTH.
So Mr. Gimman Brown of 34 Mill St., South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had Lung trouble, following Typhoid Malaria, and he spent three hundred and seventy-five dollars with doctors who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restore him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present health to use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for Lung trouble. Trial bottles free at Duran's Drug Store.

The attention of our readers is invited the local advertisement appearing elsewhere by H. Fox. For the past year Mr. Fox has been manager of the Columbiana Mercantile Co. and has conducted the business most successfully. He now proposes to open, or has opened, a store on his own account at Columbiana. He needs no introduction to the people of Shelby county for with the exception of a short absence he has been a citizen of the county for the past twenty years, and during that time has been engaged in the mercantile business. He solicits the patronage of his old friends throughout the county, assuring them that in the future as in the past, fair and honest dealing will mark his course. Read the announcement of his new store and when you want goods in Calera give him a call.

We understand that Mr. H. Fox will open up at the Moore corner next week with a full line of all kinds goods such as he keeps while with the Columbiana Mercantile Co. The people of Shelby and surrounding counties who have traded with the Columbiana Mercantile Co. know Mr. H. Fox. He is one of our people. He came to this county while a boy and has been identified with our interests and with our people and we will say to you, "Stick to your old friends. When you go to Columbiana see your old friend Fox and he will do what is right in your purchases."

NEEDHAM LEE.

On the 14th day of September, 1886, the spirit of Bro. N. Lee departed this life and took up its eternal abode in the region of eternal bliss and happiness.

Our much lamented brother died at the ripe old age of eighty-eight years, nine months and four days. While his death is a great loss to us, yet we can realize, as did our departed brother, that the Supreme Grand Master knoweth what is best and doeth all things well. He was of a gentle disposition, upright and honest in all his transactions with his fellowman. This we cannot doubt when we remember that he was J. P. in his own vicinity for forty years in succession. Such a man's place will seldom, if ever be filled. But we can only bow in humble submission and say, "Where he now is we soon shall be."

Resolved 1. That as a Mason, our departed brother adorned our lodge, and that his death causes profound grief in each of our hearts.

Resolved 2. That we emulate his noble christian principles, so as to hand them down to all future generations.

Resolved 3. That upon the record of Helena lodge be inscribed his name, age, and day of his death.

Resolved 4. That we extend our sympathies to the bereaved family and commend them to the Good Shepherd for safe keeping.

Yours respectfully,
L. F. GOODWIN.

BORN—To Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Gunn on Monday the 11th inst., a daughter. The Sentinel extends congratulations.

Mrs. Nettie Leeper of Anniston and Mrs. N. A. Graham of this place visited relatives and friends at Jemison yesterday.

The grip continues to afflict a number of our citizens. Several of them have been quite sick during the past week but we are pleased to be able to report none as being seriously ill at this time.

Mr. A. J. Powers, who has been merchandising at this place for the past year or more, is we learn, making his arrangements to move to Anniston. We regret very much to lose him from Calera, but wish him success in his new home.

The Sentinel learns that Mr. A. C. Wate, a former citizen and merchant of this place, but for the past year or more has resided in Montgomery, contemplates returning here at an early day and will again engage in the mercantile business at his old stand, where Mr. Powers has held forth during the past year.

There is nothing that causes women greater discomfort and misery than the constantly recurring Headache. Men suffer less with headache. "My wife's health was very indifferent, having Headache continually, and just two packages of Simmons Liver Regulator released her from all Headache and gave tone and vigor to her whole system. I have never regretted its use."—M. B. DeBord, Mt. Vernon, Ky.

OYSTER SUPPER.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Calera Baptist church will give an oyster supper at Mrs. Jones' boarding house for the benefit of the church on Tuesday night the 19th inst. Let everybody attend and the ladies in their good work. Don't forget the time and place.

DEATH OF MR. S. T. ANCHORS.

DIED—At his home in Columbiana on Monday morning the 11th inst. Mr. S. T. Anchors, an old and highly esteemed citizen. Mr. Anchors had been in feeble health for some time and his death was not altogether unexpected. He had lived to a ripe old age, nearing the four score mark. He leaves a widow and several children and grandchildren to mourn his decease. He was a good man and a good citizen. The Sentinel extends sympathy to the bereaved household.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

ROBERT T. DUNNAM.

Another light has gone out, another life is ended. On the 25th day of November, 1896, the spirit of Bro. R. T. Dunnam, responsive to the summons of the Supreme Grand Master's gavel, was borne on pinions of light to the Lodge Celestial.

At the day of his death our lamented brother was seventy-two years, eight months and eleven days old. Fairly and peacefully, surrounded by friends and loved ones, at home, and fully aware of his approaching dissolution, he passed away without one murmur, without one groan. Having made peace with God, through our Lord Jesus Christ, he had no fear that he would lose the things eternal. He was a man of strong convictions, a cool and calculating mind, honest to a fault, truthful in his dealings with his fellowmen, considerate of the poor, a good citizen, an obliging neighbor, a loving husband and an indulgent father.

Such a man will be greatly missed, but to this yoke of affliction we bow the neck in humble submission to the fiat of inscrutable wisdom, and praise the ever blooming sprig of aspen at our brother's grave—where we shall all soon rest.

Resolved, That our departed brother adorned the noble principles of our fraternity, and his death produces feelings of profound grief in the hearts of his brethren.

Resolved, That his many virtues shall be cherished and emulated by his brethren, and his faults if any, shall be covered with the mantle of charity, and his name shall go down to future generations as a light in our "Masonic Temple," and his memory shall be perpetuated upon our records, and kept alive in our hearts.

Resolved, That a page in the records of Helena lodge be appropriated to his memory, wherein shall be inscribed his name, age, and day of his death.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family and commend them to the Holy Spirit of God, who alone can heal a broken heart, or satisfy a longing soul.

Respectfully submitted,

F. M. Woods,
Chmn. Com.

The Sentinel is glad to learn that the Baptist denomination of Calera have about perfected their arrangements to rebuild their church. It will be remembered that their church, which was the largest and one of the handsomest church buildings in our town, was destroyed by fire about a year ago. Since that time the members of this church, though comparatively few in number, have been steadily at work to rebuild their house, and since Rev. W. B. Carter became the pastor, a few weeks ago, they have redoubled their efforts, with his hearty cooperation, and most gratifying results have crowned their efforts. It has not been decided as yet, we understand, whether the new building will be erected on the same old lot or whether a different location will be secured. However, it has been decided that the work of rebuilding will begin at an early day. The Sentinel hopes that every assistance and encouragement will be given by all our people to this good cause and that the day is not far distant when our Baptist friends will again have a beautiful and comfortable house of worship in Calera.

The Youth's Companion begins 1897 with an unusually good New Year's Number. It is especially strong in story features. A New Serial, "Track's End," by Hayden Carruth, describes the adventures of a boy who was the only inhabitant of a little Dakota town all one winter: "Lon's Triumph" is an absorbing and sympathetic tale of school life, by Mary B. Downs; "Her Majesty's Feather Bed," by Annie Hamilton Donnell, sets forth the good sense with which a bright New England girl turned an embarrassing situation to her own advantage: "Afloat on Ice in Lake Superior" is a situation pleasanter to read about than to experience. C. J. Stone is the author. In addition to the fiction, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts gives the readers of The Companion an entertaining and instructive glimpse of "The Daily Life of a Senator." The paper is brimful of good advice, useful information and amusing anecdote. It is astonishing that a paper containing such excellent matter written by men and women whose work commands such high prices, can be sold for $1.75 a year. But this is the real explanation of its enormous circulation. The New Year's edition is 650,000 copies. For prospectus for the Volume for 1897, printed in many beautiful colors, address The Youth's Companion, 249 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and sending pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. For a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail, mention this paper and send your full postoffice address to Dr. Kilmor & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. BIGGEST GRAVE MONUMENT.

Daniel Moriarity Starts a 375-Tonner for His First Wife.

Daniel Moriarity, a retired New Orleans grocer, now living in Alameda County, California, is a happy man at last, or nearly happy, for after visiting all the quarries and cemeteries in the United States, he has found people willing to fulfill the desire of his heart, and he will soon be the owner of the largest graveyard monument in the country, and probably the largest in the world. It will weigh 750,000 lbs., and when everything has been paid for it will have cost over $50,000.

The monument is not for himself, however. It is to be erected in honor of his first wife, to whom he says his present affluence is due, and after her, in honor of his father, Joseph Moriarity, who died in New Orleans in 1853. His first wife has been dead eighteen years, and Mr. Moriarity has taken upon himself another and moved to the Pacific coast. He came to America when a boy, and got into the grocery business. His boss was a widow, Mary Farrell by name, who fell in love with him and took him into partnership for better or worse and the success of the grocery business.

Daniel Moriarity waxed rich. Mrs. Moriarity gave herself up to domestic duties and died. Daniel grew richer and richer, but in the days of his prosperity he remembered the cause thereof, and with the aid of Mrs. Moriarity No. 2 he determined upon a fitting memorial. When the plan was all worked out, it was found that the memorial would be large enough to stand for his father, too.

Here are the parts and their dimensions: On a foundation of fifty-foot piles there rests a concrete block thirty feet square and six feet deep. Next comes four slabs, two of them 30x8 1-2x1 and the other two 13x8 1-2x1. These will be laid so as to form a square 13x13, which will be filled with concrete. Then comes the base stone, 14x14x3, weighing about fifty tons. Next are two courses of granite about twenty tons each, which support the die stone, eight feet high by six feet in diameter, paneled on four sides, at the joining of which will be granite columns with Corinthian capitals. Upon each column will be a statue carved in Wesley granite—Faith, Hope, Charity, Temperance.

Then comes the great shaft of Barre granite, four feet at the base and tapering to two feet. This will be surmounted by a simple granite cross, making the total height of the monument seventy feet.

The lot on which it will stand faces Central avenue in Metairie Cemetery, New Orleans. It is the finest situation within the grounds, and is the one which was chosen by the South to receive the remains of Jefferson Davis.—New York Press.

Gave Himself Away.

In a letter that recently reached this country, written by one of Queen Victoria's soldiers, who was with his regiment marching against the Derivishes in the Egyptian campaign, is a little amusing story of a certain soldier who disliked the intense heat of the country and sought in every kind of way to obtain some excuse for quitting the service. It seems he complained to the doctor of his eyes, claiming that he was so near-sighted that he could not hit with safety fire off his gun for fear of hitting a comrade instead of an enemy.

"Dear me," said the doctor, "that is a serious matter. Now tell me what you mean by near-sighted."

"Well, sir," said the soldier, and he looked around thoughtfully as if in search of some idea, "it is an example you want? Ah, I have one. Can you see that pin lying in a corner over there?"

"Why, yes! And I should say it required excellent eyesight to see it, too," replied the doctor.

"Well, that's my trouble, sir; I can't see it."

The poor man is still wondering why he is not sent back to the home station.—Harper's Round Table.

DIDN'T LIKE DOGS.

Visitor—Does your dog know any tricks?

Boy—Lots of 'em.

I should like to see some of them. Can you make him lie down and pretend to be dead?

Easy. Down, Towser, down! Now be dead! There!

Fine, very fine! Please keep him that way until I leave.

OUR OWN STATE.

Interesting Happenings Throughout Alabama.

Montgomery.—State Treasurer Geo. W. Ellis has authorized the statement to be made public that "the State Treasurer will begin sending out school money, due January 1, on next Wednesday, the 13th inst." That it will take several days to get all of it out, probably until Saturday, the 16th.

The Supreme Court adjourned at a late hour Friday evening, after a hard week's work, finishing up the call of the Seventh Division.

The Fourth Division was called this week.

The following bids have been filed in the Governor's office for the Agricultural School, to be established in the Fifth District.

Dadeville offers, first: School lot and college building, valued at $7,000; second, furniture valued at $500; third, eighty-six acres of land, valued at $1,500; fourth, $5,000 in money.

Alexander City offers school lot building and eighty acres of land and $2,000 in money.

Wetumpka offers, first, one school building, nearing completion, and a two-acre lot valued at $3,500; second, eighty acres of land, valued at $2,800; third, $2,500 in money.

Other bids are expected, and the contest for the college will be lively.

THE SEMMES MONUMENT.

Mobile.—The ladies of Mobile have determined that no longer shall the unsightly, unfinished monument to the memory of Admiral Semmes remain a blot on the fair name of Mobile. Many futile attempts have been made to finish this monument, but the women of Mobile have now perfected an organization having the completion of the monument as their primary object. These women do not intend to rest from their labors until they have accomplished this object. They believe, nor is their faith groundless, that in less than six months will their work be crowned with success. The officers of the association known as "The Ann T. Hunter Branch" of the Raphael Semmes Camp United Confederate Veterans, are Mrs. E. B. Vaughan, president; Mrs. W. T. Abrahams, vice-president; Mrs. E. W. Christian, treasurer; Mrs. R. L. Sheridan, Jr., corresponding secretary.

THE MINING INDUSTRIES.

Birmingham.—The coal output in this district has increased very considerably the past two weeks. Work at the mines is much brisker. It is stated that export coal is being mined at Blocton. The miners have gotten down to work after enjoying the holidays, and the mines are quite the busiest place in the district.

The iron and coal outputs for the year 1895 will not present as good a showing as might be desired. The latter will be found a half million tons short of the year 1895, and the iron output will also be found to be probably somewhat short. The iron output in other parts of the country will, however, present the same showing, and the Birmingham district has no reason to complain in comparison.

WILL SOON BE READY.

Blocton.—The bridge over the Cahaba River, on the Southern Railway, which went down with a passenger train of the Birmingham Mineral, causing the death of more than a score of people, will be ready for travel again by next Saturday. This information has been given out by the Superintendent of the bridge gang, now at work at the place. The bridge is being replaced in a most substantial manner, and everything will be ready by the end of the week. There has been a little inconvenience experienced since the bridge went down on account of having to carry coal and other freight from this place bound for Mobile and other parts in that locality and by that way around by Bessemer and Grace's.

DEAD COMES TO LIFE.

Union Springs.—Ritch Jordan was captured near here Friday. It will be remembered that Jordan was taken by a mob from Deputy Kirkland as the train was near Mitchell Station in this county, on August 24, 1894.

While en route to the penitentiary, Governor Jones then offered a reward for the mob and negro's body, for the latter was supposed to be dead. All here have believed him dead for the past two years. Ritch was captured by Deputies Kirkland and Guy Ritch and kept in jail last night. He tells all about his escape from the mob while handcuffed with Riley Walker.

EUFULA MERCHANT FAILS.

Eufaula.—Mr. R. D. Powell's store was closed Friday afternoon. Sheriff Lasseter locked the doors and took the keys.

Mr. Powell was first attached by Mr. Balkum, of Quitman County, and Mr. Will Russell, for an aggregate amount of $1,200. When this was done he made an assignment of the balance of his stock and effects for the benefit of all his creditors alike.

POSTOFFICE BURGLARIZED.

Evergreen.—The postoffice here was burglarized Friday night. About $500 worth of stamps and $2 in money were taken. The thieves, no doubt, mistook the stamp case for the cash drawer.

HE FEARS VIOLENCE.

Selma.—Hon. W. F. Aldrich fears violence. At least he went to Chief Dawson and laid his troubles before him. Congressman Aldrich said he had been informed that an effort would be made to break up the taking of evidence in Selma, and that he wanted police enough on hand to prevent trouble.

Chief Dawson told him that there was not a particle of foundation for his fears; that the people of Selma were not thinking about the matter, and did not care how much testimony he took. Of course, he was promised the protection that he asked for.

STRUCK BY MAIL CRANE.

Verbera.—Mr. E. L. Watts, a well-known and popular engineer on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, met with a peculiar and painful accident here. He was on train No. 15, and ahead of No. 3, the South-bound passenger train. Just before coming into Verbera he put his head out of his cab window to see if his train was all right, when he struck the mail crane. He had presence of mind to stop his train, and it was thirty minutes before he was able to sit up again.

THE REAR GUARD.

Is What Mr. Washburn Styles the Democratic Party.

Boston, Mass.—George F. Washburn, member of the People's party National Executive Committee, has issued an address to the Populists of the United States. In part the address is as follows:

"We are to be congratulated upon the growth of our party and the fact that in the recent election nearly one-half of the voters of the Union endorsed our platform. No party ever achieved more brilliant success in so brief a time. Although handicapped in the late campaign, we emerge from the contest stronger than ever. Our party alone has a voting force larger than that which elected Lincoln, and an able, effective reform press of nearly 2,000 papers. We elected several Governors, as well as hundreds of other State, county and town officials. We hold the balance of power in the United States Senate, and have four times as many Congressmen as ever before. We united with the silver forces in the recent campaign, not because we believe free coinage of silver is the solution of the financial problem, but because it would better existing conditions, would meet with the least resistance, and would become the entering wedge for our main issue, viz: Full legal tender paper money issued and regulated by the Government alone. Having proved our loyalty at the polls, we are free to act separately on advanced lines and to emphasize the real issues our party was born to advocate. We cannot in honor lay down our arms and cease our activity until the war for which we are enlisted has ended in victory for our cause.

"The Democratic party proposes to continue the silver fight. Two parties cannot exist on the same issue. The greater absorbs the smaller. Therefore, if we remain mere camp-followers of another party, disintegration will result. Our party success alone forced the Democrats to adopt the Chicago platform and nominate a Popocrat for president. Converts made by our party regularly can not be trusted with the reforms in future.

"We are not Democrats, and cannot be classed as such. We simply united for a single campaign. The Democratic party is but the rear guard of our own. We do not stand for redemption money, but for the scientific dollar, kept invariable by proper regulation of the money volume. Then why should a high school graduate re-enter the intermediate grade? Our grandest achievements are in the future.

"The proposed retirement of the greenbacks and the discussion of the Pacific Railroad question will bring before Congress the two strongest measures of our platform, and, whatever issues the other parties may adopt, the logic of events will so force upon both Congress and the people the consideration of these measures as to overshadow all others and win to our ranks thousands of voters from both the Republican and Democratic parties.

"I suggest that a national conference of party leaders and workers be held as soon as practicable, that we may have a full and free expression of opinion regarding our future work. We hope, therefore, that the reform press will give the fullest possible expression of our views on this important subject; and our friends are invited to write me or our National Chairman, expressing their ideas on the independent party action herein proposed."

DEFIED THE LAW.

Brookville, Ky.—Robert Laughlin, who killed his wife and Mary Jones, his niece, near Augusta, was hanged in the jail yard here at 9:27 o'clock Saturday morning. The yard was fenced in with high boards to prevent the hanging from being public. A big crowd was on the outside, and despite the efforts of fifty special policemen and deputy sheriffs, the fence was destroyed by the time the prisoner mounted the scaffold, and everybody present saw Laughlin drop through the trap.

DEATHS FROM CHOLERA.

London.—The transport ship Nubia, from Calcutta, has arrived at Plymouth. Five deaths from cholera occurred on board the ship during her passage.

A TALE OF FRONTIER LIFE.

RECOLLECTIONS RECALLED BY INDIAN INCURSIONS.

What a Lowell Reporter Discovered in the Historic Town of Dunstable—Miraculous Escape From a Miserable Existence of a Descendant of One of the Pioneer Warriors of Colonial Times—The Talk of the Neighborhood.

From the News, Lowell, Mass.

Mr. Hiram Spaulding, who was for many years the proprietor of the Massapog House, a Boston summer resort, is undoubtedly as well known as any man in Middlesex County. Mr. Spaulding, besides having been a popular hotel man, boasts of being a lineal descendant of John Spaulding, a well known soldier who was killed in action with the Indians while serving in the command of the famous Captain John Tyng in 1804. He also is well known as the first leader of the celebrated Dunstable Cornet Band, of Dunstable, Mass., familiarly known as the "mounted band." Altogether Bandmaster Spaulding is perhaps the best known citizen in town, and respected everywhere for his uprightness and sterling character.

Mrs. Nellie A. Spaulding is the wife of this gentleman, and almost as well known as her popular husband. A recent severe illness from overwork and malaria caused grave fears among her numerous acquaintances, and the local physicians seemed powerless to aid her. Chills and fever, impaired action of heart and liver, and general weakness were her portion, until her attention was called to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and she began to use them. On Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 7, 1896, Mrs. Spaulding finished the first box of Pink Pills, and she informed the News reporter that on that day she performed one of the hardest day's work ever accomplished by her. She is still taking Pink Pills according to directions, and all traces of malarial poison seem to have vanished.

"No one was more astonished at my recovery than my husband and my neighbors, and they are not surprised," said she, "to find in me such a champion of what is destined to become a household medicine, the precious Pink Pills."

At the request of Mrs. Spaulding, the News reporter called on several persons in the town of Dunstable, all highly respectable ladies of prominence in the community; he found them using "Pink Pills" with good results, and after a fair trial will (so they thought) be ready to add their testimonials to that of Mrs. Spaulding as to their medicinal and curative worth, especially in chronic cases of nervousness.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of a grippé, palpitation of the heart, pale and low complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

until, to quote his own words, "I read about them on the slate from Spirit Side. I then got one of our druggists to order some of them. POOR MAN'S ENCYCLOPEDIA might well be the name of the 820-page book sent postpaid for 50c. in stamps by the BOOK PUBLISHING HOUSE, 134 Leonard Street, N. Y. City, for it serves the purpose of the great encyclopedias costing a hundred times the 50c. asked. It is completely indexed, making the information instantly available. With this valuable book you have a world of knowledge at your fingers' ends, and can easily supply a lack of early educational advantages. When reading, don't you constantly come across references you fail to understand? Isn't 50c. a small amount to pay for having such knowledge at hand? Do you know who Cressus was, and where he lived? Who built the Pyramids, and when? That sound travels 113 feet per second? What is the longest river in the world? That Marco Polo invented the compass in 1260, and who Marco Polo was? What the Gordian Knot was? The book contains thousands of explanations of just such matters as you wonder about. Buy it at the very low price of half a dollar and IMPROVE YOURSELF. 50c.

Thy Country.

'Tis with thy country thou must rise or fall:
Heed thou thy country's call!
The blood of patriots crimson all her elds—
Her cause is thine, and God's.
Still be thy breast brave in her right to bleed—
Thy dream should be thy deed.
Upon her altars still thine eyes should see
The fires of Liberty.
Flame in their bannered-beauty to the breeze,
Lighting the farthest seas.
Bright, though stars perish and the sun sink blind,—
A beacon to mankind!
Be thou firm-sworn her foes shall only tread
To triumph o'er her dead;
Content to find where'er her flag shall wave
Thy glory or thy grave!

The Old Woman's Money.

We sat in the little frontier hotel at Pine Ridge Agency that stormy December night in '90. There were a number of us—all newspaper correspondents—and a few interpreters, officers and reservation employees. The days previous had been full of excitement for the Brule and Ogallala Sioux were engaged in the Ghost Dance or Messiah Craze. About the Agency General Miles had grouped some 1,500 troops; beyond their white tents clustered the dingy tepees of the Indians, some 800 of them.

We greatly enjoyed those evenings in the hotel. They brought back to memory pictures of the old West—staging, buffalo hunting, Indian fighting. And what a fund of information the scouts, interpreters and "old timers" poured into our willing ears! Each one could have talked all night, and yet left the narration of his experience unfinished then. We were especially interested in the singular career of B. He had left a home in Connecticut, and after varied experiences in Iowa and Nebraska joined a company of miners, and with them entered the new mining camp of Deadwood. He was then but seventeen years old. That same winter he carried the first mail out of Deadwood to the Missouri river.

B. joined our circle while a scout was relating some experiences with stage robbers in the early seventies, and immediately entered into the conversation.

"So far as I know the smoothest trick, prompted by a desire to save money, ever played upon stage robbers occurred near Miles City in '79. A load of passengers were almost within sight of the town. They had been traveling all day and were worn out, for the roads were awful bad in those days and all coaches bounced and swayed very much. Having come near their journey's end they were congratulating themselves. Hold-ups had been frequent. Two heavily armed messengers accompanied each coach, with orders to fire on any person acting suspiciously.

"Dear me!" said an elderly man near the door, "I'm glad we are safe. I have about $500 and if I lost it I don't know where I could get more."

"I can get plenty of money," said a traveling salesman, "but the loss of what I have would put me to much trouble out here among strangers."

"Two miners and a prospector, each with large rolls, expressed their satisfaction at passing dangerous points safely. The next speaker was a little old woman, kind and motherly in her ways.

"My boy has started a restaurant in town and is doing well. He wanted me to come and help, so here I am, goodness knows far enough away from dear old Ohio. I thought he would need his mother, for these mining towns are wild, I hear, and full of temptations. I have only got $200. It's all the cash I have in the world. Fearing robbers I have put it in a place where no one would think of looking. You cannot guess where?" Of course the guesses were all wrong.

"Well, I have four $50 bills against the sole of my foot inside my left shoe!"

"Capital!" said the elderly gentleman. "No one would ever think of looking for money in your shoes." In the far corner of the front seat sat a small, slender, black-haired man. He kept between his feet a little black valise. No one spoke to him during the journey and he made no sound save occasionally to cough in a peculiar manner. Some of the passengers thought him to be a consumptive. Even when general good-fellowship prevailed he took no part in the conversation. Making bold, the old lady said:

"And you; what would you do if you were held up?"

"A hollow cough and a shrug of the shoulders was all his reply

"What a mean fellow!" thought the old gentleman. At this instant the coach lurched violently to one side and bang, bang, bang, came the sudden reports of guns! One messenger was shot, the other compelled to throw up his hands before time for resistance, and consternation and terror prevailed within the coach.

"Lord, Lord!" prayed the elderly man.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear!" cried the woman.

"Hustle up here, git out," and one of the robbers held the door open with his left hand while he covered the passengers with the revolver in his right. Of course they all filed out and were stood up in a row. There was much trembling on the part of the men and the poor old woman wept audibly. It only took a few moments to go through the pockets of the line and to investigate the messenger's small safe. Probably the road-agents would have taken to the hills at this moment had not one of them beheld the frail figure within the coach.

"Hold on, boys; here's one we forgot," and he started in with an oath to drag forth the consumptive. As he entered a most plaintive, cough-interupted voice greeted him, and, tough as he was, he paused.

"Please don't make me get out. I am very sick. I will die, I know. If you will only let me be I will tell you where you can get $200 which you have overlooked. I have no money, but I know where the $200 is." The robbers outside, having heard the shrill, penetrating voice, glanced at each other. The leader called out to his fellow within the coach: "All right, Bill; find out where them two hundred is and let the pore chap alone. We got to be skipping out."

"The piping voice took courage. 'Gentlemen, if you will ask that old lady to remove her left shoe you will find the money.'

"The men began to mutter and scowl. The drummer even found courage enough to say it was a shame to rob a poor old woman of her last dollar, and no one but the most depraved sort of a road-agent would be guilty of such an act. The leader walked up to the drummer, slapped his face and tickled the end of his nose with the muzzle of his six shooter. The drummer discreetly held his tongue until the thieves were gone.

"It was with sighs and sobs that the old lady seated herself on the ground, took the shoe from that foot and handed up her last dollar. In a twinkling it was pocketed and the outlaws jumped for their horses and were gone.

"What a hubbub broke out when the people found themselves alone once more! With one accord they assailed the man within the coach.

"Oh, you villian, you wretch, to tell them of my money!" cried the woman as she shook him by the shoulders. The drummer entered at this moment. He had been talking to the other men of the party in low tones.

"Just step out, madam, we want to talk with him," he said. She obeyed and several entered. It was noticed that the driver had his reins in his hands and one end of them looked suspiciously like a noose.

"You rascal," said the driver, "to have deliberately given this woman's money over to those outlaws! We'll make short shift of you," and he threw the noose over the man's head. There was a desperate struggle for a moment, and then the noose fell down clean cut through. It was seen that the little man had a bowie in his hand. He spoke in a different voice this time.

"For God's sake, don't bother me here. You can hang me at Miles City as well as here. It's only a little way; I shall not escape. When we get there I will have something to tell you, which will explain my action. A man always has a right to have a fair hearing before he is hung, and I claim that privilege."

"Well, we can watch him that far," said the drummer, "we can hang him there as well as here."

"Some one helped the driver with the body of the messenger, and the coach started for town. The drummer, the miner and several others watched the little man intently, but he made no movement nor did he speak until the coach lumbered up in front of the postoffice and hotel; then he said in a quiet voice:

"I am Tom—" (one of the famous men of the Black Hills), "and I have $40,000 in this grip. The only way to save it was by telling the robbers of the old woman's money. I am glad to return it to her and a stake extra for the worry I caused her. As for the rest of you, I have nothing to do with your losses. We all ran the same risk. I wish you good evening," and he stepped quickly from his seat to the door and into the street, dropping a bundle of bills into the lady's lap as he passed."

And after lighting his pipe our storyteller passed out into the night and wended his way to his humble cabin.—New York Tribune.

Wheelbarrows.

It might seem that a wheelbarrow was a very simple thing, but wheelbarrows are made in many different styles and for a wide variety of uses. Wheelbarrows are made of wood, of iron, and of steel. Much the greater number are made of wood, but the number of metal wheelbarrows used is all the time growing, and among these the proportion of steel wheelbarrows is constantly increasing.

The wheelbarrows of which the greatest number are sold are of the kinds used by contractors on canal and railroad work. Next to these in numbers sold are the wheelbarrows made for mining uses, and after them come the wheelbarrows made for farm purposes. And there are wheelbarrows made especially for sawdust, for oysters, for sand, and for stone; wheelbarrows for chemical works, wheelbarrows made to carry leaves in, and wheelbarrows for green brick and for dry brick, and wheelbarrows for malt and for corn, and for staves or bark, and wheelbarrows for pig metal, and for coke, and for mortar.

Most wheelbarrows have but one wheel, but some are made with two wheels, and some with three, and some with four; and there are wheelbarrows that are made with springs; and there are some kinds of stone barrows that are made without legs. Many of the regular styles of wheelbarrows are made in various sizes, and wheelbarrows are also made for special uses.

A great many thousands of wheelbarrows are used in this country and other thousands are exported. The United States sends wheelbarrows to all the Spanish-American countries and to South Africa and Australia.—New York Sun.

Caring for the Birds.

The temporary organization of the Pennsylvania Audubon Society, the object of which is to prevent the destruction of native wild birds, has been completed. The members of the society pledge themselves not to use feathers of wild birds for ornamentation, and to encourage the protection of native birds. A circular sent out by the society states that several species of wild birds, including the heron, egret and tern, have already been exterminated by the demands of fashion.—Philadelphia Record.

N. A. GRAHAM,.....EDITOR.

CALERA, ALA., FEBRUARY 18, 1897.

COVINGTON, KY., Feb. 9, 97.

To Editor Shelby Sentinel.

A visitor to Kentucky who voted in 1860 for Bell and Everett, and who looks back on that vote with more pleasure than any of a life time; naturally thinks what would the advice Washington, Clay, Hamiltion and Robt. E. Lee be, if we had a telephone to heaven, and could get a message from these four great men, telling us—the people of this republic the duties of today.

It is well that the great men of the past, for as Gen. Lighthorse Harry Lee said in his eulogy on Gen. Washington "to be truly great you must be truly good," have left us an example in their acts as to our duty. and their advice, if we could get it, would be summed up in a few words: "Be honest, brave and truly patriotic."

Political parties are made for the promotion of what the people will be to their interest. but political leaders often looking only to their own good and sometimes being gifted with eloquence and courage and being natural born leaders of men, succeed in deluding their followers and get them to follow the wrong road in order that the leaders may get political power.

As long as human nature is made of the material that now composes it there will be wrongs to remedy. In the 6th chapter of Genesis, 6th verse you will see "And it repented the Lord that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at heart."

I think he made a great mistake; but we are here and until old Gabriel sounds the assembly for us to answer roll call in Heaven we have duties to perform which we cannot neglect without being cowards.

When President Davis had on nearly every passenger train a provost guard to arrest all men without a pass, and Mr. Seward "could by tapping his little bell have any man at the North arrested by his spies," republican government as founded by Washington, Hamilton, Adams, Madison, Jefferson, Franklin and their great compeers was dead and it has not been resurrected.

But the states still have the right of habeas corpus and the spirit of the great men in the past still lives in many men in all states of the republic who would be glad to see peace and prosperity return, and all men who are willing to work be given work at fair wages.

I think the highest ambition of a woman ought to be, if she is healthy, to be the wife of some honest man and the mother of children, and when you see the women doing men's work it is a sure sign that the men have degenerated.

I don't believe that Eve tempted Adam to eat the apple, for the best women are always conservative.

I have read an account of the creation as taught in India which may be true as to a portion of the human race.

This yarn says that God made a man and a woman and put them on a beautiful island surrounded with everything that could contribute to their happiness and that he connected this island with the main land by a narrow causway of rock and told these two people that they must stay on the island and be happy and that the woman wanted to stay, but the man refused and taking his wife on his back he toted her over the causway to the main land when a storm came and destroyed the causway and God punished them for their disobedience.

I believe, like Nott and Gliddon, that wherever God made a soil and climate suitable for the human race that he made people to suit the soil and climate.

If you were to place one thousand white men and one thousand white women of the caucasian race in the centre of Africa and destroy all the negroes on that continent and go back there in a thousand years. If the climate did not destroy the white people you would still find the caucasian race.

If you were to place 1000 negro men and 1000 negro women in Greenland and destroy all the esquimaux and let the negroes stay there 1000 years with no intercourse wite white people, and if negroes could live there their descendants would be negroes.

It would be as absurd to give the suffrage to mules and have the mules mounted by monkeys and pin a ballot to the mules tail and let the monkeys make a charge on the ballot box and there deposit their vote as to give the ballot to negroes.

If a crazy fool had not killed Lincoln I do not believe that negroes ever would have been made voters. They ought to have been let alone in Africa to relieve the monotony of a diet on snakes and such like with an occasional baked missionary; for while there are so many thousands of heathens here, foreign missions I look on as the height of hypocrisy.

The good times promised by the republican party have not come, and while there will be an improvement in trade this republic can not be developed until we return to first principles and give all the states all the rights in the Union that they are entitled to under the constitution as it existed before the civil war.

Alabama needs a new constitution no doubt, but I doubt if a new constitution at the present day would pay for the expense of making it. We don't need negro suffrage at all and it would be much better for the South if they got rid of all the congressmen whose positions are predicated on the negroes being counted as citizens, but if Alabama does have a new constitution she should provide for the charter of a state bank. We have not half enough currency in the country and before we have prosperity I think that the ten per cent tax on currency will have to be repealed by the U. S. government and that the government will have to coin all the gold and silver they can get hold of.

If we could stop the general government issuing money and create a United States Bank there would be, in my opinion, no use of repealing the law making gold the standard, for with every state having the right of managing its own finances by means of a bank, and with a United States bank run by a corporation like the bank of England and the bank of France to take the place of the National banks, Trade would revive and we would realize that we had ample room in this republic for $400,000,000 people and that we need not stop a white man from coming to the United States because he was a pauper. We would have, I believe, if we would be guided by the honesty that existed in the days of John Quincy Adams, peace and prosperity for all men that are willing to work.

If Alabama does adopt a new constitution it should create the township system that exists in New England.

What we need is home rule and white supremacy. The convention that created our National Constitution labored from May until September in Philadelphia and that convention was composed of men, who with Washington as their President will be honored for thousands of years for their noble unselfish patriotism and honesty.

We of Alabama, if we make a new constitution, should not go at it in a hurry as a job to be done in a month, but should take at least three months to consider all the best models and we should endeavor to find the best men possible to make our new charter.

State Herald:

Hon. H. L. McKee, president of the Alabama Commercial association, was in the city yesterday, circulating among his host of friends. Mr. McKee has been in Montgomery working very hard to secure the passage of the constitutional convention bill. A State Herald reporter interviewed him as follows:

"What do you think of the result?"

"It will be a great disappointment to many people who entered an earnest expectation that the general assembly would do their duty. To the committee having the matter in charge, as representing the Commercial bodies of Alabama, it has been a disappointment, though at no time were we sanguine of a favorable result.

"The effort was earnest, honest and open. It was made in a non-partisan spirit, but this seemed to avail nothing.

"There can be no let-up on this question, the people will be I card from. Two years from this you will see a different body, who will need no urging to secure a prompt passage of this measure.

"I do not know what course the next convention will take, but I shall advise a thorough organization to this end."

The bill providing for holding of a constitutional convention was defeated in the legislature on Monday last.

Courier-Journal: "It is not necessary," observes a republican contemporary, "to repeal any law in order to nullify President Cleveland's action in reducing the number of pension agencies. All that is necessary is to revoke the order." Precisely; just for instance, as President Harrison revoked President Cleveland's order placing the railway mail clerks under the protection of the civil-service reform laws. If any order be displeasing to a republican office seeker, revoke it at the first opportunity.

An exchange says every paper in the state should publish the fact that burnt corn is a sure cure for hog cholera. It was first discovered by burning a pile of corn belonging to a distillery. It was thrown to the hogs and eaten. Numbers of them had been dying daily, but after eating the corn the disease was arrested and disappeared. This remedy is so simple and cheap it is worth a trial.

A local correspondent of the Chronicle in concluding his weekly report, has this to say of that back tax law: "Mr. Editor, the next time you see Joe F. Johnston, I think they call him governor now, tell him that blue-eyed Dick Clark is watching him and he had better look sharp how he signs up back tax laws. The people will look for men to repeal that law two years hence. Judge Wood is kicking like a bay steer because the people are criticizing the unjust law. It is no doubt a fat job for the judge, there fore he contends for the law. It was thought that Capt. Joe could run the state government without having sixty seven supernumerary feathers stuck on his cap, but he stuck 'em on."

Healthfulness of Powder Works

Apart from the dangers of explosion which, by the way, are less frequent than is generally supposed, gunpowder mills are exceedingly healthful places. Such a thing as a workman dying from consumption is unheard of, the explanation being that the constant breathing into the lungs of dust containing charcoal, sulphur and saltpetre is beneficial to them. Even horses employed in gunpowder mills are found to be fatter and sleeker than those from the same stable worked elsewhere.

It is governed by a President and a council of eight, elected by the people—black and white, men and women. Only white males hold office. The President elected recently is R. D. Polk, a native of Tennessee, and a relative of James K. Polk, one of the Presidents of our own republic.

ARBITRATION TREATY DEAL

Report that Lady Passengers Were Stripped by Spanish Officials to be Investigated.

FOR RELIEF OF SUFFERERS IN INDIA.

Secretary Herbert Authorized to Use a Naval Boat for Transporting Supplies.—Senatorial Dignity Has Another Throw Down.—Opposition to the Monetary Conference Bill.

Washington, D. C.—Special correspondence.—The arbitration treaty is dead for this session of Congress. Despite all the efforts of its friends to patch it up so as to cover its weak points in the hope that this sugar coating would make it palatable to the men with American palates, it is still strongly objected to. The adoption by the Foreign Relations Committee of that amendment specifically declaring that all matters to be submitted to arbitration must be revised by the treaty making the power—the Senate as well as the Executive—would, it was thought, by some of the ardent friends of the treaty, eliminate all opposition. But it soon developed in Saturday's executive session that these hopes had no real foundation. The opposition was apparently as great as before, the opponents of the treaty contending that the amendments submitted did not begin to correct all of the evils in the treaty. No formal vote was taken, but when the executive session was dissolved, it was with the tacit understanding that there will be no further attempts at ratification until the new administration comes in.

Representative Cummings, of New York, has introduced a resolution requesting the Secretary of State to give the House of Representatives any information he may have concerning the incident of the stripping of three lady passengers on board the United States mail steamer Olivette in the harbor of Havana by Spanish soldiers and detectives. The resolution recites that the alleged occurrence was described in a New York paper. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and a report is expected next week. Mr. Cummings said as to the resolution: "If an English woman or an English vessel had been stripped by Spanish officials, and it has been alleged that at American woman was stripped, with forty-eight hours Mora Castle would come down or some apology would be made for it. I doubt if even Japan would have stood it. Furthermore, if the American Government stands it in my opinion, it indicates a total loss of manhood and the keenest sympathy with savage inhumanity."

At Saturday's session of the Senate Mr. Perkins (Rep., Cal.) secured immediate consideration of a joint resolution directing the Secretary of the Navy to employ a naval vessel or chartered ship to convey grain to the famine-stricken people of India. The resolution recites that famine and plague are causing great distress, and the loss of thousands of lives in India that the famine can be in part stayed by sending products of other localities to the distressed districts, and that many of the Western States have contributed grain. The resolution therefore directs the Secretary of the Navy to place a suitable vessel at the service of the authorities of San Francisco, or to charter a vessel of 1,200 to 2,000 tons for the shipment of contributions. The appropriation necessary for expenses is provided. There was no discussion of the resolution and it passed unanimously.

It may become necessary for Major McKinley to speak out if he wishes the monetary conference bill to pass the house, as several republicans in the house are engaged in working up opposition, on the ground that the bill is a snare set for the incoming administration, by Senator Chandler and others who opposed the nomination of Mr. McKinley, and who, it is alleged, do not wish to see his administration succeed. The plainest talker among the opponents of the bill is Representative Hill, of Conn., a republican and a believer in the gold standard, and Representative Brewster, of New York, who shares his views, is a close second.

The amended immigration bill, having passed both branches of congress goes to the President. Before the bill was amended so as to allow the illiterate wives and minor children of immigrants, who complied with the law, to come in, it was semi-officially stated to be the intention of the President to veto the bill, but it is now said that the amendments remove the objectionable features and that he will now sign it.

A record was made by congress the past week in passing bills over the veto of the President. The house passed two, both pension bills, in favor of widows of soldiers who had married again and lost their second husbands by death, and the senate passed the bill, which is now a law, relating to the holding of court in the Eastern Texas district.

President Cleveland has returned from his ducking trip down the river with thirty birds to his credit. He was accompanied by Commander Lamberton, and on the arrival of the Maple at the wharf they were met by a conveyance and driven to the White House. The President, who has been working for a fortnight until nearly 3 o'clock every morning, was much benefited by his outing.

Senator Allen's resolution prohibiting any army or navy officer accepting a gift of value, which he makes no secret of being intended to prevent a Washington residence being given to Gen. Nelson A. Miles as a reward for his services during the Chicago strike, is being much talked about.

STILL POURING IN.

a poor looking lot, evidently fresh Rebels Sink Two Boats.

Vancouver, B. C.—The steamer Empress of China, which arrived at this port from the Orient recently, brought advices as follows:

"Information obtainable about the Philippine rebellion is not of a satisfactory nature, and there is evidence of the work of the censor on the face of all of it.

Spanish troops are still pouring into Manila from Europe about 1,200 per steamer. There must be between 12,000 and 20,000 in the Philippines at the present moment. The fighting has been chiefly in the Province of Bulacan, and nothing but Spanish successes are heard of. Under date of January 4, the following advices have been received:

Since the arrival of Governor-General Polavilla, some forty or fifty rebels have been shot at Manila, including the notable Dr. Bizal. He died very bravely, if somewhat theatrically, dressing himself in his best for the occasion. He wished to have his face to the firing party, but this was not allowed. He refused, however, to kneel down. The impression here is that it was altogether a mistake on the part of the authorities to deal with him as with a rebel. It is generally thought he was more a patriot than a rebel. Dr. Bizal made a long speech before dying.

The rebels have sunk two long-boats at the mouth of the lake, and have stopped navigation as far as that point up the river. Last week a river steamer was received with heavy fire and eighteen shots passed through it, while the saloon was completely riddled. The captain was shot through the neck, and several sailors were also wounded. A column of 500 Spanish troops was completely annihilated in the ambush.

New troops arriving from Spain are a poor looking lot, evidently fresh from the plow, and many seem never to have handled weapons before. It is reported that 150 of them are under arrest for refusing to go to the front and fight.

H. M. S. Daphne and Spartan, French gunboat Coniete and the Japanese cruiser Yushinto are the foreign warships at Manila.

Governor Chen, of Huan, has decided to open the mint for the coinage of silver dollars. Machinery and artisans are now en route from Canton on a gunboat. A Japanese commission of investigation estimates the cost of laying a cable from Japan via Hawaii to San Francisco at $14,080,000, including two steamers. The annual gross receipts are estimated at $1,674,000 and the expenses at $999,000.

CLOUDS OF SMOKE.

Mark the Pathway of Weyler and His Troops.—Acosta Killed.

Havana, Cuba.—General Weyler continues to advance into the Santa Clara Province. He is escorted by Generals Pratts, Gasco and Ruiz, and Colonel Albergotti, Maroto and Rubin, with four and a half brigades of troops. The rebel forces are retiring into the province of Puerto Principe. General Weyler continues destroying all the resources of the enemy found in his path and heavy clouds of smoke point out the route of the troops. All of the huts along the line of march have been burned, and their present occupants ordered to leave the town. Misery and famine prevail throughout the district of Santo Domingo and far to the Eastward.

General Hernandez Velasco has had two engagements with the insurgent leader Caragiano, in the Empress Hills, and also at Brujo, in the Pinar del Rio Province, in both of which the rebels were defeated. The troops seized the insurgent armory on Caoba Hill, in the prefecture of Pinar Diaz, killing the rebel commandant, Captain Acosta.

It was conjectured that he had tried to get at some medicine in the dark.

A German court made an odd ruling this week in a remarkable case of larceny. A man was accused of stealing several thousand amperes of electricity by tapping a light company's wires and using it to run a dynamo. The court, on appeal, ruled that only a movable material object could be stolen, which electricity was not, and, therefore, the man was acquitted.

Big Mountain Slide.

One of the longest mountain flumes yet constructed in this country will soon be completed in the Adirondacks. It is for the purpose of tapping the rich and hitherto inaccessible spruce forest on the tall peak commonly known as "Old Whiteface." This mountain lies just north of Lake Placid, and is more than 5000 feet high. So steep is the side of "Old Whiteface" that until the present season no lumberman has attempted to cut timber there. A wood pulp company of Ausable Forks decide to begin operations on a large scale.

Several hundred men are now employed making a slide two and a half miles long from the mountain side to the Ausable River, below the big falls in Wilmington Notch. This slide, or flume, is three feet wide and three feet deep, and is constructed of two-inch plank supported on a wooden trestle which in some places is nearly 100 feet high. Several ravines of great depth are thus spanned. The outlet of the flume is fifty feet above the high water mark of the Ausable River, and at a place where the river is very deep.

A current of water is passed through the flume by diverting Whiteface Brook from its natural channel, and the incline of the flume gives the flowing water an irresistible impetus. Sticks of spruce timber measuring about eighteen inches in diameter are put in all along the line for a mile down the mountain. A heavy stick started at or near the head of the flume will reach the river in seven and one half minutes. Many Adirondack tourists who have enjoyed the climb to the top of "Old Whiteface" will doubtless hear with regret of his prospective denudation of one of the most picturesque features of the North Woods.—New York Times.

The Mad King Otho.

Mad King Otho, of Bavaria, grows more mad than ever, and his residence at Fuerstenried has lately been surrounded by a second ring of military posts to keep him in safety. Occasionally the monarch drives out in the neighboring forests with a strong guard, but few people ever catch a glimpse of him. His Majesty is in splendid physical health and eats ravenously. He takes his meals alone, but sometimes he will suddenly rush into the room where his suit is dining and clear all sweet things off the table.

The Keeper of Cragie's Cut.

Baxter, the new inspector of the Evansburg & Sauk Center railroad, was not the only person who had been astonished at the first sight of the Cragie's bridge and the rock cut beyond. "L. C. Dolby, Section 27" he had read in his little book with the thumbled blue cover, and he had expected to see a grizzle-bearded man with a rough, red face and a stubby black pipe. For Cragie's was known to be one of the worst sections on the line. Its keeper was required to walk the mile from the end of the long bridge and through the cut twice every day, winter and summer, and it often required a cool head and a vigorous body to dodge the tramp freights that thundered back and forth with seeming disregard for time cards and running rules.

The new inspector had come down from Cragie's walking the whole length of section 27. He had found everything in the best of order, not a bolt loose nor a spike gone and he felt after the manner of new inspectors, like complimenting the vigilance of the keeper.

"Is L. C. Dolby in?" he asked when he reached the keeper's house on the hill.

"Yes, sir, will you walk in?" asked the rosy-cheeked girl who came to the door.

He stepped into the neatest of little sitting-rooms. There were flowers in the windows and a cheery fire on the hearth in front of which a lazy tabby cat yawned a good-humored greeting.

"My name is Baxter, the new inspector, and I wish to see L. C. Dolby, the keeper of 27," he said.

The girl flushed slightly. He observed that her hair was cut short like a boy's and that her chin was firm and sharp.

"I am the keeper," she answered; "my name is Lettie C. Dolby and I've had the place since father was injured last winter."

"That's right, and as good as a man she is, too!" came a gruff voice from the other room.

Lettie flushed again.

"It's father," she whispered; "won't you step in and see him? He's very glad to have visitors."

Baxter had not yet recovered from his shock of surprise at finding that the slim, blue-eyed girl who stood before him was really keeper of Cragie's cut, and he allowed himself to be led into the other room. There, at a big, bright window, sat a man in a rocking chair. His face was of the chalky whiteness that comes from being always indoors, and his lap was spread with a plaid comforter. He looked prematurely old and worn.

"How are you?" he asked. "I'd get up, only—" and he motioned to his crippled legs with a faint smile.

"That's all right," responded Baxter, sympathetically; "keep your seat."

And Baxter, sitting there, heard Lettie explain the condition of section 27, and make her reports as promptly and very much more clearly than any of the keepers he had ever met. She spoke in a frank, almost boyish way, and she understood her words as well as Baxter himself did. Her father sat watching her quietly, adding a word here and there. Presently the clock in the further room struck three, and Lettie started to her feet.

"It's time for me to make the rounds of the section," she said, and a moment later Baxter saw her little form, wrapped in a stout, dark coat, disappear over the brow of the hill toward the tracks.

As he looked back he found Dolby watching him intently. When he caught his eye the cripple leaned forward and touched Baxter's knee.

"There isn't a pluckier girl between St. Paul and Montana buttes," he said, "even if I do say it; who shouldn't?"

"I don't see how she can manage the section," replied Baxter.

"That's what I say," exclaimed Dolby; "it's wonderful," and his pinched face lighted up with a smile that was beautiful to see. "It would go hard with all of us if it wasn't for Lettie."

"How did a girl happen to be appointed to such a place, anyway?"

"She's deserved it," Dolby answered, energetically; "she deserved it. They ain't many people that know all the facts except the superintendent—he knows, and he says Lettie can be keeper as long as she wants to."

"Course you remember the big blizzard that we had last winter—the one that snowed in Evansburg and Brockton and Collinville and killed all the cattle on the Puddin' Bottom ranch. Well, it struck the Cragie country too. Come up over the hill from back of the house early in the morning, and long before 10 o'clock there wasn't a fence to be seen in the country. Lettie's mother said I better not go down to the cut. She was afraid I might get lost. But I'd been to Cragie's on an' on for more'n eight years, and I thought I'd seen the worst the weather could do. So I went down the hill, and before I was ten rods from the house the snow had wiped it out, and all I could see were the whirling drifts and the path for a dozen feet ahead of me. And when I reached the cut there wasn't any cut there. It was filled to the top with snow. I wondered what the limited bound down for Cragie would do. It was pretty sharp and cold when I reached the track this side of the bridge, and I had to get down on my hands and knees and crawl along from tie to tie just like a baby. I was strong in those days, too, only the wind and snow were so terrible that I couldn't stand up. And first thing I knew I had crossed the bare knoll at the bridge approach, and there I was hanging over the edge of the embankment like a bat to a rafter. Slipped before I knew it."

"You're done for, Dolly," I said to myself when I saw how little held me from falling into the chasm. It was 100 feet to the bottom, and jagged rocks all the way down. But I had grit, if I do say it, and I hung there for grim death, with the wind kicking and beating me about like a dead limb. I knew well enough there would be no one to help me, and that I couldn't help myself; but still I hung there. A man doesn't like to be dashed to pieces on a ledge of rocks unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

"Pretty soon I heard the limited squealing down the cut. I knew that Jim Crosby, the engineer, was floundering in the snow. I said to myself that if Jim succeeded in rooting through with his engine I might be saved, but I knew well enough he wouldn't succeed. It would take four engines and two rotary plows to drive a tunnel during such a blizzard. And there she squealed and shrieked for hours, it seemed to me, while my hands and arms grew as numb as clubs."

"And Lettie—what was she doing all this time? When the snow covered the woodshed and began to creep up on the windows she was frightened. 'I'm afraid that father'll never come back,' she told her mother—I heard all about it afterward—and her mother, who's always been fidgety and nervous like, began to walk up and down and wring her hands, not knowing what to do. Twelve o'clock came, and then one. Lettie started up and said: 'Mother, I'm going out to see if I can't find father,' and in spite of all her mother could do she bundled into her cloak and hood and opened the door."

"The snow was up to her waist, but the wind had mostly gone down. In the cut Jimmie Crosby's engine was callin' and screachin' for mercy, and Lettie, when she looked over the cliff couldn't see the train at all—only a big black hole where the smoke from the stack had melted the snow. But Lettie wasn't strong enough to get down to the tracks, for the path was drifted full, and a slim girl like her couldn't venture it without losing her life. She knew well enough that I was down the section somewhere—perhaps out on the bridge. But she didn't give up—not Lettie. There wasn't a man around the place to help—only in the train, and the train was at the bottom of the cut buried in the snow. She thought if only she could get word to Jim Crosby he'd help her, for she knew him well. So she ran and got a coil of rope and tied one end of it to that stubby oak—there you can see it at the edge of the hill—and then she took hold of it and slid into the cut. That took grit—there aren't many men who would have risked it—let alone girls. Of course the snow got into her eyes and nose, and the rocky ledges cut and bruised her, but she never stopped until she was at the bottom. Jimmy Crosby said he saw something floundering in the snow outside of the cab, and then somebody called:

"Jim, oh Jim."

"It was Lettie. They dragged her into the cab, and as soon as she could talk she told Jim that I was lost in the blizzard."

"We'll save him," said Jim, and the fireman agreed to help, and so did a dozen other men who had come down from the train. And Jim, being a good climber, went up the rope hand over hand and helped a dozen or more men to follow him. By this time it had stopped snowing, and the sun shone bright in the west. They walled down through the drifts to the bridge, Lettie following. They tried to leave her at home, but she wouldn't say. "If father's in danger," she said, "I'm goin' to help find him."

"I heard 'em when they reached the bare knoll this side of the bridge. I had booked one leg around a sleeper and I still hung there over the chasm. I don't believe I could have let go. I guess that I was frozen there. I tried to shout and let them know where to find me, but I couldn't get my mouth open. It was clean suffering that. For there was help within reach and I couldn't make a sound."

"But Lettie knew the path I usually took and the first thing I knew she was on her knees at the end of the bridge crying:

"Here he is; oh, father, father."

"After that I don't remember much. Jim said they carried me to the house and laid me on the bed, but I didn't get back to my senses for two or three days."

"I almost forgot to tell you that one of the men who helped was Bradley, the superintendent. When he saw Lettie and heard of what she had done he just took off his hat, this way, and held it before him."

"You're the bravest girl I've ever met," he said."

Dolby paused as if he liked to remember this part of the story.

"The passengers, oh, they escaped by Lettie's rope and were driven into Cragie's. And that night when the superintendent was talking about who should be keeper of section 27, Lettie spoke up, timid-like:

"Mr. Bradley, let me watch it; I can do it almost as well as father."

"The superintendent looked at her for a moment, and then he said:

"I believe you can, Lettie."

"From that day to this L. C. Dolby has been keeper of 27. I've never recovered—my legs and my back—but the doctor still gives me hope. And I couldn't get along without Lettie—"

But the old man's voice broke. Baxter, shaking hands with him silently, went out towards Cragie's where he sent a glowing report of the excellent condition of section 27, L. C. Dolby, keeper.—Chicago Record.

"I want to speak to you about that dog you sold me," said the small man.

"Well, he's all there ain't he?"

"Yes; but you told me he was a hunting dog."

"Not for the world, sir. Not for the world. But I will go so far as to say that I didn't understand that his specialty was hunting a place to lie down and sleep in."—Washington Star.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Montgomery Advertiser, 20th inst:

The General Assembly has adjourned and it was very hard to find a member in the city yesterday.

Among the most important general laws that were passed are the tax commission, the oil and mine inspecting laws, the revenue law amendments, the tax rate, the regulation of insurance business in the state, the prohibition of combinations in rates, the abolishment of the slot machines, the prohibiting of pools and the gambling devices of all kinds, and the last, but not least, is the exemption to capital, not exceeding fifty thousand dollars, invested in the future in the manufacture of cotton in the state.

Among the most important general bills that failed are the calling of a constitutional convention, to give arbitrary powers to the railroad commission, to take the convicts out of the mines and work them on state account, to abolish the lease system, to repeal the Sayre election law, the abolishment of bucket shops and the prohibition of trusts.

The Sayre election law was left as it existed before the meeting of the General Assembly, as was the convict law. The House repealed the Sayre law and reenacted the old law of 1886, but the Senate committee would not have it. The Senate passed Mr. Cunningham's convict bill working by the state, and abolishing the lease system, but the Conference Committee could not agree, and it failed at the last moment.

There were a large number of local bills left on the calendar of both houses while the number of local bills passed is appalling, and leads to the conclusion that something must be done to take this local legislation out of the assembly altogether. Whenever we can have a constitutional convention this will be done.

Prospectors from the North and Northwest are making their appearance every few days in this section. These gentlemen, generally are looking for locations for locating colonies and mostly want several thousand acres of land in a body. There is plenty of land in Alabama advantageously situated for colonizing that can be secured at a low figure and if these gentlemen desiring to establish colonies will bring the right sort of people our citizens will be glad to welcome them and to encourage their enterprises in this direction.

As our citizens are all deeply interested in the municipal affairs of the city, and are worn out with the contention a strife that has prevailed so long in our midst over the municipal offices, and as a remedy has been provided by the legislature to settle all controversy at the ballot box, it behooves every good citizen to cast about among the business men of our town for suitable persons to fill the different offices. The city needs a thorough going practical business man for the office of mayor, and thorough going wide-awake business men for alderman, and in the selection of candidates only such should be chosen. While the Sentinel has no disposition to dictate in the matter, and disclaims any intention in that direction, yet it will exercise the privilege accorded to every other good citizen who feels an interest in the welfare of the town and community, to make suggestions, and we would now suggest the name of Mr. J. R. Pratt, of the Holcomb-Pratt Lumber Company, as in our opinion, the man for Mayor. He would, we believe be the right man in the right place. The Sentinel would be glad to publish suggestions in this line from any of our citizens.

A KIND WORD FOR THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY

Montevallo, Feb. 22, 1897.
Editor State Herald.

Having noticed the correspondence between Prof. J. H. Phillips, superintendent of the public schools and Mr. James Weatherly, attorney for the Southern Railway, I desire space in your columns to add a word, and throw some light on the attitude of this corporation in its dealings with the educational institutions of the south.

At the outset I wish to state that I neither uphold the action of the Southern railway in refusing to pay the tax imposed upon it by the statutes of the state nor do I condemn the efforts of Dr. Phillips and others in attempting to have this tax paid. I know nothing of the merits of the subject, but having brothers, sisters, daughters and friends whose interests would be effected by the closing of the public schools, my sympathy would naturally lie with the side represented by Dr. Phillips. Be this as it may, however, I cannot allow the illiberality of the Southern to be questioned or criticised, without a word in its defense.

Last spring while in Washington, endeavoring to secure the passage of a bill through congress to donate some public land to the Girls' Industrial School at this place, I called, in company with Capt. E. W. Booker, on Mr. W. H. Baldwin, the second vice-president of this road, and gave him a full statement of the condition of this school, and the limited means that we had at our command. I told him of the impoverished condition of our state and the great good such an institution as ours would accomplish. After a patient hearing he asked me what I wanted. I told him our greatest need was an endowment and good and sufficient buildings. He then asked me what I wanted him to do. I told him I wanted him to go before the public lands' committee with us and urge the favorable report of our bill, and then I wanted him to give us free transportation on all the material used in the construction of our buildings. With the most gracious and magnanimous spirit he replied, "Gentlemen, you shall have all you wish. I will go with you at any time before the committee and I will instruct our traffic manager to move all your building material on our line free of charge." The next day, according to arrangement, we called for Mr. Baldwin and took him to the capitol where he made a most excellent representation of our cause, and before we left the room a favorable report had been written on the bill. Six months elapsed before our building begun and some questioned the matter as to whether the Southern would stand to its promise, Mr. Baldwin, in the meanwhile, having resigned his position. On presenting the question, however, to Mr. W. W. Finley, who had taken Mr. Baldwin's place, instructions were immediately given to freight our material free from all points that we desired and at the close of the year the benefits we derived amounted to over $2000. Now I present these facts, not to prejudice the case in point between the schools of Birmingham and the Southern railway, but to show that corporations do have the interests of the people at heart, public opinion to the contrary notwithstanding.

H. C. REYNOLDS,
President Alabama Polytechnic Institute for Girls, formerly the Girls' Industrial School.

The Legislature adjourned on last Thursday night and the law makers have all returned to their homes.

The county of Montgomery is to be congratulated on the manner in which Judge Winter and Hon. A. D. Sayre, contestants for the City Judgeship, have conducted affairs. There is to be no unseemly wrangling, double courts and other vexations. The matter will no doubt be soon decided by the courts as the question rests upon the construction of a statute and a constitutional provision.—Advertiser.

CALERA'S MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

The legislature, at its recent session, enacted a law authorizing the Judge of Probate to call an election for the city of Calera on the first Tuesday in June next, this being the regular time for holding the municipal election, for the purpose of electing a mayor and eight aldermen for the city. This law was asked for by the citizens of Calera for the purpose of avoiding any appearance of illegality in the holding of said election. The disturbed condition of our municipal affairs rendered such a course necessary in the interest of peace and harmony among our citizens. It is to be hoped, now that the time of the election is near at hand, that the contention and strife that has prevailed for some months past, will cease and that quiet and good order will reign until the election settles all differences by calling into office a capable and efficient mayor and council who will conduct the affairs of the city in a conservative, satisfactory and businesslike manner for the succeeding two years. Now that the opportunity is presented for the citizens of the town to settle all differences at the ballot box every law-abiding person, every well-wisher of his home community should patiently abide the result and cease stirring up strife and contention and bad feeling. The election is only three months off as it will take place on the first day of June.

The legislature at its recent session exempted cotton mills in Alabama from taxation for a term of ten years. A wise law.

Evangel Manning is making every effort, it seems, to secure a governmental berth at Washington. He is longing to be Third Assistant Post Master General.

The Ohio river is on a regular boom and much damage is resulting along the river front at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Louisville. Tributaries of the Ohio are also raging floods and the damage to property will reach into the millions.

Birmingham is making extensive preparations for her Mardi Gras festivities and the indications are that all her former efforts will be eclipsed on the present occasion. Next Tuesday and Wednesday is the time. The Magic City will no doubt be thronged with visitors.

Montgomery has one cotton factory that has made $10,000 a year for the past four years, and it will soon have another one, and it is sure to pay better dividends than the old factory because it will have more spindles and be fitted up with the latest and most improved machinery.—Montgomery Journal.

A Birmingham citizen, just returned from New York, says there is great business activity in the metropolis, and that the idle money will soon flow in this direction. A money lender says that money is already easier, and there is no trouble in getting money on good collateral at 8 per cent. Mr. Nat Baxter says every indication points to better times. Dr. Boland says there is more demand for machinery than at this time last year.—State Herald.

A pleasing incident at the close of the recent session of the legislature was the presentation of a handsome gold watch and chain to Speaker Clements by the members of the House. Hon. A. A. Wiley, of Montgomery, made the presentation in an eloquent and appropriate speech.

The agitation in the West for the free and independent coinage of silver appears to be losing ground. The Wyoming legislature has just defeated an unqualified free silver resolution, substituting one in structing the Wyoming delegation in Congress to vote and work in the interest of free coinage of gold and silver by international agreement.—Advertiser.

One of the latest by-products of the steel works is steel wool. It is used in shops as a substitute for sandpaper. It is made of fine steel shavings and looks like wool, and also feels like it. It is sold at from 50 to 75 cents per pound. It is superior to any other substance in polishing. It takes its place with mineral wool, which is made from slag.—State Herald.

Aprpos of the Congress of Mothers lately held in Washington, the Philadelphia Enquirer has this pertinent suggestion: "Now let us have a Congress of Fathers to discuss questions as to the conditions under which a man should wheel the baby carriage, or how that same baby should be cured of its propensity for sleeping all day and lying awake all night. The question of heredity pales before these."

Alabama is a great state. Her future is equally as bright as any state in the Union. It is of recent years that the merits of Alabama have been known to the world. Her unlimited wealth in ores was not even known to her own people. Her healthy climate and vast farming territory had not achieved its present popularity. The glad tidings has gone out, and the state, with its matchless wealth, is known to the world.—Goodwater Advocate.

There was a divorce case tried in North Dakota last week before a jury composed of six men and six women. It resulted in a mistrial—the jury dividing six against six. They wrestled with the case three days with the result as stated. It is said that two marriages will result among the jurors and women from their lengthened and unsuccessful efforts to sever the marital bonds of a couple that had concluded that marriage was a failure.—Selma Times

SIMON.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

On last Saturday morning while Billy Bowden and little Jimmie Graham, of this place, were out rabbit hunting near the residence of Mrs. M. Bowden, an unfortunate accident happened. A rabbit was run from cover and as it ran off Billy Bowden threw up his gun and fired. Unfortunately little Jimmie Graham was in range of his gun at the time and ten or twelve feet away. Some shot struck him on the right cheek entering from the rear and one penetrated the back of his head.

Physicians were summoned at once and every attention given him. The wounds while very painful however proved to be not very serious, though his face may be considerably scarred for a time the indications are that he will soon fully recover from the effects. The escape was a narrow one. Had his position been a few inches further to the right the whole load would have entered his head and the result would probably been fatal; as it was he received only a few scattering shot.

The largest business machine in the world, and its small beginnings, are described by Postmaster-General Wilson in a very interesting article on "Early Days of the American Postoffice," printed in the Washington Birthday Number of The Youth's Companion.

There were many curious things about the postal service in the days when it cost a dollar to send a letter 400 miles, when mails went only once in three weeks, and a postmaster begged that some other person be appointed in his stead, because people disturbed his family by coming into his house to look for mail matter. Mr. Wilson tells many anecdotes of how the business of the postoffice used to be conducted, and how it has grown, in this very readable and practical article in The Youth's Companion.

Probably every gardener has thus thought when his garden has not done well. Why not use a little forethought and send to James Vick's Sons, Rechestr, N. Y., for their Catalogue which contains a list of their excellent field, garden and flower seeds? They are always fresh—sure to germ and grow off rapidly. WASHINGTON LETTER.

Gossipy Correspondence from the Capital City.

WATCHING FOR THE BERMUDA

The Venezuelan Commission at an End.—The Mississippi Choctaws to Participate.—An Alabamian's Complaint.—Secretary Herbert to Open a Law Office.

Washington, D. C.—(Special Correspondence) A sharp lookout is being kept by vessels of the navy and revenue cutter service for the filibusterer, Bermuda, and the appearance of the Indiana off St. John's Bar, Fla., is only another evidence of the precautionary measures adopted. Whether the Treasury Department had any information on the subject has not been ascertained, but it is certain that the officials believe another filibustering expedition is in contemplation, if it has not already been planned.

Instructions have been sent to the Collector of Customs at Jacksonville, with reference to the renewed application of the detained steamer Dauntless, for permission to go to Fernandina on a wrecking trip that the department stands on the grounds previously stated, in effect that unless the owners of the Dauntless make the required legal affidavit that the vessel does not intend to engage in a violation of the neutrality or navigation laws, the vessel must remain in the Collector's custody. This affidavit the owners of the Dauntless refused to make. A combination of the Bermuda and Dauntless is what the treasury and navy officials are seeking to prevent.

All the available vessels of the revenue cutter service, are now engaged in filibustering patrol work, and the Navy Department has increased its force by the assignment of the Marblehead, the Vesuvius and the Indiana.

The Venezuelan Commission terminated its existence at noon, Saturday, when its members, Justice Brewer, Frederic R. Coudert, Andrew B. White, Justice Alvey and President Gilman, accompanied by the Secretary Mallet Prevost, called on the President and delivered its report of the work accomplished in the year of its existence. While the report does not indicate any conclusions as to the merits of the controversy, which led to the appointment of a commission, its work having been stopped before the actual "determination" of a true divisional line between British Guiana and Venezuela had actually been undertaken, it is understood that the enormous mass of evidence collected through the Commission's efforts, will make that decision possible by an impartial court in the future. This evidence which has not yet been printed, is completely arranged for filing in the archives of the State Department, where it will be available for the arbitral tribunal, which meets in Paris in 1898. To-day's visit to the President was brief and marked with cordial expressions of the President's satisfaction.

The Senate has agreed to Senator Walthall's amendment to the Indian appropriation bill, providing that the Choctaw Indians, residing in Mississippi, shall participate in the allotment of the Choctaw lands in the Indian Territory, when it shall be made. This recognizes the contention that the Mississippi Choctaws have lost none of their rights of Choctaw citizenship by reason of having elected to remain there when the remainder of the tribe migrated to the Territory.

Representative Aldrich, of Illinois, who introduced the bill, prohibiting the extended publication of prize fights, by the newspapers of the country, gave out the following recently, which will give some cheer to sporting editors and sporty readers: "I introduced the bill at the direction of the committee. I have no idea that it will be seriously considered, and it will certainly not pass."

No action will be taken by this Congress upon an investigation of the S. Carolina elections. The committee of the House, which has been considering the memorials presented by Congressman Murray, has decided to recommend to the House, that the question be reported to the next Congress for its consideration. A sub-committee of five, consisting of Atwood, Corliss, Aldrich (Ala.), Republicans, and Tucker, and Stallings, Democrats, was selected to make a report to the House. This sub-committee will refer to the House the memorials and the testimony which has been presented to it and will report that a very important question is presented by the statements, which should receive the consideration of the next congress.

Chairman Dingley, of the Ways and Means Committee, announces that it will not be possible to complete and submit a new tariff bill at this session of Congress, and it is quite likely that the majority members will find it necessary to continue their work, without intermission between the sessions in order to have the measure ready for reporting when the extra session shall convene, on or about March 15. The reason for this delay, or rather, cause, is found in that determination of the Republicans to exercise extreme caution in every step, that will likely affect, in any degree, the success of the incoming administration. I have taken occasion to refer to this in former letters, and as the policy of the leaders becomes more apparent, this cautionary measure is made more manifest.

Henry W. McDonald, a planter of Point Clair, Alabama, and who owns a plantation in Cuba, fifteen miles off from Havana, was in this city Saturday, direct from Cuba, where, he says, he was subjected to a series of degradations. He tried without success to see Secretary Olney while here, but will file a written statement of the outrages to which he was subjected, and will ask Representative Stallings, his representative in Congress, to assist him in having the matter investigated.

The Senate Committee on Public Lands has concluded its investigation of the Perrine land grant, and has authorized a report—Which has not yet been prepared—Which will say that the patent was issued by the Interior Department in accordance with the law and precedents controlling in such matters. Senator Tillman, who is a member of the sub-committee, says that attention will be called also to the East Coast Florida Railroad Company's connection with the grant and to the fact that the matter was put through with unusual dispatch.

Two bills introduced by Representative Gillett, of Massachusetts, one of them "to protect State anti-gambling laws from nullification through interstate gambling by telegraph, telephone or otherwise," the other "to regulate interstate transportation of property owned or manufactured by lawful combinations," were ordered to be reported to the House by the Judiciary Committee.

Secretary Herbert announces that he will open a law office here at an early day. The Secretary has been in public life twenty years—sixteen of which as a member of the House of Representatives and four in the Cabinet.

The House Committee on Public Buildings has authorized favorable reports on public buildings as follows: Carlville, Ill., $50,000, and Carrollton, Ky., $25,000.

MURDERED HIS PARTNER.

His Actions Aroused Suspicion and Led to Confession.

Atlanta, Ga.—A special from Harmony Grove, Ga., to the Journal says: Grady Reynolds, a merchant of Belton Ga., was arrested there Friday afternoon, for the murder of his business partner, M. C. Hunt, a prominent citizen of Belton. Reynolds confessed and told the officers that they would find Hunt's body in the Oconee River, about three miles from this place.

Hunt and Reynolds were partners in a store at Belton, and both left that place on Monday, the 15th, on a trading tour. They were in Harmony Grove, trading, last Monday, and went out of town about three miles and spent the night near the Oconee River. That was the last ever seen of Hunt. Reynolds returned to Belton with Hunt's gold watch and pistol, which he claimed he had bought from him, and stated that Hunt had taken the train for Athens.

Reynolds began selling out his goods for almost nothing, and the people of Belton became suspicious and threatened to arrest him. He became frightened and came back to work near the place where he confessed to have killed Hunt. He was arrested there yesterday and carried back to Belton.

INQUIRY AFTER TROOPS.

Secretary of War Wants to Know About Tennessee's Capacity.

Nashville, Tenn.—Adjutant-General Sykes received a telegram from Secretary of War Lamont Friday afternoon, asking how many State troops can be put in the field at once. Adjutant Sykes replied: "Twenty-four hundred men, fully armed and equipped, in twenty-four hours."

Business dispatches have also been received from Washington by bankers, saying that the United States may be obliged to assert itself within forty-eight hours.

Orders were at once given, and the local companies are assembling at the armories. Adjutant-General Sykes may leave for Washington, at the request of the Secretary of War, and Captain H. C. Ward, U. S. A., on detailed duty in this city, has gone to Washington, having been ordered to report at once to the War Department.

A war sentiment exists here, caused by these dispatches and by others from Congressmen and business men in New York, all stating that a crisis seems inevitable, and action may be promptly taken by the Government,

ALABAMA RIPPLES.

The Latest News, Phsy and to the Point, from Our Own State.

New residences are signs of improvement at Rockland.

Tobe Smith, who lives in Barbour County, recovered a stolen horse at Ozark. The thief escaped.

The Confederate Veterans' entertainment at Tuscaloosa was a first-class success.

The dry goods store of O. D. Johnson & Co., at Eufaula, was damaged $5,000 by fire.

Hon. John Turner, State Superintendent of Education, has appointed Mr. Lucien C. Lewis to fill the unexpired term of the late J. C. Williamson, Superintendent for Russell County, who died suddenly several weeks ago. He is a staunch young Democrat of Seale, and will, no doubt, be diligent and faithful in the performance of the duties of the office.

The Philadelphia furnace, at Florence, the largest in North Alabama, was sold in Philadelphia Thursday, and was purchased by E. Cooper Chapley, attorney, representing a number of the stockholders, for $25,000. The plant is worth several times this amount. The purchasers are backed by a large amount of capital, and will probably put the furnace in operation instead of allowing it to remain idle, as has been done for three years.

At 7:45 o'clock Saturday night an unknown white man met with what may be a serious accident at Boyles, on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad. It seems that the man, who is about 30 years old, was walking along the center of the track in an intoxicated condition, when train No. 123, South-bound, overtook him. He was struck on the forehead, put above the right eye, and knocked unconscious. He remained unconscious for several hours, and was in that condition at last report.

Judge W. J. Wood, assignee of the Florence Land, Mining and Manufacturing Company, has called a meeting of the stockholders of said company, to take place at Florence on April 5. This meeting will determine in accordance a recent decree of the Chancery Court, whether the stockholders will avail themselves of the option given them in the decree of paying off the indebtedness of the company by May 1, thereby discharging the trust and resuming possession of the property. In the event the stockholders fail to avail themselves of the option given in the decree, the assignee will convey the property to the creditors upon receiving receipt in full of all debts. The indebtedness is about $60,000.

Petitions both for and against the commutation of the death sentence of Colin Daughdrill, who is to hang at Gadsden, next Friday, and is in jail in Birmingham, for safe keeping, are being circulated and signed. Daughdrill is a young man highly connected. One night in December, 1895, while drunk, he shot and killed J. F. Bates, a Montgomery drummer, in a saloon at Gadsden, without provocation. Bates was taking an order for bottles from the saloon keeper when Daughdrill came up and interfered. Bates objected, and Daughdrill killed him. The murdered was under bond at the time for having killed another man. Daughdrill's only chance for life now is through interference by the Governor, and his friends are doing all in their power for him. On the other hand the Travelers' Protective Association, who prosecuted the case, as well as others, are urging the Governor against commutation. They even ask that aid be sent to Gadsden to see that the order of the court is carried out, which has given rise to the belief that some of Daughdrill's friends may attempt to prevent the execution if there is no commutation. It is thought Governor Johnston will keep his hands off.

Governor Johnston eased the anxiety of thousands of people in Alabama by announcing the appointment of the Board of Convict Inspectors: President—S. B. Trapp, of Anniston, Calhoun County.

Physician Inspector—Dr. Blake, of Clay County.

Associate Inspector—E. W. Booker, of Calumetown, Perry County.

There were some eighty applicants, and a vigorous race was made by twenty-five or thirty. The Governor has worked industriously for ten days on the matter, and his selection is believed to be a particularly fortunate one.

Mr. Trapp is a man of recognized business ability. He has, for a good many years, been a member of the big wholesale firm of Trapp & Comer, and has accumulated a competency. It is believed he will do the State splendid service as the head of the Convict Department. He is a true blue Democrat and silver man, and was president of the Johnston Club at Anniston. The fact that the recent appointment of Colonel Crook, of Calhoun, as the president of the Railroad Commission, makes Mr. Trapp's appointment all the more complimentary, coming as he does from the same county.

Dr. Blake is one of the most foremost physicians in Eastern Alabama. He has been a working Democrat all his life, and was an enthusiastic Johnston man.

Everybody knows Captain Booker. He is one of the best Democrats and most popular citizens of Alabama, and his appointment has all along been a foregone conclusion.

M'COOK DECLINES.

Will Not Serve as McKinley's Secretary of the Interior.

New York, N. Y.—The Evening Sun says:

"It is announced in the city that Col. John J. McCook has positively declined to enter the Cabinet of President McKinley as Secretary of the Interior."

"The announcement is also made that while Gen. Stewart L. Woodford is still a candidate for a Cabinet position with indorsement of the regular Republican organization. The chances are that New York will not be represented in the Cabinet."

"When Major McKinley first asked Colonel McCook to become a member of his Cabinet no particular portfolio was mentioned. A friend of Col. McCook said that he expected that he would be asked to serve as Attorney-General, and this place he would have accepted."

"But within a day or two the Colonel received a letter asking him to accept the post of Secretary of the Interior. This, it is understood, he promptly and positively declined."

CAPTURE OF A CROOK.

Mayfield, Ky.—John O'Flanigan, the noted book agent crook, wanted in many places was recently captured at Jackson, Tenn. His style of crookedness was to sell a set of books and receive notes in payment, after which he would enhance the value of the papers and cash them at a bank. He dealt with women exclusively.

SOME GOOD ARRESTS.

Hall Thieves Run Down and Landed in Prison.—Burglar Also Captured.

Birmingham, Ala.—Of late numerous complaints have been made to the police that hall thieves were abroad in the city, and many coats, overcoats, hats, etc., have been stolen. A close watch has been kept, and officers have arrested several parties within the past few days, and in several instances recovered some of the stolen property.

Early Friday Officers Newman and Scott arrested Walter Foster at the wagon stables on Twenty-fourth street with an overcoat he was trying to dispose of to a countryman for $1. The negro claimed at first that a man had given him the coat to sell, but later changed his story, and said he won it shooting craps.

The coat, which is comparatively new, bore the mark of L. Roden, and had a Dr. Morris' name in one of the pockets. Dr. Morris was notified, and the negro held for trial.

A short while afterward officers Culppeper and Disheroon entered a charge of larceny of an overcoat against Robert Harris, who was fined early next morning. The overcoat was in the jail office, and J. W. Mulligan came in and identified it as his property. He said that it was stolen from his room over the "Dude" Saloon. Mr. Mulligan positively identified the coat as his, and it was turned over to him.

D. Shilton was arrested shortly before midnight on a charge of larceny from the store house of Shahan & Co., and Officers Culppeper and Disheroon, who made the arrest, say they have a good case against him.

The police authorities are determined to break up this petty thieving, and they are doing some excellent work with that end in view. It is thought that most of it is the work of professional vagrants and tramps.

SUCCESSFUL JAIL DELIVERY.

Oneonta, Ala.—Four prisoners broke jail here Sunday night by filing the bars of the cells in two and picking a hole in the brick wall. Robert Mc Murray, assault to murder; Tim Fortner, horse stealing; Pink Livingston, assault to murder; Anderton, larceny, are the names of the escapes.

MOSLEMS ACT UGLY.

Parading the Streets of the City and Demanding Blood.

Canea, Crete.—Most of the foreign war ships that were lying in the harbor here have left and gone to Suda, where there is better anchorage than at this port. It is likely, however, that their presence here will again be required, as the situation has become more critical than before, and it would not be surprising if a conflict occurred. In one respect the interposition of the powers has had a bad effect in that it has led the Moslems to believe that Europe is back of them in their conflict with the Christians.

As a result there were, 31 Friday afternoon 8,000 Moslem fighting men, besides the Turkish soldiers, all heavily armed, parading the streets of the city and demanding the blood of the "Christian dogs," who dared question the right of the Turk to rule them. The combined forces that have been landed by the several powers, number only 800 men, and it is believed that without the aid of the warships they would prove of no avail in preserving order in the city.

The popular passion has been added to by Ishmael Pasha, the acting Governor, who has circulated false stories to the effect that the Greek troops are mutilating Moslem children. The Governor knows these stories to be false, and, apparently, his only object is to create among the Moslems, deeper hatred of the Christians and further excite the desires of revenge. The commanders of the war ships remaining in the harbor protested to the Governor against his breaking the armistice, but the potest was unheeded.

The Admirals commanding the foreign fleets have been notified of Ishmael's action and there is much speculation as to the course they will pursue.

BIG BOILER BURSTS.

New Bedford, Mass.—The large boiler which furnishes power at the A. Chusnet Mills, exploded Saturday a.m., killing one man and burying another in the ruins of the building. Several others badly injured by steam.

A Wonderful Cure.

I was a martyr to muscular rheumatism for thirty years; tried all medicines and doctors with no permanent relief. I was advised to take P. P. P., and before I had finished two bottles my pain subsided so I was able to work. I feel better than I have for years, and am confident of a complete recovery. J. S. DUPRISS, Newnanville, Fla.

Testimony from the Mayor.

I suffered with Rheumatism for fifteen years, tried all the so-called specifics, but to no purpose. My grandson got me a bottle of P. P. P., and I feel like a new man. W. H. WILDER, Mayor of Albany.

From Two Well-known Physicians.

We are having a big sale for your P. P. P., and we prescribe it in a great many cases, and find it an excellent thing. We handle about one dozen bottles a week. Drs. J. M. T. RICHARDSON, Piedmont, S. C.

Pimples, Sores and Eruptions Cured.

I take great pleasure in testifying to the efficient qualities of the popular medicine for skin diseases known as P. P. P. I suffered for several years with an unsightly and disagreeable eruption on my face. After taking three bottles in accordance with directions, I am entirely cured. Capt. J. D. JOHNSTON, of Johnston & Co.

The above letters are taken from many received by us. P. P. P., (Lippman's Great Remedy) is a medicine whose virtues are known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. P. P. P. begins its work by purifying the blood, which is the source of all life, and does not cease until a perfect and entire cure is effected.

The mortifying eruptions that figure the complexion, the tired feeling that prevents thorough accomplishments of the daily tasks, sleepless nights, loss of appetite, irritability of disposition, all mean a derangement of the system consequent from impure blood, which can and will be cured by P. P. P.

P. P. P., (Lippman's Great Remedy), is conceded by physicians and the people to be the Greatest Blood Purifier of the Age. It positively and permanently cures. For sale by all druggists or direct from us; price $1 a bottle, six bottles for $5.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Today at noon, Grover Cleveland, the greatest living American, will retire from the exalted position of chief magistrate of this great republic and resume his place in the private walks of life. The record that he leaves of his official career is one of which his country may well be proud. No man who ever occupied this exalted station was more consistent or more honest or exhibited more statesmanship in the handling of the important and trying questions with which he had to contend in managing the affairs of this great country. His patriotism is of the highest and his devotion to principle and to duty is of that sublime order which characterized the conduct of the immortal Lee, our matchless southern chieftain, in his dealings with his fellowmen. His name will be recorded in history among the greatest of the Presidents who have adorned the annals of our country.

The Birmingham News well says: His career has been a most remarkable one. The distinction of being the only man who was thrice nominated and twice elected to the office of Chief Magistrate of the Republic is his. This in itself is sufficient to illustrate the mans great strength with the people."

The Nashville Banner closes a well written article concerning his official career in the following striking paragraph: "Grover Cleveland is a strong and steadfast character. He has proved himself a patriot and a statesman. If he and the Democratic party in any respect parted company it was not Cleveland's fault, because he has preserved one position unchanged from his first appearance in politics. His old enemies, the disappointed politicians, have taken advantage of the animosities growing out of silver schism to hound and traduce him, but they have not been able to obliterate history and his name will live as that of one of America's great men when they have all been long forgotten."

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED.

Married at the home of the bride's parents in Lowndes county, March 3rd, 1847, by Rev. J. M. S. DeBerry, Rev. James Franklin Smith to Miss Martha Lovinia Hightower.

Both parties are now in fair health. They now live in Talladega county. There will be no entertainment of any sort on account of being Ash Wednesday.

This worthy couple have friends all over the state who wish for them many more years of happy life. Mr. Smith, or "Father Smith," as he is affectionately termed by the people he has so devoutly served during his ministerial career especially unite in extending hearty good wishes on his golden anniversary of married life.—Advertiser.

President Cleveland will retire from the Presidential office for the second time fairly entitled to the credit of having kept faith with people at all points to the full extent of his executive power. He cannot be held responsible for the failure of his party in the Senate to stand at his back and assist in redeeming the currency and tariff pledges on which he was elected. He called upon them to do their share of the duty and they refused. —Baltimore Sun.

From all accounts the Mardi Gras of Alabama's Magic City surpassed the most sanguine expectations not only of the visitors but of the people of the city themselves. The great crowds attending were handled well and good order and good humor prevailed.

England and Venezuela, with Uncle Sam as the mediator, have resumed amicable relations

The Washington correspondent to the Advertiser says:

A prominent Alabama Republican who is here to attend the inauguration ceremonies and who is himself a candidate for the partiality of the new administration, has given to your correspondent the following tips of what the slate will be when the offices are to be distributed among the faithful: P. D. Barker, postmaster at Mobile; A. G. Alexander, collector at Mobile port; Wm. Vaughn of Birmingham United States district attorney for the North District; L. E. Parsons United States district attorney for the Middle District; M. D. Wickersham United States district attorney for the Southern District; Dr. J. W. Hughes, postmaster at Birmingham; Ben Walker, United States Marshal for the Middle District.

This is the slate, it seems, that so far has been agreed upon as most likely to bring the different factions together.

Colonel William Youngblood will very likely be given some fat place here in Washington.

Congressman Wm. F. Aldrich has taken apartments for himself and wife adjoining those at the Ebbitt House which will be occupied by President-elect McKinley and his wife.

The muddle in the Fourth Congressional district, which for some time embarrassed the Republicans, has just been finally settled.

It will be remembered that last summer one faction of the Republicans nominated Aldrich, while another nominated Wilson. Aldrich's friends appealed to the Republican Congressional Committee for a settlement of the difficulty. During delay in the decision of the committee Mr. Wilson withdrew. Then Chairman Babcock wrote to a prominent Republican in the district explaining the delay and stating that W. F. Aldrich was the regular nominee of the party and should be supported by the Republicans of the district.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

CONVENTION TO MEET AT TUSCALOOSA APRIL 8.

It will be a feast of good things for the city, and the hospitable people of the City of Oaks will extend a most cordial welcome to the delegates and visitors. The different Sunday schools throughout the State should elect their delegates by the first Sunday in March and immediately send their names to Dr. W. E. Bingham, chairman of the central committee, Tuscaloosa, Ala., that homes may be assigned them.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

Wm. McKinley will today enter upon the duties of the office of President of the United States. The following named gentlemen it is stated will compose his cabinet: Secretary of state—John Sherman of Ohio.

Secretary of the treasury—Lyman J. Gage, of Illinois.

Secretary of war—Russel Alger of Michigan.

Attorney general—Joseph McKenna of California.

Postmaster general—Jas. Gary of Maryland.

Secretary of the navy.—Cornelius N. Bliss of New York.

Secretary of agriculture—James Wilson of Iowa.

Secretary of interior.—John D. Long of Massachusetts.

Huntsville Mercury: To our many friends who contested for appointment on the convict board, we can only say, pick your flints and come again. The next legislature, if properly encouraged, will create offices enough to go round and then all will be supremely happy.

J. C. Manning, known over the state as Evangel Manning, wants to be third assistant postmaster general under the new administration. Wonder what Oscar Hundley will ask for?

THE LANE INDICTMENT.

FOUND BY THE MADISON COUNTY GRAND JURY.

Huntsville Tribune.

The courteous Sheriff of Madison county this morning informed Chas. P. Lane, editor of The Evening Tribune, that he had a capias, and handed him a bond to be signed in the sum of three hundred dollars. The following is the indictment:

State of Alabama, Madison county—in the Circuit court, February Term, 1897

The grand jury of said county charge that before the finding of the indictment Charles P. Lane did attempt to levy black mail on William C. Oates by a publication injurious to the character of said Wm. C. Oates for the purpose of money or other benefit or maliciously for the purpose of revenge, and having a tendency to create a breach of the peace. Said publication appearing in The Weekly Tribune of Thursday January 5th, 1897, in words and figures as follows: "Gov. Oates is now a statesman without a job. He has been travelling in that direction for some time, indeed his treachery to his friends who served him in the hour of his political peril and whom he forgot when in power, hastened his retirement. If Governor Oates had enjoyed the one element of honesty he would have been a United States Senator. He certainly had the ability, had the appearance, but did not have the higher element of man. He fooled the editor of The Tribune one time, only once," against the peace and dignity of the State of Alabama.

RICHARD H. LOWE, Solicitor for the county of Madison.

NEW CONVICT INSPECTORS.

Governor Johnston, on Saturday afternoon, appointed the new board of Convict Inspectors, as follows:

S. B. Trapp of Anniston, President of the Board; Dr. W. M. Blake of Clay county and Capt. E. W. Booker of Uniontown, Associate Inspectors. There were about 75 applicants for the places.

Mr. Trapp of Anniston, who succeeds to the presidency, is a man of affairs. He has been prominently identified with the industrial development of Anniston and Calhoun county, and ranks among the safest and most progressive business men in North Alabama. He is fully capable of discharging the duties of the office.

Dr. Blake of Clay, who became physician of the board, is a leading citizen of his state, is very popular and always comes to the front as an effective worker in the Democratic ranks. Professionally, Dr. Blake stands high.

Capt. Booker, the third appointee is a typical Perry county Democrat who has done good service for his party and the powers that be. Captain Booker was honored by President Cleveland during his first administration, holding the office of Internal Revenue Collector for the state.—Daily News.

There is more or less woe in the camp of the Coal Oil Johnnies. Every man in the state knows enough to find his way home realizes that the law is a plain violation of the constitution. There never was any demand for its passage and no necessity for its existence. It is an unblushing and unmitigated patronage job to provide places for a lot of hungry office seekers, and furnish a good fat contribution to the campaign fund in the next election. With this state of facts staring them in the face the various aspirants are in somewhat of a panic lest the law be nullified and this fat take snatched from their grasp.—Advertiser.

The testimony taken in Calhoun county by Capt. Plowman in the Aldrich-Plowman contest case, appears to be strongly confirmatory of the serious charges made by Capt. Plowman in his answer to Aldrich's notice of contest. The testimony of Hon. L. F. Greer as published in the papers is very much in that direction.

President Cleveland vetoed the immigration bill, and set forth his objections to same in a strong and forcible manner.

Chas. P. Jackson has been re-elected secretary of the State Railroad commission for ensuing term.

The lower house of Congress on Tuesday considered the President's veto of the immigration bill and by a vote of 193 to 37 decided to pass the bill, the objections of the president notwithstanding.

Otis O. Smith, the young man who was recently arrested in Georgia for embezzlement, has been indicted by the grand jury. His friends paid up his shortage a few days ago, and he left for the west. He will be rearrested if found, taken back to Georgia and prosecuted.

In the Birmingham News of yesterday appears the following special from Seottsboro: "Among the prisoners in jail here awaiting trial at the present term of the circuit court, is the octogenarian murderer, Andy Hames, who two years ago killed Engineer James Swats, at Stevenson. He was tried last year, convicted and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. The case was appealed to the supreme court, and by a recent decision he was granted a new trial. The prisoner claims to be 86 years old."

A few individuals claiming to hold official positions in the municipal government of this city exerted themselves on last Saturday to force a conflict among our citizens and thereby cause a disturbance but were thwarted in their efforts. They went so far as to send telegrams to the sheriff misrepresenting the state of affairs and requesting his presence. He came in response to said telegrams, but soon learned the true status and that the gentleman whose name was signed to said telegrams did not send them and knew nothing about them. He returned to Columbiana disgusted, as he had every reason to be, with the proceedings.

A man stands no chance of being elected to the mayorship of a city unless he enjoys the confidence and esteem of his neighbors. George W. Humphrey is the popular mayor of Swanton, Ohio, and under date of January 17, 1896, he writes as follows: "This is to certify to our appreciation of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My family and neighbors have tested it and we know it is an excellent remedy for coughs and colds.—George W. Humphrey." Sold by Dial Brothers, druggists.

The Shelby County Medical Society held its regular monthly meeting in Columbiana on Tuesday, the 2d inst. There was a very good attendance of the membership. Several interesting subjects engaged the attention of the society and some interesting discussions took place. Among other matters claiming attention was the proper celebration of the 20th anniversary of the organization of the society. It was determined that the first Tuesday in April be set apart as the time and Calera as the place to have this celebration.

A CHANGE OF AGENTS.

On the first of this month a change of railroad agents took place here. E. N. Penick, who has been the agent of the L. & N. and Southern roads at this point for several years was transferred to the Decatur, Ala., agency and Mr. F. Turpin, who has occupied a like position at Decatur, was transferred to this point. Mr. Penick is an excellent railroad man and has made a most efficient officer and our citizens regret to lose him and his interesting family but wish them continued success in their new field.

Mr. Turpin comes well recommended as a capable, painstaking and courteous official and to him and his our people extend a cordial welcome. Mr. Penick will remove his family in a few days to Decatur and Mr. Turpin will remove his here.

There are some people who are never positive in anything. It is always "I don't know" or "I guess so." There is a world of such people and it is refreshing sometimes to hear a person speak as one having convictions like Chas. F. Snyder of Bangor, Pa., who wrote, "I can heartily recommend Simmons Liver Regulator to all who are troubled with dyspepsia and liver complaint."

E. D. Barefield of Dry Valley was in the city Tuesday in search of a horse which strayed from his place on last Saturday. Said horse is a dark bay with black mane and tail, about four years old and he thinks is somewhere about Calera or Longview. Any information concerning his whereabouts will be thankfully received.

On the morning of Feb. 20, 1895, I was sick with rheumatism and lay in bed until May 21 when I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first application relieved me almost entirely from the pain and the second afforded complete relief. In a short time I was able to be up and about again.—A. T. Moreaux, Luverne, Minn. Sold by Dial Bros. druggists.

MONTEVALLO DOITS.
The people of Montevallo were entertained in a delightful manner at the school chapel on last Friday night the occasion being an elocutionary and musical recital given by the pretty and accomplished elocution teacher, Miss Bernice Jackson, assisted by Misses Lee, Crumpton, Bush and Dale, all teachers in the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for Girls. The programme of well rendered selections interspersed with beautiful instrumental and vocal solos, made the affair one of the most enjoyable of the season.

William Lyman is effecting a neat two story residence on his lot opposite the Presbyterian church.

It is, or should be, the highest aim of every merchant to please his customers; and that the wide-awake drug firm of Meyers & Eshleman, of Sterling, Ills., is doing so, is proven by the following from Mr. Eshleman: "In my sixteen years experience in the drug business I have never seen or sold or tried a medicine that gave as good satisfaction as Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea Remedy." Sold by Dial Bros., druggists.

The friends of Mr. John Black are pleased to see him able to be up and on the streets again.

Lessie, the little daughter of Mr. Chesley Bristow who resides near Shelby Springs, was badly burned on last Tuesday evening. She was playing around the fire in the house when her clothing caught. We are pleased to learn, however, that she is rapidly recovering.

A NEW MACHINE.

MAYLENE, ALA.

EDITOR SENTINEL:

Geo. Nabors of this place has invented a machine for the purpose of cutting coal in the headings and air courses. This machine will doubtless be the greatest help to the miners that has ever been introduced. It has been examined by the best men of the place—Pink Lohie, bank boss; M. C. Ingraham and W. T. Weaver—and they find no objections to it. These men are all practical miners.

W. A. PHILIPS.

I desire to attest to the merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as one of the most valuable and efficient preparations on the market. It broke an exceedingly dangerous cough for me in 24 hours and in gratitude therefor, I desire to inform you that I will never be without it and you should feel proud of the high esteem in which your remedies are held by people in general. It is the one remedy among ten thousand. Success to it.—O. R. Downey, Editor Democrat, Albion, Ind.—For sale by Dial Bros. druggists

A RICH HARVEST.

It is a well known fact to all gardeners and florists that it costs no more to sow good seeds than it does to sow old and worthless stock. It is folly to sow any but the best. Probably every gardener has thus thought when his garden has not done well. Why not use a little forethought and send to James Vick's Sons, Rechestr, N. Y., for their Catalogue which contains a list of their excellent field, garden and flower seeds? They are always fresh—sure to germ and grow off rapidly. Send 10 cents for Catalogue and deduct this amount from first order. If you state where you saw this notice you will receive a package flower seeds free.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Biliousness, Indigestion, Headache. Easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

The largest business machine in the world, and its small beginnings, are described by Postmaster-General Wilson in a very interesting article on "Early Days of the American Postoffice," printed in the Washington Birthday Number of The Youth's Companion.

There were many curious things about the postal service in the days when it cost a dollar to send a letter 400 miles, when mails went only once in three weeks, and a postmaster begged that some other person be appointed in his stead, because people disturbed his family by coming into his house to look for mail matter. Mr. Wilson tells many anecdotes of how the business of the postoffice used to be conducted, and how it has grown, in this very readable and practical article in The Youth's Companion.

Tit for Tat.
A British sailor being a witness in a murder case, was called to the stand, and was asked by the counsel for the Crown whether he was for the plaintiff or defendant.

"Plaintiff or defendant?" said the sailor, scratching his head. "Why, I don't know what you mean by plaintiff or defendant. I come to speak for me friend," pointing to the prisoner.

"You're a pretty fellow for a witness," said the counsel, "not to know what plaintiff or defendant means."
Later in the trial the counsel asked the sailor what part of the ship he was in at the time of the murder.

"Abaft the binnacle, me lord," said the sailor.

"Abaft the binnacle?" replied the barrister.

"What part of the ship is that?"

"Ain't you a pretty feller for a counselor," said the sailor, grinning at the counsel, "not to know what abaft the binnacle is!"

The court laughed.—Harper's Round Table.

Deafness (cannot be cured)
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE YEARS ARE PASSING BY.

We watch, as from an open door Their passage through time's corridor; Each shadow, in its falling, slopes Across the graves of buried hopes; The pulse of being slower beats Through winter snows, through summer heats, As faith and hope and love grow cold As we grow old, as we grow old! The years are passing by!

The years are passing by! Time's record hath such pages blurred, With hasty deed, with bitter word, Such sad mistakes mark all life's years We scarce can read, because of tears. We see dead faces on the walls, We hear dead voices in the halls, We touch some hands on bended knee, We kiss some lips we cannot see— The years are passing by!

The years are passing by! They carry with them as they go The rain, the sunshine and the snow; They leave behind the drift of days Wherein each soul some penance pays; Some hopes we have, but not our own; Some loves we cherish, not alone; And there are leaves and faded flowers That tell sad tales in memory's hours. The years are passing by!

The years are passing by! The seal of silence on our lips We closer press. Time's umbra dips To deeper darkness down the lane Through which we walk to hide our pain.

We smile and smile, as one who bears A life untouched by grief or cares, But, when in solitude we wait, We bow our head at sorrow's gate. The years are passing by!

The years are passing by! Another joins the passing band! Oh, is there not some other land Where compensation for all ills The measure of life's being fills? We wait the answer, but in vain; The shadow falls; a sense of pain Rests on us whoso'er we go, And whispers of the sad and snow. The years are passing by!

—W. E. PABOR.

My Last Card.

People tell me that I am very successful, and I suppose I ought to consider myself fortunate. To-day I am counted among the leading singers, and few concert programmes lack my name. But it was not ever thus, and I may frankly say that I owe my success to one of the most lucky accidents that ever occurred in this world.

I had come to the end of my resources. When most people say that those words, they simply mean that they will have to retrench expenses a little, give up their carriage, postpone their winter visit to Nice until another year, and so on. But in my case it meant that I was very near that point at which the workhouse seems the only way of sustenance.

I was a baritone, trying vainly to secure some sort of a livelihood by my vocal efforts. But influence is perhaps more useful in the professional world than anywhere else, and influence I lacked.

I could not turn to my relations in my hour of need, for not one of them would have acknowledged me. My family were all of that class which a Scotch poet has called the "Unco' guid," and they were so bigoted that the very fact of my singing for my living put me beyond the pale of their sympathy. No use, therefore, applying to my own flesh and blood.

To whom, then? Friends? Yes, I had a few friends, but those who had money wouldn't lend it, and those who would lend it hadn't any.

Foolishly enough, I thought that if I gave up singing and tried to find work in less ambitious directions, I should be successful. Alas, how soon I discovered my mistake. The lower one goes, the harder the struggle becomes—if there is little room at the top, there is absolutely no room at all at the bottom. I found this out when I had tried in vain to obtain a position first of all as clerk, then shopman, then dock laborer. Everywhere the cry was "Full up," and there seemed no variation in this disheartening message.

It sounded in my ears like a death knell, and every day my position grew worse and worse. One by one my few belongings left me, until at length there remained only the suit in which I stood, threadbare and patched, and my dress suit, to which I still clung—for without it, how were engagements, if ever engagements came, to be filled? Yes. The evening clothes must remain, come what might.

I now lived in a garret in Bloomsbury, where I owed four weeks for rent. My landlady, good-natured woman as she was, was now becoming impatient, and I knew that in a few nights, unless something were done, I should be rootless and without food. An awful situation truly.

One foggy Thursday evening I climbed the stairs to my wretched room, and saw a letter thrust under the door. Opening it, I found that it contained a concert ticket for a performance to be given that evening at a great hall in the West End. Tickets were often sent to me in virtue of my professional position, though heaven knows a loaf of bread would have been more welcome.

The church clock struck 6. There was still time to dress and go to the concert if I so desired, and after all, it would be better to spend the evening in a warm, well-lighted hall than in the gloom of a London garret. I decided, therefore, to go the concert.

I made a hasty toilet, and just as I was completing it, there came a tap at my door.

"Come in," I said quickly.

In answer to my invitation, Mrs. Huxtable, the landlady, presented herself.

"Mr. Lennox," she said, speaking hastily and nervously, "I've just looked in to ask you when you think you'll be able to pay me something to go on with. I'm not a 'ard woman, as you know, but I've got a bedridden husband and plenty of little ones as well, and I must think of them as well as of other people. When can you settle?"

I tried to speak calmly, as I replied: "Very soon, I hope. At any rate, I will do my best. More than that, Mrs. Huxtable, I can't say."

She mumbled something, and was about to retire, when she drew out from her pocket a small visiting card. "This must be yours, Mr. Lennox," she said, giving it to me. "I picked it up in the room this mornin' after makin' your bed. Good night."

I looked at the piece of pasteboard. Yes. It was one of my visiting cards, and it reminded me of the days when my worldly affairs had been very different, and when people were glad to have me at their houses. Long since I had been without such a luxury as a card, and it came upon me now as a messenger from a far-off and well-nigh forgotten period. Mechanically I put it in my pocket, and then extinguishing the candle, I went slowly down stairs.

A thick fog was making all things pedestrian, and it seemed to overwhelm my entire being with disgust of life and living. I cursed my hard fate a thousand times, and in my heart there rose a despairing prayer—a prayer for death. This world was unendurable—let the other begin when it would, for surely no after existence could be more awful than this.

My way to the concert hall led me through the Strand, and near the Temple an irresistible impulse led me down one of the narrow streets touching the Embankment. Then I went and leaned on the stone parapet, and looked down into the fog-covered stream.

As I looked, there rose in my heart a sudden and overwhelming desire to end my life then and there, and I climbed upon the parapet, about to fling myself down into the dark depths below. I hesitated. The old, old thoughts, which Hamlet has put into words of wondrous beauty—words which surely must represent the thoughts of all them that have contemplated self-destruction since the world began—were with me now, and I said to myself: "Suppose the hereafter should be more bitter than the present—how then? how then?"

I drew back. A better hope sprang up in my heart. I would live on and fight life's battle to the end. Let them who had committed deeds of shame seek such an end as this—for me, whose only desire for extinction was born of misfortune, a worthier end. And so, the better decision won the battle.

It was a great relief to pass from the gloomy London street into the cheerful and brilliantly lighted concert hall. Already a great crowd had assembled, for the programme held some of the world's most famous names in the musical world, among others that of Signor Luigi.

Although his name was Italian, he was as much an Englishman as myself; but, like many singers he had adopted the foreign title for professional reasons. I had always been specially interested in listening to Luigi, for many persons had told me that my voice resembled his—in fact, some had gone so far as to say that if he and I were placed in competition, I should do better work than he. But Luigi was flattered and courted, and obtained his hundred guineas per song, while I—well, those who have read the preceding lines will know the difference between us.

Luigi received a tremendous reception on this occasion, and sang two songs. He was rather late on the programme, and when his performance was ended, the bulk of the audience, including myself, rose to go. As I passed out into the street I ran up against a man walking rapidly. He apologized brusquely, and catching sight of him under a lamp, I recognized the singer whom I had just heard, Luigi.

A cautious impulse took hold of me. I would ask Luigi to help me. Perhaps in the hour of his own triumph, he would hold out a helping hand to the stumbler on the way. I ran after him and soon came up with him. Touching him lightly on the arm, I said:

"Excuse me, but may I have a word with you?"
He turned round very abruptly, and said:

"Who on earth are you? What do you want?"
His tone was rough in the extreme, and all hope died within me at the harsh tones fell on my ear. But I put my pride in my pocket, and said hastily:

"My apology for thus troubling you must be that I am absolutely penniless. Ah, no, I don't ask for charity," I said quickly as I saw his hand moving in the direction of his pocket. I ask for aid of another kind. I am a singer. I believe I have some measure of ability, but I can't find an engagement, though heaven knows I've done my best. Will you help me to find one?"

He looked very unamiable as he replied: "Really, your behavior is unconventional in the extreme, sir. To waylay a man in the street and ask for assistance in this manner is something quite new to me. However, give me your card, and if I hear of anything suitable, I will let you know."

I drew out my last card, which my landlady had fortunately handed me that evening, and gave it to him. Without deigning to glance at it, he thrust it in his waistcoat pocket, and gave me a brusque "Good night," passed on.

A moment later, however, I saw him stopped again by a passer-by, evidently an American. I heard the latter congratulating him in hearty terms, and I did not doubt that already I was forgotten by the successful singer as completely as though I had never crossed his path.

On my way home that evening I had a slight stroke of luck. I fell in with Charlie East, an old schoolfellow, and the hearing of my critical condition, insisted on lending me a sovereign. Out of this I gave Mrs. Huxtable something on account, and went to bed in a happier frame of mind than I had for weeks.

Next Monday there came a letter which took my breath away. It ran thus:

"United States Concert Bureau,
9 George Street, W.,
Nov. 2, 188—

"Dear Sir—Mr. Kent one of our directors has handed us your card with a view to our engaging you for a series of concerts promoted by this agency, to be held between now and the ensuing spring. Unfortunately, Mr. Kent has been called away to New York since he had the pleasure of meeting you, so that he will be unable to go into matters with you personally, but if you will call here at your earliest convenience we will endeavor to meet your views as far as possible. Very respectfully yours,

"United States Concert Bureau,
(per) G. Willis, Secretary."

Two feelings struggled for the mastery in my heart, as I read these lines—amazement and joy. Amazement that such a letter should have been addressed to me—joy that it had come at all.

My first impulse would have been to go straight to George Street, but further reflection showed me that such a course would be impolitic. Evidently the letter had been written under the impression that I was a leading light in the musical world, and too much haste on my part in interviewing the Bureau would probably destroy that impression. I decided, therefore, to write a plain acknowledgment, and I did, adding that I would call as soon as my engagements permitted. I could not help smiling ironically as I wrote the last phrase.

On the following Wednesday I went to the office. There I was ushered into a small room, littered with papers, where a young man sat writing. He rose to receive me with much deference.

"Good morning, sir," he said, as he placed a chair for me. "Sit down. I am very sorry that Mr. Kent isn't here to arrange matters with you; but as I told you in my letter, he has been summoned away. He heard you sing ———— Thursday night at the big concert at Adelaide Hall, and he decided at once that you should be among our baritones for our winter and spring shows. That's, of course," he added quickly, "if we can come to terms."

As he said these words, the solution of the mystery flashed across my mind. Luigi had handed my card to the American to whom I had seen him talking after I left him, believing in the hurry of the moment that the card was his own. The American had then left the card with his people, telling them doubtless (in the off-hand manner in which our trans-Atlantic cousins manage these affairs) to engage the singer named on that card. Yes. That was the secret of the mystery. My last card had turned up trumps indeed.

What followed at the interview I need only touch upon in the briefest possible manner. The terms offered me were such as made me feel inclined to jump from my seat with joy, but naturally I did nothing of the sort, and behaved as much like a sane person as my delight would allow me. Before I left the room I had signed the contract for the whole series of concerts.

The first concert came off three weeks later. How I lived through the excitement preceding it I hardly know. My excitement was simply overwhelming, for I knew now that the great chance of my career, eagerly waited for, longed for and prayed for, had come at last. Monday night, the night of the first concert, would decide my fate for me.

It came at length. I trembled violently until the moment arrived for my appearance, and then all my fears left me, and I faced the brilliant and mighty audience with steadfast heart. I sang my first song.

When I first sang that night, I look upon the happiest night of my life. After my first song, the enthusiasm was intense, and after my second, it was recalled five times. My triumph was complete.

Little remains to tell. My progress from that night on was a triumphal march—engagements poured in, the newspapers chronicled my successes day after day. By one lucky stroke, I had achieved fame and fortune.

Later on, of course, the whole truth came out; but Luigi, strangely enough, instead of being furious, seemed rather amused. He met me one day in a decidedly long afterward, and holding out his hand, said:

"Congratulations with all my heart, Mr. Lennox. Funny thing that I should have given your card in mistake for my own, wasn't it? The fact is, I couldn't have accepted the engagement in any case, for I was full up. Glad you're doing so well. Have a cigar?"

I accepted his invitation, and as I did so I could not help contrasting the manner in which people treat you when you're down on your luck, and when you're making a fortune. Funny, isn't it? But I owed it all to that little piece of pasteboard found by my landlady in a corner of a London garret—Tid-Bits.

M'KINLEY INAUGURATED!

Sworn in as Twenty-Fifth President of the United States.

SCENES OF POMP AND GRANDEUR.

In His Inaugural Address He Favors a Monetary Commission, an International Conference, a Larger Revenue From the Tariff and Urges Strict Economy in the Conduct of Government Affairs.

Washington, March 4.—William McKinley, of Ohio, was today installed as President of the United States for the term of four years continuing until the 4th of March, 1901, and Grover Cleveland for the second time passed from the exercise of the high office of President and re-entered private life.

In his capacity as ex-President he has but one living contemporary, his immediate predecessor, Benjamin Harrison. All the others who within the last thirty years, by election or succession, have presided over the destinies of the great American republic—Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, Garfield and Arthur—have joined the silent majority.

Incidental to the actual assuming of the office of President, and slightly preceding it in point of time, Garrett A. Hobart, of New Jersey (a gentleman not heretofore prominent in national politics), took the oath of office as Vice-President of the United States and was installed as ex-officio presiding officer of the Senate.

SCENES OF THE DAY.

The proceedings of the day were characterized by all the imposing spectacular effects and demonstrations of popular interest which have become a growing feature of inaugural ceremonies, as the nation has advanced in population and wealth. Between 40,000 and 50,000 men formed in procession, partly military, partly civic, and escorted the President and the President-elect to and from the Capitol. At least 20,000 people witnessed the administration of the oath of office on the eastern portico of the Capitol, and listened or attempted to listen to the delivery of the new President's brief inaugural address; and at night a gorgeous state ball, at which the President and Vice-President were present, closed the proceedings.

THE WEATHER.

Severe blizzards in the extreme West in the latter part of February had made their effect felt to some extent in the National Capital, and had caused alarm for inauguration day. But after a slight snow flurry on Friday last, and a freezing spell for several days following, the weather contemporaneously with Major McKinley's arrival in Washington took on the pleasantest of spring aspects, the thermometer ranging between 60 and 70 degrees and balmy sunshine bathing the streets and lighting up the gaily-colored decorations with which every house on the President-elect's line of progress was emblazoned. The rain of yesterday was followed by a perfect March day, clear, cool, invigorating with bright sunshine and fleecy clouds to enliven the scene.

THE DECORATIONS.

The decorations of the city were exceedingly effective, with but one single exception. That was the Treasury Department, the majestic lines of which were disfigured in violation of all rules of taste. Each of the graceful fluted columns of the eastern facade on Fifteenth street was partially swaddled in striped pantalettes, falling short of the pediments, exactly after the fashion of "Uncle Sam's" trousers as depicted in the comic papers, and over the entablatures at each end, and also over the main eastern entrance, the shield and eagle of the United States were dabbed upon a hideous yellow background, the whole forming a tawdry combination which a third-rate circus would have scorned to display.

Everywhere else, however, the scenic effect was fine, and even the bad taste displayed in the Treasury drapings was in part obliterated by the animated concourse of employes and their families and guests who occupied the temporary seats which piled tier above tier, reached half way up the side of the building and entirely covered the garden at the south end, looking down Pennsylvania avenue.

The pavilion in front of the White House, from which President McKinley reviewed the returning procession was a thing of beauty—an architectural creation of white and gold, strongly resembling in its apparently substantial pillars and its general outlines the portico of historic Arlington, and conveying no impression that it was simply a flimsy structure of wood erected for a day.

SCENE OF GRANDEUR.

No grander theater for such a pageant could well be found. Pennsylvania avenue, 125 feet from curb to curb, along which the procession passed from the White House to the Capitol, presents an uninterupted vista of over a mile, commencing with the massive Grecian facade of the Treasury Department, which intercepts the view at one end, and terminating in the beautiful white marble dome crowned Capitol at the other end, with the needle-like shaft of the Washington monument standing sentinel guard on the right hand, towering 555 feet upwards to the clouds.

On all the little parkings and Government reservations formed by the different angles of the intersecting streets and the radiating avenues, gaily decorated stands had been erected, capable of seating at least 30,000 people, and these were densely packed with spectators, one row above the other like the towers on a Grecian trireme.

THE CROWDS.

The entire route from the White House to the Capitol was banked with hoarsely shouting, enthusiastic spectators. All street car traffic was, of course, suspended along the route of the procession; the sidewalks were roped off and were so crowded with people that locomotion was impracticable. Mounted police prevented any one from attempting to break through the "trocha."

It seemed as if Washington's normal population of 200,000 had been swelled by more than an equal number of visiting strangers, and that all were out to see the sights. Every building on the line of march was draped in bunting of the national colors, and every window and point of vantage was occupied. The beautiful stars and stripes were everywhere seen, with other appropriate banners and emblems.

In addition to these festive demonstrations, fifty thousand miniature United States flags had been gratuitously distributed by the committee on arrangements. These were exhibited at all available points, and were waved with enthusiasm as the Presidents and other known public men rode by.

At least 100,000 throats voiced a continuous welcome from the time the procession started until the Capitol was reached. And these vociferations were still more enthusiastically echoed on the return trip.

THE SONS OF PRESIDENTS.

By a happy thought invitations had been extended to all the living sons of those who had served as the Nation's Chief Executive and U. S. Grant, Webb C. Hayes, Harry A. Garfield, Chester A. Arthur and Russell Harrison served as special aides on the occasion.

The first division of the military parade, commanded by the gallant cavalry leader, Gen. Wesley Merritt, included a battalion of United States Engineers, the Seventeenth United States Infantry, four batteries of United States Artillery, a regiment of United States Marines, five hundred sailors of the North Atlantic Squadron made up from the crews of the New York, Columbia and Indiana, now anchored at Hampton Roads, and commanded by Captain Sands, of the Columbia, whose appearance, as is always the case when the blue jackets come ashore, was welcomed with hearty cheers, followed by a battalion of United States Cavalry.

THE GRAND MARSHAL.

The Grand Marshal entrusted with the direction of today's pageant was Gen. Horace Porter, formerly of the staff of General Grant. His organizing skill had been tested in peace as well as in war—notably in the conduct of the great sound money procession through the narrow and tortuous streets of New York city last October, during the Presidential campaign. With the broad avenues and smooth asphalted streets of Washington, General Porter had full opportunities to display his genius for controlling the movements of large bodies of men, and he availed himself of them.

M'KINLEY'S MOVEMENTS.

President-elect McKinley, who had left his handsomely fitted up suite of rooms at the Elbitt House sufficiently early to pay his call of ceremony on the retiring President, was driven to the White House, escorted by the Senate Committee appointed for that purpose, where in one of the State apartments he was received and welcomed by President Cleveland and his Cabinet.

Then the two Presidents descended the White House steps and together entered a four-horse carriage, Mr. Cleveland sitting to the right, and amid the booming of cannon, the clatter of cavalry, the deep, hoarse rumble of artillery, the measured tramp of many columns of infantry, and the blare of innumerable bands, the march to the Capitol began. In another four-horse carriage, following the President, rode Vice-President-elect Hobart and the Senators deputed to escort him to the scene of his future duties. Then in a long stream of carriages came the distinguished guests. The President's personal escort was Troop A, of Cleveland, O., eighty cavalrymen mounted on coal black chargers, and, still more interesting, a detachment of grizzled veterans from the Twenty-third Ohio Volunteers, Major McKinley's old regiment.

THE MILITARY.

Gen. Nelson Miles, commanding the United States Army, and Rear Admiral George Brown, ranking officer of the Navy, in full uniform, rode immediately after the Presidential party. The second brigade of the first division consisted of the superbly drilled and handsomely equipped National Guard of the District of Columbia.

A more brilliant and inspiring scene than this part of the pageant presented could hardly be pictured. The yellow plumes, scarlet-lined cloaks and bright blue tunics of the cavalry; the huge black bear skin shakos and snow white trousers of the National Guard; the gaily comparisoned and gold bedecked white-plumed coats of the staff; the vivid crimson and gold-laced coats of the famed Marine Band, contrasting with the blue uniforms of the marine corps, and the picturesque sailor costumes of the jack tars, formed a constantly changing kaleidoscopic picture of flashing light and color extremely beautiful to witness.

THE GOVERNORS.

The second division of the parade was not secondary to the first in public interest, except that it lacked the presence of a President to be and a President that had been. In lieu thereof it presented to the admiring plaudits of the crowds the governors of nine great states, each escorted by a gorgeously uniformed staff and detachments from the National Guards of other states.

At the head of the division was a fitting honor to the state from which the President-elect was chosen, rode Gov. Asa S. Bushnell, of Ohio, as Marshal. Then followed Governor Griggs, of New Jersey; Governor Lowndes, of Maryland; Governor Black, of New York; Governor Bradley, of Kentucky; Governor Grout, of Vermont; Governor Tanner, of Illinois; Governor Drake, of Iowa, and Governor Schofield, of Wisconsin. Each of these dignitaries was accompanied by numerous aides, and most of them by regiments or companies of their State National Guard.

In this latter manner the states of Connecticut, Massachusetts, Virginia, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Texas and Minnesota were also well represented.

At the head of the third and last division of the military parade rode one-armed Gen. O. O. Howard, and after him marched the grizzled veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, many of whom had served under him at Gettysburg and Chattanooga.

CONGRESS' PART.

In the meantime the Houses of Congress were making preparations for their part in the ceremonies. The House of Representatives, headed by Speaker Reed, proceeded in a body to the Senate Chamber, where seats had been assigned them. Vice-President Adlai E. Stevenson presided over the joint assembly, but simply till the hour should arrive when he should step down to make way for his successor.

The eight justices of the Supreme Court of the United States robed in silk gowns, but wearing no wigs, oc-

Behind them in their order of precedence entered the diplomatic corps, all of whom, except the representative of the Swiss and South and Central American Republics, were resplendent in official uniform and adorned with the insignia of decorations conferred.

Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, took precedence. He was followed by the French and German Ambassadors; the Mexican and Austrian ministers, and vividly conspicuous in their quaint silken dresses, the members of the Chinese Legation came next. They were the only Orientals who wore their National costume.

AT THE CAPITOL.

When promptly at noon, Ex-President Cleveland and President McKinley entered the chamber, the whole assemblage rose to receive them as they took the seats of honor set apart for their respective reception. Vice-President Stevenson, to whom the Senate accorded a unanimous vote of thanks for his courtesy and ability in the chair, returned his thanks in graceful terms.

In conclusion he said: Senators, my parting words have been spoken, and I now discharge my last official duty, that of declaring the Senate adjourned without day.

SENATE'S EXTRA SESSION.

The extra session of the Senate of the fifty-fifth Congress, called by President Cleveland to meet at 12 noon, March 4, then commenced. The late Vice-President made his way for his successor, Mr. Hobart, to whom the oath of office was administered, after which he made a brief address. At the conclusion of his address he proceeded in his turn to swear in such as were present of the thirty Senators whose terms either of election or re-election began contemporaneously with that of the President. This ceremony completed, both Houses of Congress and many of the more privileged spectators adjourned to the eastern portico.

M'KINLEY SWORN IN.

There, in the presence of an immense throng, Chief Justice Fuller administered to President McKinley the brief obligation prescribed to maintain the Constitution and enforce the laws of the United States, and President McKinley delivered his inaugural address.

Immediately after the close of his address President McKinley and ex-President Cleveland re-entered their carriages and were driven to the White House, amid tumultuous cheers along the route. President McKinley this time occupying the seat of honor on the right. The procession, re-enforced by the numerous civic organizations which had been assembled of the Capitol Hill early this morning, re-formed and marched down the avenue and past the White House where they were reviewed by the President and his friends from a special stand erected for that purpose in front of the edifice.

William McKinley then formally entered upon his duties as Chief Executive of a nation of seventy millions of people and Grover Cleveland retired to his new home at Princeton, N. J., to resume the practice of law.

REV. THOMAS DIXON, JR.

The Great New York Preacher to Visit Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala.—Rev. Thos. Dixon, Jr., the famous New York divine, will be in Birmingham to lecture April 3d. His theme will be "Modern Babylon." Mr. Dixon is the successor of the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D. D., in the Academy of Music, New York city, and draws even larger audiences than the great Brooklyn preacher attracted. Mr. Dixon is a Southerner, and has all the impassioned fire of the Southern orator. "A Live Wire," is what the unique Rev. Sam P. Jones calls him. Mr. Dixon was to have come South on a short tour in the winter, but his health would not permit. There is a remarkably widespread and eager desire to hear Mr. Dixon, as there is perhaps no more thrilling orator in the world to-day.

Easily Satisfied.

There was once a mandarin who was excessively fond of jewels, and always walked abroad with his robe covered with the sparkling gems. One day he was accosted by an old bonze, who, following him through the street, bowed himself often to the ground and thanked the mandarin for his jewels.

"What does the man mean?" cried the mandarin, in great alarm. Then addressing the bonze, he said, "I never gave you any jewels, man!"

"No," replied the bonze, "but you have let me look at them, and that is all the use you can make of them yourself, so there is no difference between us, except that you have the trouble of guarding them, a task I would not care for."—Harper's Round Table.

Says the Philadelphia Ledger: A device for preventing unseemly will contests has appeared in Connecticut and is being very favorably commented on. It provides that the testator, on making his will, may deposit it with a legal officers and gave public notice of the fact, in order that any person who may doubt his competence to make a will may come forward and test the question within a certain time. If no objection is made within the time specified the will cannot be attacked on that ground when offered for probate. Nobody is to see the will or know its contents; the inquiry is to be confined to the single question of the maker's competence, perhaps including the question of undue influence, but if these two points can be settled during his life there is little danger of a successful attempt to break the will after his death. It seems as if a great deal of scandal and much unseemly litigation might be prevented by this simple device.

This is a euphemistic age. A thief nowadays is called a "kleptomaniac," a murderer is called a "psychic epileptic" and in Chicago an Alderman is called "one of our best citizens."

SENATOR PETTUS

GIVES HIS VIEWS ON SOME OF THE IMPORTANT QUESTIONS OF THE DAY.

The following interview with Senator-elect Edmund W. Pettus, is from the Washington Post.

General W. W. Pettus, who was recently elected by the Alabama Legislature to succeed Senator Pugh, is stopped at the Metropolitan Hotel. He said last night to a representative of the Post that he would remain in the city until the extraordinary session of Congress is over. Of himself, politically, he said:

I am too new to express an opinion on the affairs of the country. "But after stroking his very gray hair in a thoughtful manner, he added: "You may say that I have no fixed plans. I am a plain, old-fashioned Democrat of the old school. My parents lived within a mile of the Hermitage, my father and relatives fought under Jackson in the Creek war, and I have inherited my Democracy. I am a lawyer, and this is the first political office I have ever had conferred on me. I am in favor of a coinage law such as we had before the war, the coinage law of 1837.

"In regard to the Cuban question, I will say that I want to avoid a war with Spain if it can be done on honorable terms, but I am always to be found on the side of a people who are fighting for their liberty. I want the flag strong enough to protect Americans even in Central Africa, and I do not want to see any of our ships searched in any harbor. It makes no difference whether an American is a citizen born or has become so from naturalization. They have the same rights and should receive protection.

"As to the tariff question, the people of Alabama, I think, prefer a specific tax to an ad valorem duty, but they are opposed to protection. A tariff that is just will give all the protection that is necessary."

The unprecedented rains in the vicinity of Jeffersonville, Ind., continue. All creeks are out of their banks, and the railroads have been forced to withdraw their repairmen, as they cannot work owing to the weather. No mail trains have arrived there since Monday.

The Navy Department has sent notice to about 130 members of the new House of Representatives informing them of their right to appoint cadets to the Naval Academy. The candidates shall come for examination May 5. President McKinley, also, will have two appointments to the next class.

The April Number of The Delineator is called the Spring Number and Spring styles of Toilettes, wraps, Shirts, Waists, Skirts, Dress Gowns, Trimmings, Millinery, etc., are faithfully reflected and prefigured in its handsome and artistic color plates and monochrome illustrations. The general features of the number include an article on Washington Social Life by Charlotte Everett Hopkins, in which the complex relations of the official, political, diplomatic and other circles of the National Capital are interestingly set forth. The Delineator is the Woman's Favorite Magazine, and is issued by the Famous Fashion Publishers, The Butterick Publishing Co. (Limited), at 7 to 17 West 13th St., New York, at the remarkably low rate of $1.00 a year or 15 cents per copy.

The execution of Colin Daughdrill Friday recalls an incident that sins volumes of praise for the Travelers Protective Association. Mr. Bates—Daughdrill's victim—had a policy in the Association for $5,000, but it was made out to be paid in case of death by accident. When Bates was killed and while Daughdrill was on trial payment on the policy was withheld for the reason that it would be a virtual admission that Bates met his death by accident. Since the killing Mrs. Bates has died in the hospital at Tusculum, death being brought on by her frantic grief, and one of her two children has also died. An Advertiser man was told yesterday that the $5,000 would be paid to the only living member of the ill-fated family, the little 4-year-old child, and a guardian appointed for it.—Montgomery Advertiser.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The undersigned take this method of notifying the patrons of the Montevallo News that the paper has suspended publication.

We regret very much that this necessity has arisen—but find that we cannot, in justice to ourselves, continue its publication just now. Arrangements have been made with the Sentinel to complete the advertising and subscription contracts of the News and this, we hope will be satisfactory.

The Sentinel will also devote a liberal share of its space to the local interests of Montevallo and hopes thereby to supply, as far as possible, the loss of the News.

Thanking the many friends in Montevallo and vicinity for the generous support and encouragement extended the News during its brief career, we remain,

Very truly,
N. A. GRAHAM,
A. M. TRUE,

March 11, 1897.

A LETTER FROM TEXAS.

Bend, Texas, March 2.

As I have not written anything for the Sentinel in some time I thought I would send you a few items from western Texas.

Last year was a hard one for Texas, as is well known in other sections of the country. The people here say the crops last year were failures; but for all that they were nearly as good as those of Alabama.

Even the pecan crop was a failure and generally it is nearly as remunerative as that of cotton. But the cattle industry alone is what saves Texas these hard times, as farmers can always sell their stock at a fair price.

Western Texas used to flourish like a green bay tree, whether it rained or not. That was when tariff was on wool and hides. Then wool was worth 35 and 36 cents a pound, sheep sold for $7 a head and raw hides brought $3 and $4 apiece. Now wool sells at 5 and 6 cents a pound, sheep at 75 cents and $1 each, hides bring 50 and 75 cents apiece, yet woolen goods are very little cheaper, if any, than when the tariff was on the raw material. Thus you see the manufacturer gets all the profits—enormous profits—and the producer gets nothing—comparatively nothing. This is why Texas has always prospered during republican administrations. When the tariff was taken off a large number of men lost fortunes.

At the last Presidential election a great many democrats voted the republican ticket. This issue alone brought the north and the south together, as it seems the common interest in this respect of the two sections is the same. So last November the rebel and the yankee shook hands across the once wide and bloody chasm.

Eastern Texas is densely populated and voted for Bryan, hence the state went for him.

There is hope now among the people here that tariff will again be put on raw hides and wool during McKinley's administration, and if so prosperity will soon return to this part of the country if to no other. Then the immense plains here, which are now almost herdless, will again be roamed over by vast flocks of cattle.

The political sentiment in Texas and in Alabama is quite different. Here there is harmony and good will among the various parties. A large per cent of the people take and read populist and republican papers and are still considered good citizens, but such is not the case in Alabama.

Farmers are making preparations for another crop and it is thought they will be well paid for their labor this year, as we have had several good snows which are indicative of good crops. Corn is being planted—some planted last week.

The weather machine of Texas is always in good order, as it can grind out all sorts of weather on short notice—too short notice for the comfort of the people and the welfare of the stock.

The Texas school system is good and there is plenty of money to pay teachers well for their services, and the state is rapidly coming to the front in having the best educated people of the Union.

ANOTHER MAN ROBBED.

A special from Centreville dated March 9 says: Mr. Henry Parker, who lives about two miles from this place, was robbed last night. The robbers secured a fine gold watch and $400 in money. Mr. Parker is a paralytic and is entirely helpless. The robbers compelled his wife at the point of a pistol to open the safe where the money was kept. The robbers were white men.

MONTEVALLO DOTS.

J. J. Odum of Birmingham entered his sister of Pratt City in the Polytechnic school last Thursday.

Mrs. Mima Walker of Eutawdale, who has been spending several days with her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Reynolds, left for Blocton yesterday to visit her daughter at that place.

C. L. Meroney has let the contract for the erection of a brick store on Main street. Work will commence at once. Mr. Meroney lately retired from the firm of Morgan, Meroney & Co. and will open under the name of C. L. Meroney & Co.

Rev. V. O. Hawkins passed through Montevallo this week.

Mr. Hopkins of Birmingham arrived yesterday and placed his three daughters in the school.

Today numbered the 222d pupil of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for Girls, nee the Girls' Industrial school. The change of name was a welcome one as the old name smacked too much of a reformatory school.

Capt. Reynolds, the president, has thrown his whole heart and soul in the work and those who know him realize what that means. Everything moves like clock work and no idle bread is eaten around this institution by pupil or teacher. The cooking department recently organized under the supervision of Miss Nellie Evans of Washington is now the drawing attraction. At first but few of the girls intended taking cooking lessons. Now the pupils in that department number 123.

Today your correspondent in company with some visitors spent an hour in Miss Evan's department and saw the pupils make omelet, twin biscuits and steamed eggs. Everything was made so plain and simple that any girl in the class could make either of the dishes after the lesson.

Capt. Reynolds having been a merchant for a quarter of a century, his many friends in the mercantile world are proud of the success he is making of the school and are remembering him with presents of various kinds for the institution.

A fine side board and nice cooking stove came yesterday. These were preceded by barrels of flour, tiers of lard, barrels of sugar, coffee, extracts, baking powder, chocolate, knives, forks, swinging lamps, chairs, barrel of oil, barrel of molasses, nice table linen and napkins and many other things too numerous to mention. Sufficient to say, the "goose honks high" in the cooking department and the girls are happy.

The art department, under Miss McCoombs, is beginning to show her merit as a teacher and is a place of beauty. The dressmaking department under Mrs. Nelson is turning out some fine work. The music department is a veritable beehive and there are no drones there.

Miss Fox's pupils in typewriting and stenography are progressing finely. The teachers in the literary department are all hard worked but doing good work.

Capt. Reynolds has been fortunate enough to secure Mrs. Thos. Hudson, of Uniontown as a teacher in telegraphy. Mrs. Hudson is not only a fine telegraph operator but a woman of rare accomplishments and will be a delightful acquisition to the school.

Miss Bernice Jackson of Athens has a class in elocution independent of the school. Her recital last week was one of the best entertainments ever given here. She is a teacher of superior merit and withal a beautiful and attractive young woman.

An excursion has been arranged for the school to Birmingham on March 19.

In spite of the bad weather quite a nice crowd assembled at Lyman's hall last night to witness the play, "Among the Breakers," by the Montevallo Amateur Dramatic club. It was a most entertaining play and will be repeated tonight.—State Herald of March 6.

The Jasper Mountain Eagle says, with truth: "Somebody is inconsistent. We were told during the campaign last year that property had decreased in value 50 per cent, pointing to the tax assessments as evidence. Now we are told that almost one-half the taxes escape assessment."

South Carolina's House of Representatives has passed a law imposing license taxes upon every known vocation except those of farmers and laborers. Washerwomen must pay 50 cents per year, and peanut vendors are charged $1 per year. Alabama in some respects ran the South Carolina body a close race.—Advertiser.

Fifty Minnesota towns and villages held elections on the 9th inst. At North St. Paul, John Ownes, Democrat, was elected mayor by a majority of two votes. Elsewhere the Democrats carried a rather larger number of towns than usual. The fight on the license question was uppermost. The pro-liquor option carried thirty-five towns, five more than at the last election. The vote was the smallest in many years, owing to the new constitutional amendments, which requires that every voter must be a full citizen. Hitherto it has been the practice to take out first papers, and perhaps never take out the others. In many cases this year prominent citizens were neither able to run for office or vote.

JOHN GENTRY KILLED AT GURNEE.

A big cocking main was conducted on Saturday, between Bessemer and Blocton, near Gurnee, in Shelby county, on the Southern Railway. There was an attendance of 200 or 300 people from Blocton, Bessemer, Birmingham, Anniston, Calera, Hargrove, Belle Ellen and many other places and the sport ran high.

The main was disturbed about 3:15 o'clock by a shooting affray, in which one man was killed and another wounded.

The participants in the shooting affray were John Gentry, a coal weigher at Blocton, and Pink Montgomery, formerly Deputy Sheriff of Bibb county, and also living at Blocton.

It seems the men have been on the outs for some time and bad blood is said to have existed between them. Saturday there was a big crap game that was in operation near the chicken fight. A 25 cent piece revived the dispute between the two men, and in a moment the shooting began.

It is said that Gentry shot two shots first. Montgomery also fired twice. Montgomery was shot in the face and the leg, but both shots are grazes and the damage is not great.

Gentry was shot just over the left nipple in the region of the heart, and death resulted in a short while.

The chicken fight was broken up, great excitement prevailing for some time after the shooting.

Men from Birmingham who were present at the chicken fight state that the two men had a grudge against one another for some time, and the culmination thereof was no surprise.

Montgomery is not seriously wounded, so a report from Blocton this morning states. It was at first reported that Montgomery was fatally hurt, but a gentleman who came up from Blocton says that Montgomery will get over the wounds he received in the affray.

The Gentry family is a large one in Blocton and further trouble will most surely follow.

Gentry's remains was carried to town for interment. Montgomery is in Blocton. So far no arrests have been made, as can be learned.

For the last two Sundays Calera has been treated to the novel attraction of a salvation army performance conducted by a negro woman, professing sanctification. Her harangue was held on the platform at the railroad crossing immediately in front of the Ruby Saloon, and consisted of what she called preaching from the bible, and songs, after which she went through the crowd that had gathered and distributed a number of small tracts. The general remarks on the performance was that if the woman's faith is as strong as her lungs she will surely be saved.

A man stands no chance of being elected to the mayorship of a city unless he enjoys the confidence and esteem of his neighbors. George W. A "HOLD UP" ON THE L. & N.

The L. & N. passenger train, north bound, due to arrive in Birmingham at 12:22 yesterday morning, was held up two miles north of town and the express car looted.

The train was on time leaving Calera. On leaving here and when near the Stein line kilns, a short distance north of town, Sam Orr, the engineer, was surprised to hear some one call to him from the front platform of the mail car, ordering him to reverse his engine. An ugly weapon aided materially in the inducement for him to obey orders.

He complied with the instructions and as soon as the train came to a stop he was ordered down from the engine and at the advice of two men, heavily armed, cut loose the air brakes thereby completing the stoppage of the train.

The two men, with the engineer, then went back to the third car, the express, and the messenger, H. W. Gordon, upon being preemptorily ordered to open up, did so and the men went inside and secured a number of valuable packages, after which they went back with Engineer Orr to the front of the train, made him again adjust the air and pull out, leaving them masters of the situation with their booty.

None of the other cars attached to the train were visited though there were enough men to guard the exit to all doors and prevent surprises from any who might make an effort from the rear end of the train.

It is known that at least six men were in the holding up party, but how many more, if any, cannot be learned. The two men on the front of the train were heavily armed and, it is thought, had appliances for forcing the car door, if necessary, as they had some bundles with them.

The Sentinel learns that a quantity of dynamite was found near the scene of the robbery.

Sheriff O'Brien was called upon to come to the scene of the hold up, and as soon as possible left on a special train with five aides. He carried his dogs and six horses and got away from Birmingham a few minutes after 1 o'clock and arrived here at about 2.

It is impossible to learn the amount secured by the train robbers but a Sentinel man learned that the cash secured was in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Mr. L. N. Bowden of Montevallo was in the city Tuesday.

E. S. Lyman, Esq., of Montevallo, was in the city Monday.

Mr. Thos. R. Taylor was a visitor to Montgomery this week.

On the morning of Feb. 20, 1895, I was sick with rheumatism and lay in bed until May 21 when I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first application relieved me almost entirely from the pain and the second afforded complete relief. In a short time I was able to be up and about again.—A. T. Moreaux, Luverne, Minn. Mrs. Annie Mason and little daughter of Rugby, Tenn., who have for several weeks been visiting mother and grand mother, Mrs. Lillie Ounderdonk, of this place, left for home on Tuesday last. It is to be hoped, however, that they will soon be granted the pleasure of meeting her here again.

It is, or should be, the highest aim of every merchant to please his customers; and that the wide-awake drug firm of Meyers & Eshleman, of Sterling, Ill., is doing so, is proven by the following from Mr. Eshleman: "In my sixteen years experience in the drug business I have never seen or sold or tried a medicine that gave as good satisfaction as Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea Remedy." Sold by Dial Bros., druggists.

On Friday last Miss Ellie Green had the misfortune to lose a very fine and large canary bird which escaped from the cage and last seen of was in the woods near the L. & N. railroad bridge south of town. He has probably strayed around to some residence. Any information, left at the Sentinel office, that will lead to its recovery will be liberally rewarded. He was a deep yellow with a dim brown spot on head.

I desire to attest to the merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as one of the most valuable and efficient preparations on the market. It broke an exceedingly dangerous cough for me in 24 hours and in gratitude therefore, I desire to inform you that I will never be without it and you should feel proud of the high esteem in which your remedies are held by people in general. It is the one remedy among ten thousand. Success to it.—O. R. Downey, Editor Democrat, Albion, Ind.—For sale by Dial Bros. druggists

SOUTHERN RAILWAY EXHIBIT.

Arrangements have been perfected by which the Southern Railway's territory will be represented at the Exposition which opens at Nashville on May 1. This, like former exhibits made by that company, will include sample specimens of mineral, agricultural, forest and other products of the states of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, East Tennessee and Kentucky. This company's exhibit at the Atlanta and Pittsburgh Expositions attracted the attention of the agriculturist, manufacturer, miner, stock raiser and others, and did more to educate the visitors to an appreciation of the great wealth and possibilities of the South than any other one exhibit that was shown, and it is the policy of the company to actively continue this method of advertising. The scenic beauties of the country through which the Southern Railway runs will not be neglected in this exhibit.

Practically, this exhibit will be a bureau of information, so that visitors from the North and abroad can obtain specific data relative to all branches of industry in and tributary to the vast number of points on the Southern Railway.

This exhibit is under the direction of the Land and Industrial Department of the Southern Railway with headquarters at Washington D. C., and persons located along that system having exhibit material that they think will interest the public and thereby help advance the best interest of the section from which it comes, should at once communicate with the agent of that Department.

This is an exhibit in which every citizen of this section should be interested, and we hope that some of our readers can supply something to represent our territory.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Cathartic Cure, manufactured by P. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional remedy on the market. It is a powerful, but acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials free. Address: P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Gossipy Correspondence from the Capital City.

WASHINGTONIANS RELIEVED.
The New President Enters Upon His Duties Enthusiastically.—Grave and Important Questions Left by the Old Administration.—Saturday with the New Secretaries of Departments.

Washington, D. C. (Special Correspondence).—The great inaugural is over, the visiting throngs have departed, and Washingtonians, heaving a sigh of relief, have settled down to their various avocations, and things move on under McKinley and his aides, in the departments of National Government, just as though Cleveland and his able corps had not taken their departure. That the Administration of Grover Cleveland was one of marked ability no one will gainsay; that that of Major McKinley will be equally meritorious, there are few who will doubt.

The first morning after the inaugural exercises found the President stirring at an early hour. He greeted the White House officials at 7:30 o'clock, and breakfasted at 8 with the family party, including his wife, mother and other near relatives. Then he smoked a cigar, and at 9 o'clock entered the President's private office to begin coping with the flood of public business. Already crowds of people had begun to arrive, clamoring at the main entrance to the Executive Mansion for admission. The doors were kept closed against the general crowd until 10 o'clock, but in the meantime a number of callers having special business gained admission.

Never before in American history has an Administration been obliged to face at the very beginning of its assumption of power so many and important questions affecting the foreign relations of the United States as confront President McKinley and his premier, Secretary Sherman. All of these are important, and while some of them may be for a time kept in the back ground, others, and those of the utmost gravity, are likely to force themselves upon the attention of the new Administration in such a persistent manner that they must be met promptly. In the list of open diplomatic issues are some of the questions that were running along in diplomatic time-killing fashion when President Harrison turned over the helm of the ship of state to President Cleveland, but the latter, in his time, and with the best intentions, and in spite of the most heroic efforts, was obliged to add to the list and make new issues of his own that he was unable to bring to a conclusion before he, in turn, gave way to President McKinley. Among these questions we might mention the Cuban, the Hawaiian, the Alaskan boundary, the Arbitration Treaty and the Turkish, all of which are questions of grave interest, and will require thoughtful consideration on the part of the new Administration.

President McKinley's first official proclamation was issued Saturday afternoon, with the attestation of the new Secretary of State, John Sherman. It read as follows:

A PROCLAMATION.
Whereas public interest requires that the Congress of the United States should be convened in extra session at 12 o'clock on the 15th day of March, 1897, to receive such communications as may be made by the Executive,
Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim and declare that an extraordinary occasion requires the Congress of the United States to convene in extra session at the Capital in the city of Washington, on the 15th day of March, 1897, at 12 o'clock, noon, of which all persons who shall at that time be entitled to act as members thereof, are hereby required to take notice.

Given under my hand and the seal of the United States, at Washington, the 6th day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and twenty-first.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY, President.

JOHN SHERMAN, Secretary of State.

The limiting clause restricting the action of the extra session "to such communication as may be made by the Executive," suggests that possibly the President may limit the objects of the extra session to the passage of the unacted upon appropriation bills, and the enactment of a tariff law, the objects of which in the words of McKinley's inaugural address, will be "to stop deficiencies by the restoration of that protective legislation which has always been the finest."

To-day (Saturday) was a busy day with the various new Secretaries. Secretary Long, of the Navy, reached the department about 11:30. He received the bureau officers, the chiefs of divisions, the clerks and several hundred visitors who were about the corridors. Ex-Secretary Herbert stood with his successor. The officers and clerks were first introduced to Secretary Long, after which they passed to the ex-Secretary and bade him farewell. The reception lasted about thirty minutes, and at noon Secretary Long assumed his duties as Secretary of the Navy.

General Alger took charge of the War Department about a quarter to 12. He came from the White House with the Governor of Wisconsin, and his staff, who, with ex-Secretary Lamont, stood with him while he received the officers of the War Department and their subordinates. The first function on entering the office of Secretary, and before receiving the visitors, was to kiss his two daughters.

The new Postmaster-General, James A. Gary, arrived at the Postoffice Department at 11:45 a. m., accompanied by J. A. Richardson, of Washington. The gentlemen went at once to the office of the Postmaster-General, where they were awaited by ex-Postmaster-General Wilson. The several assistant postmasters-general then called in turn, and were presented to their new chief, and then presented the employees of their respective bureaus.

Secretary of the Interior Bliss reached the Interior Department at noon, and went at once to the Secretary's room, where Mr. Francis awaited him, and after cordial greetings, received the officers of the department, who presented their subordinates. All were cordially received by Mr. Bliss.

Secretary Sherman reached the Department of State shortly after 12 o'clock. As soon as he reached the building the officials of the department were notified, and soon after presented themselves. Many were introduced by ex-Secretary Olney.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson reached the scene of his new duties shortly after noon, and had a conference with the outgoing Secretary, Mr. Morton. Mr. Wilson was at the department yesterday, posting himself on the affairs that will now come under his supervision. To-day he met the heads of bureaus and chiefs of divisions. He will receive the clerks and other employees later.

A bit of information of peculiar interest to the friends of W. A. L. Chambers, of Alabama, comes to me to-day. It is that he has been chosen by the three powers, party to the Samoan agreement, as Chief Justice of Samoa, to succeed Mr. Ide, of Vermont.

SIX WEEKS WITHOUT SLEEP.

A STRANGE EXPERIENCE RELATED BY MRS. MORRIS GAFFIN.

She Was in Torture for Weeks—Excruciating Pains Made Her Life a Bredren—All Best Over and Helpless.

From the New Era, McMinnville, Tenn.
Three miles southeast of the lovely little city of McMinnville, Tennessee, nestling at the foot of the beautiful and grand "Ben Lomond" mountain, are many pretty and comfortable homes—located on fertile land, and shaded by grand and majestic forest trees.

In this locality Mrs. Morris Gaffin lives, with her sons, in comfort and contentment. Understanding that Mrs. Gaffin had been greatly benefited by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a reporter of the McMinnville New Era sent an inquiry. With this purpose in view a visit was made to the home of Mrs. Gaffin, and she was found to be one of those pleasant little women whom one meets with, now and then, in the constantly recurring changes in life. She gave the reporter a cordial welcome, and upon learning the object of the unexpected call, she brightly responded: "Well, I know of no reason why I should object to an interview if the report is not exaggerated. I am personally indebted to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and if my testimony can be the means of helping some one else who suffers as I suffered I surely ought not to withhold it."

"A year ago last October I caught a severe cold which resulted in rheumatism in my left side, causing me a great deal of suffering. I used plasters and home remedies, but obtained very little relief until the January following. For six weeks I had no restful sleep. During that time I used all the old remedies and many new ones, even sending to Chicago for medicines, but none of them did me any good. I was all bent over and drawn up until I could scarcely get about at all, and oh! how I did suffer!"

"Finally, one day, I told my son when he started to town, to bring me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; that I had tried everything else, and they might do me some good. He brought the box and I at once began to use them according to directions, and I began to improve by the time I had taken the fourth or fifth pill, and when I had finished the box I was entirely relieved, and could walk about as erect as ever. But I sent for another box. That was in June of last year, and I have never had a pain since. Every morning when I awake I am thankful and think how good it is to lie in such comfort. I thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the wonderful relief they brought me."

"Did you ever have the toothache?" she asked. "Well, if you have, you will know something about the pain I had. It was nothing more or less than a toothache in the hip—it was an excruciating pain."
"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unequalled remedy for such troubles as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of a gripe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or for the 10c), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y."

The Latest News of Our Own State.

The cotton mill at Anniston has been prosperous, and paid dividends of 25 per cent, while other industries were languishing.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company will make no protest to the O'Brien School tax, of Birmingham, but will pay their amount toward the support of the Birmingham schools.

At Pratt City, Friday morning, Forest Jackson, who runs a little grocery store, was shot in the neck, and painfully, though not dangerously wounded, by Joe Ayres, colored. The shooting was the result of a misunderstanding about some commissary checks.

The introduction of the sugar beet is attracting the attention of farmers in South Alabama. Recent investigations have developed the fact that the lands in the black belt are especially adapted to the growing of the sugar beet, an industry which will beat the raising of four-cent cotton too far to consider. The sugar beet will grow anywhere in Alabama.

Representatives from the various mining camps in the State held a meeting in Bricklayers' Hall on Twentieth street, Birmingham, Friday, for the purpose of selecting candidates for the appointment of State Mining Inspectors. The meeting was a large one, and much interest was shown.

Reports from the surveying party out of Columbus for the M. T. & M. Railway, are to the effect that everything is progressing satisfactorily. Several sub-contracts for building the road have been let.

The city of Tuscaloosa and the Water Works Company are having a bout over pure water. The Board of Health have recommended a change of water, and the city says the company must obey the order. The matter will be settled at an early meeting of the board of Mayor and Aldermen.

Birmingham is to have pottery works. The purpose at first is to utilize the plant of the Birmingham Fire Brick works, one of the most complete in the country, for the making of general clay goods, such as fire bricks, paving bricks and sewer pipe, and manufacture stoneware goods, in which there is a home market, such as jugs, flower-pots, lawn-vases, jars, crocks, churns, water coolers, etc.

The wheel department of the Elliott Car Works, near Gadsden, will start up in a few days. Capt. J. M. Elliott, Jr., informed a reporter for the Gadsden Times-News, that he had received a large order for wheels from Southern railroads, and that he will give employment to 100 men at once.

Mr. D. H. Duncan, traveling salesman for a Richmond, Va., tobacco house, committed suicide Friday evening at the residence of his brother-in-law, Capt. J. Morgan Smith, on the South Highlands, Birmingham, by shooting himself with a pistol. Ill health, with the belief by the deceased that he would never get well, caused him to become hopelessly despondent, and led him to take his life.

Colin Daughdrill was hanged in the county jail yard at Gadsden for the crime of murder, a jury having adjudged him guilty of killing J. I. Bates, a traveling man. The trap was sprung at 1 o'clock and the body fell five feet, the victim's neck being broken by the fall. He was pronounced dead in seven minutes. Daughdrill died game, his last advice to his brother, John, being, "Make a man of yourself, John."

The Hoffman and Billings Manufacturing Company, of Milwaukee, Wis., will remove its entire pipe plant to Gadsden as soon as the railroads can transport the machinery, a part of which is now speeding Southward. The Hoffman and Billings Company has been extensively engaged in manufacturing soil pipe for a number of years. The concern is one of the best known in the country, and its factory was located in the best market for the article it manufactured. But competition has forced it to pull up stakes and go to Gadsden. The company will be known as the Hoffman, Billings and Weller Manufacturing Company. The new plant and the Weller Pipe Works will be merged into one and the same industry. Two large buildings will be constructed immediately and other improvements will be made as soon as possible. The capacity of the plant will be increased to forty-five tons daily; the Weller Pipe Works only made eight tons. The outlay of money to construct the improvements will not be less than $60,000. The company is incorporated for $100,000.

Mrs. Annie Besant makes a touching appeal in a New York newspaper for famine-stricken India, and if half she relates is true the conditions in some parts of that country are terrible, but we do not see why America should be called upon to relieve distress in a British province. Great Britain has milked India dry for two generations, and her government and people have been glutted with substance wrung from a proud-spirited and conquered people. If the English had spent half the money the Indian army has cost in building reservoirs and irrigating ditches famine might have been unknown.

Apologies of the large mortality by the inhalation of illuminating gas, it is interesting to note that the medical societies of Pennsylvania are giving their attention to a substitute for the gas-lights. They have concluded that the most humane method of extinguishing the life of the criminal sentenced to death is by the use of gas, and they propose to present a bill to the Legislature this winter providing for the change.

A pretty ring, earrings, stock-pin, bracelets.

Force of habit strong in life is illustrated in the trappings of a dray mule in New Orleans, which used to haul a bobtail car and refuses now to draw the wagon an inch unless the old car bell dangles from its collar.

Having coined "gasphyxia" as a term to describe death by escaping gas, the people of Boston now propose to adopt "drigible," from the French, to express "that which can be directed or steered." What is the matter with "directable?"

Pill Clothes.
The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, enabling it to retain all its remedial value, and it disguises the taste for the palate. Some pill coats are too heavy; they will not dissolve in the stomach, and the pills they cover pass through the system as harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. It's a good pill with a good coat. Ask your druggist for

THE BIG ARMCHAIR.

BY HELEN FORREST GRAVES.

"It wasn't my fault," said Mrs. Brickett; "nor yet I won't take it upon me to say that it was Brickett's. But we couldn't agree, me and Brickett. So we separated."

"Dear me!" said Mrs. Marrowfat.

"It was all about Grandfather Gunn's big armchair," said Mrs. Brickett, stitching resolutely at her new Sunday gown. "Now I look back on it, it does seem silly that I and Brickett should quarrel about such a little thing. But when your temper's up, you know, you can't stop to reason, as you do at ordinary times."

"No, indeed!" said Mrs. Marrowfat.

"Grandfather Gunn willed Brickett that big armchair," went on Mrs. Brickett. "He hadn't a great deal to leave, poor old fellow, but he did what he could. It was a great, ugly, old-fashioned thing, as cumbersome to move as a horse and chaise, and dreadfully old-fashioned in the make. So says I, 'It ain't fit for any place but the store-room.' 'Store-room, indeed!' says Brickett. 'My Grandfather Gunn's armchair ain't going to be hustled away into any store-room. I'm just going to have it down stairs, where I can set in it, and take my comfort,' says Brickett, says he. 'It don't match any of my furniture,' says I. 'Then take your furniture somewhere else,' says Brickett. Well, the first we knew, we came to light words, me and Brickett. 'I'll go home to mother,' says I. 'The sooner the better,' says he. 'I've stood your temper till I can't stand it no longer!' So I came home to mother—and Brickett, he's let the farm and gone out West, so the Widow Simmons writes me; for, of course, I've no way of knowing anything about it myself."

And Mrs. Brickett brushed a tear out of the corner of her eye with the frill of her apron.

"Dear, dear!" said Mrs. Marrowfat. "I suppose Mr. Brickett was a great trial to you?"

"No, I can't say that he was," acknowledged Mrs. Brickett. "He had a temper of his own, had Brickett; but so had I. I'm most sorry, now, I didn't let Grandfather Gunn's armchair stand by the settin'-room fire—just where he wanted it!"

"Why don't you write and tell him so?" suggested Mrs. Marrowfat.

"I won't be the dust under any man's feet!" said Mrs. Brickett, with spirit. "I've left him, and I'm not the woman to go fawning back again and ask his pardon, for standing up for my own rights—no, that I'm not!"

But after Mrs. Marrowfat had folded her knitting work into its bag, put her best cap into a pasteboard box, and gone home, Mrs. Brickett sat sadly looking out where the tall, red hollyhocks nodded their heads above the garden wall, and the bees came humming home from the white-blossomed buckwheat fields beyond, and thought of the pleasant old farm in the Unadilla Valley, with the steep-roofed, old-fashioned house, and Grandfather Gunn's big armchair standing vacant by the unused hearthstone, and she almost felt as if she had done wrong.

"But I'd die before I'd own as much to Brickett!" said she.

So, by way of securing a change of air and scene, and diverting her mind from the folly of her conduct, Mrs. Brickett concluded to go out West, and visit an old schoolmate who had married and settled there.

"Perhaps, if I like Kansas, I shall stay there," said she, to herself. "It don't matter very much whether I live in one place or another, nowadays."

It was a long, tedious journey—especially so to Mrs. Brickett, who was not an accomplished traveler.

The evening of the second day closed in wet and windy, as they came steaming steadily along on the edge of an almost interminable prairie.

They had stopped for supper at an insignificant little town where they changed conductors, and, as Mrs. Brickett leaned back in her corner, with a veil over her face and a camphor-bottle at her nose, she could see the stalwart figure of the new conductor gathering up the tickets right and left.

"Just such a man as Brickett used to be," thought the poor, solitary wife. "Dear, dear! I don't see what keeps putting Brickett into my head the whole time!" and she cried, quietly, behind her veil. "It's because the camphor is so strong," said she; but she knew better all the while.

The conductor had taken up all his tickets at last. He came and sat down beside a stout, genial-faced man, in the seat directly in front of her.

"So your going home, Wallis," said he.

"My goodness me, it is Brickett!" gasped the weary traveler, at the familiar accents of the voice.

"Yes," the genial-faced man made prompt reply. "I'm off duty until Monday morning; and I haven't seen my wife in a month—nor my home."

"It's a great deal to have a home to go to," said Conductor Brickett, a little huskily, "and a wife. I've got neither."

"Your wife is dead?"

"I have lost—her," the conductor replied, evasively.

"I suppose you set a deal of store by her?" said the stout man, sympathizingly.

"I did," answered the conductor; "I do now. But I've lost her."

He rose abruptly from his seat, and went to the glazed door at the end of the car—it was the last on the train—to look out at the wild landscape—the eternal flat sameness of the prairies.

Presently, a touch fell lightly on his arm.

"Brickett," said a soft, hesitating voice, "you have lost me!"

"Hester!" he cried out, with a start; "it is never you! Here? and alone?"

"I've behaved like a fool, Brickett," said the wife, trying her best to keep down the hysterical lump in her throat. "And I won't say that you was altogether right—"

"I was a brute, Hester!" he interrupted.

"But, oh, Brickett! I haven't known a happy moment since I went away and left the old farm in the Unadilla Valley!" pleaded the wife.

"Nor I!" he uttered, hoarsely. "Hester—wife—shall we go back?"

"And how about Grandfather Gunn's armchair?" she said, half laughing, half crying.

"We'll split it up for kindling-wood," said Brickett.

"No, we won't," said Mrs. Brickett.

"We'll varnish it up and recushion it, and set it by the sitting-room fire—just where you wanted it!"

Mr. and Mrs. Brickett went on to the end of the journey, and then Mr. Brickett resigned his conductor's cap and badge.

"Isn't this rather a sudden notion of yours, Brickett?" said the superintendent of the road.

"Well, yes, rather," said Brickett. "But I've made up my mind to go back to farming."

So Mr. and Mrs. Brickett returned once more to the old homestead.

Levi Cartwright, the incumbent, was only too glad to leave the farm. He was tired of the monotonous life.

"But there's one thing I'd ought to tell you," said he. "The keepin'-room ceilin' fell down one day last week—folks don't put up plaster now as they did in my teens—and smashed that there old armchair of your'n into splinters. Good thing no one chanced to be settin' in it just then; but we was all out at the back of the house, hivin' a swarm of bees. Real providential, wasn't it?"

And Mr. and Mrs. Brickett looked at each other, and agreed that it was.—Saturday Night.

Hunting in Dreams.

James Bolton, a New Yorker who visits the Adirondacks every year to hunt deer, has a lean-to camp on a stream in Northern Herkimer county, where he entertains his friends. He sees things and does things sometimes in his dreams that make him a source of anxiety to his friends and his guides.

Last fall Sam Cooley, one of Mr. Bolton's guides, was lying in the guide's shelter half awake, when he saw some one slip out of the owner's camp with a rifle in his hands. What was more serious, the figure was slipping 38-calibre shells into the magazine. Cooley divined the situation instantly, and started toward the man, whom he recognized as Bolton, but Bolton got beyond the firelight before the guide could reach him, and then stopped and seemed to be steering off into the woods.

Up came the rifle, and seven shots were fired, each sounding like a cannon's roar in the perfect night quiet of the woods. Everybody except Bolton woke up, and the dogs let out howls of wonderment. Meantime Cooley had grabbed a water pail half full of water and thrown the contents over Bolton just as he was about to fire again. It was Bolton's turn to howl then. The cold water woke him up, and he was inclined to swear at the guide before he realized the danger he had been in. He had been shooting, he thought, at a buck deer. All the bullets were found next day in a hemlock stump, and they could have been covered with a hat.

Mr. Bolton once went still hunting, a little after midnight, and was not found until 7 a. m. He had awakened once during his trip, but had been unable to make his way back to camp.

A fisherman fell asleep while fishing for black bass at Philadelphia, N. Y., one day and dreamed he had a bite. He yanked his pole up and a one pound bass swung into his face. On waking up he found that he had pulled up his pole, but instead of a bass, a tin can swung against his cheek.—New York Sun.

Products of Hawaii.

Besides sugar and rice, the staple products, coffee, bananas, oranges and other fruits are largely grown. Food products are abundant, especially of the kind suitable to a hot climate, says "Paradise of the Pacific."

The native food consists largely of the taro plant, of which the best varieties are grown in the shallow ponds of fresh water. From this plant is made the poi, which is the ordinary food of the Kanaka.

The sweet potato grows even among the rocks and flourishes abundantly in good soil, while the common potato sometimes grows well, though it is often injured by worms.

The quality of the coffee raised is equal to the choicest.

The climate is also very favorable to the growth of the long staple sea-island cotton; but as this variety must be picked by hand, the high price of labor in the islands renders its culture unprofitable.

Tropical fruits of nearly all kinds grow in the richest abundance, the orange, lemon, lime, mango, pineapple, hirimoya, or custard apple, the alligator pear, pomegranate and guava, all of which are exotic.

The banana is indigenous, and is the most abundant of all fruits; besides it there are the ohia apple—a fruit peculiar to the Pacific islands, soft, juicy and mildly acid—many varieties of palms, the choicest trees of India, the caoutchouc, the papaya, the traveler's tree of Madagascar and other foreign plants.

Extinguished Extravagance.

"My mother says," the young woman observed to her fiancé, "that she does not approve of a young man's giving a girl expensive presents before they are married."

"That's very unreasonable."

"I don't see why."

"Because, so far as I can learn from observation, after marriage the desire to give expensive presents becomes totally extinct."—Washington Star.

SLEPT ON THE TRACK.

He Was Found With the Top of His Head Torn Off.

Quitman, Ga.—A man named W. A. Bullard, of High Springs, Fla., was found dead with the whole top of his head torn off, on the railroad track just half a mile west of here Sunday morning. He had evidently been killed by the eastbound morning train, as his body was still limp and warm when found a little after daylight. He was first discovered by some negroes who live close to where he was killed. Bullard was unknown in these parts and his identity was disclosed only by articles on his person. There was on his body $11.33 in money, a permit from the Masonic lodge at Warwick, Ga.; a letter from Perry & Tipton, attorneys, of Warwick, Ga., and several letters of recommendation from various people, some of whom are prominent in business circles. He also had a silver watch and chain and a charm at the end of the chain, one side of which was a Masonic chart. On the other was engraved "W. A. Bullard, Albany, Chapter No. 15, Royal Arcan Masons."

The Masons of the city took the body in charge and purchased a shroud and coffin. The chapter of Albany was telegraphed; also parties at Warwick, and Seville, Ga., and High Springs, Fla., and the telegrams were answered and stated that he was a man of good family and a good Mason.

The telegram to High Springs found his wife, who ordered that the remains be carried to Valdosta, where she would meet and take them to Seville for interment.

It seems that Bullard came to Quitman Saturday night on the 12 o'clock train and had started to walk out to Section Boss L. C. Griffin's home, three miles up the railroad with whom he was acquainted, but lost his way and lay down on the track and went to sleep.

CHILDREN PLAY WITH A PISTOL.

WAS JUST IN TIME.

He Dropped Dead, But Was Converted the Night Before.

Memphis, Tenn.—A white man, supposed to be Thomas McNicholas, from papers found on his person, died while sitting in a chair in an eating house adjoining McKenna's saloon, at 6 Adams street, Saturday afternoon, about 1 o'clock. The man expired without any one knowing it. When he was found by the proprietor of the place he was dead. Patrolman Franklin was called in and examined the body. He found naturalization papers in the man's pockets. The papers were issued to Thomas McNicholas by the United States Circuit Court, Massachusetts district, and were dated October 18, 1903. The recipient of the papers was a native of County Mayo, Ireland. No other documents or papers were found on the body by which to identify the man. An inquest as to the cause of death was unnecessary, as there were no indications of death occurring by other than natural causes. It is said the man was one of five men who professed religion at the Rescue Mission on the night before. Mr. Strawberry, who is conducting the mission, viewed the body and identified the man as one of the number who had been converted on the night before. The remains were turned over to the county undertaker to be buried.

HEAVY HAIL FALL.

Somerville, Tenn.—The most severe hail-storm ever known in this vicinity struck Somerville about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Hail larger than a partridge egg fell for nearly half an hour and accumulated several inches deep on the ground. Considerable damage was done to residences and storehouses in town. The Tennessee Midland Railroad is submerged at several places.

THE GREAT MISSISSIPPI

Higher Than Ever Known Before.—Levees Guarded.

Memphis, Tenn.—The Mississippi river here registered a higher stage of water Saturday than ever known. Disaster attending this condition began that day, two Arkansas towns across from this city being submerged and the inhabitants driven to safer places. These are Marion and West Memphis. The former is under from three to four feet of water, due to a break of its protection levee. The break occurred before many of the inhabitants had left their beds, and there was a scene of great excitement, but no loss of life. Live stock, however, is being almost exterminated, the highest points in that section being under water. This city is, of course, in no danger as a whole, owing to its natural protection, but the bayou extending entirely through the city, is overflowing from the river back-water and threatening damage to adjoining property. From one of the largest cotton sheds on its banks today it became necessary to remove 3,000 bales of cotton from the waters path. So far as is known none of the main levees are trembling under the pressure of water, but they are being guarded all along the line.

PASSED THE CENTURY POST.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Easter McCollough, a negro woman who claimed to be 115 years of age, died Sunday at the home of her great-grandson. The woman has been known as an "old woman" to the oldest inhabitant, and there is ample evidence to prove that she had passed her 100th birthday. She says she was born in 1779.

JOKE ON WILLIAM J. BRYAN.
Chicago Chronicle.

William Jennings Bryan enjoys a good story as well as any one, even if the point is directed against himself. One which John Kelsey gathered in a recent Southern trip will probably amuse Mr. Bryan. Here it is. Mr. Bryan on one of his trips visited an insane asylum. He manifested considerable interest in the more rational class of patients to be found in such institutions, and they showed considerable interest in the Presidential candidate. One of the number plied the visitor with questions, and finally asked him what he was there for and what his fad was.

The official who was showing Mr. Bryan about the place advised him to humor the patients, and Mr. Bryan answered the query by saying: "My fad is the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1."

His questioner stepped back, looked at Mr. Bryan from head to foot, and in a tone of commiseration said: "Oh you are not crazy; you're simply a d—n fool."

FLED AND WAS CAPTURED.

A Taladega special to the Montgomery Advertiser says:

Several sensational matters in the nature of forgeries have developed in this county within the past week on T. H. Bass of Sylacauga. Bass fled the state last Thursday or Friday. He has been apprehended in Houston, Texas, and is on his way back. The crooked papers are said to have been two notes of $300 with the forged endorsement of Hon. J. E. Camp, one of which he discounted to D. L. Lewis, the other to Smith Bros; a mortgage of $400 to T. H. Matthews; a deed from Gaddis, his father-in-law; a note to Hammett for $225, with the endorsement of Gaddis, are all said to be forgeries. Bass has been somewhat prominent in county politics and has figured in State and district conventions. He recently appeared as manager of the Wellington Vandiver lectures, and figured before the Governor in the Harry Davis pardon which has caused considerable breeze in this section. His spurious papers amount to about $1,500.

DEATH OF MR. R. T. BURNS.

A Selma special of the 15th inst, to the Montgomery Advertiser says:

The city was shocked this morning by the announcement of the death of Mr. Robert Travis Burns. He was not known to be seriously sick, and the news was, of course, entirely unexpected. Mr. Burns was taken ill Thursday last, but it was supposed that he would be out again in a few days. He was stopping at Mr. J. L. Clay's home on Lauderdale Street.

The doctor left him between 9 and 10 o'clock Sunday night and his condition was at that time in no way serious. He was given nourishment at 3 o'clock this morning and expressed himself as feeling much better, but at 6 o'clock heart failure was noticed and he gradually sank until 11 o'clock when he died. Deceased was born at the old Burns homestead in Burnsville forty-eight years ago, and was a brother of Messrs John F., George B. and William W. Burns, and Mrs. M. L. Clay.

He was a representative from Dallas to the Legislature in 1894-95, and was a member of the Dallas Light Dragoons, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias.

He was popular wherever known; generous to a fault and kind and gentle as a woman.

Gov. Bradley, of Ky., has refused a respite in the case of Alonzo Walling, convicted of complicity in the murder of Pearl Bryan. Walling will be hanged next Saturday with Scott Jackson.

SYNOPSIS OF THE WORK DONE THE FIRST SESSION.

The following private letter to Hon. John McQueen will be read with interest by everyone interested in school work:

Montevallo, Ala, March 8, 1897.

Hon. John McQueen, Birmingham:

My Dear Sir:—As we have entered upon the second term of our school, the first ending the 22d of January, and knowing your great interest in the same it occurs to me that it would not be amiss for me to write, giving you a synopsis of the work being done.

In the first place I will remind you of the fact that we opened the school with only six weeks notice, with nearly 150 pupils from various portions of the state. Since then the school has continued to grow in popular favor until we have enrolled exactly 220 pupils; and here allow me to say that I have not yet refused an applicant, that was qualified, a place in the school.

You will probably recollect in the instructions given me, it was expected that certain branches of the school should be established as speedily as possible. In pursuance of these directions, I have, as fast as I could make necessary arrangements, done this, and we have following departments in operation at present:

Mathematics, presided over by Prof. Simmons, composing classes of arithmetic, algebra, geometry and trigonometry. The pupils in these classes number 186. You readily see that quite a number of these pupils are in two or more of these studies, which accounts for the large show in this department. He is a very energetic and thorough instructor and is doing his work exceedingly well.

The department of English and History, presided over by Miss Annie Kennedy, consists of three classes in history, numbering 145, and three in English, numbering 184. She has done excellent work and her pupils are showing its effects.

Next we have the department of pedagogy and assistant in English, presided over by Miss B. M. Maloy. This consists principally of normal pupils, who are progressing finely. The number of pupils in this school is 86, which includes physical geography, theory and practice and school management; also a class in United States History. Her work is quite satisfactory.

You will no doubt recall the fact that there was no chair of languages provided for, in arranging our curriculum, and as a knowledge of Latin is necessary for the equipment of teachers, the three above named teachers each kindly took a class in this study, in addition to their other work, for which they deserve much credit.

Our lady principal, Mrs. M. C. Babb, who presides over the study hall and directs the entire school, has the classes of orthography, writing and besides has one class in arithmetic, one in geology and one in psychology. She has shown very fine executive ability, and is a very superior teacher in every respect.

We have four fine music teachers, Misses Addie Lee, Edna Bush, Laura Dale and Sallie Crumpton. The last named lady teaches both vocal and instrumental music. Each teacher has about thirty pupils and they are doing a most excellent work, giving perfect satisfaction.

Then we have a dressmaking department, presided over by Mrs. G. Nelson. She has 125 pupils, divided into two classes, the plain sewing class and the advanced sewing class. They were engaged during the first term largely in making uniforms for the entire school. Since that time they have been doing work for the public, for which they receive pay. It has been necessary to provide an assistant in this department, which was filled by one of the pupils, who had shown such decided talent in this line as to entitle her to the position. and at the close of the session she is engaged to take charge of an establishment. Mrs. Nelson cannot be surpassed in her line of work.

In typewriting and stenography, we have Miss Susie Fox as teacher. She has a total of 74 pupils, 36 in stenography and 38 in typewriting. The work she has done so well is proving itself in the admirable manner in which her pupils are mastering the profession, whose details she is so competent to impart.

In the department of telegraphy, we will have Mrs. Florence Hudson, who is a first-class operator, having done considerable work for the Western Union company, and whose experience of English as well as telegraphy renders her well fitted for the situation.

Our school of telegraphy will, when completed, be established at a very small outlay on our part, owing to the great interest taken in it by Mr. H. L. Adams of Gadsden who, hearing of our intention to establish this branch, claimed the privilege of making the school a present of the entire plant, we furnishing only the poles and digging the holes to put them in. He will place six instruments in the room for telegraphy; one at the postoffice, where I have a son who is an operator; the other W. M. Green, superintendent Southern Railway company, kindly allows us to place in the depot. I suppose the entire plant would have cost us $150 or $200 as all of the instruments are of finest make and everything will be fitted up in the best manner. Mr. Adams is a native of Montevallo. He was left early in life an orphan and had but few advantages of education, but being one of the most energetic and industrious boys he has worked his way up in the world until he has become quite eminent in his profession.

In the department of art, Miss Ella McCoombs is teacher and has sixty pupils, consisting of seven classes in drawing and painting. Her pupils are making a very gratifying showing rapidly learning to do work that reflects great credit upon their teacher.

You will remember the board elected a lady with fine testimonials to take charge of the scientific cooking department, but before I could notify her she had accepted a place with another institution. I was obliged to look elsewhere and at length secured a teacher in the city of Washington—Miss Nellie Evans—an educated and refined lady and a graduate of one of the best schools in the country. She delivers lectures in this department and then gives practical lessons in cooking, all of which are highly interesting and edifying. I was at a loss for material to demonstrate the practical work in this line, but quite a number of friends with whom I have been dealing kindly rendered me help by sending numerous presents with which to fit up our model kitchen and dining room and make exhibitions in cookery. For instance the Chattanooga Stove company sent us a fine stove; Loomis & Hart, Chattanooga, a fine sideboard. Other articles, such as table damask, glassware, several barrels of flour, a barrel of sugar, a tierce of lard, knives and forks, several dozen chairs, etc., have been contributed by other friends, all of which will be of service.

I must not forget to mention our college physician, Dr. E. G. Givhan, who is so patient, prompt, kind and attentive to the sick. In addition to his services as college physician, he is delivering a series of lectures to the school on physiology which are highly appreciated.

Our school opens at 8:15 a.m. It is a rare thing to be without visitors at this time as the school is attracting a great deal of attention. The opening exercises consist of reading the Bible singing and prayer. The teachers all being present seated on the rostrum. I have the school well supplied with Gospel Hymns and I can see a marked improvement in the singing of the girls.

The work on our new building which is one wing of the original plan, is at a standstill at present, and has been for some time past, awaiting the arrival of some pressed brick. With its stone trimmings, and pressed brick front, it will present as handsome appearance, I think, as any building in the state, and will be a model which I trust will be followed in the future, for I feel that before many years this school will demonstrate that it deserves all the building that any institution can possibly be entitled to. The Southern railway has shown great liberality transporting our building material free of charge, which has saved a cash outlay of over $2,000.

I also wish to say, that the citizens here deserve great credit for the noble manner in which they have seconded my efforts. Starting as we did without a single shelter in which to place a pupil, they have opened their homes to the girls, regardless of the low-priced board, and as evidence of their kindness and attention, there is scarcely a girl here today whose uniform has not been enlarged, owing to the fact that they have increased very greatly in size, gaining all the way from two to thirty pounds apiece, and I doubt very much if there is a girl here today who is not heavier than when she arrived.

One of the teachers even has gained twenty-seven pounds. A Miss Green, who weighed ninety-eight pounds when she arrived, now weigh 132, etc. The variety of the school the continual change from one department to another, the amount of exercise that it gives, the release from study to relaxation, as they change from literary to industrial departments, as well as the pure air, good water and healthful location seem to give the girls new life, and if you could see them as they pass from one building to another in groups I am sure you would say it was a beautiful sight. The great change that has come over the girls is very apparent, and by the end of the session will be even more so, for the improvement is very marked indeed, mentally as well physically. I have already many applications for places in the school for pupils the coming session, which I file without making any promises. I realize the fact that we will in all probability have offers for more pupils next session than we will be able to accommodate, and that it will be necessary to distribute the scholarships as evenly as possible throughout the counties and districts of the state; giving to each their pro rata, according to the census of girls within educatable age in each.

Our present study hall will seat only 200 pupils. It will be necessary to change it, which can be done without very great outlay and give us one that will seat 400, or more, in this same building.

Our new dormitory, I think will provide for 100 boarders. Quite a number of houses are being erected and more being projected, to be built during the summer; and I believe that we will enroll at least 400 pupils the next season.

Now, my dear sir, I am gratified beyond expression to be able to make so favorable a report of the work, and I know it is a source of gratification to you, both as a trustee and as one who loves our state and its people. I do not think a more worthy object was ever placed in the hands of trustees than this school.

I neglected to mention what may not be news to you that the state gave us $30,000 for the next two years expenses; you will also notice that the name has been changed to the Alabama Polytechnic Institute which was quite necessary from the fact that the schools all over the state called industrial schools are known as reformatory schools and the name was likely to become an unpleasant reflection upon ours, hence the necessity of the change. There was an act passed also through the instrumentality of Mr. Virgil Bauldin, one of the trustees, who fortunately for us was a member of the house of representatives—making it necessary to elect a treasurer for the school, and I hope shortly to see this done, as the present way of securing pay for the teachers is very trying, costly and inconvenient. For instance, I remained in Montgomery the 25th and 26th of last month, was absent three days and each day I tried to secure a quorum of five trustees to audit the bills for the school expenses but failed and eventually had to come home and defer action, consequently the teachers who are out of money are placed at much inconvenience as their pay is small at best, not amounting to much over $5.00 per annum, being employed about eight months in the year and having no other occupation it is very hard upon them. They are doing a good work and deserve much praise for the great interest they have shown.

In conclusion I will say that I have given the school all the attention and skill at my command. It has been the pride of my life to endeavor to make it a success and I am gratified beyond expression that it is believed by those competent to judge to be succeeding admirably.

I want to thank you for your kindness and for whatever assistance and encouragement—in the responsible position I am occupying—you have rendered me, and hope and trust that the day is not far distant when we can have you here in person to see and to judge for yourself and advise in all that we are doing. I do not believe that any school offers greater advantages than this. I am sure none can do more for the cost and I believe the state will show its great appreciation of the wisdom you as a trustee have shown in the direction of this grand addition to the cause of the education in Alabama.

I will be glad to hear from you at any time with any suggestions you may think in necessary to make.

Respectfully your obedient servant,
H. C. KYNODES, President.

The circuit court for this county will convene at Columbiana on Monday.

Capt Wm. C. Ward of Birmingham spent several hours in the city last Saturday.

March weather holds on and the frequent rains are retarding farming operations very much.

Flavius Onderdonk of the L. & N. road, was detained at home here for a day or two during the past week by illness.

Dr. Cad's Condition Powders, are just what a horse needs when in bad condition. Tonic, blood purifier and vermifuge. They are not food but medicine and the best in use to put a horse in prime condition. Price 25 cents per package.

The chancery court for this county, Chancellor Dowdell presiding, convened at Columbiana on last Thursday and held a three days session. The case against the Alabama Iron & Steel company engaged the principal attention of the court. There was quite a distinguished array of attorneys in attendance.

Hon. Cecil Brown, representing Hon. Thos. S. Plowman, and Hon. E. H. Dryer, representing Hon. W. F. From all that we can learn the testimony obtained was not very favorable to Mr. Aldrich.

A man stands no chance of being elected to the mayorship of a city unless he enjoys the confidence and esteem of his neighbors. George W. Humphrey is the popular mayor of Swanton, Ohio, and under date of January 17, 1896, he writes as follows: "This is to certify to our appreciation of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My family and neighbors have tested it and we know it is an excellent remedy for coughs and colds.—George W. Humphrey." Sold by Dial Brothers, Druggists.

R. E. Gibson of Birmingham has just purchased at Hood Farm, Lowell, Mass., a very fine young Berkshire boar. His sire is King Lee VII, full brother of the great King Lee, winner of the sweepstakes as best Berkshire boar of any age at the great St. Louis and Illinois State fairs in 1892, and winner of sweepstakes for best boar bred by exhibitor, at the World's Fair, Chicago, 1893. The dam of the pig purchased by Mr. Gibson is Warwick Lady, a sow imported by the Hood Farm and her dam is Illumination. The herd of Berkshires at Hood Farm is made up of the best imported and domestic strains of blood and Mr. Gibson has shown good judgment in selecting from such famous stock.

A PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Mr. R. A. Ebert, a travelling agent for the Mohawk Refining Company of Cleveland, Ohio, met with a painful accident at the home of G. G. West in the Dry Valley neighborhood near this city a week or ten days ago. Mr. Ebert stopped with Mr. West for the purpose of spending a few days in recreation, and a morning or two afterwards, while getting his gun in readiness to take a hunt he accidentally discharged the whole load of bird shot entering his right wrist and making an ugly and painful wound. Mr. Ebert was fortunately at Mr. West's house at the time of the accident and prompt attention was given him. The physicians called to attend him are making every effort to save his hand but our information is that they are in grave doubt as to the result and feared that amputation might be necessary. He is still at Mr. West's, at least was the first of this week and was getting along as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Col. Bush of Birmingham was a visitor to the city Monday.

Post office Inspector Rosser was a visitor to the city yesterday.

T. T. Woody taught a singing class at this place during the past week.

Mrs. F. M. Vance returned home from a visit to Birmingham Tuesday evening. Commercial travellers are getting quite numerous—a good sign of improvement in the business line.

Miss Mary Davis, a popular young lady of Gadsden, is visiting the city and is the guest of Mrs. S. W. Crook.

Editor H. C. DuBose of the Columbiana Chronicle was a pleasant caller at this office on last Monday, while enroute home from a visit to Huntsville.

E. N. Penick, former railroad agent at this place but now the agent at Decatur, came down Tuesday evening to visit his family and also to make arrangements for the removal of his family to Decatur.

Died, at his home on Spring Creek on Tuesday night last, about 10 o'clock, after a protracted illness, Hunter H. Lomb. He leaves a widow and several children. He was a brother of Jasper Holcomb of this place.

Mustang Walter and Capt. A. G. Shaw's Wild West Historical Show is said to be one of the best. It gave exhibitions for three days at Columbiana during the past week and all who attended were pleased.

The Birmingham News on Tuesday evening reported the capture of two of the alleged L. & N. train robbers. It says they are white men but on account of the reticence of the railroad officials and the detectives it was unable to locate the place of arrest or the names of the parties or their place of confinement.

On the morning of Feb. 20, 1895, I was sick with rheumatism and lay in bed until May 21 when I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first application relieved me almost entirely from the pain and the second afforded complete relief. In a short time I was able to lie up and about again.—A. T. McCreux, Laverne, Minn. Miss May Harris, one of the most popular visitors who comes to Birmingham, and whose friends in the city are legion, left for her home at Montevallo yesterday after a pleasant stay of two weeks.—Birmingham News.

It is, or should be, the highest aim of every merchant to please his customers; and that the wide-awake drug firm of Meyers & Eshleman, of Sterling, Ills., is doing so, is proven by the following from Mr. Eshleman: "In my sixteen years experience in the drug business I have never seen or sold or tried a medicine that gave as good satisfaction as Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhea Remedy." Sold by Dial Bros., druggists.

MRS. SALLIE JOHNSON.

Of all the questions, many and varied as they are, bearing upon the human mind, the one most important, in fact, paramount, to all is "What must I do to inherit eternal life," has been settled, reaffirmed and confirmed time and time again and has been verified in the death of "old Aunt Sallie Johnson," that "there is rest to the children of God."

Her spirit took its departure at noon day and went out into that city built not with hands in the city by God for his, there to abide with angels through all eternity.

Happy was she. Indeed, happy is not the expression. She was "dear old Aunt Sallie" in the mortal putting on the robe of immortality; the aged in years and in God's service too, simply reclining, declaring Christ her savior and God her father. She was eighty-nine years old.

If we could but see, know and feel all the good deeds of this life, how grand and beautiful would her death have been! Pen cannot picture nor tongue tell its sublimity. She kept herself unspotted from the world, visited the orphans in their distress, did good for good's sake, served God that he might have the honor and not to be seen of men. She went over and into the river fearing nothing and doubting nothing. "Lo, I am with you unto the end of the world" was her faith, Christ her lamp, angels her companions and Heaven her future state.

We pause. No more need be said. It is finished and all is well. God be praised. Let the children, kindred and friends on this side take courage and know of a truth that "He who does all things well" tempers the wind to the shorn lambs."

With the most solemn and impressive services, conducted by Revs. Van and DeLache, all that is mortal of this grand woman was laid to rest in the Johnson cemetery on the 21st of December last.

A FRIEND.

I desire to attest to the merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as one of the most valuable and efficient preparations on the market. It broke an exceedingly dangerous cough for me in 24 hours and in gratitude therefore, I desire to inform you that I will never be without it and you should feel proud of the high esteem in which your remedies are held by people in general. It is the one remedy among ten thousand. Success to it.—O. R. Downey, Editor Democrat, Albion, Ind.—For sale by Dial Bros. druggists

The Board of Trade returns for Great Britain show a fairly satisfactory yield of wheat for the last harvest. The yield for England was 33.88 bushels; Wales, 29.95; and Scotland, 38.47; and if it were not for the low yield in Wales, where the acreage was greater than in Scotland, the average for Great Britain would have been considerably higher;

Merit Wins.
The invention of Alabastine marked a new era in wall coatings, and from the standpoint of the building owner was a most important discovery. It has from a small beginning branched out into every country of the civilized world. The name "Alabastine" has become so famous to property owners that manufacturers of cheap kalsomine preparations are now calling them by some other name, and attempting to sell on the Alabastine company's reputation.
Through extensive advertising and personal use, the merits of the durable Alabastine are so thoroughly known that the people insist on getting these goods and will take no chance of spoiling their walls for a possible saving of a few cents. Thus it is again demonstrated that merit wins, and that manufacturers of first-class articles will be supported by the people.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. IS SPAIN GROWING WEAK?

Something Has Dropped in the Philippines, and the Shock Felt in Spain.

Havana, Cuba.—Very little news has reached Havana of what has happened in the Philippines. Local newspapers have received long telegrams, but their publications have been prohibited by the censor. He only allowed the news of Polavieja's resignation on the plea of sickness, and this has caused a great sensation amongst the Spaniards, all disbelieving the story, and attributing it either that he has been defeated in front of Cavite or worse still, that the Spaniards have actually been expelled from the islands. The Spaniards feel despondent, and more so when it is known that Spain, being unable to send more reinforcements to the Philippines or unwilling to send the regular troops stationed in Spain to hold the Carlists or republicans in check, has decided to withdraw 20,000 or 25,000 troops from Cuba, and under the pretext that they are sick and disabled, in order not to call attention of either the Spaniards or the insurgents, they will be sent back to Spain at once. Weyler has agreed to the scheme, and this explains the reason of his recent orders calling to the volunteer ranks all the able bodied men willing to join them, in order to fill the gaps left by the troops, which are to be sent to Spain. People here consider this measure as Spain's first confession of weakness and impotency to finish the Cuban revolution and a preliminary step to the final abandonment of the same.

Great rejoicing was manifested in Guanabacoa the other night when the notorious Fondeviela left the place to take charge of his forces operating around Compo, Fla. Dancing parties were organized in many private residences and the numerous families who had left the place have announced their intention of returning. Colonel Tejerizo, appointed in command, has the reputation of being an upright Spanish officer and he has already announced his intention to govern Guanabacoa with great justice and fairness.

All the Cuban residents of Bejuca! are fleeing in terror from the town. The passenger train which arrived yesterday from the place was packed to overflowing with families who have hurriedly left it horrified at the awful butcheries committed the night previous. It seems the Spanish garrison of troops and volunteers enraged at the repeated attacks made on the town by the rebels, but too cowardly to meet them in the open fields or fight them in the streets of the same, are wreaking vengeance on peaceful residents on the plea that they are in sympathy with the Cuban patriots and twenty of them were taken out of their homes late Thursday night and butchered in the outskirts. Their bodies were left in the open fields to be devoured by the dogs and vultures. Vengeance is also being taken on the helpless women and children who are alleged to have relations or friends in the rebel ranks.

TWO IMPORTANT MEASURES.

Railroad Commission and Constitutional Convention Bills Passed.

Nashville, Tenn.—Perhaps the liveliest day the Tennessee legislature has seen since the Assemblies of reconstruction years was last Friday. The fight being waged against railroad domination in State politics came to a show down, and the corporations met decisive defeat in two notable instances; first in the House, when a mandatory Railroad Commission bill was passed by a vote of 52 to 47; then the Constitutional Convention bill passed by both Houses with a good majority. The result of the parliamentary battles is something of a surprise, though the friends of both measures claimed victory all the time. Possibly the vigorous fight made by the railroads against the Democratic ticket, both State and National, in the last campaign, had more to do with their emphatic overthrow than anything else. The Senate refused to endorse the Olney Arbitration treaty, notwithstanding the vigorous fight made by the friends of the measure. The vote stood 12 to 13.

CORPSES FLOATING IN RIVER.

Loss of Life by Freshet in Black Warrior River.

Montgomery, Ala.—Among other things that the swollen Black Warrior floated down into Tuscaloosa county one day recently, were three corpses. Two of them floated on without being caught, but the third—that of a boy of about 18 years—was rescued from the water and buried on the river bank. The body of the youth was dressed in an undershirt and pantaloons of coarse material. The boy's neck appeared to have been broken, but this might easily have happened after drowning, as the stream floated down many logs and timbers. The identity of the bodies is unknown.

In some things the Japanese point of view is very different from that of other countries. The track of the Kama-Kura railway is not fenced in, and crossings rarely have gates. A boy, carrying a child on his back, straying on the line, was recently knocked down by an engine, and both boy and child were killed. Thereupon the railway company prosecuted the father for allowing his children to trespass, and he was fined ten yen.

A Wonderful Photograph.

In a certain secluded little village in Brittany there lived, some years ago, an honest peasant woman, known as "La Veuve Yvonne." She happened one day to hear some of her neighbors speaking of the wonderful powers of photography. With absorbed attention she listened as they told her how that by means of this wonderful art were produced on paper, in the space of a minute, not only stars and trees, landscapes and buildings, but the caprice of the sea, the phenomena of the sky and the most transient expressions on the human face.

"Wonderful indeed!" she exclaimed, clasping her hands; and after a moment's pause, she demanded eagerly: "Where are the best of these marvelous pictures to be seen?"

"In Paris," was the reply. "Why, do you ask, Mere Yvonne?"

"Never mind," said she, nodding her head thoughtfully. "I have an idea. You will see."

The widow's mind was strong and simple; it did not take long to "make up." Without staying to deliberate, without listening to the advice and warnings that besieged her on every side, and without confiding to any one the object of her journey, she packed up a few necessities, and one fine morning, rich with the savings of many industrious years, and armed with a written character from the farmer by whom she had been employed, she set off alone for Paris.

She arrived in the great capital, with her scarlet petticoat, her white neckerchief, her large cap and her honest face. It was a big place she saw, much larger than she had expected; very brilliant, and busy, and bewildering, but, though astonished, she was not a bit dismayed. She traversed the interminable boulevards with the nonchalance of a born Parisian, giving no sort of attention to the city "lions," paying no heed to its monuments and museums, its parks and gardens, its gayeties and fetes, having in her honest head but a single idea, namely, the power of photography.

Directly she arrived she inquired: "Who is the best photographer?" Opinions differed; some told her Irwin, others Saloman, others Frank, Gustave Levy, Bertail.

"But which of all these," asked the dame, "is most successful in portraits of children?"

In reply she was furnished with the address of a certain clever artist, whose name I am not at liberty to record, and to whose studio she at once hastened.

"Everybody says, monsieur," she began, "that your likenesses of children are admirable."

"Everybody is very kind," replied the photographer smiling.

"That you take them in the most graceful and natural attitudes," resumed the dame, "and that they are so lifelike that they almost seem to speak."

"If I have attained any unusual skill in this branch of my art, madame," he replied, "it is probably because I have worked con amore. I love the little rogues. It is pure pleasure to me to perpetuate their innocent smiles and graces. I have, moreover, plenty of little subjects of my own to practice upon. See here."

He opened the door, called, and the next moment half a dozen merry children, of ages varying from three to twelve, rushed into the room and crowded round his knees.

"You may imagine," he continued, smiling, "that it is not always an easy matter to reduce these fidgety little customers to the necessary immobility; it requires a little tact and a good deal of patience. It is a child, I presume, madame, whose portrait you wish taken?"

"Yes, monsieur, it is a child; but he will not trouble you with restlessness," replied Dame Yvonne, shaking her head; "he will be neither petulant nor rebellious, the poor little love. Good reason why—he is—"

"Yes?" said the artist, interrogatively, stroking the forehead of his youngest child as she paused.

"He is dead!" said Dame Yvonne, gravely.

At these startling words, uttered in a voice in which approaching sobs betrayed themselves, the photographer felt distressed and ashamed of his own egotism. He felt he must have bitterly renewed the mother's grief in exhibiting to her these fair children and caressing them before her eyes.

"Go and play on the balcony," he whispered hastily; and, as they passed through the door, he kissed them tenderly, but softly, lest his visitor should hear. Then, returning to his seat near her, he said, with great gentleness:

"As the little child of whom you speak is dead, it is, I conclude, a posthumous portrait you wish to have taken—the picture of the little creature whose soul has fled, lying in his white bed, a crown of white roses on his colorless forehead. It will be a painful task to me; but to oblige you, madame, I shall be happy, if you will give me your address, to proceed as soon as possible to your residence."

Dame Yvonne drew from her pocket a large red and blue handkerchief, with which, quite simply, she wiped her tearful eyes.

"Thank you, monsieur," she said; "but I need not give you so much trouble. My child has been dead six years."

The photographer looked stupefied. "You have then, already, a portrait of your son!" he said, after a pause—"a painting, perhaps, that you wish photographed?"

"A painting of him—I?" exclaimed Dame Yvonne. Mon dieu, no! or why should I have come all the way from Brittany? I have no sort of relic or remembrance of my sweet angel's face; it is the hope of obtaining one that has induced me to take this long journey."

The photographer started to his feet in utter amazement.

"What madame!" he exclaimed; "and do you imagine that without the original, without another portrait, without any sort of indication or guide, I can produce a likeness of a child who died six years ago?"

"What, monsieur!" cried Dame Yvonne, in her turn, "do you mean to say that it is impossible? People vaunt on every side the prodigies, the miracles of photography; boast that it surprises the sea in the mysterious movements of its waves, and the sky in the rapid flight of its clouds, and renders accurately the most intricate tracery of the highest buildings and monuments; and cannot it—cannot the art that accomplishes these marvels reproduce a vestige, a souvenir, a shadow of my son? Cannot it give ever so imperfect a resemblance of her child to a desolate mother, who—"

Sobs broke the sentence. Dame Yvonne could say no more.

Now here was a great grief to console and the honor of a great invention to defend. The kind-hearted photographer did not wish the simple peasant to return to her Breton village disappointed, so he reflected a while.

"Madame," he said thoughtfully, "nothing is absolutely impossible."

"Ah," she cried quickly, "then you can give me a portrait of my darling?"

"Perhaps," said he.

"Though he has been dead six years?" she asked.

"Who knows?" he said. "I will try at any rate."

"God bless you, monsieur—you and your family—if you accomplish this good action," exclaimed Dame Yvonne, tremulously. "What can I do to help you? Is there anything necessary for—"

"You have preserved the clothes of the child you have lost?" he asked.

"Preserved them?" she echoed; "I would no more part with them than a church would relinquish its sacred relics. I have the very little garments, still as good as new, in which I dressed him the last time he ran chasing the butterflies in the green fields."

"Send them to me directly," said the artist.

"You shall have them in an hour, monsieur," she replied.

"Good," said he. "Only three more questions. What was the color of his hair?"

"Golden," she replied.

"How old was he?" continued the photographer.

"Five years," was the reply.

"Was he sufficiently advanced in intelligence to have any sense of religion—to be pious?" he asked.

"Pious! Ah, ciel! the poor little angel!—he was always at prayers," replied the widow; "at night, before he went to rest, at the foot of his little bed; in the morning, when he rose, before the image of our blessed Lord that hung on his bedroom wall—"

"That is enough," said the photographer, rising. "When science and piety work hand in hand in a common cause we may hope for success. I have so strong a wish to aid you, madame, that I do not doubt that I shall find a way. Adieu! Au revoir!"

The clothes were sent, the work was begun, and two days afterward Dame Yvonne received the first proof of the portrait. She uttered a cry of joy.

"It is he!" she exclaimed. "I know him again! It is my son! See! there is the little vest with the silver buttons—the little trousers I made with my own hands; there are his little arms, his tiny fingers, his long golden hair falling over his shoulders. Oh, yes, it is—it is my little child! Oh, monsieur, how much I owe you!"

"Madame," said the photographer, "in presenting to you an image which you recognize as your son, who died six years ago, I have accomplished a miracle. Miracles are not paid for."

For us the miracle is not difficult to explain. Nothing is so like, in figure, air and attitude, to a child of five years old than another child of the same age. The photographer had merely placed before the camera one of his own children, dressed in the pretty Breton costume of the dead boy. He was represented kneeling on a cushion, his head bent, his face hidden by his hands, which were raised and clasped together in the noble attitude of prayer.

Dame Yvonne returned to Brittany. She showed the portrait to every one she knew, and to all who would listen she enlarged in terms of reverence and wonder on the marvelous power of photography, which had produced the likeness of a boy who had been dead six years. If any one indiscreetly asked: "Dame Yvonne, why does your son hide his face thus in his hands?" she answered, much affected: "You must be a bad Christian not to guess that. The poor angel, who is in heaven, prays for his mother, left in this world, bereaved and desolate."—New York News.

Responsiveness in Audiences.

Dion Boucicault told Lloyd Bryce how during a season's performance in London he had noticed that on some nights his audiences would show a greater responsiveness to the humorous parts of his cast, on other nights to the pathetic. He asked several of his professional friends to make observations during their own performances and compare results. The outcome was the discovery of a decided uniformity of sensitiveness each evening on the part of the audiences throughout the town. Atmospheric influences were considered to be the cause.

SOUTH'S COTTON MILLS

Appear to Be Getting the Better of Eastern Competitors.

Fall River, Mass.—The agitation over the proposed reduction in hours of labor for mill employees is very strong here at present, both for and against the movement.

A statement of Secretary Howard of the Spinners' Union, that the competition of Southern manufacturers would be enhanced by the adoption of shorter hours in this section is met by a declaration by one of the most prominent manufacturers that in spite of the strong efforts made in New England to improve trade conditions by a reduction of stock, the curtailed production has been more than made up by the new mills and increased production of the South.

It is pointed out that in a period of three and one-half years the mills of Fall River have been closed about six months on an average.

Taking the pay rolls of the mills stopped for this period, a loss on wages of something like $4,160,000 is shown. The losses to the mills by fixed expenses, whether mill run or stop, would be something like $3,000,000 more, or a total absolute loss to the city of over $7,000,000. For this enormous sacrifice, it is claimed, no corresponding benefit has accrued, but Southern competitors have run full time and filled up the vacuum Northern manufacturers have been trying to create.

Fall River manufacturers state that it can be proven beyond question that Southern mills producing the same fabrics as those made in this city are making satisfactory profits at present market prices. Their taxes are merely nominal; fuel, in many cases, is less than half its cost here, the hours of work ranged from 66 to 72 hours weekly, and labor will average 40 per cent less.

At the cotton growers' meeting at Waco, Texas, Hector D. Lane urged the farmers to plant less cotton and more corn.

KENTUCKY PASTURE.

Only Two Men Killed and Two Wounded This Time.

Louisville, Ky.—A special to the Evening Post from Pineville, says: A farmer residing on Greasy Creek, in Leslie county, brought news to this place last night that a battle had been fought on the day before on the Upper Greasy Creek, in Leslie county, near Harlan county, in which two men were instantly killed and two others wounded.

The report shows that Will Tedford and Jake Tedford were instantly killed by a saloonist, and two others, whose names could not be learned, fatally wounded. The altercation over a game of cards. The correspondent does not vouch for the truthfulness of the above report, but only has the information from a prominent farmer of that county.

A SWEEP OF ICE.

It Came with Suddenness and Force, Causing Damage.

Sheboygan, Wis.—The ice was swept out of the river at this place last Saturday night, carrying three vessels out into the lake. The vessels were badly damaged by striking bridges and docks and fouling other craft on their way down stream. Many other vessels along the docks have been damaged. Two men, Otto Staegel and John Perkins, were on board the schooner Baker as she moved down the river, but were swept out into the lake. Advice to-day are that they were rescued.

A freight train on the Northwestern road went through a bridge at Port Washington and fifteen cars went into Frank Creek. The locomotive was on the bridge when the engineer heard the crash. He opened the throttle and the engine cleared the bridge before it went down.

A great many Americans are raising coffee in Nicaragua. This is much better than raising revolutions.

IN LEE COUNTY, GEORGIA.

A Destructive Cyclone Prevailed, Doing Much Damage.

Savannah, Ga.—An Albany, Ga., special to the Morning News says: A destructive cyclone prevailed in Lee county this afternoon, but only meagre reports have so far reached here of its results.

At Leeburg, the front of Salter's store was blown down, and a young man by the name of Randall, who run out as it fell, was caught under the debris and badly injured.

Fences and trees were uprooted, and it is believed the worst results were felt north of Leeburg.

AT UTICA, MISS.

One Farmer Was Killed.—School House Lifted From Its Foundation.

Utica, Miss.—A cyclone passed this place early Friday morning with a southeasterly course, blowing down several cabins and timber and fences, killing J. O. Hill, a farmer, and injuring his wife. A country school house was lifted from its foundation and turned around.

Pigs do a good turn when they gather up the windfalls from the trees in late summer before they breed insect enemies. Moreover, pigs in the orchard, intelligently managed, lead to economical pork making and profitable fruit growing. Prejudice should not hinder. Clover among the trees is a good thing, and pigs in the clover are excellent cultivators. Nothing is more harmful than to let the orchard become sodded down to bluegrass; it must be kept open to moisture, light and heat.

Jackson and Walling, the murderers of Pearl Bryan, were hanged Saturday. They protested their innocence.

Corbett and Fitzsimmons have had a talk, and it is given out that they will never meet in pugilistic encounter again. Fitz will retire.

The Mobile Register suggests Hon. Hannis Taylor, now American minister to Spain, as the man to succeed Hon. R. C. Jones, as president of the State University.

Tuscaloosa is jubilant over the bright prospects of the early building of the M. T. & M. railroad.

Corbett saw Fitz on St. Patrick's day.

T. H. Bass, of Sylacauga, has been brought back from Texas to Talladega to stand trial on several cases of forgery. He was in Talladega jail at last account, not having been able to give bond.

Montgomery Advertiser; In response to inquiry, The Advertiser states that the Assembly at its recent sitting amended the pharmacy law so that it applies to all towns in the State which contain five hundred inhabitants. This is a matter of considerable interest in every county and the State papers would do well to let their readers know the fact. No man can put up prescriptions in places of that size unless examined and licensed by the State Pharmaceutical Board.

The freshets now prevailing in a very large section of the country are causing great damage, suffering and loss of life in many places. The streams are reported higher than for many years. The Mississippi is an inland sea, and many of its tributaries raging torrents—flooding the country adjacent.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland was sixty years old on the 18th inst.

Two of the greatest newspapers of this country, the New York Tribune and the Philadelphia Ledger, decline to encourage in any way the brutal and sinful practice of prize fighting. Neither of the papers mentioned published a line about the preliminaries or the result of the fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons. But in the matter of foot ball both papers try to do all their contemporaries. Which reminds us that—there is no disputing concerning taste.—Eufaula Times.

A special from Selma, Ala., to the Advertiser says: A meeting of depositors in the Commercial Bank, which failed Dec. 30, was held to-night to see how the affairs of the bank stood. Lewis Jeffries, one of the assignees, appeared and made the first statement as to its condition that has been made since the bank failed. He placed the liabilities at $1,000,000 and estimated the assets at $52,266, which are subject to a reduction of $25,000 for money deposited three days prior to the closing of the bank. The books show deposits to be $174,000 which is almost double the amount heretofore estimated. The depositors will not realize over 20 per cent.

The new city directory of Birmingham, just issued, shows the population of the city and immediate suburbs in the territory extending from Red Mountain to North Birmingham and from Powderly to East Lake, to be 66,277. This does not include Pratt City and Bessemer. With those places added, the total exceeds 75,000. This is an increase for the city of Birmingham of about 4,000 for the past year.

COL. J. B. MOORE.

In the death of Col. J. B. Moore which occurred at Tusculum Sunday night, the bar of North Alabama sustains the loss of one of its noblest members. Col. Moore has been a prominent figure at the bar and in the politics of Alabama since the war. He was a Democrat of the highest type; his personal ambitions many times defeated, but he never failed to rally to the support of his party. As a lawyer Colonel Moore had no superiors and few equals at the Alabama bar; as a public speaker he was both eloquent and impressive; and as a statesman he commanded the admiration of all classes alike. Peace to his ashes.—Florence Herald.

IN THEIR MEMORY.

A STONE AT THE GRAVE OF EACH OF OUR FALLEN BRAVES.

The following explains itself and is commended to the favorable consideration of ex-Confederates everywhere: Franklin, Tenn., Feb. 22, '97.

J. O. Chambliss, esq., Montgomery Ala.
Dear Sir:—I write to call your attention to a request made of you some time since, in which you were requested to use your influence to get from your state legislature an appropriation for McGavock's Confederate Cemetery at this place. There are 120 of Alabama's brave sons buried here and we have placed a beautiful granite stone at the head of each grave at the small cost of $2 each which makes Alabama's share $258. The state of Mississippi has 424 buried here and that patriotic state has appropriated out of her treasury $3000 which leaves her a small surplus, which is used every year to beautify her plot. South Carolina also has made an appropriation sufficient for her dead, and Louisiana through her Confederate Associations, has paid for hers, and I know the grand old State of Alabama will not be behind them. We appoint you to visit all the Confederate Associations in Alabama and urge them to raise this amount. I send you an address to the state.

Respectfully,

Geo. L. Cowan,
Secretary and Treas. of Com.
Montgomery, Ala., March, '97.

To the Ex-Confederate Veterans and Friends of Alabama:

Please note the communication, which explains itself. Now those noble patriotic people of Franklin, Tenn. who have for 32 years watched over and cared for the graves of the Brave Heroes that fell on that memorable 30th of Nov., 1864, and who have marked each grave with a beautiful granite stone, should be reimbursed. (Shall we let it go unpaid.) You will see from the request the amount that Alabama is due them. Now I appeal to every Alabamian, who wore the grey to send me a contribution and let us pay this debt. I hope to get a contribution from every Confederate camp in this state, as well as individuals. I specially appeal to the ladies of the state, knowing their untiring zeal in matters of this kind, to aid me in raising this amount. I hope to visit in person this year as many of the camps and county re-unions as will be possible for me to in this interest. Send all money to me at Montgomery, post office, express money order, check, or registered letter, and I will promptly receipt for same.

Respectfully,

J. G. Chambliss,
Ex-Confederate.

All papers in the state please copy.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES MEET.

Montgomery Advertiser: The Board of Trustees of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for Girls (located at Montevallo) met yesterday noon in the executive office and remained in session an hour or more.

Those present were: Gov. Johnston, Mr. McQueen of Jefferson, Mr. Alston of Clayton, Senator Moody of Tuscaloosa, Mr. Wadsworth of Aurtanga, Mr. Bloch of Wilcox, and Supt. of Education John O. Turner was also on hand.

Under the new law passed by the last legislature it became the duty of the Board to elect a Treasurer for the school, and Hon. George W. Ellis was selected. His duties will be independent from those of state treasurer, and a bond of $10,000 is to be given. The office will pay a nominal salary—$100 annually.

Treasurer Ellis is now confined to his room, being ill, and it is not known yet whether he will accept the trust conferred upon him.

The board ordered the state Treasurer to pay over to the school treasurer the sum of $3,000, which will be used for the purpose of pushing the institution through to a finished condition. It is already in handsome shape.

Members of the board and President Reynolds all expressed themselves as being highly pleased with results so far. The school is growing rapidly, having over 200 pupils already, while the future is very bright.

THE INVITATION.

United Presbyterian.

If sin is unrest, the blood of Jesus Christ that cleanseeth from all sin affords rest. If anxiety is unrest, a belief in the shepherd care of God and in the tender love of a personal Savior must afford mind and soul rest. If there is unrest in self will, there must be rest in self surrender. O, that all men might heed the invitation: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

GEN. JONES'S RECORD.

Tuscaloosa Gazette.

The Tuscaloosa people heard of the contemplated retirement of General Jones from the presidency of the University with inexpressible regret. There lives no purer citizen, no nobler man, nor more elegant gentleman than General Jones. Scholarly, polished, affable, stainless, true, indeed he possesses all the attributes that go to make up the typical, chivalrous Southern gentleman.

He came to the University from the law office. His sought not the honor, but has faithfully and zealously devoted himself to the arduous duties as found awaiting him. In spite of the torrent of criticism and abuse that has systematically and unjustly assailed the University of late, it has nevertheless done some of the best work in its history under General Jones' administration, and that more has not been accomplished is certainly not due to any lack of zealous efforts and enthusiastic work on the part of the president who has had devolving upon him a very complicated line of duties, he being expected to do almost kindergarten work, teach law, manage refractory boys, represent the school in a business way, direct the faculty, all combined and yet have no power beyond a very limited territory indeed.

This maelstrom would long since have swamped a man with less ability, energy and pride that characterize General Jones and that he has been able to hold up under it so long is a monument to his powers.

We do not know what has induced this decision of General Jones, but we do think that the trustees of the University have failed to uphold him and give him that deference due a man in his position. One notable instance of this was last commencement when the trustees allowed the student body to make formal complaints to them in session assembled, contrary to the rule that all student complaints must come through the president.

But whatever the motive actuating General Jones in this matter we esteem him most highly indeed and his severance of his distinguished connection with the University will be a source of genuine regret to all fellow members of the faculty, the students and the Tuscaloosa people.

TENNESSEE CENTENIAL

Mr. H. G. McCall, member of the state commission to get up an Alabama exhibit for the exposition was a caller at the State Herald office last night. His visit is in the interest of the exposition, and he will meet the executive committee of the press association this morning. Mr. McCall says that he has been in various portions of the state, and every section is highly in favor of Alabama's carrying off the banner at Nashville. The failure of the state to do her duty at several of the expositions of later years has stimulated the people up to the fact that at this time no one section can be depended upon to carry the entire load, and unless all show a disposition to help the real worth of such an exhibit will be in the main lost, and the disposition now is to "come across". The commissioner is highly pleased with the prospect, and says Alabama will sweep the field on medals if the present feeling continues.—State Herald.

A Selma correspondent of the Montgomery Advertiser under date of 23 inst. has the following to say about the Aldrich-Plowman contest: Hon. Cecil Browne has returned to his home in Talladega. He is perfectly confident that he has made out a good case for his client, Capt. Plowman and that he will retain his seat in congress. Mr. B. says his chain of evidence in the northern tier of counties is unbroken and he expects the committee on elections to make a favorable report in favor of Congressman Plowman retaining his seat.

We have often referred to the progressive policy pursued by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, and the active interest displayed by the officials of that line in all matters pertaining to the welfare of Alabama, but as new evidences of this broad gauged spirit are displayed we cannot refrain from commending them. Realizing the importance of tobacco culture in Alabama, and having unbounded faith in the fitness of our soil and climate for the successful and profitable growth of the weed, the L. & N. officials have established experimental stations at Athens, Cullman, Calera and Clanton, under the directorship of Geo. P. Bondurant, agricultural director of the State Agricultural and Experimental School, at Athens. Prof. Bondurant is well versed in scientific agriculture and particularly so on tobacco culture, his father now being at the head of the tobacco bureau of the Australian government and recently professor of agriculture at the state agricultural and mechanical college.

This movement on the part of the L. & N. road is calculated to achieve wonderful results for Alabama. It has been demonstrated already that our soil and climate are peculiarly adapted to the culture of tobacco, and in taking the initiative the L. & N. road will attract many investors who have hitherto failed to appreciate the value of our productive soil.—Huntsville Mercury.

TWO YOUNG GIRLS KILLED.

Mountain Creek, March 20—Special.—During the rain and heavy wind here yesterday, one of the saddest scenes that ever happened in this neighborhood occurred on the Parker place.

Mr. Jno H. Norvell's two daughters, Misses Iva and Viola, aged 13 and 16, were killed instantly by a tree being blown down on them.

The older young lady, Miss Viola, was at the spring when the rain and wind came, and her sister started to meet her with an umbrella. Just as they met and turned for the house, the fierce wind blew a tree down upon them crushing one of the young girl's head and the other in the breast.

Mr. Norvell is a farmer and a highly respected citizen, with a large family, and has the sympathy of many friends in his bereavement.

In the same wind a Mr. Evans of River neighborhood had his horse killed by a falling tree. There was little damage done by the wind blowing down fencing.

Mr. J. C. Lawrence, editor of the Standard, at Marion, has issued a prospectus of "The Southern Manufacturer," a monthly journal, to be issued April 1, and devoted to the industrial and agricultural interests of the Southern States.

"LOVE FINDS A WAY."

The old but trite saying that "Love laughs at Locksmiths" was demonstrated here during this week, in the elopement on last Monday from Six Mile, Bibb county, of Mr. Dan. Walker and Miss Leon Smitherman. The loving couple come to this place and sent to Probate Judge McMillan to procure the necessary papers that they might be made one with as little delay as possible before watchful parents and guardians could hear of their whereabouts. As neither one was of age the Judge declined to issue the papers. Disappointed but not discouraged, they continued their journey to Columbiana in person, accompanied by a staunch young friend, and be-seiged the Judge to relent, issue the license and make them happy, but without avail—he being a "hard-hearted man." Nothing daunted, however, they boarded the train for Rome, Ga., under the chaperonage of their good young friend, and crossing over the Georgia line, had everything arranged to their satisfaction. They returned yesterday to this place and left immediately for their home in Bibb happy, it being demonstrated that true love will always find a way.

CONDUCTOR LAND RECEIVES A TERRIBLE BLOW ON THE HEAD.

Captain Frank Land, a conductor on the Southern R. R., met with a painful, if not a serious accident yesterday while running train No. 63 a local southbound freight between Alpine and Selma. He was on top of a car when the train passed over the bridge at Yellow Leaf and he was struck by the bridge and knocked senseless, receiving a severe cut on the head. He received attention from Dr. Wilson who sewed up the wound and was sent to Selma where he was treated by Dr. McKinnon, the road surgeon.

The bridge over Yellow Leaf Creek is just a mile and a half from Wilsonville and as the down coming passenger train passes No. 63 at this point the wounded man was placed aboard the train and made as comfortable as possible. Capt. Land remembered nothing about the blow and it cannot be ascertained whether he had stooped to pass under the bridge and rose too soon or whether he was standing with his back to the engine.

Although the accident occurred about 11:50 it was not until nearly 5 p. m. that Mrs. Land was notified of her husband's accident a few minutes before the train arrived.

A Journal representative called to see Mr. Land but the doctors had ordered that he be kept entirely quiet as some fever had developed and he was at times delirious.

Drs McKinnon and Ritts dressed the wound and while it is pronounced a serious cut, yet it is not thought that it will be necessarily fatal.—Selma Journal, March 21.

Capt. Land has many friends in Shelby who will regret to hear of the serious accident that has befallen him and who wish him a speedy recovery.

W. R. Oliver Esq. is quite sick with malarial fever.

DEATH OF MR. GEO. WOOLLEY.

Died at his home near Randolph, Bibb county, on Saturday the 20th inst., Mr. Geo. M. Woolley aged seventy-six years. Deceased was a most esteemed citizen and a christian gentleman. He had been for a long number of years a member of the Baptist church, holding the office of Deacon, the greater portion of the time, and discharging the duties incumbent him with true christian fidelity. He was the father of several children, all of whom—with one exception—survive him. His estimable wife, who walked with him in the christian life for so many years survives him. He was the father-in-law of Messrs. Sam and Henry Latham of Montevallo. He lived more than the allotted three score and ten years before he laid down to rest, and he leave behind him as a legacy to his children the record of an humble and useful, and well spent life. A good man, a good citizen, a kind husband, an affectionate father—a christian gentleman, he has gone to his reward. He leaves many relatives and friends in this and Bibb counties who will sadly miss him. His remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Rehoboth church in Bibb county on last Sunday.

I desire to attest to the merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as one of the most valuable and efficient preparations on the market. It broke an exceedingly dangerous cough for me in 24 hours and in gratitude therefor, I desire to inform you that I will never be without it and you should feel proud of the high esteem in which your remedies are held by people in general. The Horrors of Nervousness.

Those who are going through the indescribable terrors of this dreadful disease, require no description of the agonies they constantly suffer. But why suffer? Good blood gives good nerves; and gives good blood. It is a nerve strengthener and restorer, the efficacy of which cannot be over-estimated; when it is learned that its absolute freedom from poisonous drugs or opiates, makes it safe for use in the hands of sick or inexperienced persons, there is an increased appreciation of it. JOHNSTONE'S SARSAPARILLA is a specific for impoverished or impotent nerves; it feeds the nervous system to high health, provides for physical and brain endurance, cheerfulness, happiness and energy.

Our thirty-six page illustrated book contains some interesting pages on Nerve Exhaustion. It is free for the asking. Quart bottle, 50c.

Bubbles or Medals.

"Best sarsaparilla." When you think of it how contradictory that term is. For there can be only one best in anything—one best sarsaparilla, as there is one highest mountain, one longest river, one deepest ocean. And that best sarsaparilla is—? There's the rub! You can measure mountain height and ocean depth, but how test sarsaparilla? You could if you were chemists. But then do you need to test it? The World's Fair Committee tested it, and thoroughly. They went behind the label on the bottle. What did this sarsaparilla test result in? Every make of sarsaparilla shut out of the Fair, except Ayer's. So it was that Ayer's was the only sarsaparilla admitted to the World's Fair. The committee found it the best. They had no room for anything that was not the best. And as the best, Ayer's Sarsaparilla received the medal and awards due its merits. Remember the word "best" is a bubble any breath can blow; but there are pins to prick such bubbles. Those others are blowing more "best sarsaparilla" bubbles since the World's Fair picked the old ones. True, but Ayer's Sarsaparilla has the medal. The pin that scratches the medal proves it gold. The pin that pricks the bubble proves it wind. We point to medals, not bubbles, when we say: The best sarsaparilla is Ayer's.

GADSDEN COURT SENSATION.

Fatal Shooting at Brookside.—How Two Negroes Escaped Lynching.—Lincoln Visited by Severe Storm.—A Selma Failure.

Gadsden.—Quite a sensation occurred in the City Court in the case of Danforth & Armstrong vs. Tennessee & Coosa Railroad. The matter came up by the attorneys, Judge W. M. Richardson, of Huntsville; J. C. Bradford, of Nashville; A. G. Smith, of Birmingham, and Amos Goodhue, of Gadsden, for defendant, who moved to dismiss the case on the ground that C. E. Danforth, of Chattanooga, Tenn., the plaintiff, in connection with one Dr. H. H. Baker, of Gadsden, had corruptly influenced the jury, in rendering a verdict for $100,000 at the October term of 1894, against the defendant. The contract between Danforth and Baker by which Baker was guaranteed the payment of $15,000 for successfully fixing the jury was in evidence, with twenty letters signed by Baker and Danforth, which disclosed what Judge Walbridge, the presiding Judge, denounced as the "most horrible state of affairs and diabolical conspiracy that had ever occurred in any court in Alabama." The letters, part of which were written by Danforth and part by Baker, disclosed the fact that Danforth had paid Baker money, which the latter had used in fixing and corrupting the jury. They also disclosed that there was in existence at the present time a contract to continue former corrupt practices. The letters also showed that the conspirators were so bold and daring as to contemplate the approaching of the Supreme Court of the State.

After a full and elaborate argument of counsel for both sides, Judge Disque stated that the matter was of such "grave importance and magnitude, involving as it did the purity of justice," that he deemed it his imperative duty to take the motion to dismiss the case under advisement before rendering any decision on the same, but the offense to corrupt the jury was so clearly proven that he ordered the instant arrest of C. E. Danforth and D. H. Baker, requiring them each to give $1,000 bond to appear before the next grand jury of Etowah county, to answer to an indictment for corruptly influencing the jury.

The arrest of Danforth and Baker created a profound sensation in the town and the honest, good people of Gadsden and Etowah county are anxious for the sake of the good name of the county to have the matter ferreted out and see that the guilty parties are punished to the fullest extent of the law.

FATAL SHOOTING SCRAPE.

Brookside.—A terrible tragedy was enacted here Saturday night as the result of a small sized race war. Glenn Totherow, the town Marshal, went out to arrest Henry Johnson, a drunken negro. The Marshal placed his man under arrest and started off for the jail, when the negro called for assistance. Several negroes were standing around and at once made a rush for the officer, who was in great danger.

Charles Silas, an extra Marshal, recognized Totherow's peril and went to his assistance. A regular battle ensued, and matters for a time looked decidedly serious, but the officers finally triumphed.

After the trouble was over, it was found that Charles Silas, the extra Marshal, who so bravely went to Totherow's aid, was shot in the right side and will die. Totherow's head was grazed by a bullet, but he was otherwise unhurt.

John McKinzie, one of the ringleaders on the side of the negro, was shot through the head and instantly killed. Several other negroes were more or less injured. Other arrests have been made.

The trouble occurred about 7 o'clock, and the people were greatly excited over it. For a while it looked as if more serious trouble would occur, but the better judgment of the indignant populace prevailed.

REMARKABLE STORY.

Birmingham, Ala.—Riley Walker was brought here Saturday from Arkansas, where he was captured a few days ago, and was transferred to the Pratt Mines penitentiary. Walker and Jim Going, both colored, were tried at Union Springs three years ago and were given life sentences for the murder of Detective Williams. The verdict was unsatisfactory, it being generally thought that the prisoners should have had the death penalty. A mob gathered and the negroes were hurried away to Montgomery for safe keeping. At Mitchell Station the mob boarded the train, secured the prisoners and it was supposed, lynched them. The affair caused a big sensation at the time. The Governor offered rewards, but without avail. Walker now tells a remarkable story, that when the lynchers pushed him and Going off the train in the darkness, themselves springing off a few moments later, he and in a ditch and escaped, though the lynchers searched vigorously.

HIGH WATERS.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—The Warrior and Cahaba rivers are higher than for many years. All low lands are flooded. In Fayette, Tuscaloosa and Bibb counties cattle have been destroyed and farms inundated. Five dead bodies have been taken from the Warrior River above Tuscaloosa, but have not yet been identified.

In Fayette county the Southern Railway track is under water at several points, and throughout this section railroads have forces of men watching all bridges and preventing the accumulation of driftwood about them.

If the rains do not cease soon the corn crop already planted will be cut short 50 per cent. All early crops are greatly damaged.

Pratt Mines, Ala.—Saturday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, an engine, in passing the commissary at Pratt Mines, emitted several sparks, and one of these set fire to the roof of the building. In a short while one side of the roof was almost entirely burned away. The blaze did not do very much damage, but the water soaked through the ceiling and damaged the stock of dry goods considerably. It is estimated that the damage will amount to over $2,000.

A DRUG FIRM ASSIGNS.

The Selma Drug Company, Dr. Clarence Ritter proprietor, made a general assignment to E. Carlisle Jones and W. M. Gill. Assets, $6,000; liabilities, not known. The assignment was a general surprise, as the firm was doing a good business. It is thought the indebtedness can be paid dollar for dollar.

COTTON FARMING.

How Two to Four Bales Per Acre Are Made on Very Poor Land.

We have not the slightest desire to assist in any manner in bringing about an increase in the number of bales annually raised throughout the Sunny South in general nor in Mississippi in particular, but we do desire that Southern farmers everywhere should realize the fact that the same 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 bales that are now raised annually may be just as easily, just as surely and far more economically and profitably raised on one-fourth the area it is to-day, leaving the other three-fourths to be put in provision crops, fruits or grass. We have had the good fortune to see and walk over many Georgia farms—farms, too, that were worn out and washed away many years ago—that are now made to produce from one to four bales of cotton per acre. This condition of things is made possible and actually brought about by the "intensive" system of culture and liberal yet economical fertilization.

As early in the new year as the weather will possible admit of, the old cotton stalks are "knocked," or cut, the roots are then plowed up with straight shovel; green cotton seed are then strewn in this shovel furrow at the rate of ten to twelve bushels per acre; two half-shovel furrows are next thrown on the seed to prevent the loss of ammonia; in a few weeks this small bed is opened with a long, narrow scoter and 200 to 300 pounds of some good commercial fertilizer distributed in this furrow; phosphate and potash being all sufficient, the cotton seed furnishing the necessary nitrogen; the land is then bedded out and out with straight shovel and is now ready for the reception of the seed. Under this plan, persistently followed, Georgia farmers have succeeded in so increasing the fertility of the soil that with a slight increase in amount of fertilizer used and a favorable season four bales per acre have rewarded their efforts.

A good heavy cow-pea stubble turned under will be found to be fully as beneficial to the coming cotton crop as the cotton seed; either one will supply all the nitrogen needed; but in the absence of a cow-pea stubble, the cotton seed should by no means be neglected. Stable manure may be used instead of either of above, but the fact should be kept in mind that all three of above are "nitrogenous" fertilizers, and are used mainly for the amount of nitrogen they contain; and either one, or all three need the addition of phosphates and potash in liberal quantities (seventy-five pounds of Murrate of Potash or 300 pounds of Kainit, with 200 pounds of Acid Phosphate) per acre in order to make a complete fertilizer that shall be at once properly balanced and duly proportioned. If the peas have been properly fertilized (with 200 to 300 pounds Acid Phosphate and 200 to 300 pounds of Kainit), which they always should be when the object in raising them is that may be turned under as fertilizer, it would be hardly necessary to apply any additional fertilizer directly to the cotton.

Georgia farmers break their lands deep (eight to ten or even twelve inches) once about every three years; they say it does not pay to break them deep any oftener. In this deep breaking, the land is broken with a two-horse turning plow, plowing about one inch deeper than the surface soil, thus gradually deepening the soil. No crops are planted here at all without fertilizer being applied, and in the sandier portions of the State the farmers seem to be unanimous in the declaration that "Potash is the element that is most needed," and that "any fertilizer that does not contain as much as four per cent. of it is not worth applying." Cotton here is planted in four foot rows, barred off with half-shovels and cultivated the entire season "with cotton scrapes"—i. e. "heel-sweeps." Burgess, Miss. — G. H. TURNER.

A Bad Case Quickly Cured.

From the Commercial, Bangor, Me. We publish the letter of Mr. H. J. Crandlemire, in full, just as it came in, as it is interesting.

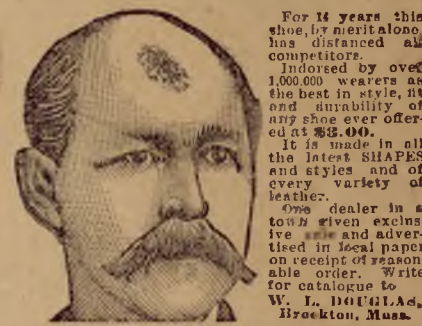

Dear Sirs:—I send this solely that others may know what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me and my kidneys, and to make it of more effect I send it in affidavit form:

STATE OF MAINE, COUNTY OF WASHINGTON. H. J. Crandlemire, of Vanceboro, Maine, being duly sworn deposes and says: "Two years or more ago I was attacked with kidney trouble which gave me violent pain, and necessitated my urinating every few minutes. Then I had times of no control over my water, and this made things unbearable. The pain at these times was indescribable, and nothing gave me any relief until I was led to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The first box helped me, and by the time I had taken my second I was absolutely and completely cured. This was two years ago, and since then I have had no return of the trouble, and I have no hesitation or doubt in expressing that I owe my recovery to Pink Pills."

(Signed) "H. J. CRANDLEMIRE." Personally appeared before me this 13th day of August, 1896, H. J. Crandlemire, and made oath that the above statement was true.

ELISHA T. HOLBROOK, Notary Public. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the power of health to pale and sickly cheeks. In men they affect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

THE WRONG MAN.

BY G. B. DUNHAM.

When our foreman went away to the Northwest territory to find a cattle range unspoiled by settlers, Robert was put in charge of the ranch. This was equivalent to a promotion of Biddy also, for the Missourian, whose bony frame had been built from the limestone waters of his native state, was still the partisan and protector of the sappy youngster from northern Vermont.

"You are a Canadian pony and I am a Hambletonian," said Robert; "but if we like to trot together, I guess the other horses on this range will have to take our dust."

The friendship between these two men was founded on complementary qualities, and only a woman could break it. The woman in this instance was Miss Bell, the schoolteacher at the Bend.

The burned child dreads the fire, but a bird will return and again dash into the flames. Robert's encounter with the fair fence-cutter was like flame to the bird. He sought an introduction and forthwith became a suitor for her hand. Biddy, the only one in camp who took it upon himself to criticize any act of Robert's, remonstrated with him.

"You are a bird, aren't you?" said he; "the girl mesmerized you once, she'll bamboozle you for twice, and bounce you for three times. What do you mean to do?"

"I mean to marry her if she will have me," replied Robert, simply. "Yes, I know I told you plenty times that a cowboy had no business to marry, and that's right, but I'm an exception. I don't know how and I don't know why, but I know I'm hit hard. I got to have her."

So Robert, big, hulking, forty years old, was in love for the first time in his whole life. If force and earnestness avail, he should win.

Less forceful, less earnest, half as old, Biddy was in the same plight. His advice to Robert to let the girl alone was in good faith; he thought it the best thing—for Robert—but he had a bad case of "physician heal thyself" upon his hands. He, too, was resolved to win and marry Miss Bell. He did not say so to Robert, so hard is it for most men to be open in a love affair, and for a time Robert knew nothing of it. Everyone else saw it, and Scotty told Biddy he had better stand from under.

"If you lock horns with Robert," said he, "he'll get you down and walk all over your frame." And Scotty added some reflections on the law of supply and demand. "If there were twenty schoolma'ams round here you would not look at one of them, but because there is only one, you are fixing to get your skin so plumb full of bullet holes that the wind won't whistle as it blows through."

Biddy laughed and went his way to call upon Miss Bell and urge his suit. And Robert went his way, which was the same way, upon the same errand.

I do not know whether Miss Bell gave to either man any encouragement, but as the dead-shot is said to add a notch to the marks on his pistol-grip for each man he drops, so it is supposable that about this time this young lady increased her list of rejected suitors by the names of these two cowboys.

It was done in her kindest manner, this rejection, and she had said to each: "I am sorry this has occurred, but since you have so honored me, you must come to my wedding. I am to be married next month in the church at Hammond. I shall really feel it if you do not come."

And each man had promised to be there.

It had come to Robert's notice before this time that Biddy was his rival, but with the hope and intention of success strong within him, he had been affected differently from Scotty's forecast. He went straight to Biddy and told him to "go in and win if you can. I don't want the girl unless I can get her fair and hold her against all comers." But when both had been refused, each man thought the other was accepted, and each waited for the other to broach the subject.

It was a difficult time. There were dark looks, but no explosion. They avoided each other, and this little cloud, no bigger than a woman's hand, seemed about to cover the whole sky. Biddy asked for leave of absence and got it. They did not meet again until the wedding day.

That day found Biddy still storming at fate; but Robert, who had a simpler and stronger nature, had put his own disappointment behind him and was looking forward with pride if not pleasure to his friend's happiness.

What follows is in Robert's words:

"I got there early and took a seat in the back part of the church. I wanted to be where I could get out if my nerve failed me. Many people came in, and at last the bride, looking very beautiful, came out from a side door with three men and stood up in front. And I was proud for Biddy that he was going to have such a fine wife. But I couldn't see him anywhere. And the preacher said any man having an impediment was to step forward.

"Then I looked for Biddy, but he didn't come. I had never before been at a wedding in church, and I thought maybe it was the way to keep him corralled in the little room until the last moment, for fear he would go back onto the old range.

"The preacher went on saying things, and I didn't pay close attention, because I was thinking how pretty she looked, until a bold man in a Hereford shirt and low-necked vest took her hand, and the preacher said 'I pronounce you man and wife.'

"Then I jumped up wild. 'Great Scott!' I yelled, 'that's the wrong man!'

"At that instant somebody clapped a hand over my mouth and hustled me out of the church.

"If you don't want to get shut up for drunk and disorderly," said Biddy, for he it was who dragged me out, 'stop that racket!'

"What's up?" I said, soon as I could get my breath. 'Why aren't you in there getting married?'

"I am not in there getting married," said Biddy, 'because she wouldn't have me. I thought you were to marry her today.'

"What, me?" says I. 'I never was within a thousand miles of it.'

"Why didn't you say so, old man?" asked Biddy.

"Say so yourself," said I. 'You were dumb as an oyster.'

"Then we both laughed, and while the folks inside were crowding up to the front to congratulate the happy pair, Biddy and me had a hearty handshake on the sidewalk, and we went home together."—Argonaut.

A Remarkable Clock.

Baron Ferdinand Rothschild possesses an old "grandfather's clock" that originally cost over $150,000. The mechanism records the day of the week, month of the year, the phases of the moon, and strikes each hour. The quarters are chimed with a different bell, and (a rare thing with these clocks) it has a second hand. The case was made by Wertheimer, and stands fourteen feet high. It was originally the property of Louis XVI.

A Question of Pronunciation.

Guest (sarcastically)—How do you pronounce the word 'oleomargarine?' Hotel Waiter—I pronounce it "but-ter," or I'd lose my job.—Boston Traveler.

Comrades.

Oh, happy he who finds some kindred soul
To walk beside him through this vale of tears,
Hand clasped in hand throughout the flying
years,
Counting all burdens but one common dole;
To whom each dread temptation may be told,
Each buffet from the unseen hand of Fate,
Whom envy touches not, when soon or late
The skies rain benisons like purest gold.

No matter what he names these golden bands—
Friend, wife, or child, so they be all his own;
But he who misses them, though near him stands Kindred, flesh of his flesh, bone of his bone,
When death draws near must fold his empty hands,
Turn to the wall, and meet his doom alone!

—Ninette M. Lowater.

HUMOROUS.

Teacher—What is raised mostly in damp climates? Johnny—Umbrellas.

He—One cannot enjoy a smoke in the dark. She—Smoking isn't a bit like kissing, is it?

Dombey—When your wife gets angry won't she speak to you? Captain Cattle—She won't do anything else.

She—There's a blunder. Six months are supposed to elapse between the first and second act. He—Well? She—They have the same cook.

"Don't you think him greatly to blame for marrying her for her money?" "It wasn't his fault. He couldn't help being born poor."

George—Is it true that your cousin is in love with Jack Fitzbooby? Fred—You can judge for yourself. She eats her dinner before she opens his letters.

Dimpleton—I am not living with my father-in-law any more. Von Blumer—Great Scott! You don't mean to say that you have separated from your wife?

"No, thank you, I've got some money of my own," said little Tommy, politely, as the contribution plate passed in front of him on the occasion of his first visit to church.

Old Gent—Yours is a very fast horse, Mrs. McTavish. Mrs. McTavish—Do you think so? Old Gent—I am sure of it. I distinctly saw him wink at that horse that went by.

"What is Bexton hustling around so in the interest of a curfew ordinance for?" "His boy saw him coming out of a variety theatre the other night and went home and told about it."

One Matron—Since I have been married I have taught my husband good taste. Another—Really? It is a good thing for you that you did not teach him before you were married.

Clerk—Sir, I've joined the church. Grocer—Right glad to hear it; I've been a member for some years. It's a splendid thing, and— "Yes, sir; and will you get some other clerk to sell those pure spices now?"

Hobbs (to friend to restaurant)—I say, Nobbs, how's business? Nobbs—Great! Never saw such a rush. No time to sleep and even behind in meals. That was day before yesterday's lunch I just finished.

Loverly—Miss Dearey I can conceal my thoughts no longer— Miss Dearey—Why, Mr. Loverly! have you really had thoughts all along? How perfectly you have concealed them to be sure. Oh, what a capital actor you are!

"The Bluvvingtons keep up a very imposing establishment," remarked the gossip man who had just moved into the neighborhood. "They do that, indeed," replied the corner grocer; "and my store's the one that's mostly been imposed on."

Thereupon his majesty the Czar stormed furiously. "I think my wife," he shouted, "might better give more of her time to her home duties. Here are half of the rivets out of my underclothes, and I don't propose to stand it." Royalty, it would appear was by no means immune from the sterner cares of life.

A Natural Death.

Kindly Visitor (noticing the empty cage)—Did your canary die a natural death?

Little Reginald (promptly)—Yes, ma'am; the cat ate him.—Puck.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

This paper is entered in the Calera Post office as second-class matter.

N. A. GRAHAM, EDITOR.
CALERA, ALA., APRIL 1, 1897.]

Evidences of returning prosperity and renewed confidence are visible on every hand in this State, and there is every promise that the rich and boundless resources with which we have been blessed are soon to be developed as never before. All this may be attributed to the earnest desire of capital to procure profitable investment in some of the wonderful resources and opportunities of Alabama.—Montgomery Adv.

The circuit court for this county has been engaged during last week and this with the civil docket, and a considerable number of cases have been disposed of. Next week the criminal docket will be taken up. We learn that a special term of the court will be held during June or July to try the Seal's murder case.

Severe storms of wind, rain and in some sections hail, have prevailed over a large section of this country during the present week, and much damage has resulted both to life and property. Along the Mississippi river and its tributaries especially the damage and suffering is immense. Thousands of acres of the Mississippi bottoms are submerged, and hundreds of people have been driven from their homes by the raging waters.

The Birmingham Evening News, by the way the best evening paper in the South, on Saturday last is sued its anniversary edition. It contained 28 pages of various write ups of Birmingham industries, and the resources of that section of the state. It was a credit to any journal, and The Sentinel congratulates The News in the production of so good an edition, one containing so much valuable information concerning Birmingham and its business interests.

The first number of the Southern Manufacturer, published at the office of The Marion Standard and edited by that excellent newspaper man, J. C. Lawrence, is on our table. This number is an 8 page, 4 column edition, with a "writeup" by the editor of the "South's Many Advantages," giving a glowing description of the resources—presenting timber, minerals, and fertility of soil, manufacturing advantages, etc. Besides there are special articles, from his special correspondents from principal cities and towns in the South. This is a commendable enterprise, and The Sentinel hopes friend Lawrence will receive that financial encouragement his enterprise so richly deserves. Let every one interested in the upbuilding of Alabama and the entire South, send name, address to Southern Manufacturer, Marion, Ala., and get a sample copy.

CONFEDERATE PENSIONERS.
Editor Sentinel:

I would like to state through the columns of your paper, for the benefit of those interested, that the law for the benefit of needy Confederate soldiers, etc., as amended by the recent legislature is, in substance, as follows: Any Confederate soldier, or sailors, who served as such in the late war, who did not desert the service, who, from any cause, is now physically unable to make a living by labor, is entitled to a pension, provided he is a resident of this state at the time of making his application and has been such for at least one year prior to making such application; and provided further, that his taxable property is not worth over Five Hundred Dollars, and his wife's separate estate is not worth over Five Hundred Dollars.

Widows of Confederate soldiers or sailors, who reside in this state, and whose husbands were either killed, died of disease or from wounds during or since said war and up to the present time, are entitled to pensions where they have not since remarried; provided their husbands did not desert the service of the Confederate States; and provided further that the taxable property of the widow is not worth more than $500.

It is provided further, that when ever a person is unable from physical inability to appear before the Judge of Probate to make affidavit to his or her application, he or she may make it before any Justice of the Peace of the county (not a Notary Public) stating therein such disability.

Where persons did not receive pensions in 1895 and 1896, owing to failure to make application within the time prescribed by law, or by some technical error in making such application, they can make application now for these years.

All applications must be made before the first of June in each year.
D. R. McMILLAN,
Judge of Probate.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The following circular from the Executive Committee of the State Sunday School association explains itself: State Sunday School Convention at Tuscaloosa, April 8th to 11th. To District Superintendents and Vice-Presidents, County Presidents, and Secretaries, and Chairmen of Executive Committees:

Has your county elected delegates to attend the State convention at Tuscaloosa? If not, appoint delegates at once, and appoint the best men and ladies and those who will be sure to attend. Reduced rates have been granted on all the railroads in the Southeastern Passenger Association. Get every individual school in your county to appoint three or more delegates to attend the State Convention. They will get great good from the Convention and it will produce good results for all their schools.

The names of all delegates should be sent at once to W. E. Bingham, Tuscaloosa, Ala., so he can reserve nice homes for them.

W. E. HOLLOWAY,
Ch'n State Ex. Com.
P. S.—Superintendents and Vice Presidents of the ten districts will please write postal cards to all county officers and as many superintendents as they can in their district asking a strict compliance with the above. Urge each school to make a statistical report to F. M. Stillwell at Selma, Ala., or at Convention. W. E. H.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

EDITOR SENTINEL:

It may not be generally known to the citizens of Calera that upwards of $2500 may be collected under our charter and made available for the upbuilding of the material interests of our town. Surely it is to the interests of every good citizen in Calera that this money be collected and utilized for the general welfare of the community.

With it we can run a first class public school nine months in the year. Our streets can be put and kept in first class condition, and the city can maintain an efficient police force. It is to the interest of our entire community that matters as all-important as these be looked after; and there is no good reason why our entire citizenship should not come together as one man, put out a non-partisan ticket representing all classes of our citizens, put our shoulders to the wheel, and elect it at the approaching election in June. But can such a state of affairs obtain so long as our people are torn asunder by partisan factions?

"He who will not reason is a bigot; he who cannot is a fool; and he who will not is a slave."

I am free to say that a very large majority of our citizens cannot be placed with either of these classes; and indeed if there be any they are in such a hopeless minority that they can be relegated to the rear and buried in oblivion by the intelligent, respectable citizenship of Calera. There is no valid reason why every good citizen of Calera might not bury his partisanship so far as our city is concerned, and come together and elect a Mayor and Board of Aldermen who will take the matter in hand and build up our town. If the time has ever been when the wrangling between factions has been profitable, that time has passed away. It has given us a bad name abroad; it has retarded the growth of our material interests; hindered our moral, social and religious growth; and engendered feelings between neighbors that ought not to exist.

So let every democrat, every republican and every populist "bury the hatchet," let his patriotism rise superior to his partisanship, in the election of a ticket that will give us a practical business administration of our city affairs. Let every good citizen, white and black, republican, populist and democrat, unite with us, and let us have schools and streets that will do credit to our town. With unity and harmony we can carry our wishes into practical effect; with division and strife, as of old, our town will lag far in the rear, and a condition of things will continue to exist that will keep us always a cross-roads town. In the interest of harmony, I would suggest the following ticket:

For Mayor—J. R. Pratt. For Councilmen—L. G. Privett, J. R. Hill, R. E. Bowden, J. M. Frost, F. H. Hardy, J. T. McMillan, John Ingram, W. C. Wade.

I would call the attention of our voters to the fact that none of these men are in any way connected with either of the old boards. They are all clean men, and will give us a clean, practical, business administration of our city affairs. If any one else can suggest a better ticket, let us hear from them.

MONTEVALLO DOTS.

Saturday afternoon, March 27th, Miss Edna Bush gave a recital for her pupils which was much enjoyed by all who were present. The first number was played by Miss Eloise Whitlow, and was a perfect little gem. Miss Eloise has shown marked improvement since her last performance.

The next number was contributed by Miss Marie Boyd, who gives promise of becoming a splendid performer. Among the contributors to the programme, Miss India Green deserves special mention. She began her study of music only this year and has made wonderful progress.

Miss Mae Guthrie came next on the programme and her selection was beautifully rendered. Her conception of her piece was perfect and she gives great promise of becoming proficient in Music.

Miss Lillian Gray then came forward and gave a very difficult selection. Every note was clear and distinct and she deserves great credit for her performance.

The next selection was given by Miss Irene Langly. Miss Irene has been studying music only a few months, consequently deserves special mention as having made such progress. Her number was exceedingly well rendered.

Miss Bessie Conley then came forward. Her number was a very difficult one and she did very well indeed.

The next number was "Roguishness," given by Miss Nona Wells. The piece was all the name implies and Miss Wells seemed to thoroughly enter into the spirit of her selection and gave to each note its proper expression.

The final number was given by Miss Bessie Walker. Miss Bessie seemed to have a perfect conception of her number and rendered it beautifully.

A very important feature of the recital was the fact that the entire program was rendered without the aid of notes.

It requires no small amount of courage and confidence to be able to perform before strangers, but our girls are doing beautifully and will soon be able to face any audience.

After the recital was over the girls entreated Miss Bush to play for them. She gracefully responded and gave a very fine selection, which was highly appreciated by all present, who proved their appreciation by a storm of applause. Then they dispersed having spent a most enjoyable evening.

A STONE AT THE GRAVE OF EACH OF OUR FALLEN BRAVES.

The following explains itself and is commended to the favorable consideration of ex-Confederates everywhere: Franklin, Tenn., Feb. 22, '97.

J. G. Chambliss, esq., Montgomery Ala.
Dear Sir:—I write to call your attention to a request made of you some time since, in which you were requested to use your influence to get from your state legislature an appropriation for McGavock's Confederate Cemetery at this place. There are 129 of Alabama's brave sons buried here and we have placed a beautiful granite stone at the head of each grave at the small cost of $2 each which makes Alabama's share $258. The state of Mississippi has 424 buried here and that patriotic state has appropriated out of her treasury $900 which leaves her a small surplus, which is used every year to beautify her plot. South Carolina also has made an appropriation sufficient for her dead, and Louisiana through her Confederate Association, has paid for hers, and I know the grand old State of Alabama will not be behind them. We appoint you to visit all the Confederate Associations in Alabama and urge them to raise this amount. I send you an address to the state.

Respectfully,
Geo. L. Cowan,
Secretary and Treas. of Com.

Montgomery, Ala., March, '97.

To the Ex-Confederate Veterans and Friends of Alabama:

Please note the communication, which explains itself. Now those noble patriotic people of Franklin, Tenn. who have for 32 years watched over and cared for the graves of the Brave Heroes that fell on that memorable 30th of Nov., 1861, and who have marked each grave with a beautiful granite stone, should be reimbursed. (Shall we let it go unpaid.) You will see from the request the amount that Alabama is due them. Now I appeal to every Alabamian, who wore the grey to send me a contribution and let us pay this debt. I hope to get a contribution from every Confederate camp in this state, as well as individuals. I specially appeal to the ladies of the state, knowing their untiring zeal in matters of this kind, to aid me in raising this amount. I hope to visit in person this year as many of the camps and county reunions as will be possible for me to in this interest. Send all money to me at Montgomery, post office, express money order, check, or registered letter, and I will promptly receipt for same.

Respectfully,
J. G. Chambliss,
Ex-Confederate.

A subscriber asks the origin of the phrase, "he isn't in it." It was first used by an editor who died and went to heaven and looked around for the man who took his paper for three years and then left it at the post office marked "refused," and "he wasn't in it."

The heaviest rain that has fallen in this vicinity for a long while fell today between 10 and 12 o'clock, accompanied by a heavy east wind, flooding many houses and the streets and low places with water, gutters and drains being, in many places, covered to a depth of several feet.

At a church conference of Enon Baptist church held on the 14th ult., Mr. M. J. Reynolds was liberated to preach, and exercise in any way that he may feel it his duty, and the church is pledged to support him so long as he holds to the faith and order of the Missionary Baptist church.

Capt. Bob O'Brien, a former citizen of Shelby county and of Calera, whom everybody knew and liked, is here this week with a view of again locating in or near Calera. In behalf of his many friends The Sentinel extends to the Captain a hearty welcome.

We republish this week the appeal to veterans and friends of the Confederate patriots who fell on the memorable field at Franklin, Tenn. And The Sentinel suggests that the local talent of Calera give a concert, consisting of music, readings, recitations, etc., at an early day, say on the night of the 26th of April—memorial day—the proceeds to be placed in the hands of Mr. J. G. Chambliss, Montgomery, or Capt. Geo. L. Cowan, Sec. and Treas. of memorial committee, Franklin, Tenn., as Calera's part of the debt so patriotically assumed and paid for Alabama. The Sentinel will aid in any way possible in getting up a credible entertainment for the object set forth in Capt. Cowan's letter; and would urge upon some one—Mr. Jno. T. McMillan is a good man for the task—to see the gentlemen, and Mrs. McKibben or Mrs. Dr. Gunn or both to see the ladies, and get them together and formulate a programme for the entertainment that will draw a crowd. Again The Sentinel offers any assistance it can lend to the enterprise.

If the President has passed over Manning and appoints Reese United States District Attorney, it will look very much like the new populist element is to be recognized after all, and that acquisitions from the Populist to the Republican Party in Alabama will be invited and expected.—Advertiser.

IN MEMORY
Of little Gertrude Cross, daughter of A. J. E. and Liddy Cross, who departed this life March 23rd, 1897. She has gone to Him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me," and is "waiting and watching at the beautiful gate" for those who are left behind. May the parents so live as to meet the precious little one in heaven, where their faces shall, no more be pale or sad; no more breaches in friendship, nor parting of friends asunder; no more trouble accompanying their relations, nor voice of lamentations heard in their dwellings. God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.
N. H. Cross.
Highland, March 27, 1897.

On the morning of Feb. 20, 1895, I was sick with rheumatism and lay in bed until May 21 when I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first application relieved me almost entirely from the pain and the second afforded complete relief. In a short time I was able to be up and about again.—A. T. Moreau, Laverne, Minn. DIED.
At 6 o'clock, p. m., Tuesday last, Mrs. Wyatt, wife of Rev. D. Y. Wyatt, of Spring Creek, died after an illness of 10 months. She had lived a long and pious life and has been ready for the departure since early after she was taken ill, being perfectly resigned to the Master's will; and when the messenger came, passed over the river quietly and happily. The deceased leaves an aged and honored husband, sons and daughters and grand children to mourn her departure, but they know she is not lost, that they can, by living as she lived, "meet her on the other shore."

A man stands no chance of being elected to the mayorship of a city unless he enjoys the confidence and esteem of his neighbors. George W. Humphrey is the popular mayor of Swanton, Ohio, and under date of January 17, 1896, he writes as follows: "This is to certify to our appreciation of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My family and neighbors have tested it and we know it is an excellent remedy for coughs and colds.—George W. Humphrey." Sold by Dial Brothers, druggists.

WOOLEN MILLS RESUME.
Rockville Conn. March 22.—The big woolen mills of this city, including the Hockaune, Springfield, New England, Sock and American mills, practically resumed running on full time today. The mills have been running on two-thirds time since February, 1895. These mills employ 2,000 people when running at full capacity.

I desire to attest to the merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as one of the most valuable and efficient preparations on the market. It broke an exceedingly dangerous cough for me in 24 hours and in gratitude therefor, I desire to inform you that I will never be without it and you should feel proud of the high esteem in which your remedies are held by people in general. It is the one remedy among ten thousand. Success to it.—O. K. Downey, Editor Democrat, Albion, Ind.—For sale by Dial Bros. druggists.

PRIZES FOR TWO INVENTORS.
A highly interesting competition between a large number of new inventions has just been decided by a very distinguished Board of Awards, and a handsome cash prize and solid gold medal awarded as the result of the decision. For some time the patent firm of John Wedderburn & Co., of Washington, D. C., have given a monthly reward of $150 to the inventor who should submit the best invention from the standpoint of simplicity, novelty and utility. The Board of Awards, composed of Senator William Stewart, of Nevada, chairman; Representative Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia; Mr. John C. Eckloff, cashier of the Second National Bank of Washington and Messrs. A. C. Moses, of W. B. Moses & Sons, and Frederick E. Woodward, of Woodward & Lothrop, two of the leading merchants of the capital city.

This Board has just selected the prize winners in the contest just participated in by inventors who submitted their devices during the month of January. The prize of $150 goes to William Taylor, of Kearney, N. J., the inventor of a bicycle brake of simple construction, and the gold medal to Theodore G. Thomas, of Lamarque, Texas, for a monkey wrench of novel design.

Blood Brains Money
A sick man can't make money. That's because his brain won't work. A horse won't do work unless he is properly fed. Neither will a brain. If the brain is not kept in good condition with pure, rich blood, it won't produce much.
Men who fail, and men who don't, often have what they call "Nervous Prostration." Ninety-nine times out of a hundred the nervous trouble is purely secondary. The real sickness is in their digestion and in their blood. If a man keeps his digestion in good order, and keeps his body full of pure, rich blood, he is never going to be very sick.
Johnston's Sarsaparilla is made for people who want to get well and stay well. Sarsaparilla is a simple, "grandmother" remedy, but it cures. It purifies and enriches the blood and sends it tingling to every part of the body. That is the way it cures all ailments of the brain and nerves—drowsiness, insomnia—cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and every other blood disease. It clears the complexion, plumps out the cheeks, and brings back the sparkle to lifeless eyes.
One Dollar is the price, and One thousand Dollars is the health giving value of every Quart Bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; unless cures out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Some Newsy Dispatches From Alabama Towns.

DISAPPOINTED BRIDEGROOM.

A Hot Fight for Middle District Attorneyship.

THE COKE OVENS CLOSED.

Birmingham City Convicts Go out to the Coal Mines. Failed to indict the Lynchers. A Human Enigma. Coal Oil Advances.

Bangor, Ala.—Saturday night ended the preliminary trial of Met Whaley and his son, Will, charged with maliciously destroying property belonging to Tom Butler, a farmer living near here. Much interest has been manifested, owing much, perhaps, to the sensational feature of the case. Several weeks since Mr. Whaley was to have married the pretty 16-year-old daughter of Mr. Butler, the failure of which is said to be the cause of the trouble. The parents of the young lady heard some rumors against Mr. Whaley's character, which led to the breaking up. This naturally somewhat disconcerted the would-be bridegroom, who had made extensive preparations for the wedding. Mr. Whaley wrote Miss Butler some letters threatening to force her to marry him. About this time the Butlers moved. On sending back the next day after some of their things they found that fire had partially destroyed their household furniture. Some clothes and a gold watch that Mr. Whaley had given Miss Butler, was missing. The watch was found in Mr. Whaley's possession. This, with the threats contained in his letters convicted him. Will Whaley was set at liberty. Met Whaley has not yet succeeded in making bond for $500. Mr. Whaley is a widower, his wife having died about three months since.

Middle District Attorneyship.

The fight for the Middle District Attorneyship waxes warmer every day. The candidates and their friends are as busy as bees when the first blossoms of spring unfold their sweets. It is now the field against Reese. The field at present consists of the following: George H. Patrick, George W. Craig, of Selma, J. H. Jenkins, of Wetumpka, and Lewis E. Parsons, of Birmingham. The Attorney General advised an Alabama Republican who saw him to-day that the factions must get together, or he would take the matter in hand and select a man of his own choice. He is receiving telegrams from prominent Republicans over the State requesting him to hold up the nomination until they are heard from. The opposition to Reese press the point that he is too late an acquisition to be given so important an office.

The Coke Ovens Closed.

Johns, Ala.—Adger coke ovens have closed down, owing to a cut the company wishes to make on the new. The company has paid 35 cents an oven for pulling coke and $1.44 a car for loading. Now they wish the men that pull the coke to load it also, at the old price of 35 cents an oven. They have been pulling and loading in Bessemer for some time at 35 cents, also at Blocton, but men claim the cars are farther away from the ovens at Blue Creek than at Blocton or Bessemer.

The mines are now working only four and five days a week at the three slopes, Adger, Johns and Sumter, and the men of Adger are not expecting more than two days, as the company is going to put two ton cars in Adger Mines and will hoist about twice as much coal as they have been hoisting with one ton cars.

Birmingham City Convicts.

Birmingham, Ala.—Sunday evening all of the inmates of the city prison with sentences aggregating 60 days or over were sent to Coalburg to complete their terms of punishment, and the city will receive $5 per month for each one. Certain other prisoners with less than 60 days to work out were sent out also, at the discretion of Warden Garner, who has been delegated the "distributing agent." Mr. J. W. Castellan, the agent of the Sloss Iron & Steel Company, met the representatives of the city Saturday, and the contracts were signed by both sides.

Failed to Indict Lynchers.

Scottsboro, Ala.—The special grand jury empaneled by Judge Stevens to investigate the lynching of John Smith, the negro charged with criminal assault, the morning of March 18, reported Saturday evening, having been in session all this week. The report states that after examining sixty-four witnesses and making as thorough an examination as the nature of the case permitted, there was not sufficient evidence to sustain any indictments.

An Advance in Coal.

Selma, Ala.—The first coal oil test under the new law was made Saturday. Ten thousand gallons in the Standard Oil Company's storage tank was tested and found to be six degrees above the required register. The Standard advanced the price one cent per gallon to cover the expense of inspecting. A big bowl is being raised over the advance.

Postmaster in Trouble.

Decatur, Ala.—On Thursday last Deputy United States Marshal J. W. Mayhall arrested W. I. Speakman postmaster at Nobusiness postoffice, located about four miles west of Hartsville, Morgan county, Alabama, on a charge of embezzling postoffice funds to the amount of $39.39. The accused was put under bond, and the case set for hearing before United States Commissioner J. W. Jagers.

Became Her Own Stepmother.

Bridgeport, Ala.—Mrs. Frank Newdecker, wife of the foreman of the furniture factory, died Tuesday night, and was buried at the Rocky Springs Cemetery Wednesday. A strange feature about the deceased is that she was her own stepmother. Her mother married Frank Newdecker and after living with him some time died, whereupon she married her mother's husband.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

They All Occur in Chattanooga in one Day.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—A series of fatal accidents occurred here Sunday, which strikingly illustrate the truth of the saying that troubles never come singly.

First was the tragic death of J. F. Coffey, a well-known merchant tailor. Mr. Coffey went to his room this morning, having taken a dose of some narcotic to make him sleep. His dead body was found at noon by his land lord, lying on his bed in his room, his clothing half removed, as if preparing to lie down. Coffey came here from Cincinnati. He was State Secretary of the Order of Hibernians and was well to do.

Squire J. D. Blackford, aged eighty years, one of the pioneers of this section, while going to attend church this morning, was run over by a train of the Memphis & Charleston Railroad and received injuries from which he died this evening.

This morning Mrs. H. C. Linderman, wife of a well known German dairyman, was thrown from her buggy, while driving to the city, and sustained injuries, from which it is expected she will die before morning. It appears that her horse was frightened by a mischievous negro boy, who jumped out at the animal from behind a fence along the roadway.

Walter Houston, a colored drayman, and a man of some property, while assisting in the preparation for a balloon ascension this afternoon, was struck on the head by a heavy scantling which had been knocked from its place by the swaying balloon, and was knocked senseless. His nose was broken and he was otherwise injured, from the effects of which he is now lying at the point of death.

This evening a fire broke out in the St. Elmo butcher shop and the building and contents were totally destroyed. The proprietor narrowly escaped with his life, and not until he had been severely burned.

SOLDIER SOUGHT TO DIE.

Shoots Himself With an Army Rifle and Still Lives.

Atlanta, Ga.—Charles McLean, Sergeant-Major of the Fifth United States Infantry, attempted suicide in the quarter room of Company H at McPherson Barracks. He took his army rifle, 30-calibre, and, putting it to his forehead between the eyebrows, pulled the trigger. The bullet passed up the skull, coming out at the top of the head. It produced concussion, but did not crush the skull. It passed through the ceiling of the floor above, narrowly missing the foot of Private Otto Greenleaf, and buried itself in the ceiling above.

Sergeant McLean was carried to the hospital at once. He is badly hurt, but will not die. There is no known cause for the act. It is thought that his mind was unbalanced from drink.

AN OFFICER'S FATAL WORK.

Two Moonshiners Will Die and Two are Badly Wounded.

Atlanta, Ga.—A special to the Evening Constitution from Plumption Gap, Va., says:

The most extensive moonshine raid ever undertaken in the mountains is reported to have taken place in the neighborhood of Round Head Gap. Fifteen officers destroyed thirty-one stills and thousands of gallons of "mountain dew." Five still workers were pursued several miles over rough hills by night and finally turned and fought the officers.

A number of shots were fired. Three officers and four moonshiners were wounded, two of the latter fatally.

Eighty Thousand Applicants.

Washington, D. C.—Since the change of administration over 80,000 applications for postoffices have been filed at the Postoffice Department. The number is said to be somewhat smaller than four years ago. All the papers have been recorded and classified and the cases made up to date. Up to the close of business Saturday the appointment division of the Interior Department has recorded 1,000 applications for Presidential positions under the Interior Department.

Startling Appeal by Executive Committee.

NATIONAL MINE WORKERS.

Families of Strikers Reduced to Miserable Poverty.

HE FELL FROM GRACE.

Prominent Negro Office Holder of Baltimore Betrays a Truce. The Usual Result, or Nitro Glycerine Gets in its Work. New Political Party.

Columbus, O.—The National Executive Committee of the United Mine Workers has issued an appeal to the public for sympathy and financial aid. The circular says the miners are being reduced to miserable poverty, and quotes a Pittsburg paper to the effect that miners' children are seen driving the dogs away from garbage and eating it themselves in the mining regions there.

The committee blames the New York and Cleveland Company and its President and Directors, their names being given, for bringing about the demoralized condition of the coal mining business.

The miners announce that they are determined to end this state of affairs at once and to that end solicit aid.

The circular is indorsed by President Samuel Gompers.

FELL FROM GRACE.

Prominent Negro Republican Office Holder Removed.

Baltimore, Md.—Mayor Hooper has removed from office Dr. George W. Bryant, colored, Superintendent of the Middle District of the Street Cleaning Department. Bryant confessed that he had systematically robbed both the city and the men in his employ. The amount of his shortage is not yet known, but it is estimated that the city will temporarily lose about $2,000. The seventy-five colored men who constitute the middle district street cleaning brigade have lost between $2,500 and $3,000. The city's loss is covered by a bond.

Bryant's peculations have been going on for several months. He manipulated the pay rolls against the city and used all sorts of schemes to hold out a portion of the money due his employees. He can be indicted for both perjury and false pretense.

Bryant was one of the best known colored men in the city. He is a graduate physician and a man of considerable ability. He has long been prominent in Republican political circles and during the last campaign he stamped the State for the Republican ticket.

He was an applicant for the position of Commissioner of Deeds for the District of Columbia under McKinley.

NEW POLITICAL PARTY.

Formed by Silver Republicans in Nebraska, Small Affair.

Lincoln, Neb.—A new political party has been launched in Nebraska. It is composed of members who have heretofore affiliated with the Republicans, but last November voted for W. J. Bryan for President on the currency question alone.

The convention, which met in Lincoln, was not largely attended. Chairman Wooster, a member of the Lower House of the Legislature, was made chairman. The present name, Free Silver Republicans of Nebraska, was retained. Judge D. D. Gregory, of Omaha, was made the Nebraska member of the National Committee, and State organization was effected.

Six Congressional District Committees were also selected and arrangements perfected for carrying on an active campaign. Contrary to expectations, Mr. Bryan was not present.

ures separated some distance from each other.

The explosion occurred in the separating house where the nitro-glycerine goes through one of the most dangerous and delicate processes.

The three men blown were the only occupants of the buildings and the cause of the disaster cannot be learned.

Some of the workmen who were passing through the yards of the works saw the separating house rose bodily into the air and then they were thrown to the ground by the awful blast. After a lapse of a few minutes a search was begun for the workmen. Where the separating house had stood there was a great hole in the ground and the trees for 200 yards around were denuded of their limbs and twisted by the force of the explosion.

RIPANS TABULES

says: "I couldn't recommend this remedy as heartily as I do if I didn't believe in it. I am not much of a medicine taker. I am opposed to medicine, on principle. There ought to be no need of medicine—just as there ought to be no poverty—but there is. If people lived right they would be well. Sunshine, air, exercise, fun, good food—plenty and not too much—are the best medicines, the natural ones; but men are tied to their desks, and women to their home cares, and both are tied to fashion. Civilized existence is artificial and needs artificial regulators. I recommend Ripans Tablets—and take them myself. I know they are both harmless and effective. (I know what they are made of.) They are the best remedy I know anything about for headaches, or indigestion, or biliousness, or any sort of sluggishness in the system. And they are in the handiest possible shape to carry in the pocket."

The Coming Man.

A pair of very chubby legs
Encased in scarlet hose;
A pair of little stubby boots
With rather doubtful toes;
A little kilt; a little coat—
Cut as a mother can—
And lo! before us stands in state
The future's "coming man."

His eyes, perchance, will read the stars,
And search their unknown ways;
Perchance the human heart and soul
Will open to their gaze;
Perchance their keen and flashing glance
Will be a nation's light—
Those eyes that now are wistful bent
On some "big fellow's" kite.

Those hands—those little, busy hands—
So sticky, small and brown—
Those hands whose only mission seems
To pull all order down—
Who knows what hidden strength may be Contained within their clasp,
Though now 'tis but a tawdry stick
In sturdy hold they grasp?

Ah! blessings on those little hands,
Whose work is yet undone!
And blessings on those little feet,
Whose race is yet unrun!
And blessings on the little brain
That has not learned to plan!
Whatever the future holds in store,
God bless the "coming man!"

THE ONE GIRL.

They were standing together out on the moonlit terrace. Behind them in the distance sounded the band, playing soft, dreamy waltz music. But what cared they for dancing and the hot, crowded ball room? In all the world for him there was only one woman, and she stood, her hands clasped in his, her head resting on his shoulder.

"You won't forget me, darling," he whispered, "when I am thousands of miles away, at the other side of the world, and letters are long in coming? You'll remember that I am coming back in two years at the latest, to claim my little wife."

"Oh, it can't be really true, Geoffrey, that you are going to-morrow? It is too dreadful to think of! And it's not I that will forget. I shall think of you night and day until you come back. But you'll most likely meet with some lovely American girl—all American women are lovely, you know—and then you'll forget all about poor little Mysie Trafford, who is waiting for you in England."

"When I am out on the great lonely prairies," he said dreamily, "I shall just shut my eyes and think myself back to this night. I shall hear the band in the distance, I shall feel you once more in my arms, and I shall smell the faint odor of the heliotrope you are wearing."

For answer she took a piece of the heliotrope from her dress.

"Here's a little bit of it," she said. "When you meet that lovely American, and wish that you were free, and that this evening had never been, then you can put that little flower in an envelope, and you needn't write a word to put in with it, but just address it to me, and when I get it I shall know what it means, and you will be free."

"What nonsense, Mysie!" he said angrily. "Why do you talk like that? You know—"

"Oh, here you are!" cried a shrill voice. "I have been looking for you everywhere. Mr. Castleford is as cross as he can be, Mysie. He says you promised him the last two dances, and then you disappeared and no one could find you; and as for you, Mr. Hamilton, I think you had better keep out of the way altogether, after disappointing Lady May and goodness knows who besides." And Gertrude, Mysie's sister, chattered on, totally unconscious that she was a most unwelcome intruder.

She and Mysie had been taught that it was their duty to make good matches, and Geoffrey Hamilton, with no money, and just off for America, was so entirely ineligible that she suspected nothing, and ruthlessly insisted on their immediate return to the ball-room.

Mysie looked often at the little hoop of pearls—the pledge of her betrothal—but never put it on, except in her own room just for a few minutes. Somehow as the days went by it seemed harder to speak of that evening to her mother, especially as her mother had not the faintest suspicion of anything of the sort. And so a month passed away.

Then one evening Mysie returned from a walk and saw a letter lying on the hall table. One glance at her own name and the postmark—"New York"—and she snatched up the letter, wondering if any one had noticed it, then ran up to her own room, and closed the door to enjoy it in peace.

The fire burned brightly and looked inviting, and she drew up a low easy-chair and seated herself comfortably as she broke the seal of the envelope. What was the faint perfume as she did so? She drew out a sheet of blank note paper from the folds of which a little piece of dead heliotrope slipped and fell to the floor.

"Mysie, you must come down," said Gertrude. "Mr. Castleford is down stairs, and mother says you are to come," as Mysie looked rebellious. "But you must change your dress; you can't come in that. Has anything happened? You look very queer."

"No," said Mysie, with a strange little laugh; "at least nothing of importance. I will come down presently."

In a very short time she was in the drawing-room, and Herbert Castleford, as he looked at her, thought he had never seen her so beautiful. He had loved her for years, but he had received so little encouragement from her that he had not spoken; but tonight he had determined to put his fate to the test, while poor Mysie, with a pain at her heart, was saying to herself that if Geoffrey could forget so easily, why, so could she.

And so it came about that a few hours later she returned to her room, having pledged herself to Herbert Castleford. Instead of the little hoop of pearls she had never worn she possessed a handsome diamond ring, and the dead flower and the pearls were put far away out of sight, to be forgotten—if possible.

Six months had passed and Herbert Castleford was pressing for an early marriage. Mysie and her mother had gone away from home immediately after her becoming engaged. Mysie complained of the cold and looked so delicate that her mother took her to the south of France, where, soon after, Castleford followed them.

Mysie seemed willing that the wedding should take place whenever they liked to arrange it, so matters were being pushed to suit the impatient lover, when one day Gertrude ran into the room where Mysie and Herbert were sitting.

"Look, Mysie!" she cried. "Here is a lovely bunch of flowers from that dear count! Isn't he silly? And they are such beauties! Only smell them! Oh, I am so pleased! Look! Here are a bit of heliotrope and some maidenhair that will just do for you."

To her surprise Mysie turned pale and shrank back, looking almost apologetically at her lover, who was watching her.

As their eyes met there was something in his—an expression, a consciousness, a what? Mysie did not know, but a great trembling seized her. A hundred thoughts seemed to pass through her mind in a moment, but of one thing she was certain—Herbert Castleford knew all about those playful, loving words spoken out on the terrace on the never-to-be-forgotten night.

Then, leaning forward, she asked, as if they had already been speaking to each other:

"How did you send it from New York?"

"I—that is—what do you mean, Mysie? I never sent it!"

Seeing that her clear eyes seemed to read him through, he attempted no more denial, but just caught her hands in his and implored her to forgive him.

"I came out to look for you that night," he said, "and I heard what you were saying just as Gertrude came upon you from the other side, and it was such a temptation, for I loved you dearly—much better than he did. It was all done for love of you, Mysie."

She tried to wave him away, but instead fell fainting to the ground.

When she recovered Herbert Castleford had gone. A few hasty lines from him besought her forgiveness, and told her Geoffrey was now on his way back to England to find out why she had not written to him; that he hoped they would have been married before Geoffrey could arrive, but that now he would go away and never trouble her again.

"You will forgive me, Geoffrey, won't you," she said, "for doubting you? But it seemed so terribly true! Look! Here are the envelope and the flower."

"And here is the flower you gave me," said Geoffrey. "There's not much difference, certainly, between them, but regarding the envelope—well, I must give you a few specimens of my handwriting when I go away again, so that you may not be taken in so easily."

"But I shall never let you go away again," said Mysie.

And that was how they arranged it.

The "Tippecanoe" Inauguration.

Mr. Joseph B. Bishop contributes an article on "Inauguration Scenes and Incidents" to the Century, which is an "Inauguration number." Concerning the inauguration of General William Henry Harrison, Mr. Bishop says: A magnificent carriage had been constructed by his admirers, and presented to General Harrison, with the express wish that he ride in it to the Capitol; but he declined to do so, insisting upon riding a horse instead. The crowd of visitors along the avenue from the White House to the Capitol was the largest yet seen in Washington. The procession created such enthusiasm that the novel expedient was put in operation of having it march and countermarch several times before leaving its hero at the Capitol. For two hours it went to and fro in the avenue before the spectators were supposed to have their fill of it. Mr. Adams, who saw it from his window, under which it passed, describes it in his diary a mixed military and civil cavalcade, with platoons of militia companies, Tippecanoe clubs, students of colleges, school-boys, a half-dozen veterans who had fought under the old hero in the war of 1811, sundry awkward and ungainly painted banners and log cabins, and without carriages or showy dresses. The coup d'oeil, he adds, was showy-shabby; and he says of the general: "He was on a mean-looking white horse, in the centre of seven others, in a plain frock coat or surtout, undistinguishable from any of those before, behind, or around him." The day was cold and bleak with a chilly wind blowing. General Harrison stood for an hour exposed to this while delivering his address, and at its close mounted his horse and returned to the White House with the procession again as an escort.

One on the Cyclist.

A young American who was bicycling in Southern France was pushing his wheel up a steep hill, when he overtook a peasant with a donkey cart who was rapidly becoming stalled, though the little donkey was doing his best. The benevolent wheelman, putting his left hand against the back of the cart and guiding his wheel with the other pushed so hard that the donkey, taking fresh courage, pulled his load up to the top successfully. The summit reached the peasant burst into thanks to his benefactor. "It was very good of you, monsieur," he said "I should never in the world have got up the hill with only one donkey."

Madagascar Under France.

Madagascar is beginning to reap some of the benefits of the rule which the French, much against the wishes of the natives, have forced upon the island. Slavery has been abolished, and government work, chiefly in the direction of improvement to the roads and highways, is going on in every direction. General Gallieni, who is now the practical ruler of the island, is having the greatest difficulty with the labor question. He is trying to prepare some sort of a labor law that will counteract the evils which have resulted from the sudden abolition of slavery.

FIRE IN A HOTEL.	SITUATION AT NEW ORLEANS	TOTALLY DESTROYED
Two Persons Seriously Injured. Thought to Be of Incendiary Origin. Dayton, O.—Fire, said to have been of incendiary origin, broke out in the west end of the Phillips house, corner of Maine and Third Streets Monday morning. The west wing of the building was completely gutted and the other sections of the hotel were badly damaged by water and smoke. There were several narrow and thrilling escapes and several persons were seriously injured. John Bryant, of the Katie Rooney Dramatic Company, fell through a skylight and sustained a broken leg and fracture of the skull. He will probably die. His wife also fell through a skylight, breaking her leg. The loss was $50,000, with full insurance.	Is More Favorable. Governor Asks the People to Guard the Levees. New Orleans, La.—The flood conditions in this immediate locality are practically unchanged. The sun shown brightly to-day and otherwise weather conditions are favorable. The winds have ceased blowing from the south-east and the river has fallen twenty-fourth since Sunday. As pointed out in these dispatches, the height of the river here has been unnatural, owing to the unfavorable winds. Governor Foster has issued a ringing proclamation addressed to the people of the alluvial districts of Louisiana and appeals to every man to stand and hold the levees.	Was the Steamboat John M. Hart, One of the Largest Boats on the Cumberland. Nashville, Tenn.—A special to the Sun says the steamer John S. Hart, one of the largest boats on the Upper Cumberland river, was totally destroyed Monday morning, together with her cargo, at 3 o'clock, at Granville, 200 miles above here. The boat struck a floating log, which knocked a hole in her hull. She began sinking, and as she careened the stove in the pilot house overturned and set fire to her, resulting as above stated. The boat was built at a cost of $14,000, and insured for $8,000. No lives were lost. This is the second boat that has sunk in this locality in the last three days.
MAN-KILLER KILLED. Richard Clark Shot and Killed by Farmer Joe Brown Irby. Atlanta, Ga.—A special from Perry, Ga., to the Constitution says that Richard Clark was killed near there last night by a farmer named Joe Brown Irby. Clark went to Irby's home to get an explanation of some remarks which Irby had made about him. They quarreled and Clark began shooting at Irby. The latter returned the fire and killed Clark. Irby was not wounded at all. Clark was a son of the late Judge Richard H. Clark, of Atlanta. Young Clark killed a man in Montgomery a year ago and he has a brother who killed a man here a few years ago.	Released Too Soon. Kincaid, Kan.—George Miller, who was recently released from an insane asylum, shot three women neighbors Monday afternoon while resisting arrest. The injured women are: Mrs. W. H. Burkey, shot in breast; probably fatally; Miss Effie Kirby, shot in back; will die; Miss Jennie Kirby, shot in side, will recover. Miller had called to see the Kirby sisters at the Burkey house, and being refused admission to the house, broke through the door and shot down the three women as they attempted to escape. He then chased several children through the streets and hunted up a physician to attend the wounded women. When officers attempted to arrest him, the crazed man opened fire, but was finally brought down with a load from a shot-gun. He may die from the wound.	Insurgent Commander Fleeing. Havana, Cuba.—At the headquarters of Captain General Weyler, news has been received from Bayamo, province of Santiago de Cuba, that three deserters from the personal escort of Maximo Gomez, have arrived there, refusing to remain any longer with Gomez. The latter is said to be fleeing before the Spanish troops, who are actively pursuing him. It is added that there have been serious disagreements among the staff of the insurgent commander, owing to his overbearing conduct.
Robbed of Her Diamonds. New York, N. Y.—The detective bureau of this city, made public the fact that on March 1 Mme. Harities P. Fachieri, a guest of the Buckingham hotel, was robbed of diamonds worth $4,000 to $5,000. The jewels were taken from the room occupied by Mme. Fachieri. Thus far the detectives have obtained no clue to the thief.	Under a mortgage given to the bondholders the property of the Piedmont Land and Improvement Company was sold at Jacksonville and was bid in by a representative of the bondholders. It is stated that this will result in a reorganization of the company and that very soon Piedmont will be started on an era of prosperity.	While the Chief Slept. Birmingham, Ala.—The Birmingham Athletic Club gave an entertainment Saturday night, which concluded with a prize fight between Eugene McElroy, Alabama's champion heavyweight, and Peter Peterson, of Chicago. It was advertised as a ten-round bout for points. McElroy was clearly Peterson's superior and chased him around the ring at pleasure, knocking him down twice in the fifth round, when the bell alone saved Peterson. In the sixth round Peterson was noored again and was being counted out, when the chief of police stepped in the ring and stopped the fight. The contest was witnessed by 500 spectators.

THE SHORT LINE TO TEXAS.

And the Southwest is via the Southern Railway. Tickets sold either via New Orleans, Shreveport and Memphis. Service and schedules unexcelled to all Western points. Parties contemplating a trip should address R. M. Ellis, City Pass & T. A., Selma, Ala., or J. P. Billups, T. P. A., Birmingham, Ala.

The democrats seem to be on top again in Ohio and Illinois, if we are to judge from the result of the municipal elections in these states.

The condition of things in the overflowed districts along the Mississippi river continues threatening and much suffering is reported. Congress a few days ago made an appropriation of $200,000 for the benefit of the sufferers.

On the 6th inst. Senator Morgan introduced a resolution in the U. S. Senate recognizing a state of war in Cuba, and suggested that the United States send a war ship to the island and demand indemnity for imprisoned Americans. The resolution brought out considerable debate pro and con. Senator Hoar lead the opposition and Mr. Morgan for the adoption of the resolution.

Cincinnati, Chicago and other cities in the northwest have held municipal elections, resulting in the election of democratic mayors and councilmen. The victory in Chicago was lead by Hon. Carter Harrison, and was a "veritable landslide" for the democracy.

A special from Talladega under date of the 6th inst., says: Congressman Plowman reached his home in this city this morning. Capt. Plowman has almost recovered from his recent serious illness in Washington and seems to be in his usual health. He received a warm welcome from his numerous friends who are really glad to see him looking so well.

Says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "Signs are said to be multiplying that India will soon adopt the gold standard. This will reduce the silver standard countries to Bolivia, Central America, China, Colombia, Ecuador, Mexico, Persia and Peru. Uncle Sam does not belong in that company."

Anniston Hot Blast: The Birmingham News is authority for the statement that fifty thousand tons of Alabama iron have been exported during the first quarter of this year. The total freight charges from Birmingham across the water is about $4, and the News says with Alabama iron manufactured at a cost of $5, it is readily seen how easily it becomes a successful competitor with the English and Scotch furnaces, whose lower grades have been selling at $10 for some months.

Evidences of returning prosperity and renewed confidence are visible on every hand in this state, and there is every promise that the rich, boundless resources are to be developed as never before. All this may be attributed to the earnest desire of capital to procure profitable investment in some of the wonderful resources and opportunities of our state.—Mont. Adv.

Mobile Register: The recent trade edition of the Birmingham News shows that there are about 9,000 people employed in that city whose monthly wages aggregate $480,000. This does not include suburban mining and manufacturing towns. In the county The News shows that 24,734 persons are employed by the various industries and $1,100,000 monthly is paid out to them. Birmingham is also the center for trade from the mining sections of Tuscaloosa, Bibb and Walker counties, which employ about 4700 men and pay out monthly about $190,000.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

Since the announcement of the resignation of Gen. R. C. Jones, the able and cultured president of the State University, a good deal has been said by the press of the state in regard to the selection of his successor. Numerous suggestions have been made as to the kind of man needed for the place and it has been contended by some that to find the man who combines all the qualifications necessary to fill the position, the trustees will have to go outside of the state. In other words that there is no distinguished educator among all the distinguished gentlemen in Alabama who have made the education of youth his life study competent to fill the position of president of the State University and discharge its duties satisfactorily. The Sentinel does not agree with any such proposition. We believe that there are a number of distinguished educators in our state who possess all the qualifications needed. Men who are not only thoroughly equipped, experienced and successful educators but also thoroughly equipped, experienced and successful business men. Men who have stood aloof from politics and kept their hands free from its contaminating influence, giving their time and attention to the advancement and upbuilding of the educational interests of the state in the localities and spheres where their lot has been cast. Men of brain, of nerve and of culture; fine organizers and able executives, practical and successful both in the educational and in the business field. Some of these have occupied positions that have given them a national reputation, while others have been confined to a narrower sphere though perhaps, in some instances at least, possessing qualifications equal if not superior to their more fortunate peers. Dr. Phillips of Birmingham, Prof. Powers of Florence, and Prof. W. H. Verner of Tuscaloosa, may be mentioned as belonging to this class. Besides these there are a number of others in different sections of the state. The three mentioned, however, have been marked successes as educators. To The Sentinel therefore it seems that there is no need to go outside of the state, yea, that there is no need to go even outside of the city of Tuscaloosa to find a man for the presidency of the University, and one who will lift this important state educational institution out of the old political ruts in which it has so long labored, provided he is not hampered and handicapped by too much trustee domination.

PRIZES FOR TWO INVENTORS.

A highly interesting competition between a large number of new inventions has just been decided by a very distinguished Board of Awards, and a handsome cash prize and solid gold medal awarded as the result of the decision. For some time the patent firm of John Wedderburn & Co., of Washington, D. C., have given a monthly reward of $150 to the inventor who should submit the best invention from the standpoint of simplicity, novelty and utility. The Board of Awards, composed of Senator William Stewart, of Nevada, chairman; Representative Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia; Mr. John C. Eckloff, cashier of the Second National Bank of Washington and Messrs. A. O. Moses, of W. B. Moses & Sons, and Frederick E. Woodward, of Woodward & Lothrop, two of the leading merchants of the capital city. This Board has just selected the prize winners in the contest just participated in by inventors who submitted their devices during the month of January. The prize of $150 goes to William Taylor, of Kearney, N. J., the inventor of a bicycle brake of simple construction, and the gold medal to Theodore G. Thomas, of Lamarque, Texas, for a monkey wrench of novel design.

Birmingham is soon to have a cotton mill. It now looks as if the name "Magic City" is once more to be appropriately applied to it with a cotton mill and the many other industries under headway with every prospect of successful completion. Birmingham will within the next few years enjoy her old time prosperity. The Advocate is glad to see that this city is putting on new life. May she continue to grow, and spread out until all the suburbs are taken into the greater Birmingham.—Greenville Advocate.

MONTEVALLO.

The Baptist church is receiving a fresh coat of paint.

The series of meetings held here the past week by Mr. Redinger, synodical evangelist of the Presbyterian church, closed with one addition to the church. All of Mr. Redinger's sermons were plain, earnest and full of the gospel truth.

Rev. P. L. Abernathy, pastor of the Methodist church, being absent in attendance on the District Conference, his pulpit was filled last Sunday morning and evening by Rev. H. B. Crumpton, a bright young theological student from Howard College.

Mrs. Augusta Wilson was so unfortunate on last Monday as to catch her foot under a loose plank in her yard and fall, dislocating her arm at the shoulder. Her injuries are very painful, though not serious.

GIRL'S INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

The Girl's Industrial School has made remarkable progress in its short existence. It was opened last October for the admission of pupils, and now has within its walls 220 healthy, pretty, happy and industrious young ladies. Mr. Reynolds is to be congratulated on his successful efforts in establishing a first class school where a young woman can get a useful education at rates within reach of all. May it continue to grow and prosper.—Clayton Record.

Alabama will soon have a school history that will fill a long felt want. The contract for publishing this book has just been closed by Mr. Eugene Brown of this city with the University Press of New York. The history is being written by Wm. Garrett Brown, of Harvard. He is a native of this state, and has been ably assisted by leading educators. This history embraces many valuable facts, and is written for the comprehension of pupils.—State Herald.

Pistols and Pestles.

The duelling pistol now occupies its proper place, in the museum of the collector of relics of barbarism. The pistol ought to have beside it the pestle that turned out pills like bullets, to be shot like bullets at the target of the liver. But the pestle is still in evidence, and will be, probably, until everybody has tested the virtue of Ayer's sugar coated pills. They treat the liver as a friend, not as an enemy. Instead of driving it, they coax it. They are compounded on the theory that the liver does its work thoroughly and faithfully under obstructing conditions, and if the obstructions are removed, the liver will do its daily duty. When your liver wants help, get "the pill that will."

"Villainous saltpetre" is to give place to catalytic dynamite in the warfare of the future, so Captain Zalinski thinks. After a man is dead it does not matter to him what killed him, but his surviving friends generally prefer to see enough of him left to afford at least a pretext for a funeral.

Some one recently called the attention of a Chicago paper to the curious fact that a man may be elected Vice President of the United States who could not serve as President in case of the President's death. The reason for this is that the Vice President may be as young as 30 years, but the President must be 45.

In the case of right actions which may be difficult or unpleasant, one will perform them, "the sake of some hoped-for reward they may hold in store for himself, another for the real good they are to accomplish—their actual results. This is the true distinguishing line which divides much seeming liberality, much apparent self-abnegation from the true spirit of sacrifice.

Order and method are the conjurers by whose aid a man of very average abilities may, if he chooses, secure to himself the blessing of never being hurried. Only arrange properly the quantum of work which is to be got through in a day or week, or any fixed period, and a small margin over and above the bare space absolutely needed for each part of it, and that margin will be available for the chance distractions for which people complain that they have no time.

Armour's Frugal Habits.

Philip D. Armour, the Chicago millionaire, carries into his business the working habits he learned as a boy on his father's New York farm. He rises with the sun every morning, has breakfast at 6 o'clock, and is at his office by 7 o'clock. At noon he has a simple luncheon, usually consisting of nothing but bread and milk, after which, of late years, it is his custom to take a short nap. He is in bed usually by 9 o'clock every night. He belongs to several clubs, but rarely visits them. He thinks a young man stands as good a chance to make a fortune now as at any time in the past. "There was never a better time than the present," he says, "and the future will bring even greater opportunities than the past."—Evening Sun.

JACOB HAUSER'S DEATH.

A Negro and His Team Killed by Lightning Near East Lake. Warren Reese's Good Luck. Sinking of the Steamer Griggs. Five Lives Lost.

Cullman. — A. J. McCombus, a prominent citizen of this county, shot and instantly killed a man by the name of Atwell, ten miles south of here Friday. The trouble grew out of an old feud between the families, they occupying adjoining farms. McCombus is under arrest. He used a Winchester, and shot at a range of 175 yards. The particulars are meagre.

In a Ditch.

Birmingham. — The body of Jacob Hauser, a well-known German, was found stiff in death in a ditch, a block in the rear of Behren's Park, in the southwestern part of the city, at 6 o'clock Thursday morning.

Exactly how Mr. Hauser met death is unknown, but it is believed that last night about 12 o'clock he attempted to cross the ditch at a regular path made by continued passing by citizens of that part of the city, and missing the exact ford, fell and struck his head on a rock in the water, was stunned and died from exposure, if not from drowning.

Killed by Lightning.

East Lake. — Lige Latham, a respectable colored man who lived in the Mount Vernon colony, two miles above East Lake, was killed by lightning Thursday. He was en route to Como City in a single wagon, to which was hitched a mule. It was about 12:30 o'clock. The storm came up about that time and the lightning was very sharp.

All of a sudden a severe flash came down and struck Latham and his mule, killing both. The fatality happened near the poor fellow's home. Assistance was rendered in a few minutes, but it was too late, the man was fatally shocked.

Latham had a family.

It is stated the man was severely burned by the lightning. The bolt appears to have hit him in the middle of the forehead.

Old Lady Suicides.

Tusculum. — News of the shocking death of Mrs. Sig Alexander from suicide at her home in Cherokee, this county, a few days ago, was received here Friday. It seems that Mrs. Alexander was in the habit of going to the barn every evening to gather up the eggs, and it was there that she was discovered by a servant leaning against the fence with her head almost severed from her body. She had evidently made several attempts before accomplishing her death, as nine long gashes were made on her throat with a razor. The suicide was premeditated, as she left a note to her brother, Mr. Shelby Smith, requesting him to sell everything and break up housekeeping.

The deceased was about 60 years old, the widow of the late Robert Alexander, and was closely connected with some of the best families in this county.

Interesting if True.

Birmingham. — Private advices come from Washington to the effect that the President has decided to appoint Warren S. Reese, Jr., of Montgomery, District Attorney for the Middle District of Alabama to fill the vacancy now existing in that office. The announcement is a surprise for the reason that Mr. Reese has only recently become a convert to Republicanism, having been a Populist. He was the Populist candidate for Attorney General when Kolb ran for Governor in 1894. Lew Parsons, who was the leading opponent of Reese, was District Attorney under Harrison.

Steamer Griggs Sinks

Columbia. — The sinking of the steamer Griggs about midnight Thursday night seventeen miles above here was indeed a strange coincidence, following so closely upon the sinking of the City of Columbus Tuesday night. These boats were the only independent boats on the Chattahoochee, and were owned by the Queen Steamship Company, of Columbus, Ga., and were operated by that company a part of the time between that city and New Orleans, and the wreck leaves the field to pool boats that are owned and operated by the Central of Georgia Railroad and the Plant System.

The Griggs had been down to Smiths' Bend to the relief of her sister boat, and had on board her crew and passengers and whatever could be taken from her, and was on her way up the river when she struck in midstream a floating log, which had one end on the bottom.

The extent of damage to the boat cannot be estimated, but there can be no doubt that it is great, as she was on the bottom before she could run ashore, and is now lying with her head up stream almost in the channel. The loss on freight was not very heavy, as she had but little besides that which had been taken from the sunken City of Columbus.

But this wreck was far more disastrous than the former one, because of the loss of five lives, the engineer and four negroes, and it is thought that others who were taking deck passage were also lost, as they cannot be accounted for.

Albert G. Henry Dead.

Guntersville. — Friday, at 11:30 a. m., there passed into the great beyond one of Alabama's greatest and grandest men.

Peacefully Hon. Albert G. Henry said good-bye to those of his family around him and then died.

He had been sick only a week, but 60 years of age could not overcome a fatal attack of pneumonia. His entire family, with the exception of two daughters, were at his bedside when the end came. He was born and made his fortune in this State. A nobler man never lived for he had the reputation of being pure, upright, honest and charitable. In fact he was a model man and was greatly admired by a host of staunch friends. By honest means and strict business he managed to accumulate a fortune which is said to amount to over a million dollars. The gloom cast over this little town caused many store fronts to be draped in mourning. He was buried in the family graveyard.

THE INDUSTRIAL SOUTH.

The Chattanooga Tradesman's Regular Weekly Report.

Chattanooga, Tennessee. — Business throughout the South shows a forward movement, though for the past month it has been considerably retarded in many sections by the high waters. The Tradesman's Southern correspondents report increased confidence and a better trade in nearly all lines of industry.

Southern iron is in good demand and three Alabama furnaces that have been put in blast, namely, the Ensley and Alice Furnaces in the Birmingham District and No. 2 Furnace, owned by the Sheffield Coal, Iron & Steel Company, at Sheffield. A recent shipment of 1,000 tons of iron to Genoa is reported from Birmingham and additional inquiries have been received from Australia.

Among the most important new industries for the week The Tradesman reports the following: A $20,000 brick and tile plant at Aransas Pass, Tex.; the People's Electric Light Company, capital $100,000, Columbia, S. C.; the Carter's Creek Fish Guano Company, capital $40,000, Irvington, Va.; wire and fence works at Memphis, Tenn.; an extensive plant for treating gold ores at Dahlonga, Ga.; the Water Gas Heating Company, capital $30,000, Houston, Tex., and the National Boat Ore Company, capital $50,000, at Chattanooga, Tenn. The Fort Worth Salt Company, capital $30,000, has been organized at Fort Worth, Tex.; the Lytle Water Company, capital $20,000, at Abilene, Tex., and the J. C. Mayfield Lumber Company, capital $25,000, at Dallas, Tex. Other woodworking plants will be erected at Florence, Ala.; Bonifay, Fla.; Quitman, Ga.; Elizabethton, Ky., and High Point, N. C.

A LABOR STRUGGLE.

It Will Be Precipitated at Pittsburg on a Large Scale.

Pittsburg, Pa. — Several mills and factories here have made reductions in wages, which were not accepted by the men, and now it is expected the United Labor League, the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, the pattern-makers' and iron moulders' unions and several other organizations will be drawn into the labor troubles which started Monday at Oliver Bros.' Tenth Street Mill. The puddlers have refused to work at the reduction of 50 cents per ton, which went into effect that morning, and the managers will attempt to run the mill with whatever men apply. It is feared trouble will follow.

A. M. Byers & Co., who made a similar reduction, have closed their mill, as they had signed with the Amalgamated to pay $4.50. They will await the result at Oliver's before deciding on further action.

The men at Mackintosh & Hemphill's Mill, who have been cut 10 per cent., with an increase in hours from nine to ten, have also decided not to accept the increase of hours.

A Mule Causes Wreck.

Jackson, Miss. — The Railroad Commission has been advised of a serious wreck on the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroad Saturday morning, twenty miles south of Vicksburg. Extra train No. 96 ran over a mule, tearing up the track, ditching the engine and killing Fireman Russell, of New Orleans. No other persons were injured.

A Texas Bank Closes.

Morgan, Tex. — The banking firm of John C. Tandy & Co., of this city, closed its doors yesterday. Assets and liabilities are not given. It is believed the depositors will be paid in full, as Mr. Tandy is also President of the banking firm of Tandy, Patterson & Co., of Cameron, Tex.

REV. DR. JONATHAN WHITELEY'S WIDOW STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

But She Has Been Cured—Long May She Live and Long Live the Remedy to Which She Owe Her Life.

From the Gazette, Mendocino, Pa.

The following interesting interviews concerning the efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, have lately been received at the office of this newspaper:

The first embodies a conversation with Mrs. M. A. Whiteley, the widow of the late Rev. Jonathan Whiteley, D. D., an eminent divine of the Methodist denomination. Mrs. Whiteley spoke as follows:

"I consider it my duty to tell for publication the immense benefit I have derived from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Three years ago I was stricken by paralysis, and lay helpless for months. I was at last advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which after many misgivings I concluded to do, as I had faith in all medicines. The first box helped me much, and the continual use of the pills has worked and is working wonders. To-day I have driven twelve miles without fatigue. I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they have done me a world of good."

Mr. John W. Boaty, who is a contractor and builder of Mendocino, of the highest respectability, says:

"Although I have passed the meridian of life, I am glad to be able to say that I have but little or no use for medicine of any kind. But my wife is not so fortunate. During the last few years she has been a sufferer from dropsy and disease of the heart, and at times suffered greatly. A few months ago she began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and has been greatly benefited by their use. She experienced a numbness and coldness in her limbs and at times could scarcely walk by reason of poor circulation of the blood. All these unpleasant symptoms have disappeared and I confidently hope to see her a well woman ere long. I will also take the liberty to speak for a brother-in-law of mine, G. W. Myer, who resides at Shenksleyville, Mercer County, Pa. So great was his affliction by reason of erysipelas in the face and a general breaking down of the system that last winter he was given up to die. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have made him a new man and he is as one rescued from the very jaws of death."

Mr. Prentice Fry, of Mendocino, testifies as follows:

"My wife and daughter have been failing in health for some time and the treatments of physicians in their cases have been fruitless. So much has been said of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People that I resolved to try them, and myself and family will always be glad that Providence threw such a medicine in our way. The wife faces and wasted cheeks of my wife and daughter have disappeared, and the ruddy glow of health has reappeared. Pen cannot record my feelings in the matter, and all I can say is that I trust all who are bowed down by the heavy hand of physical infirmity will learn that there is a remedy that cures and places suffering humanity where they can enjoy this earthly existence. God bless the maker of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an infallible specific for such disease as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Restored His Hearing in 5 Minutes

My age is 63. I suffered from Catarrh 10 years. Had intense headache, continual roaring and ringing in ears, took cold easily. My hearing began to fail, and for three years was almost entirely deaf, and continually grew worse. Everything I had tried failed. Indespair I commenced to use Aerial Medication in 1888, and the effect of the first application was simply wonderful. In less than five minutes my hearing was fully restored, and has been perfect ever since, and in a few months was entirely cured of Catarrh. ELI BUOWS, Jackboro, Tenn.

"Whereas I was deaf, now I hear."

At the age of 60, after having suffered from Catarrhal Deafness twenty years, am truly thankful to state that I am entirely cured by Aerial Medication; my hearing, which had become so bad that I could not hear a watch tick, or conversation, is fully restored. I will verify this statement. WM. RITCHIE, Derby Center, Vt.

Medicine for 3 Months' Treatment Free

To introduce this treatment and prove beyond doubt that Aerial Medication will cure Deafness, Catarrh, Throat and Lung Diseases, I will, for a short time, send Medicines for three months' treatment absolutely free. J. H. Moore, M. D., Dept. K. 7, Cincinnati, O.

Look on the Bright Side.

When troubles o'ertake you, and false friends forsake you,
And misfortunes come not singly, but in lines,
Remember the saying, ('twill be better far than praying),
That "Behind the darkest cloud the sun still shines."

When heartsick and weary, of life so sad and dreary,
And your "futures" and your hopes alone remain,
Accept with hope tomorrow, and think no more of sorrow,
For the days once past and gone come not again.

If we, instead of crying, or still more useless sighing,
Would take what comes, and ask the Lord for more.
We'd feel much better by it. If you don't believe me, try it,
And you'll wonder why you hadn't tried before.

NELL'S GUARANTEE.

BY LEIGH FORD.

"A disappointment, connected with something near your heart, and—let me see!"

She turned the cards up meditatively on the shining oak table and put her hands to her head in a pretty affectation of wisdom.

"That means love," laying her finger on the five of hearts, "eternal love—the love of some woman. It looks like an old friend, and she runs in hearts I think. Yes, she is quite light; can you place her?"

"As far as the coloring goes," he laughed; "I know any number of light women; yourself for instance."

"Oh! I'm not in it; my hair is too yellow. This one is more of the demiblonde, something like Miss Maitland, bronze hair and blue eyes."

"My dear girl, Miss Maitland isn't a blonde at all; if you can't do better than that for me, I'll throw up the whole concern."

She smiled and ran off a few more cards, counting every third one in quite a professional manner.

"Well! If it's not Miss Maitland," shaking her head, "you will have to fill in the name yourself. There is the ace of spades; that's bad luck, and a death, and—oh! there's your wish. Have you made a wish?"

He shook his head. "You didn't tell me."

"Well, I tell you now; make it right away, and a good one too, for I believe it's going to come true."

"But," he protested, leaning forward and resting his arms on the table, "if I make such an important one, I want a guarantee; are you prepared to give it to me?"

"Don't be absurd, Jack; this is serious; now wish something good."

"Must I tell you what it is?"

"No," doubtfully. "You don't have to; but you can if you want to."

"Well—I will tell you if I get it; now mind, this is very important."

"Select three cards then. Does it concern a woman?"

"Yes."

"I might have known it. Is she light or dark?"

"That would be telling."

"Oh! You are too provoking," petulantly picking up the cards. "It would serve you right if I said you didn't get your old wish at all."

"But you won't do that?"

"Be still. I will if you don't let go of my hands. See! You are making me drop all the cards."

"Nonsense! I'll help you pick them up. Just tell me if I get my wish."

"Well, I'll see. There's that ten of diamonds and the deuce, and—ah! the ace of hearts. You will have it, sure; but there is a little disappointment just at first, I see—dear me, Jack! What are you doing! Let go my hands."

"Not until you have given me a guarantee for my wish."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean—oh! well, you have known it all along. You are my wish. No, no, don't move. Come, dear; be serious with me for once."

"But I don't want to be serious," she cried, trying to draw away from him; "you have spoiled all my fortune. Look! Here I see a gift coming."

"What do I care for the cards, or anything else in the world but you? Come, Nell! Give me an answer. You must have some feeling of kindness in your heart for me, your old friend."

"That's it," she whispered falteringly, for the first time letting her eyes meet his. "We are such old friends. I have known you all my life—I—" rubbing her hand on the table nervously, "I am fonder of you than almost any one; but how can I tell if that is love? Jack, dear, can't we go on in the old way? I don't want to marry." Her fingers closed pleadingly. "Why should we spoil it all by getting married?"

He made a quick, impatient gesture.

"Oh, yes! I know it is different with men, but I would be contented to live on just as we are for years. Why, see? We would never know what it was to tire of each other. We would not have all the romance brushed off our love by the monotonous intimacy of married life. We would have all of the delight with none of the despair. I don't know why marriage should be regarded as the height and pinnacle of earthly bliss. It seems to me it is the one great institution that destroys love."

She gave a restless sigh, and let her chin sink into the soft palms of her hands. The pink light from the lamp fell upon her yellow hair where it lay in babyish rings on her forehead.

He stood looking at her a moment, his heart smothered with pain and longings and love. Then he leaned slowly forward and took both her hands from her face, and held them in the firm clasp of his.

"Nell, dear," he said softly. "You talk this way because you don't know what love is. Why, do you suppose for a moment that a mere pleasant companionship would satisfy a man who loved you? He would be only half a man to accept what you suggest. As for me, I cannot go on with our friendship. I will not take a crust when I have asked for bread. You cannot help it, dear, and I must drop out of your life and live my own as best I may."

He dropped her hands and turning away began to finger mechanically the little string that regulated the lamp, until the flame began to flicker and finally went out.

"I beg your pardon—I have a match—I can light it again," he muttered, hastily.

She watched him in silence as he struck a light and with a steady hand once more sent a soft glow over the room.

Her eyes traveled to his face, with the light full shining upon it. It was strangely still. She felt a peculiar little fluttering sensation in her throat.

"Jack," she whispered, falteringly.

He turned in a sudden passion and, catching both her hands, drew her near to him—so near that his white face was almost touching hers.

She did not move, but a deep flush crept over his tanned cheeks, and his arms tightened convulsively. The force of his clasp crushed and hurt her. His face came nearer, nearer; their breaths mingled; then, with a sharp exclamation, he loosened his hold—so quickly, so suddenly, that she almost fell backward.

"Forgive me," he muttered hoarsely; "don't speak to me. Good night. Say good night to your mother, too."

He pulled aside the curtain with a rough hand and stepped into the hall. She could hear him getting into his coat. Her hands were still fingering the cards. From the force of habit she turned three up. Her eyes fell upon them as they lay under the lamp light.

A mistake—he was getting his cane now. A—the door was opening—a heartache. She felt the cool night wind on her neck and turned slightly; then there was the sound of the closing door echoing through the silent house—a mistake.

Her eyes clung to the cards. They seemed to mock her. She stretched her arms out blindly toward the door and tried to call his name, but her lips did not move.

Then in a frenzy of pain she scattered the cards on the table. Her eyes fell suddenly upon one. She snatched it recklessly from the pack, and rushing into the hall, flung the door wide open.

"Jack, Jack!" she panted.

He was half way down the steps, and, as he paused and turned toward her, she impulsively turned and threw the card at his feet. He stooped wonderingly and, raising it, held it up to the light.

It was the five of hearts.

"Nell!" he cried, springing up the steps. His voice was hardly to be recognized.

A sudden flutter of nervousness swept over her, and, with a throb of fear, she slammed the door tight; but he knocked heavily against the panels.

"Nell—Nell, open! What do you mean?"

The door did not move.

"Sweetheart!"

Then there was a little uncertain turning of the knob, and a crack of light appeared. Crashing through it, he caught the slight, trembling form in his quivering arms.

"Nell—Nell—what do you mean?"

"I mean," her words falling spasmodically from her lips, "I mean—that I want to give you my—guarantee."—New York Truth.

A Botanical Freak.

One of the curiosities of nature is known as a plant atol. There are but two or three of these known to scientists. This atol is made up of a circle of growing plants. They are floating on the top of ponds or lakes. They form a hoop-shaped figure and are closely matted together at the roots, which make a sort of cup or basin, to which more or less vegetable matter falls or floats. There is a sufficient amount of nutriment in this to keep the plant growing. As it increases, the roots become longer and larger, and in time the plant may anchor itself in the soil at the bottom of the pond. These rings, after many years of accumulation and growth, make what appear to be small islands. It is the opinion of certain scientists that islands may have been formed in this manner. The roots catch all floating vegetable or animal matter. Leaves collect and form mold, and after a while birds may drop plant or tree seeds on the little pod that floats on the top of the water. These take root and further assist in the growth of the little island. It may take centuries for the plant to come to any size, but with nature a thousand years is but as yesterday.

A Grateful Tenant.

Mr. Ford has some houses in Brooklyn, one of which he rented to Mr. Stone, a mason. For three months Mr. Ford failed to collect the rent, and at last resolved to send Mr. Stone adrift.

"But if I am put out, Mr. Ford," said Stone, "I can't move my duds. I have no money."

Mr. Ford, being tender-hearted, gave him two dollars, and Stone moved out. Shortly afterward Mr. Ford appointed an agent to attend to his rents. Everything went right until one day Mr. Ford found that the rent of a certain house remained unpaid.

"The tenant's all right, sir," said the agent. "He's a good man of the name of Stone, a mason, and he'll pay in a day or two."

The owner called upon the backward tenant, and found that he was the same Stone whom he had evicted some months before.

"How is it you're back here again?" said Mr. Ford.

"Really," said Stone, "I couldn't think of patronizing another landlord, Mr. Ford. You had been kind to me and I felt grateful."—Harper's Round Table.

Looking for Something Better.

"You are not the man I am looking for," replied the shopper. "I am trying to find a seller of cyclometers who will throw in a bicycle."—Harper's Bazar.

Frozen Jack Rabbits.

In some of the Nevada canons in severe weather the jack rabbits freeze to death, huddled together in clusters, vainly trying to get a little warmth out of one another. Then the Washoe and Piate Indian hunters break them off in bunches and flood the market with them.

INDIAN BAY COUNTRY.

Intense Misery for 500 People and 1,500 Head of Stock.

Little Rock, Ark.—According to letters received by the local relief committee, every foot of land in the Indian Bay country is now under water, and the situation there is appalling. One letter from Holly Grove, Ark., says that the people there have not received any supplies, and the situation is becoming rapidly worse, as the water is still rising. Live stock and people were carried to the highest places when the floods first came, and were temporarily safe, but now every foot of land is covered with water. There are 1,500 head of live stock and 500 persons in the district, and not one morsel to feed them. The letter continues: "We beg and plead of you, for humanity's sake, to try and assist us." The Chairman of the local relief committee says that rations for 500 people for one week were shipped to Holly Grove on the 3d, but were delayed in transit and are expected to reach the sufferers.

A letter from Chairman Butts, of the Helena relief committee, says that the situation there is materially changed. The entire country contiguous to the river is from one to twenty feet under water, but the city is thought to be safe. Supplies are not needed, but funds are necessary to rescue persons who have been cut off without skiffs.

The Georgia Monument.

Atlanta, Ga.—The contract with the Venable Brothers for the granite work on the Georgia State monument to be erected on the Chickamauga battlefield was signed up Saturday and the work will progress rapidly to a finish. The Venable contract will amount to $10,000. The bronze contract is with the Gorman Manufacturing Company, of New York, and is for $7,000. The bronze work will consist of three figures on the pedestal, an artilleryman, an infantryman and a cavalryman, representing the three branches of the service, of heroic size; and the color-bearer, which is to surmount the whole and which will be a conspicuous landmark for many miles around.

BECOMING TRULY AWFUL.

Red River of the North Takes a Fresh Hold for Devastation.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The Red River is rising more than ever, and a still greater rise is looked for from Red Lake River, where a gorge has broken. Between this city and Pembina at least 250 families are camped in the second stories of their dwellings and on top of their barns and strawstacks, together with all their cattle that can be got up. On many farms cattle are standing three feet in water. Good boats and a Great Northern steamer will start out as soon as they can be got ready and provisioned for ten days to rescue people and stock in all the lower river section. Many families near the Grand Forks have been rescued on rafts. A very little further rise will drown stock for hundreds of miles. At Pembina the water is rising an inch an hour, but the waters from the Fargo that have done such damage at River and Grand Forks have not yet reached them. The conditions that will exist at Winnipeg when the flood finally reaches there are awful to contemplate.

THE GOLD DEMOCRATS

Will Hold an Important Conference in New York Soon.

New York, N. Y.—Former President Cleveland, John G. Carlisle, former Secretary of the Treasury, and William L. Wilson, former Postmaster-General, will be guests at the dinner given by the Reform Club at the Waldorf on Saturday evening, April 24th. Between 500 and 600 leading Democrats will attend, and the affair is likely to make Democratic history.

In connection with this gathering it is proposed to hold a conference of gold standard Democrats in this city. Invitations are being sent out to the leaders of the gold faction in the various States, and the conference, it is expected, will last for two days. It will be held in Chickering Hall, April 23d and 24th, being considered as most desirable.

DEMOCRAT APPOINTED.

A Prominent Tennessee Democrat Given a Fat Office.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has appointed Charles W. Dabney, Jr., of Tennessee, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture under the Cleveland Administration, to be "Special Agent in charge of Scientific and Statistical Investigation." The salary is fixed at $4,500 per year.

This is the largest compensation paid any official in the Government service designated either by the President or a Cabinet officer, who is not confirmed by the Senate, with the single exception of the Director of the Bureau of American Republics.

Secretary Wilson's creation of an office and its bestowal upon a Democrat are bitterly denounced by those Republicans who are looking in vain for positions not blanketed by civil service regulation.

Distribution of Seeds.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has initiated a new system of distribution in his department. His aim is to diversify so far as possible the farm products of the country, and to this end he is making a specialty of selecting new and valuable seeds from all parts of the world and putting them in the hands of farmers likely to use them to advantage.

Oppose the Duty on Hides.

New York, N. Y.—Representatives in this city of the leather, harness, shoe and kindred trades held a preliminary meeting a few days since for the purpose of taking action in reference to the proposed duty on hides. Charles A. Schieren, Ex-Mayor of Brooklyn, was chairman. Word was received from Philadelphia and Boston that the leather men in these cities were organizing and would co-operate with the organization here to oppose the measure.

The saloons are here to-day by the consent and votes of the churches of this land.

THE MASS MEETING.

The Mass Meeting of Citizens called to meet last night for the purpose of nominating a ticket for Mayor and Aldermen of the city, owing to the inclemency of the weather, adjourned without taking any action, to meet again on to-morrow, Friday, night at 8 o'clock. Let everybody turn out.

The Eufaula Times has changed from a morning to an evening paper.

The youthful son of Gov. Atkinson of Georgia and his girl bride were remarried at Chattanooga, a few days ago, and parental blessings added.

The Bryan Democratic Club of Birmingham celebrated the 154th birthday of Thos. Jefferson, the pioneer of American Democracy, in superb style, on Tuesday night last. Gov. Johnson was the guest of honor and Hon. Jno. W. Tomlinson, president of the club, was master of ceremonies. A number of ringing and patriotic speeches were made by leading democrats of the state.

The Birmingham Evening News of Tuesday last gives the story of the Calera train robbers. It says that only two were engaged in the robbery; that they got about $1488; that they tramped from the robbery near Calera across the country to Pell city; they went by rail to Rome, Ga., at which point all trace of them was lost by the detectives who were at work on the case. The News gives a description of the two men and the name of one of them as Jim Thomas.

President McKinley has appointed Senator Edward O. Wolcott of Colorado, Hon. Chas. J. Paine, of Boston, and ex-Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson as commissioners to an international monetary conference. These appointments were made under the act approved March 3rd last "for the formation of an international agreement for bimetallicism."

A Georgia weekly observes: "The hard times have forced a new style among country editors, and many of them now wear a belt instead of suspenders. When they get word from home that there is nothing for dinner, they simply tighten up the belt another notch and feel too full for utterance."

It is estimated that the Mississippi floods will cut the cotton crop 2,000,000 bales, representing a financial loss of about $80,000,000. The loss of other crops, the destruction of homes and farms and drowning of live stock added to this will run up the total damage to a vast sum, going beyond the $100,000,000 mark.—Birmingham News.

Birmingham comes to the front this week with the marriage of another youthful couple, viz: Stiff Harper, aged eighteen, and Miss Afton Hauser, aged fourteen. They ran away and went to Montgomery, and were married there. Birmingham will not be left, even by Georgia's hustling city. She will stand at the head in the procession.

PROF. VERNER.

The friends of Prof. Wm. Verner are urging him to allow his name to be presented as a candidate for the University presidency. Of all the names of the Alabama educators few indeed are better known than the able principal of the Verner Military Institute. For twenty years Prof. Verner has taught in Tuscaloosa, and many of the ablest men of the state have received their training from him. The great success that has attended his Military school evidence his marked abilities as a manager and executive officer as well as a teacher. Few men could bring to the Presidency such a wide experience as Prof. Verner. He knows the needs of the institution thoroughly and could enter upon the management of its affairs with full information. He would fill the position with distinguished credit to himself and the University and he will receive a warm support should he decide to yield to the earnest solicitations of his friends and allow his name to be used. Prof. Verner is a South Carolinian by birth but he has been so long identified with the state and its people that we have since learned to regard him as one of the best of Alabama citizens.—Tuscaloosa Gazette.

ALABAMA AT NASHVILLE.

To the Press of Alabama:

Knowing from past experience that the enlightened and public-spirited newspaper men of this state are always more than willing to serve the state, I do not hesitate to address this open letter to them in behalf of securing a creditable exhibit of the state's matchless resources at the coming Tennessee Centennial exposition. The commission from Alabama, appointed by the governor, has already accomplished much in this direction, but the matter has not been adequately advertised so as to secure the fullest measure of co-operation from the public in the way of individual exhibits.

Having only a meager appropriation from the state, the commission cannot pay for the advertising, but appeals to the state press to come to its aid in this respect. It is only a short time before this great exposition will be opened. Agitate the matter frequently in your columns, and urge those who have charge of mining, manufacturing and agricultural interests of your respective sections to unite in getting together appropriate county or city exhibits of local resources and enterprises. Individuals who have exhibits of industrial or historic interest should be asked to correspond at once with me so as to have the same properly displayed in the general state exhibit of the Nashville exposition.

The press is a great power, and I trust that each Alabama editor will patriotically respond to this demand upon their public spirit. If they will the result will be of great and lasting good to our beloved state.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY FOR SPRING TERM 1897.

State of Alabama, } Circuit Court,
Shelby County. } Spring Term.
To the Hon. George E. Brewer, Judge presiding:
The Grand Jury sworn and empaneled at this term of the court having finished its labors submit the following as its final report:

We have examined the books, papers and accounts of the officers of the county and find them all correct and neatly and well kept.

We find in cash in the county treasury, $1,539.

We find that in the office of the Probate Judge a large number of papers have accumulated since the organization of the county—and while Judge McMillan is keeping and preserving them as best he can, he needs a record file cases in which to keep and preserve them.

And we also find that the tract book of the county, which is kept in his office, is in a dilapidated condition. This book is old, and from long and constant use, is about worn out.

We recommend that the court of commissioners, as early as the finances of the county will admit, take steps to have a new tract book prepared, and buy for the use of the probate office, such furniture and file cases as the office needs for the keeping and preservation of the papers in this office.

We have examined into the condition of the county jail and find that the prisoners are well cared for, and that the jail is sufficient for the safe keeping of the same.

We find that the poor house is in good hands and that the unfortunate inmates are receiving the attention they require.

We regret to report that the public roads of the county are in a bad condition. We do not know whether this is the result of the present road work

Biliousness

Is caused by torpid liver, which prevents digestion and permits food to ferment and putrify in the stomach. Then follow dizziness, headache,

Hood's Pills

Insomnia, nervousness, and, if not relieved, bilious fever or blood poisoning. Hood's Pills stimulate the stomach, rouse the liver, cure headache, dizziness, constipation, etc. 25 cents. Sold by all druggists. The only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

ing system or because the roads have not been properly worked. Many of the apportioners have reported to us, and all of them say that the overseers have tried to do their duty.

At any rate, this grand jury finds that there is much complaint in this regard, and we hardly know what to suggest or recommend. We desire to call the attention of the commissioners court specially to this matter, and earnestly insist that something be done looking to an improvement of the public roads. If this court thinks there should be a special road law for the county, it will have the endorsement of this body.

We have investigated 46 cases and turned into court 31 indictments.

We find that the bonds of the county officers are good and sufficient.

Since the last term of the court, we find that a system of water works has been constructed for the court house and jail—and we desire to say that the same so far as we can discover, is working admirably and well. We think this investment on the part of the county, has been a good one, and meets with our hearty endorsement.

Now having finished our labors, we ask to be discharged.

A REMEDY

News-Reporter office, Talladega, Ala.

I note you call for a remedy for potato beetles. I came from Indiana where without this remedy we could not raise Irish potatoes: Take one 1/2 paris green and 3/4 flour, mix dry and thoroughly. Punch small nail holes in the bottom of a tin can for sifter and put compound in it. In early morning while dew is on, go over the vines tapping side of can so a light shower of poison is dusted on. The flour and dew make a gum that will hold poison to the leaves for a week. Last year's bugs don't hurt, it is the young ones, red, wormy looking. The remedy is sure and safe and is also good for cabbage worms.

People Believe what they read about Hood's Sarsaparilla. They know it is an honest medicine, and that it cures. Get Hood's and only Hood's.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, relieve constipation assist digestion. 25c.

Mr. Henry Milner of Columbiana spent a short while in the city last Tuesday.

Capt. James Crook, president of the railroad commission, passed through the city Monday.

Thirty years is a long time to fight so painful a trouble as piles, but Jacob Mitchell, of Unionville, Pa., struggled that long before he tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which quickly and permanently cured him. It is equally effective in eczema and all skin affections.—Dial Bros.

Mr. Jno. A. Edwards of Childersburg was in the city Tuesday.

Not only acute lung troubles, which may prove fatal in a few days, but old chronic coughs and throat troubles may receive immediate relief and be permanently cured by One Minute Cough Cure. Dial Bros.

Judge D. R. McMillan of Columbiana passed through the city on Tuesday morning en route to Woodlawn to attend the meeting of the North Alabama Presbytery.

Maj. Jno. W. Bolin, of Wilsonville, a prominent saw mill man was in the city this week. He was en route to Huntsville to attend the U. S. court now in session at that place. The Major, like some of the other saw mill men of the country, has been bewitched by some fake concerns of Chicago claiming to be dealers in lumber and he is prosecuting them in the U. S. courts. We understand that he has succeeded in running said swindlers down and has worked up a strong case against them. It is earnestly hoped that he may succeed in having them convicted and punished to the full extent of the law.

MONTEVALLO.

The famous Betsy Hamilton, Mrs. M. V. Moore, of Auburn entertained a large audience in the college chapel Saturday evening. Her readings were true and vivid pictures of cracker life and negro character, and her hearers showed their appreciation by their continual laughter and their hearty applause.

Rev. S. L. Dobbs preached Friday night at the Methodist church here, going Saturday to Oak Grove to conduct a quarterly meeting and thence to his home in Tuscaloosa.

The Christian Endeavor Society had an important business meeting Friday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Cary.

The Presbyterians, who have all the year had their distinct classes in the Methodist Sunday school, will, hereafter, have all their services in the old Cumberland Presbyterian church, which has long been disused, but which they have secured and made very attractive.

At the Baptist church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. M. P. Reynolds, preached a good sermon, and in the evening the church was crowded to hear a blind preacher, Rev. Mr. Harvey, of Mississippi.

The Rev. W. H. Weaver, pastor of the U. B. Church, Dillsburg, Pa., recognizes the value of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and does not hesitate to tell others about it. "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," he says, "and find it an excellent medicine for colds, coughs and hoarseness." So does everyone who gives it a trial. Sold by Dial Bros., Druggists.

Messrs J. R. Pratt and A. F. Wilson were visitors to Birmingham Tuesday.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the results as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; to-day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by Dial Bros., Druggists.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

We, the teachers of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for Girls, desire to express our heartfelt sorrow for the loss of our little friend, Ada Deshazo, and our sympathy with her family in their grief.

Therefore, Resolved, That in bowing to the will of our Father, who has seen best to call, thus early, to her heavenly home our little girl, yet we mourn for her, one of our most earnest, most dearly loved pupils.

Resolved, That in the few months she has worked with us she has endeared herself to teachers and friends by her faithfulness to duty and her sweetness of disposition.

Resolved, That we extend to the loved ones of her sorrowing home our tenderest sympathy, commending them to the comforting care of our loving Father, who, in infinite wisdom and mercy, "doeth all things well."

THE FACULTY.

Croup and whooping cough are childhood's terrors; and like pneumonia, bronchitis, and other throat and lung troubles, can be quickly cured by using One Minute Cough Cure. Dial Bros., Druggists.

BRIDGETON LOCALS.

Some sickness in our community though nothing we hope of a serious nature.

Mrs. R. M. DeShazo has been quite sick for time, but is better this writing. We hope for her a speedy recovery to perfect health.

Mrs. S. M. Bass had a light stroke of paralysis a short time since in one side of the head and face. She has our sympathy in her affliction and we hope to soon see her fully restored.

Mr. Joe McLaughlin and Mr. Will Farley—are both wearing broad smiles on account of the advent of a daughter into their homes. We congratulate them, and wish for them much joy. Selah.

Maquis DeShazo brought in the Boss gopher on the morning of the 5th inst., and the dinner tables in Soot Town had the appearance of Thanksgiving day. We hope he will go again soon and have the same kind of good luck.

There seems to be some attractions in Soot Town, judging from the way the boys congregate on Saturdays. All right, boys. Wedding cake tastes good at any season of the year.

Mr. Collin Dykes will soon have his mill in shape for business if he has no bad luck.

Nice sun shiny weather now is gladdening the hearts of the farmers, and the voice of the plow boy is being heard in all direction.

Judging from the amount of fertilizers purchased in this section one could guess that more corn and less cotton would be a good rule for the farmer to adopt for a year or two, but some say, "the lower the price the more they have to plant in order to raise cash they must have in the fall." 'May be this is true!

Mrs. Sydney McLaughlin has been quite sick for several days but we are glad to learn she is better and hope she may soon fully recover her wonted health.

Ada DeShazo, daughter of Mr. Andrew J. DeShazo, died while at Montevallo going to school, and was interred at Bold Springs Cemetery on the 27th of March. Ada was a sweet, winsome girl of fourteen summers and had many friends who mourn her death, which was a shock coming so unexpectedly to the entire community. The sympathy of our entire community is extended to the bereaved father and mother and family in their sad bereavement. May a kind and merciful heavenly father comfort them in their sorrow.

The Bold Springs cemetery is soon to be enclosed with a good wire fence, iron gates and cedar posts; something that should have been done long ago. But I suppose the old adage, "Its never too late to do good," will apply in this case.

Best wishes for the old Sentinel and the editor and printer.

Americans are the most inventive people on earth. To them have been issued nearly 600,000 patents, or more than one-third of all the patents issued in the world. No discovery of modern years has been of greater benefit to mankind than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, or has done more to relieve pain and suffering. J. W. OUT OF
WHOA AND WORRY

PLEASURE and PROFIT

OUT OF

WHOA AND WORRY

Try it. We Guarantee.

This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention; a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he, as long needed, and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender.

How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work.

You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow and the plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant.

By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity.

All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectually avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant on an independent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up.

The rolling disc passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market.

The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow.

The tilting motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, in the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it.

It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools.

WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc., 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use, 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle 4th. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it.

All these advantages we will give you for the small sum of two ($2.00) dollars, and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

The French custom-house officials are sometimes guilty of curiously petty exactions. One traveler on reaching Paris was fined the sum of 100 francs for having twenty-five cigars in his bag. Another who carried in his bag a box of 1,000 wax matches made in England was mulcted for 1,000 francs—a franc a match.

DRESS FABRICS.

Silk lowers upon the horizon as the coming dress fabric. It is a very sudden development, but none the less significant. Upon all sides the woolen gown is yielding in favor to that of silk. Even where wool is worn the appearance of silk is brought out by the intermixture of that material on the front of the bodice and the sleeve. Velvets are just now being brought out for bodices, consisting of stripes of velvet alternating with a brocade of small roses. But, novel as these are, they are not nearly so popular as the quaint pieces of old brocade of almost any kind. In the house, at "fuctions," the theatre, on the street itself, it looks very much as though women would soon be "in silk attire" altogether.

The Wonderful Kava-Kava Shrub.

A New Botanical Discovery.—Of Special Interest to Sufferers from Diseases of the Kidneys or Bladder, Rheumatism, etc.—A Blessing to Humanity.

A Free Gift of Great Value to You.

Our readers will be glad to know that the new botanical discovery, Alkavis, from the wonderful Kava-Kava shrub has proved an assured cure for all diseases caused by Uric acid in the blood, or by disordered action of the Kidneys or urinary organs. The Kava-Kava Shrub, or as botanists call it, Piper Methysticum, grows on the banks of the Ganges river, East India, and is probably used for centuries by the natives before its extraordinary properties became known to civilization through Christian missionaries. In this respect it resembles the discovery of quinine from the peruvian bark, made known by the Indians to the early Jesuit missionaries in South America, and by them brought to civilized man. It is a wonderful discovery, with a record of 1200 hospital cures in 30 days. It acts directly upon the blood and kidneys, and is a true specific, just as quinine is in malaria. We have the strongest testimony of many ministers of the gospel, well known doctors and business men cured by Alkavis, when all other remedies had failed.

In the New York Weekly World of Sept. 10th, the testimony of Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., of Washington, D. C. was given, describing his years of suffering from kidney disease and Rheumatism, and his rapid cure by Alkavis. Rev. Thomas Smith, the Methodist minister at Cobden, Illinois, passed nearly one hundred painful hours after two weeks' use of Alkavis. Rev. John H. Watson, of Cincinnati, a minister of the gospel of thirty years' service, was struck down at his post of duty by kidney disease. After hovering between life and death for two months, and all his doctors having failed, he took Alkavis, and was completely restored to health and strength, and is fulfilling his duties as minister of the gospel. Mr. R. C. Wood, a prominent attorney of Lowell, Indiana, was cured of Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder disease of ten years standing, by Alkavis. Mr. Wood describes himself as being in constant misery, often compelled to rise ten times during the night on account of weakness of the bladder. He was treated by all his home physicians without the least benefit, and finally completely cured in a few weeks by Alkavis. The testimony is undoubted and really wonderful. Mrs. James Young, of Kent, Ohio, writes that she had tried six doctors in vain, that she was about to give up in despair, when she found Alkavis and was promptly cured of kidney disease and restored to health. Many other ladies also testify to the wonderful curative powers of Alkavis in the various disorders peculiar to womanhood.

So far the Church Kidney Cure Company, No. 424 Fourth Avenue, New York, are the only importers of this new remedy, and they are so anxious to prove its value that for the sake of introduction they will send a free treatment of Alkavis prepaid by mail to every reader of this paper who is a sufferer from any form of Kidney or Bladder disorders, Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Pain in Back, Female Complaints, or any other affliction due to improper action of the Kidneys or Urinary Organs. We advise all sufferers to send their names and address to the company, and receive the Alkavis free. It is sent to you entirely free, to prove its wonderful curative powers.

BIG SENSATION

Over the Fight for United State Senatorship in Kentucky.

BRIBERY AND CONSPIRACY

Is Charged Against Candidate Hunter and His Lieutenants.

PROMINENT REPUBLICANS

Indicted By the Grand Jury and Very Sensational Developments Expected. Sweeping Denials by the Parties Implicated. Fifteen Thousand Dollars for Three Votes.

Louisville, Ky.—A special to the Evening Post from Frankfort, says: Indictments charging bribery and conspiracy to bribe have been prepared by the Franklin county grand jury against the most prominent Republicans in the State, viz.: Ex-Congressman W. Godfrey Hunter, of the Third District, the Republican nominee for the United States Senate; Ex-Congressman John H. Wilson, of the Eleventh District, one of Dr. Hunter's closest advisers, and Hon. E. T. Franks, one of the leading Republican politicians of the Second District. The indictments were prepared last night upon the testimony of Capt. Noel Gaines and Capt. Tanner, his brother-in-law, and Fred Gordon, all of this city. The charges are indignantly denied by Dr. Hunter, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Franks, all of whom say they will prosecute for criminal libel all who have testified to the above facts before the grand jury. They claim that it is the last desperate effort of the Blackburn Democrats to prevent Dr. Hunter's election, which seemed a certainty, in view of the fact that he lacked only one vote at the ballot on Saturday. The following authorized interview was given out Saturday morning by Capt. Thomas Tanner, one of the accused witnesses:

"I was called to the Capitol Hotel Monday night and had a conference with Wilson in room 20. Wilson had a big roll of bills; he said there was $5,000 in the package, and from all appearances there was. There were four such packages, or $20,000, and he said this would be paid for four votes for Dr. Hunter. I had several conferences with Franks in the same room; was last called there Thursday morning, when they seemed to think that some members of the Legislature had offered to succumb for $10,000, but they thought this too high."

Capt. Noel Gaines testified before the grand jury in part as follows: "When Dr. Hunter came to my house he, Dr. Hunter, opened the conversation by saying that he had been told I could aid him in getting three votes. I told him that I did not know whether it was possible to get them or not, but I would study over it and see."

"Hunter said: 'I want three votes and am willing to pay $15,000, or $5,000 a vote. I will furnish the money all right, but will have to have one of my representatives complete the trade and give you the money as it would not do for me to hand it to you.'"

"He said he would have Ex-Congressman John H. Wilson, one of his friends, call on me. Hunter told me that Representative W. G. Gassom, and Negro Clark, of Warren County, and John H. Johns, of a lord County, could be gotten and they should be the first ones for me to see as he was pretty certain I could get them."

"On the next evening about the same hour, Mr. John H. Wilson came over in company with Mr. Tanner and we all three went into the library of my house. Mr. Wilson began by saying that Dr. Hunter had sent him to see me and that he (Wilson) wanted to know if I had talked with Gassom, Clark and Johns, and if I had made a trade with them. I told him I had not. Wilson said: 'We have got the $15,000 here and are ready to give it to them if they would agree to vote for Hunter and continue to vote for him until he was elected.'"

"Wilson said to me: 'I want you to go right to work with them now and make the trade with them quick.'"

"Mr. Wilson came back to my house to see me after the two occasions. On one occasion he said: 'The agreement is now that this money will be turned over to you when the men vote. If you can't get these men to vote for Hunter get them to go away, and if you can't get them to go away have them slipped out and keep them out until the ballot is over.'"

The greatest excitement prevailed during the first ballot for Senator at noon Friday. The galleries and lobbies were crowded. The Republicans denounced the charges in unmeasured terms, saying it was a dirty scheme to defeat Hunter.

A statement signed by Mr. Wilson was laid on the desk of the members. The statement denied all the charges, and said that Gaines made the proposition and they believed it a scheme to entrap Dr. Hunter. Before the roll was called there was a fist fight in the gallery. The call of the roll showed no quorum present, but a vote was taken anyway, which gave Hunter 57 and Boyle 1. Sixty answered to their names. A motion to adjourn brought out the absentees, and the vote stood closed Saturday night. Devotional exercises were conducted Sunday by delegates in all the churches. This has been the largest and most enthusiastic convention yet held, forty-nine counties in the State organized, 400 delegates present. A paid Superintendent will be put in the field next year.

Judge Carthel will be Chairman of the Executive Committee. More ladies and laymen have participated in this convention than ever before. Tuscaloosa hospitality is unbounded. The convention visited the University and insane hospital this afternoon.

In accordance with an act of the last Legislature, which provided that the question of issuing $125,000 of bonds for the purchase of water works by the city should be submitted to a vote of the people, the Council appointed May 15th as the day upon which such election shall be held. There is considerable opposition to the issuance of these bonds.

The horribly mangled body of a young white man named Edward Powell was found between the rails by Conductor Foster, of the Southern accommodation train, near Birmingham. The body bore marks that indicated that it had been run over by the preceding train as well as the accommodation. It is said the man, who resided in Brookside, was in Coalburg Wednesday, and started home that night. Whether the man fell from the freight train, on which he is supposed to have been riding, or whether he was walking along the track and was struck by the train is not known. His mangled body was found about one mile from Coalburg. A broken liquor bottle is said to have been found near the body, and it is supposed that the man was drinking.

A Columbia, Ala., special to the Montgomery Advertiser, says: A serious difficulty occurred here last night between a crowd of white boys and some negroes, in which one negro, Sam Kirkland, was shot in the leg, and Jesse Thompson, white, was wounded in the back of the head. Considerable excitement prevails in the town and other disturbances may occur at any time, though it is hoped that the cooler heads will prevail and nothing further come of the affair. The trouble grew out of some promiscuous rock throwing last Sunday night in which a negro woman was struck, followed by desperate threats made by her son.

Contracts were let at Birmingham for the construction of the Mobile & Ohio Railroad extension from Columbus, Miss., via Tuscaloosa, to Montgomery, Ala., and its branches into the Birmingham mineral district from Tuscaloosa to Brookwood, and from Cartersville to Blocton, as follows: P. Cassidy & Co., Memphis, twenty miles; G. W. Callahan & Co., Knoxville, thirty miles; M. Quigley & Co., St. Louis, forty miles; Ryan & Co., Kansas City, ten miles; Mason, Gooch & Co., Kentucky, thirty miles. This work includes the main line from Columbus, Miss., to Tuscaloosa and the Blocton branch. The remainder of the main line from Tuscaloosa to Montgomery and the Brookwood branch was let Saturday. There will be 200 miles of new railroad altogether, and the work is to be finished by November 1. The completion of this extension will give the Mobile & Ohio a direct route, through connections, to Florida and the Atlantic seaboard, and will at the same time shorten the route for Alabama coal and iron to St. Louis and the West by more than fifty miles.

THE FIRST REPORT FROM

Operations in the Flood Districts. Senator
Hansborough's New Bill. Civil Service Investigation. Florida's Novel Idea. Some Appointments.

Washington, D. C.—(Special Correspondence).—Maj. Sanger, of the Inspector General's Department, arrived in Washington Friday morning, being the first of the officers sent out by Secretary Alger to the flooded districts to return to this city. He is preparing a written report of his operations, but meanwhile he explained verbally to the President and Secretary Alger just what had been done by him on his instructions to ascertain the condition of the flood sufferers and arrange for their relief.

Chartering a steamboat at Memphis with the best Captain that could be obtained, a man, who, the Major said, was of the greatest help and willing to go anywhere to relieve distress, he took aboard a cargo of supplies of a character suggested by the Memphis committee and started down the river accompanied by Captain Rogers, chairman of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, a man familiar with the country to be visited. It was found that the Memphis committee had established stations for the relief of the refugees in many places throughout the St. Francis basin in addition to the big camp they had pitched in West Memphis. All of these were visited and in addition Major Sanger established stations at other points where they seemed to be needed.

The relief boat ran up in the St. Francis River, up the Languille River and across country over cotton fields and plantations, in every direction where it was supposed people were to be found in need, acting largely upon the advice of the local relief committees along the route. Returning to the main river a visit was made to the Flower Lake crevasse which was found to have extended to a width of 1,800 feet. Major Sanger says that the country overflowed from this break, some of the richest bottom lands in the South, is under water, ranging in depth from eight to twenty feet. He says if the waters recede by the 20th of May all will be well with them, and that with economy and careful distribution of supplies there will be comparatively little suffering in the maintenance of the absolutely destitute. But if the waters hold up and it is impossible to make a crop this season the distress will be terrible.

Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, has introduced a bill in the Senate authorizing the appointment of a commission to introduce and popularize the bread foods of the United States among the people of the Orient. It provides that the commission shall consist of three persons, to be appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate, and to be known as the bread foods commission of the United States, and to be under the direction and control of the Secretary of Agriculture. The commission shall ascertain from time to time and report to the Secretary of Agriculture upon the best modes of introducing and popularizing the bread foods of the United States among the people of the Oriental countries. The salary of each commissioner shall be $5,000 a year, and the commission is authorized to employ a secretary at a salary of $3,000, and $30,000 is appropriated to defray the expense of said commission in the prosecution of its work.

Senator Hansbrough says the measure is designed to further the work of extending the trade of the United States with China and Japan, and was suggested by the letter recently sent to him by James J. Hill, President of the Great Northern Railroad, on the subject of trade with the Orient.

The Senate committee on civil service, of which Senator Pritchard is chairman, has decided to enter upon a thorough investigation of the extent to which the civil service law is enforced and the effect of its enforcement in promoting the public welfare. Circulars are to be sent to the various heads of departments, asking replies to the following questions: To what extent, in your opinion, should collectors of internal revenue and United States Marshals be included in the classified service? Should the existing rules of the civil service be modified? Should the civil service law be amended, continued or repealed?

The investigation is to take place under the authority conferred by the Allen resolution, and will be conducted by a sub-committee consisting of Senators Pritchard, Elkins and Chilton. The committee will make especial investigation of the effect of the more recent civil service orders of President Cleveland.

The Governor of Florida has notified the Secretary of the navy that the citizens of Tampa are preparing for an extensive celebration of Queen Victoria's birthday on the 24th of next month. The British Government, as a mark of appreciation of the spirit of the occasion, will send a warship, one of the British North Atlantic squadron, to Tampa, and the Governor asks that the Navy Department detail a United States man-of-war to assist the celebration. Secretary Long has promised to do so if consistent with the needs of the service, and it is probable that the Montgomery, now on patrol duty off the Florida coast, will be at Tampa during the ceremonies.

The Secretary of the Navy has made the annual allotment of the funds of $50,000 appropriated by Congress for the naval militia of the States. Deducting $20,000 reserved for the purchase of text books the remainder of the appropriation is allotted among the States having naval militia organizations in proportion to the number of uniformed petty officers and men they have on the rolls on the first of January last. The result in the Southern States is as follows: South Carolina 165 officers and men, allotment $1,814; North Carolina 140 officers and men, allotment $1,138; Georgia 188 officers and men, allotment $2,436; Louisiana 209 officers and men, allotment $2,436.

Washington, D. C.—The President sent to the Senate Friday quite a number of nominations, among others the following postmasters: Alabama—Joe J. Nix, Fort Payne; Arkansas—H. M. Sugg, Dardanelle; Samuel Davis, Russellville; J. E. Jarvis, Van Buren; J. R. Snodgrass, Paragould.

It is said that Speaker Reed will soon be forced to name two important House Committees, that on Naval Affairs and Interstate and Foreign Commerce. The armor plate question and railroad pooling bill will be acted on at this session. That is the decision of the Republicans of the Senate.

Judge Harlan has allowed a writ of error in the case of Elizabeth Nobles, of Georgia, who is under sentence of death on the charge of murder and was to have been hanged next Friday. It was represented by Mrs. Nobles' counsel that she is insane. The allowance of the writ will operate as a stay of proceedings and will postpone the execution.

President McKinley decided he would be unable to attend the Nashville Exposition on the opening day, May 1, but will formally notify the authorities that he will visit the Exposition after adjournment of Congress.

Locomotive Boiler Explodes.

Richmond, Va.—At Ashtand Friday afternoon the boiler of the locomotive of a material train on the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railway exploded. No one was hurt, but the track was torn up and the glass in a number of windows in the town was broken. The engine is a complete wreck. The fireman was in the cab at the time and was blown into atoms.

Ran Into a Hand-Car.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—A special freight train this city Saturday night for Birmingham ran into a handcar on which were three men, near Wildwood, Ga., and Ben Rogers, one of the section foremen of the road, was knocked off and under the wheels and instantly killed, his body being so badly mangled that it was with great difficulty that all the pieces were found and gotten into a box for interment.

Murder Pays the Penalty.

Macon, Ga.—Lovett Brookins, colored, was hanged at Louisville, Ga., Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the murder of Leila McCrary and Sanders Oliphant, both colored, a year ago on account of jealousy. Brookins made a long talk to his friends, warning them against women. He prayed and sang on the gallows.

Big Saw Mill Burned.

Little Rock, Ark.—A special to the Gazette from Texarkana says that the big sawmill plant of the Canfield Lumber Company, at Canfield, Ark., was completely destroyed by fire. Estimated loss, $50,000; insurance, $20,000.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

What Is Being Done in the United States Senate.

Washington.—The Senate passed the Indian appropriation bill Monday. It is substantially the same as it passed the House, and can cause little division except the amendment opening the Uncomphage Indian reservation.

The Rev. Hugh Johnson, in his opening prayer, invoked Divine blessing on those nations struggling for civil and religious liberty, and prayed for the speedy termination of all wars. He referred also to the suffering along the Mississippi river.

A resolution for a committee of five Senators to inquire into the issuance of land patents to the Pacific railroads and to the California and Oregon railroads, and to the amount of subsidies paid to the Pacific Steamship Company was favorably reported, but on suggestion of Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, it went over.

Mr. Vest returned to the question which precipitated the recent tariff skirmish and reintroduced his resolution declaring illegal the recent order of the Secretary of the Treasury relative to goods arriving after April 1, last. Mr. Vest said he would call up the resolution Tuesday.

Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, endeavored to take up the Cuban resolution. Mr. Pettigrew interposed the Indian appropriation bill, remarking that it was not "unending" while the Cuban question was.

Mr. Davis, Republican, of Minnesota, also appealed to Mr. Morgan not to press the Cuban question as he (Davis) desired to have an executive session for the purpose, he said, of securing an agreement for a final vote on the Anglo-American treaty.

The Indian bill was finally taken up. After its passage a resolution by Mr. Mills, of Texas, was agreed to asking the Secretary of State for information as to the reciprocity treaties made under the McKinley act and what import rates on foreign goods would be reduced in consequence.

At 1:50 p. m., on motion of Mr. Davis, the Senate went into executive session on the arbitration treaty.

At 2:15 p. m., on motion of Mr. Hale, of Maine, the Senate adjourned as a mark of respect to the late Representative Milliken.

NEWS FROM CUBA.

More Reports of Conflicts With Insurgents, Wherein They Were Badly Beaten.

Havana, Cuba.—A detachment of the Arragon battalion, it is announced, has captured the five remaining members of the insurgent force commanded by Zaraga. It is not known whether he has surrendered or not. The Marquis of Balboa died Monday.

Col Aldea, with the Quavirro battalion and detachment and local guerrillas, has been engaged in the woods near Jacas, province of Mantanzas, with the remainder of the united insurgent forces commanded by Reginald Alfonso Cervantes and Bernito Sorrot. The troops captured the insurgent camp, killed eleven of the enemy and captured the insurgent, Maj. Alvarez. Later the troops pursued the insurgents to the Cierga re Zapata, where, in another engagement, the insurgent Captains, Ferdinand Sabriana and Julio Sabria, Sergeant Charves and Lieutenant Colonel Sorroto, were killed and several others were wounded and are believed to have since died. In a skirmish between the Mariana Christian battalion and an insurgent force commanded by Aguileira the latter was killed, with six of his men.

The Viscaya battalion at Vegetas, near Trinidad, province of Santa Clara, has had a skirmish with the scouts of Quintin Bandera's forces. The Zorona battalion, the battalion of Veraga and the Ybera squadron, reconnoitering at Oleaga, province of Pinar del Rio, in several skirmishes have killed twenty-three insurgents, captured a quantity of arms and destroyed seventy-two huts. The column had one man killed and five wounded.

In numerous small skirmishes recently the insurgents lost thirty-one killed and ten prisoners and the troops lost two men killed and twelve wounded.

Messrs. Cornelius Mali Herson, Evan Avoras, American citizens, who have been imprisoned on the charge of disorderly conduct, have been placed at the disposal of Consul-General Lee.

There have been sixty-one deaths from smallpox at Guinness from April 1 to April 15.

A demonstration has been held at Santa Clara, capital of the province of that name, to celebrate the pacification of that part of the country and to do honor to Captain General Weyler. There was a large gathering of inhabitants in front of General Weyler's residence. The latter, through his Adjutant, returned thanks for the ovation which he received, though depreciating such demonstrations in his honor.

DIED AT HIS POST.

Bank Cashier Killed and Bank Looted By the Murderers.

Somerset, N. H.—While resisting the entry of two desperate and determined robbers and during a futile struggle to protect $150,000 or more in money and securities in the compartment of the open vault of the Great Falls National Bank, of Somersworth, this afternoon, Cashier Joseph I. Stickney was murdered near the desk which he had occupied for years. After killing Stickney the murderers ransacked the vault and fled with all the cash it contained, with the exception of a few five-dollar gold pieces. As near as can be estimated, about $6,000 was taken, but it is possible that the loss will considerably exceed this sum, as no one but the dead cashier knew the exact amount that was in the institution at the time. The robbers, after knocking Stickney down with a black jack, cut his throat. The most remarkable feature of the robbery is that $100,000 in bonds of the United States, which were kept in one of the drawers of the vault, and which the robbers evidently examined hastily, were not taken. Neither was any of the negotiable paper and securities of the bank; in fact, nothing was missing except the cash.

No one was aware that there was anything wrong at the bank until nearly 2 o'clock, or an hour after the murderous work was done. The perpetrators had ample time to escape.

Damage Suit Settled.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—A special to the Times from Cleveland, Tenn., says the Southern Railway representatives today paid the surviving members of the Woodbury family, nine of whom were killed four miles from this city about six weeks ago, by being run into by a Southern passenger train, the sum of $10,000 cash, in full settlement of all their claims for damages. The family was in a wagon coming toward this city when the train struck them, killing nine of the occupants. Former Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith was retained by them to sue the railroad, the claim for damages amounting to $225,000, and it was settled today as stated.

ANOTHER LEVEE BREAK.

The Crevasse One Hundred Feet Wide in Twenty Minutes.

Vicksburg, Miss.—The Queen & Crescent train dispatchers report that the biggest levee in Mason parish broke at 10 o'clock Friday night, and the break was 100 feet wide in twenty minutes. The break is four and a half miles north of Delta, La., and one and a half miles above the upper end of Reid's levee. The news was sent to Delta at once, the operator being roused out of bed and the message of warning sent along the line of the railway westward. The levee is a very large one and has been engaging the special attention of the levee authorities for weeks or ever since the Mississippi crevasse. Several hundred convicts have been employed on it, in addition to other laborers, and so greatly has it been strengthened that only to-day the belief was confidently expressed by men living behind it that it would hold. The disaster will be a great one.

Horribly Mangled.

At 2:30 o'clock Tuesday morning the mangled remains of Mr. Williams Brewster, conductor on freight train No. 71, on the Louisville & Nashville railroad, were carried to Birmingham.

While standing on the front end of his caboose near Hartselle he fell forward between the cars and the caboose passed over his body. He was almost instantly killed. Mr. Brewster was one of the oldest and best known conductors on the Louisville & Nashville. He had been with the company for many years as both passenger and freight conductor. His wife lives in Deatsville, but he has been boarding on Avenue E, near Twentieth street. He was about 50 years old.

Ohio Village Destroyed.

Fremont, O.—Fire destroyed the business portion of Lindsey village, eight miles west of Fremont, on the Lake Shore Railroad. The postoffice, the drug store, grocery, meat market, the new Produce Exchange building, town hall and Grand Army of the Republic hall were destroyed. The destruction was complete before aid could arrive from Fremont.

At elections last year voting machines were extensively experimented with in several New York and Massachusetts cities. These experiments were carried further in four Michigan cities, including Detroit, at the elections held a few days ago. The results in all these experiments were fairly satisfactory, and in some of them beyond criticism. Where the new system did not accomplish all that was expected by the inventors of the machine, the explanation was made, with much show of reason, that this was due to the haste with which the machines were set up, or to the entire want of knowledge on the part of voters of their workings. It may be fairly said that it has been demonstrated that by the use of machines votes may be cast in entire secrecy, and mechanically recorded and computed in a manner that puts the record and computation beyond dispute as to their correctness. It also seems to be demonstrated that the chance of using the machine to perpetrate fraud on the voters, by bringing out a result other than that intended by them, is reduced to a minimum. Observation of these experiments, indeed, seems to have convinced a great many people that by the use of voting machines an absolutely fair and honest election, so far as the casting and counting of votes are concerned, is assured.

Two Italians Murdered.

Kingstree, S. C.—News reached this place Saturday that two white men had been murdered about four miles below Kingstree, on the line of the Northeastern Railroad. Their bodies were found lying upon the ground Saturday morning. Upon examination it was ascertained that they had been shot and their throats cut. The murders were committed very near Salter's depot, the next station below Kingstree, and the shooting was heard about 8 o'clock last night. It can scarcely be said that any clue exists or that suspicion rests on any one, in particular, except three negroes, who were loitering around Salter's depot Saturday, and who, towards night, disappeared. Some believe that they perpetrated the awful deed.

The Chilton County Call is the name of a neat eight page, five columns to the page, paper just started at Thorsby, Chilton county. The Sentinel has received two numbers of it, and finds it neatly printed and well gotten up, with a fair amount of reading matter, such as will interest the local patronage.

In a recent conversation with Major Culver, commissioner of agriculture, he informs us that, judging by the guano tags in his office, he estimates that at least $2,000,000 will go out of the state this fall to pay for fertilizers. How much cotton at 5 cents per pound will it take to raise that amount of money? Oneonta News Dispatch.

A few jobless, grumbling, sour loafers, who do nothing but grumble and criticize, can do, and do, an incalculable amount of harm in any community. They are a class that do not get much sympathy anywhere, but to get rid of them is the unsolvable problem.—Piedmont Enquirer.

Montgomery Advertiser: Major Culver was at Tuskegee yesterday arranging the branch agricultural school and experiment station, for negroes, which is being located at Booker Washington's big institution.

During the last session of the legislature a bill was passed authorizing the Board of Revenue in every county in the state to contribute towards the support of the military of that county. At yesterday's meeting meeting of the Board of Revenue of this county it was decided to allow every company in the county $25 a month. This is a most praiseworthy action on the part of the Board of Revenue and it is to be hoped that the Boards in other counties will follow their example and help make the citizen soldiery of the state what it ought to be.—Mont. MASS MEETING.

HARMONY PREVAILED AND A GOOD TICKET NOMINATED.
A mass meeting of the citizens of Calera was held at Black's Hall on last Friday night for the purpose of nominating a municipal ticket. The attendance of representative citizens was large. The meeting was called to order by N. A. Graham, who was made permanent chairman. R. E. Bowdon was elected secretary.

On motion of Dr. J. H. Gunn, Mr. J. R. Pratt was unanimously nominated for mayor.

On motion of Dr. H. T. Caffey, it was decided that the nominees for the eight aldermen should be elected by secret ballot without any nominations, each voter present selecting a ticket for himself.

On motion, F. H. Hardy, H. T. Caffey and Secretary Bowdon were appointed as tellers to conduct the election.

A ballot being ordered, resulted in the nomination of the following named gentlemen, each one of whom received a majority of the votes cast, viz: J. R. Hill, J. W. Killingsworth, J. M. Frost, R. E. Bowdon, J. T. McMillan, Wm. Dial, F. H. Hardy, L. G. Privett.

It will be seen that the ticket nominated is an excellent one, and will give general satisfaction. Selected as it was, it cannot but be satisfactory. The most intense interest was manifested in its selection by the entire assembly, and the Sentinel predicts that it will be elected by an overwhelming majority—and it certainly should not be otherwise, as it is the choice of the people themselves. The Sentinel places the ticket at its mast head, and will give it a most cordial support, as every other friend and well wisher of his town and community should do.

MONTEVALLO.

A Montevallo special of the 19th inst. to the Montgomery Advertiser says:

Yesterday was an ideal Easter Day in Montevallo. The morning dawned in joy and gladness, continued in beauty, and closed in calm springtime splendor. There were special morning services in both the Episcopal and Methodist Churches which were appropriately decorated for the occasion. In the afternoon the Baptist Sunbeams and the Christian Endeavor Society had their regular meetings and in the evening the Methodist Church was packed with people to hear Rev. P. L. Abernathy upon Sabbath Observance. After the sermon he appointed a committee to select a delegate to the State Sabbath Association which meets in Montgomery next week. The music, both morning and evening, was unusually good, the choir comprising Miss Lee of Furman, organist; Miss Crampton of Evergreen, soprano; Miss Hoskins of Aldrich, alto; Major Lewis Howell of Tuscaloosa, tenor, and Mr. W. H. Abernathy of Woodlawn, bass.

Mr. Peacock of Blocton spent yesterday in Montevallo with his sisters, Misses Daisy and Nellie Peacock.

Mr. Ed Hoskins and Miss Bessie Hoskins of Aldrich worshipped in Montevallo yesterday.

Mr. Sam Morgan of Blocton spent yesterday with relatives in this place.

Major Lewis Howell of Tuscaloosa spent Saturday and Sunday in Montevallo.

Mr. W. H. Abernathy and his two little sons, Masters Perkins and John, were guests at the parsonage yesterday and the day before.

Rev. Mr. Smith of Talladega is in town.

Selma Telegram: The editor of the Telegram has for years talked and worked for just such an institution as has been established in Montevallo. Though in a scattered and disorganized state as to its buildings, the result of a desire to begin the work forthwith yet already the great results to be achieved are beginning to bud. When the cooking class first organized there was a lack of general desire among the pupils to enter, but as soon as the talented teacher began a practical demonstration of the art of cooking, that it was not the dirty drudgery commonly pictured, but a great field of instruction in chemistry and science, made attractive by nice appointments and habits of cleanliness, then there was a general desire to join. The editor of the Telegram has often visited the cooking schools of Washington, in one of which Miss Evans was taught. In the dressmaking department scientific economic lines are pursued, the practical results are quickly shown as they are also in the schools of telegraphy, stenography and typewriting. The academic, musical and art course are of the very highest and most thor-

THE NOTORIOUS AIR SHIP VISITS AN ALABAMA TOWN.

A special from Tusculumbia, Ala., dated 17th inst., says: "This city is in a tumult of excitement over the appearance of a large black object, which passed over last evening about 8 o'clock. It had an immense headlight, which could be seen for miles. It was seen by several parties, who claim they could very distinctly make out a large barrel shaped body, with the large light in front. The moon was shining bright, and the sky was very clear, thus giving a good chance for observation. From the description of the celestial visitor, it was possibly an air ship, and was traveling directly south, from a northern direction, and it was making for the mountains, which are about three miles south of this city, where it was last seen going down behind them.

It could not have been a meteor, as it did not travel fast enough for one, and the people are wondering what their strange celestial visitor was."

It was called forth by the receipt of the Report of the Joint committee and a recent clipping from the Atlanta Constitution. The letter speaks for itself: Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1897.

Dear Mr. Powers: I am glad to find my impression of your personality confirmed on so good authority. I certainly think it is remarkable that with the facilities at your disposal you have been able to keep so strong a faculty and make such steady progress. We have had to do with a good many Normal Schools in the south and west as well as in this state, and in not a single instance have we been so impressed with the amount accomplished in proportion with the means at hand as with your college at Florence and I congratulate you heartily.

Yours truly,

CITY AND COUNTY
A BEAUTIFUL MARRIAGE.

One of the most interesting social events that has taken place recently in Calera, occurred on yesterday, the 21st inst., in the marriage of Miss Stella Onderdonk, the lovely and accomplished daughter of Mrs. C. Onderdonk, of this city, and Mr. W. G. Beauland, a popular young railroad man, of the Alabama Mineral railroad. This happy event took place at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the residence of the bride's mother. Rev. J. F. Smith of the Protestant Episcopal church officiated. Mr. W. M. Dial gave the bride away, and Mrs. Geo. J. Wright presided at the piano. The solemn and impressive manner of the venerable priest, the beautiful ceremony, the fair young bride, the handsome groom, the assembled guests, the sweet music and the lovely floral decorations—evergreens and roses—combined to produce a scene of rare beauty—one that will not soon be forgotten by those whose privilege it was to be present. The bride was reared in this place and is a general favorite. Charming in person and possessed of many graces of mind and heart, she wins the confidence and esteem of all who come within the radius of her influence. Beautifully and tastefully gowned in white organdie, trimmed with satin ribbon and lace, pearl ornaments, and carrying a bouquet of magnificent white lilies in her hand she was lovely indeed as she plighted her troth to the man of her choice. The groom appeared in conventional black and looked the pride he felt in the jewel he had won. At the conclusion of the ceremony sincere and hearty congratulations were extended and an hour spent in delightful social converse after which the happy pair were accompanied to the depot by a number of the ladies and gentlemen of the party where they took the southbound L. & N. train for New Orleans and other points on their bridal trip. Upon their return they will take up their residence at Talladega Springs. The presents were handsome and useful.

A TIMELY SERVICE.
A few weeks ago as Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor of the Baptist church at Montevallo, was walking along the track of the Southern railway between Montevallo and this place in the early hours of a dark and cloudy morning, he came upon an obstruction, in the shape of a large rock of several hundred pounds weight lying in the middle of the track in a deep cut. He was walking rapidly at the time coming to Calera to catch the early morning train to Montgomery, and as he had no lantern and the darkness was great he received a pretty severe fall over the rock, breaking his umbrella which he carried in his hand, and painfully bruising himself on the arm and knee. He however quickly picked himself up and began at once an examination of the cause of his mishap and discovered by feeling, as seeing was out of the question, owing to the darkness, the nature of the obstruction. He then made an effort to remove it from the track, realizing at once the danger that its presence threatened to any train that might be out on the road, but found he could not do so. He could not determine whether it had been placed there for the purpose of wrecking a train or had rolled down into the cut from the bluff above. He decided, however, that the only thing that he could do was to hurry on to the section houses near Calera, distant about three miles and notify the section boss, and this he did, arousing him from his bed. Mr. Reynolds then came on to this place arriving in time, though somewhat dilapidated in appearance, to catch his train for Montgomery. The section boss with his crew promptly removed the obstruction, and discovered as he did so that the rock had been loosed from its foundation on the bluff above by the rain of the night before and rolled down into the cut.

Mr. R. rendered the road an important service in discovering this obstruction and having it removed so promptly, as it might otherwise have caused a serious wreck.

The Rev. W. H. Weaver, pastor of the U. B. Church, Dillsburg, Pa., recognizes the value of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and does not hesitate to tell others about it. "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," he says, "and find it an excellent medicine for colds, coughs and hoarseness." So does everyone who gives it a trial. Sold by Dial Bros., Druggists.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. J. V. TEAGUE.

Just before going to press the Sentinel learned that Mr. J. V. Teague, an old and highly respected citizen, had dropped dead at his home in this place. The whole community was shocked upon hearing the sad news. Mr. Teague was about sixty-five years of age and had been a resident of this place for a long number of years. He leaves a widow, a son and a daughter and several grand children who have the sympathy of the entire community in their sore distress.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the go-as-were unknown in this section; to-day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by Dial Bros., Druggists.

Postoffice Inspector Rosson, of Chattanooga, was in the city a week or ten days ago, and while here gave our post office a thorough inspection. We have been informed that he found everything in most satisfactory condition and that he was very complimentary to our worthy postmaster, Mr. F. M. Vance, for his management of same. Calera is indeed fortunate in her postmaster. He fits the place and the place fits him, and the "powers that be" could not do better than to retain him in office.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. No discovery of modern years has been of greater benefit to mankind than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, or has done more to relieve pain and suffering. J. W. Vaughn, of Oakton, Ky., says: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my family for several years, and find it to be the best medicine I ever used for cramps in the stomach and bowels. A special to the Chattanooga Times of Sunday from Gadsden says: "Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock W. W. Kidd, superintendent of education of Marshall county, left Albertsville, and the Sheriff of the county is telegraphing every where for him. Kidd left with two thousand dollars, and it is thought that he is at least one thousand dollars short in his accounts, besides the money he takes with him.

It is said that Kidd has played the rascal, and that proof is abundant of this. He has always been a prominent populist politician, and in any race beat his democratic opponent. Charges were often preferred against him, but, he being "in the swim," no attention was paid to them. Saturday he left with $3,000 of the county's money, and unless it is recovered the schools will be seriously crippled, for every cent of it was due the teachers.

Rewards to the amount of two hundred dollars have been offered by his bondsmen for his arrest."

The Frost Fender will roll
Try it. We Guarantee.

PLEASURE and PROFIT
—OUT OF—

WHOA AND WORRY
Try it. We Guarantee.

This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention; a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he has long needed, and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender.

How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work.

You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow and the plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant.

By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity.

All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectually avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant, on an undercurrent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up.

The revolving disc passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market.

The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow.

The tilting motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, at the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it.

It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools.

WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc. 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use. 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle. 4th. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it.

All these advantages we will give you for the small sum of two ($2.00) dollars, and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

TESTIMONIALS.

Mr. J. H. Frost—Dear Sir: I used your Plow Fender the past season, and find it to be the best invention I ever saw, and would not be without it for twice its cost. Yours truly,
Randolph, Ala., Nov. 22, 1895.

Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Ala.: Having thoroughly tested your Plow Fender, cheerfully say that no farming implement has given so much value for the investment. Don't believe now I could make a crop without them. There is more genuine service in it for the money than any implement I ever used. Yours, respectfully Centerville, Sept. 25, 1896.

Six Mile, Ala., Jan. 13, 1896.—This is to certify that I have lived on a farm 40 years, and have used a great many fixtures for plowing small plants, and I hereby certify that the Frost Fender is the only thing of the kind I ever used that would do the work just to suit me.
J. M. HAYES.

Randolph, Sept. 28, 1895.—Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender, we certify that it is all you claim for it, and more, it being the best thing we have ever used for the protection of small plants while plowing them. As ever, yours,
T. J. & F. J. FITTS.

Trion, Ala., Sept. 26, 1895.—J. M. Frost, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender we find it to be the very thing. It does excellent work, and every farmer needs them and ought to have them, and would not be without them after once trying them.

The The The Best. Rest. Test.

There are two kinds of sarsaparilla: The best—and the rest. The trouble is they look alike. And when the rest dress like the best who's to tell them apart? Well, "the tree is known by its fruit." That's an old test and a safe one. And the taller the tree the deeper the root. That's another test. What's the root—the record of these sarsaparillas? The one with the deepest root is Ayer's. The one with the richest fruit; that, too, is Ayer's. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has a record of half a century of cures; a record of many medals and awards—culminating in the medal of the Chicago World's Fair, which, admitting Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best—shut its doors against the rest. That was greater honor than the medal, to be the only Sarsaparilla admitted as an exhibit at the World's Fair. If you want to get the best sarsaparilla of your druggist, here's an infallible rule: Ask for the best and you'll get Ayer's. Ask for Ayer's and you'll get the best.

PRESBYTERY ADJOURNED.

Swine Breeder's Association In Birmingham.

PICKENS COUNTY EAGER

For the Construction of the Memphis, Tuscaloosa & Montgomery Railway. Birmingham Gets a Powder Mill. Colored Teachers' Convention.

Carrollton, Ala.—A construction train will be running to South Carolina Church in Pickens County, within ninety days, says a prominent official well versed in such matters. It is in a good neighborhood, and near it stood in the early settlement of the county the town of Yorkville, which had six stores and was a noted place for general musters and reviews of the troops of this section. A Masonic lodge and the South Carolina Church are the only buildings left to mark the site of Yorkville, but its glory will probably be revived under the name of some Chickasaw chief who disputed the passage of Hernando De Soto through this county, when the railroad reaches that point. The railroad will be built near the residence of Mr. Jones Pierson, in Pickens County. It crosses the road seventy feet above the site of the Georgia Pacific depot, in Columbus, Miss., and the same distance above the proposed bridge across the Warrior River, two miles below Tuscaloosa. It appears, according to the line of survey, that Pickens County is a ridge, which will be traversed by the railroad. The long expected railroad will be built at last, and the people of this county will be in close connection with the outside world within thirteen months, according to the statements of the contractors, who have set to work to build the railroad from Columbus to Tuscaloosa.

Swine Breeders' Association.
Birmingham, Ala.—The swine breeders of the State met in this city on Tuesday and Wednesday, and a large attendance was present. The railroads granted one and one-third fare for the round trip. The meetings were held in the Commercial Club room in the mornings and at night, while the afternoon sessions were devoted to practical demonstrations of scoring, which were given at the horse infirmary of Dr. French. Over thirty head of fine, thoroughbred hogs of the various breeds were secured for the use in the scoring class. These hogs alone make an excellent exhibit, and were viewed by many interested breeders. The public were invited to attend all the meetings, and there were no charges of any kind except to those who entered the scoring class and received instructions.

Colored Teachers' Convention.

Birmingham, Ala.—The State Teachers' Association (colored) before adjourning its sixteenth annual convention, elected officers to serve for the ensuing year, as follows:

President—N. B. Young, Tuskegee.
Recording Secretary—R. B. Hudson, Selma.

Corresponding Secretary—Miss I. M. Thompson, Birmingham.

Vice-Presidents—First District, J. H. Martin, Faunsdale; Second District, Miss C. Bowen, Waugh; Third District, J. R. Savage, Opelika; Fourth District, L. Green, Anniston; Fifth District, C. J. Calloway, Rowaliga; Sixth District, J. Barnes, Tuscaloosa; Seventh District, Miss A. Keeling, Eighth District, A. H. Archer, Normal; Ninth District, A. H. Parker, Birmingham. The final session of the Association was held Saturday night. The local committee had prepared an excellent literary and musical program for the evening, which was rendered.

Powder Mill for Birmingham

Birmingham, Ala.—Arrangements have been made for the establishment of a powder mill at Boyles, five miles north of her on the Louisville & Nashville railroad. The Birmingham Powder Company, with a capital stock of $50,000, has been organized for that purpose, with W. B. Archibald, of Eldred, Pa., as President, and A. Greene, of Tallapoosa, Ga., as Superintendent. Ground was staked off Saturday for the plant, on which work will begin at once. The mill will have a capacity of 400 kegs of gunpowder daily. Local and Pennsylvania capitalists are behind the project.

North Alabama Presbytery.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Presbytery of North Alabama, which has been in session here for four days, adjourned at 5 o'clock yesterday after one of the best meetings in its history. The statistics for the past year were read and much improvement was noted in all departments of the foreign mission work. Attention was called to the fact that the Southern Presbyterian church with only 200,000 communicants had contributed last year $154,000 to foreign missions, thus outranking in proportion to members any other denomination. The vote whereby Hartselle was chosen as next place of meeting was reconsidered and Col. Malcolm J. Gilchrist extended an invitation to Courtland; which was accepted.

The Presbytery is generally a very staid and conservative body, but before adjourning it inaugurated a new feature. The importance and helpfulness of the press was recognized, and by special resolution, Rev. James G. Snedecor was appointed as press agent to assist reporters and co-operate with the newspapers in every way.

The permanent committee on work among the colored people made a strong report, urging preachers and church workers to devote more attention to the African at our doors.

After singing "Blest be the tie that binds," and prayer by Moderator J. H. Lacy, the Presbytery adjourned.

THE CONFEDERATE REUNION

At Nashville Promises to Be Largely Attended.—Much Important Work.

New Orleans, La.—Gen. John B. Gordon, Commander-in-Chief of the United Confederate Veterans, has requested the press of the South and the whole country generally to aid in the patriotic work now on hand by the Confederate Veterans. The reunion takes place in Nashville Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 22d, 23d and 24th—by publishing the following letter. We gladly give space to same. It reads thus:

It will be the largest and most important United Confederate Veterans' reunion ever held. The personnel of the Nashville reunion committee under the leadership of its chairman, Col. J. B. O'Bryan, is a guarantee that everything will be done for the comfort and convenience of the old veterans and all visitors which is in the power of man; it is a splendid body of very able and distinguished comrades, who are fully alive to the magnitude of the work entrusted to them in entertaining and caring for their old comrades, and it will be their pride to make it the most memorable reunion upon record; and the citizens of Nashville are aglow with enthusiasm, and patriotism, at the prospect of dispensing their far famed hospitality to the surviving heroes of the Lost Cause.

Also to urge Ex-Confederate soldiers and sailors everywhere to form local associations, and send applications to these headquarters for papers to organize camps immediately, so as to be in time to participate in the great reunion at Nashville, and thus unite with their comrades in carrying out the laudable and philanthropic objects of the organization, as only veterans belong to organized United Confederate Veteran camps can participate in the business meeting at Nashville.

Business of the greatest importance to the survivors of the Southern army will demand careful consideration during the session of the seventh annual convention at Nashville, Tenn.—such as the best methods of securing impartial history, and to enlist each State in the compilation and preservation of the history of her citizen soldiery; the benevolent care through State aid or otherwise of disabled, destitute or aged veterans and the widows and orphans of our fallen brothers in arms; to consult as to the feasibility of the formation of a United Confederate Veterans' Benevolent Aid Association; the care of the graves of our known and unknown dead buried at Gettysburg, Fort Warren, Camps Morton, Chase, Douglas, Oakwood Cemetery at Chicago, Johnson's Island, Cairo and at all other points, to see that they are annually decorated, the headstones preserved and protected, and complete lists of the names of our dead heroes with the location of their last resting places furnished to their friends and relatives through the medium of our camps, thus rescuing the names from oblivion and handing them down in history; the consideration of the different movements, plans and means to erect a monument to the memory of Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America, also to aid in building monuments to other great leaders, soldiers and sailors of the South; also to assist in the promotion and completion of the proposed "Battle Abbey," to vote upon the proposed change of the name of the Association from United Confederate Veterans to Confederate Soldiers' Association; and to change the present badge or button which is not patentable for the new one proposed which is; and to make such changes in the constitution and by-laws as experience may suggest, and other matters of general interest.

Total number of camps now admitted 900, with applications in for about 150 more. Following is number of camps by States:

Northeast Texas Division 81; West Texas Division 55; Southwest Texas Division 33; Southeast Texas Division 31; Northwest Texas Division 17; total Texas 217; Alabama 89; South Carolina 81; Missouri 71; Mississippi 63; Arkansas 59; Georgia 58; Louisiana 51; Kentucky 39; Tennessee 34; Virginia 34; Florida 30; North Carolina 29; Indian Territory 12; West Virginia 11; Oklahoma 6; Maryland 6; New Mexico 3; Illinois 2; Montana 2; Indiana 1; District of Columbia 1; California 1.

Very Respectfully,

GEO. JOHNSMAN,

Adjutant General and Chief of Staff.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Of a Young Lady of Gasport, New York, from Anaemia.

From the Courier, Buffalo, N. Y.
Miss Lulu Stevens, daughter of George Stevens, the well-known blacksmith, of Gasport, Niagara County, New York, has surprised her neighbors considerably, by not dying five months ago, when the physicians said she could not live.

This was quite a remarkable case. The young woman, who is very well known, on account of her musical ability, had been a very healthy girl, until about one year ago, when she began to fail, and grew so pale and apparently bloodless and so weak that after a few months she was given up to die. Last winter a physician who was a visitor at Gasport met Miss Stevens, and seeing her emaciated condition, and hearing from the local doctors that the disease was anaemia, prevailed on the girl's mother to make her try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Directly she commenced the treatment she began to mend, and now since February, when she decided to take them, she has become well and strong and the picture of good health. The mother of the girl, Mrs. Stevens, says: "Every one in Gasport knows that Pink Pills cured Lulu, and I feel very thankful that we heard of them in time to save my child's life."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sorrow cheeks. In men they affect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Worth While.

It is easy enough to be pleasant,
When life flows along like a song;
But the man worth while is the one who will smile
When everything goes dead wrong;
For the test of the heart is trouble,
And it always comes with the years,
And the smile that is worth the praise of earth
Is the smile that comes through tears.

By the cynic, the sad, the fallen,
Who had no strength for the strife,
The world's highway is cumbered today;
They make up the item of life.
But the virtue that conquers passion,
And the sorrow that hides in a smile—
It is these that are worth the homage of earth,
For we find them but once in a while.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in the Congregationalist.

Daisies for Remembrance.

They were walking slowly side by side through the fields on a fine afternoon. He was tall and dark, with a grave, determined face, and his every look and gesture showed his strength. She was slim and fair, her eyes were blue and eager, and somehow the sunshine of the summer day seemed to have gotten into her face.

"So you are going to Newport tomorrow?" the man asked, turning toward the girl abruptly.

The wind had blown the loose ends of her wavy hair about her face and the dimples came into her cheeks as she smiled up at him. She was very pretty.

"Yes, tomorrow," she answered. "You must confess it is rather dull here, is it not? And Newport is gay. Mamma says it is the gayest place she was ever in, so I persuaded her to take me there."

She stooped as she spoke and pulled off a daisy head, pinching it in her fingers.

"Don't," said the man sharply, reaching out and almost roughly unclosing her fingers from the crushed little flower. "I beg your pardon. I did not mean to hurt you. You see you care for Newport and balls and things and I care for the meadow here, and the flowers, and—" He paused, leaving the sentence unfinished.

But she laughed brightly. "Oh, of course, I care for the meadows, too," she said. "But I could never live here as you do. I must be where there are people and dinners and dances—society, you know. I do love to waltz, don't you? And I adore fine clothes, and—admiration, I must confess."

She spoke half shame-facedly, and glanced almost unconsciously at the man's shabby gray coat and grave, indifferent face.

"I don't think I was ever so happy in my life as I've been these last three months since I came out."

"Yes," he answered, slowly. "I've heard you say that before. But I've only known you two weeks, and it seems to me you suit the fields and the flowers far better than the opera and the ballroom, Miss Davis."

His voice and manner made the little speech a compliment, and the girl laughed again gayly. He thought sometimes that she laughed too often.

"There is something more in life," he went on, his eyes fixed on the daisies in their path, "than just society, I think. I have to get along without parties and fine clothes," and this time it was he who glanced at the worn coat, "but there are things broader and better and nobler than a good time, are there not, Miss Davis?"

She looked at him in surprise, quite uncomprehending and somehow disappointed.

"I don't know," she began slowly. "I like the good time best of all, I think. Anyhow, Mr. Paul, I will leave the other things for you. You must not speak ill of my dear, gay society, and I won't hurt your flowers. Is it a bargain?" And she picked a daisy very carefully this time and fastened it in his buttonhole, laughing.

Boston, Dec. —

My dear Miss Davis—You will be surprised at a letter from me, I know, and I fear more than surprised at what I have to tell you. I shall not enlarge upon the subject, and I can only say very simply, "I love you."

I never expected to share my secret with you, for I am aware that it can hardly be of a moment's interest to you. But my sudden departure on business to India on Friday, and a re-knew he saw them. It was the sweetness of her pale, fair face and the light in her eyes that made him start. "Miss Davis looks more stunning than ever tonight," said a man standing in the crowd.

But Paul did not hear him. He had pushed the men hastily aside, and stepping proudly, his head held high and his face shining with happiness he had gone to meet her.

For in the belt of her white muslin gown there was a great bunch of daisies.—Boston Post.

Borrowing His Own Capital.

"I have an old college friend who has been on his uppers here," said a LaSalle street business man. "About a year ago he began dropping in to borrow $5 or $10 at a time from me. He would always repay me and be effusive in his thanks. He never owed me more than $10 at a time. One day he came in to pay me, and when he offered me $5 I asked him if the amount was not $10.

"I thought it was $5," he answered, but your recollection is better than mine;" so he paid me the $10, although I protested against it.

"Later on my stenographer, who remembered the circumstances, told me that he borrowed only $5.

"I laid a $5 bill out on the desk for him. He came in during my absence and borrowed it, and left an I. O. U. A day or two after, while I was out, he came in and left the money for me. I put it back on the desk, under a paper weight, and within a week he came in again, while I was out, and borrowed it. That has been going on for three months. He has borrowed and paid back his $5 bill at least six times, but he never comes in the office while I am there. I'm waiting to catch him and let him know that he is borrowing his own capital."—Chicago Record.

A Remarkable Book.

The most curious book in the world is neither written nor printed, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Its pages are composed of the finest quality of vellum, and the letters were with infinite pains and trouble cut out of the material with a sharp-pointed knife or pair of delicate scissors. It is interleaved with blue paper, and the letters can, therefore, be read as easily as any print. It formerly belonged to the Prince de Ligne, and is now in the library of a noble French family. The title of the book is "Liber Passionis Domini Nostri Jesu Christi, cum Characteribus Nulla Materia Compositis"; in English, "The Book of the Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ, in Characters, Without Materials of Composition." The matter is a homily probably composed by some monastic preacher of the Middle Ages. A remarkable circumstance connected with this book is the fact that, although it bears the royal arms of England, no mention of it can be found in any English writing. The book is believed to have been made some time in the thirteenth or fourteenth century. In 1640 the Emperor Rudolph II offered for it 11,000 ducats, which in the money of our time would equal about $66,000, and the offer was refused.

Queen Victoria's Favorite Apple.

In Montgomery county, Virginia, on an extensive plateau of a spur of the Blue Ridge, an apple is raised that in size, symmetry, and flavor can only be surpassed, if surpassed at all, by the genuine Albemarle pippin. Unfortunately, it would seem that the real home of this last most delicious fruit is limited to a small area in and around Rockfish Gap, partly in Albemarle and partly in Nelson county. But a pippin much resembling it, even though not in all respects so excellent, may be advantageously cultivated through a stretch of a hundred and fifty miles along the slope of the Blue Ridge. More than forty years ago a barrel or two of the Albemarle pippins were sent as a present to Queen Victoria, and from that day to this it is the favorite apple at her court.—Lynchburg (Va.) News.

I take great pleasure in testifying to the efficient qualities of the popular medicine for skin diseases known as P. P. P. I suffered for several years with an unsightly and disagreeable eruption on my face. After taking three bottles in accordance with directions, I am entirely cured.
Capt. J. D. JOHNSTON, of Johnston & Co.

The above letters are taken from many received by us. P. P. P., (Lippman's Great Remedy), is a medicine whose virtues are known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. P. P. P. begins its work by purifying the blood, which is the source of all life, and does not cease until a perfect and entire cure is effected.

The mortifying eruptions that mar the complexion, the tired feeling that prevents thorough accomplishment of the daily tasks, sleepless nights, loss of appetite, irritability of disposition, all mean a derangement of the system consequent from impure blood, which can and will be cured by P. P. P.

P. P. P., (Lippman's Great Remedy), is conceded by physicians and the people to be the Greatest Blood Purifier of the Age. It positively and permanently cures. For sale by all druggists or direct from us; price $1 a bottle, six bottles for $5.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Of the Western Passenger Association Meet in Chicago.—Good Outlook.

Chicago, Ill.—A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Western Passenger Association was held Monday afternoon for the purpose of attending to the business incidental to the putting into operation of the new association agreement. The agreement became binding upon its signers today, and a circular letter was issued to all the roads, which have not yet become members, urging them to sign the agreement without delay.

Passenger Traffic Manager White, of the Atchison road, was elected chairman of the Executive Committee. Eighteen roads have signed the agreement, and it is expected that a large number of others will join in a short time. There are but a few roads whose membership is doubtful, and the Executive Committee expects that it will have a large number of signers to the present agreement that were members of the old passenger association.

Young Man Killed By Train.

Holly Springs, Miss.—An unknown man, evidently from Birmingham, Ala., was killed at Sallus Creek, five miles east of here, by passenger train No. 3, which leaves Memphis at 9 o'clock. He had on new clothes, a Stetson hat, with trade-mark of Simon Klotz, haberdasher, Birmingham, on the band; several cards of the Delmonico restaurant, and two little locks. He also had five two-dollar bills. His watch was marked "The Plant Watch," and numbered 361,500. He was dark skinned and had curly hair. His body was terribly mangled, one arm being severed and the top of the skull knocked off and face split.

Ohioans Going to War.

Dayton, Ohio.—Captain Otto Paul, formerly of the Ohio National Guards, is organizing a company to go to Greece. Seventy-five applications have been received. Many Greeks in this city are taking a lively interest in the project.

AN ATLANTA SENSATION.

The Gate City Comes to the Front With Its Usual Sensation.

Atlanta, Ga.—A profound sensation was created in this city by the announcement that Harry W. Cassin, cashier of the Georgia Loan, Savings and Banking Company, had misappropriated some $45,000 of the funds of that institution. Cassin has always been known as a young man of exemplary habits and fine business qualifications.

Cashier Cassin applied the funds of the bank to private enterprises in which he wished to invest, and lost all, until finally his defalcations reached the sum already stated and discovery followed.

Friends and relatives of the young man have made up the shortage and the bank will not lose a dollar of the sum stolen.

Young Cassin will not be prosecuted. His connection with the bank ceased yesterday, and he will begin life anew in Atlanta.

Convicts Did the Work.

Washington, D. C.—The Turkish Legation has received the following dispatch from Constantinople: "In fleeing from Larissa the Hellenes released the convicts, who committed acts of destruction and pillaging. Our troops on entering the town were received by the inhabitants with enthusiasm, and public prayers were made for his imperial majesty, the sultan, in the very presence of the metropolitan and of the population—Moslems, Christians and Israelites, who had remained in town. The Hellenes left at Larissa a great quantity of ammunition, provisions, tents and other things, also six guns of twelve centimetres and four mountain guns.

A Mysterious Death.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Richard Long, of Charleston, S. C., was found dead in bed here Monday night. He is survived by a wife and two children, who are in Charleston. The coroner is investigating the case.

SOMEWHAT ENCOURAGING.

Army Officers Return From the Flood District and Make Report.

Washington.—The army officer sent from Fort Snelling, Minn., to the Red river section of Dakota, arrived on the scene of the flood and today reported to the war department as follows:

"Had conference with Mayor G. A. McCrea, J. K. Fairchild and J. K. Wyllie, of the relief committee, who had just returned from making their rounds. Twenty families, comprising 105 persons, are destitute and in need of immediate aid. Twenty-two hundred rations will be sufficient for the next few days and can be purchased here at 10 cents per ration. I recommend that a sufficient sum be placed at the disposal of the mayor to provide necessary relief. River is falling steadily."

The Mississippi situation is shown by the following telegram from the army inspector at Memphis.

"Conditions improving. No more supplies needed at Trotter's landing. Helena does not want more supplies. Committee says they want money to spend there. No real destitution there. No truth in the report that negroes could not obtain supplies in Helena. Worthy destitutes are supplied."

Suffering In the Interior.

Vicksburg, Miss.—There is every reason to believe there is much suffering in the interior, where many negroes and whites of small means, or none at all, are surrounded by many miles of water. Camp Arden, where the sufferers in this city have assembled from both this state and Louisiana, had its first tents pitched today and will receive a thousand or more guests tomorrow.

Fatalities From Cyclone.

Wamego, Kan.—A small tornado passed over apart of Wabauc county, eight miles southeast of here, late Thursday night. Henry Miller's 8-year-old son was killed, while Miller and his wife were fatally hurt. They live three miles north of McFarland. Their home in the valley was completely demolished.

Monday last, the 26th inst., was "Memorial Day." The day for the annual decoration of the graves of the Confederate dead. The day when the South turns aside from the hurrying walks of business and pays the tribute of living remembrance to the departed heroes of the Lost Cause. The day when the fair daughters of this Southland of ours—matrons and maidens—meet in the silent cities of the dead to do honor to Southern valor, and to adorn the graves of the departed with the freshest, the sweetest, the fairest and loveliest of flowers. All honor to the noble women of the South. They inaugurated this beautiful custom, and with each recurring year with unflagging devotion to the cause for which their loved ones gave their lives, they keep their memory green and fragrant with spring flowers.

Press dispatches from Washington of the 26th inst., say, Col. Wm. Youngblood took charge of the Third Auditor's office this morning and was sworn in. The retiring auditor, Hon. Sam. Blackwell, showed every courtesy to Col. Youngblood, going through the departments, introducing him to all heads of the several departments.

THE POLYTECHNIC SCHOOL.

A Montevallo correspondent of the Montgomery Journal in a recent letter to that paper has the following to say concerning the Polytechnic School for Girls at that place:

"The Polytechnic school under the guidance and direction of Capt. Reynolds is nearing the end of its first session. A more magnificent showing has never been made for a state institution in its first year. Nearly 200 girls have been enrolled and the most satisfactory work has been done. Capt. Reynolds for a quarter of a century has been a conspicuous success in his every undertaking. Last fall he advertised to take a girl and put her through the entire session at a cost of $80. This was to cover board, laundry, tuition, medical attention, fuel, lights and use of all text-books. With his usual enthusiasm, foresight and business sense he has succeeded. He already has applications on file for a large number of girls next. The faculty is strong and composed of the best teachers that can be found. No extravagance in dress is permitted. Only a short while ago an order was issued from the president's office that caused heartaches among many of the girls. It was to the effect that no white dresses would be allowed at commencement to cost over 15 cents a yard. Many of those who could afford it had their hearts set on fine organdies and the like, but the order was imperative and was obeyed.

Dr. John Keener of Greensboro will preach the commencement sermon on May 23. The art levee will take place the Monday night following. Rev. Dr. George Eger, of Montgomery will deliver an address Tuesday. The concert comes Tuesday night, and closing exercises with address by Gov. Johnston Wednesday.

THE UNIVERSITY PRESIDENCY

Elsewhere in this issue we publish an item from the Greensboro Watchman suggesting Col. J. T. Murfee, of the Marion Military Institute, as a suitable person for the presidency of the State University. While we agree with the Watchman in all that it says concerning his fitness for the place, we would regret to feel called upon to encourage such a consummation, for Marion and the M. M. I. need Colonel Murfee more than does the State University.

We do not know whether Colonel Murfee would consider such a move at all or not, and we are inclined to believe that he would not, but if he should and was put at the head of the university and clothed with sufficient authority there would be a general shaking up and a rattling of the dry bones of that institution that would revivify it and put it on rising ground.

It strikes us that Tuscaloosa has a man in her midst who is the man for the place; a man with twenty-five years experience in preparing boys for the university, and probably with twenty five years of vigorous usefulness in good work still before him. We refer to Prof. W. H. Verner, of the University High School. He is a remarkable man; a student, an educator, a disciplinarian and a man of acknowledged executive ability and business qualifications, and if put in charge of the State University, unhampered by the trustees, he would cause it to grow and grow and grow, and eventually fill its proper place in the galaxy of our boasted educational institutions; and he is young enough to live to see and enjoy the fruits of his labors and realize the satisfaction of a successful culmination of his efforts.—Marion Standard.

MONTEVALLO.

A Political story Pertaining to the Aldrich-Plowman Contest.

A correspondent of the Montgomery Journal writing from Montevallo under date of the 26th inst., says: Mr. W. F. Aldrich, who is contesting Plowman's seat in congress, is at his old tricks again. Two years ago it will be recalled about 25 white democrats lost their jobs at his mines because they failed to vote for him and voted for his opponent, Hon. Gaston Robbins, so it is reported. Prior to the last congressional election Mr. Aldrich had in his employ a man by the name of Best, who has been a life long democrat and who was raised up with Capt. Plowman. When Plowman began taking testimony as to persons who voted for him Best refused to appear and testify. He well knew if he said he voted for Plowman that he would be discharged, and being a poor man he was in no condition to lose his job. When Plowman's examination closed Aldrich took evidence in rebuttal and sent for Best who refused to come and told his friends the truth, that he could not vote against his old friend Plowman; and being a democrat he could not vote for Aldrich although he had not worked against him.

The next day Best went to his work as usual when he was met by the superintendent of the mines who informed him that he had no further use for him and to call at the office and get his pay. Mr. Best asked if this was Mr. Aldrich's orders, and was told it was.

Capt. Plowman's evidence shows he was entitled to 28 more votes than was accorded him. Dr. Pratt Aldrich's son-in-law was one of the managers and handled most of the tickets.

THE NEW RAILROAD.

The new railroad from Columbus, Miss., to Montgomery, will penetrate a portion of mountainous country in West Alabama that has never yet heard the whistle of the iron horse. The railroad will open up new mines and locate many new enterprises, but there is one industry native to the soil that it will discourage, namely, the brewing of mountain dew. The headlight of the locomotive will light up the mountain fastnesses of the moonshiner. Instead of the railroad encouraging enterprise, it will retard development in this respect. The Yankees have a habit of saying that the southerner is lazy—they don't know the moonshiner—he works while others sleep. What a wonderful concoction is that he brews in the midnight mountain dew! It has the lunacy of fair Luna in it. It is fair to look upon, yet it contains all the imps of darkness. It sparkles like the diamond, but is deadly as the rattlesnake. It contains ingredients characteristic of the owl, that looks down in open-eyed wonder at the midnight moonshiner; of the cyclone, that tears up the monarchs of the forest; of the torrent that sweeps by the still; of the wolf that howls in the deep woods; of the darkness that is in league with the silent brewer.—State Herald.

HANDSOME PRIZES AWARDED.

Ohioan Captures the Wedderburn Cash Prize and a Baltimorean the Gold Medal.

Washington Times of March 26, 1897.

There was an interesting meeting at the offices of John Wedderburn & Co. last night of the board appointed to award the prizes offered by the company for the simplest and best inventions submitted to them from all sections of country during the month of February.

The prizes consisted of a cash prize of $150 and a handsome gold medal. Competing for these valuable prizes was a much larger number of inventions than had been submitted in any previous contest, and the judges were only enabled to determine the winners after long and careful examination of the numerous devices in competition.

After thoroughly going over the many excellent inventions shown by models, the board after a consultation announced its decision.

The cash prize of $150 was awarded to Albert Ovenden, of Akron, Ohio, and the second prize to George N. Benson, of Baltimore, Md.

The personnel of the board making the award establishes beyond the possibility of doubt the fairness of the competition, which was conducted solely on its merits. Its Chairman is Senator William M. Stewart, and the members include Representative Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia; Messrs. Frederick E. Woodward, of the firm of Woodward & Lothrop; John C. Eckloff, cashier of the Second National Bank, and Arthur C. Moses, of W. B. Moses' Sons.

Upon the certificate of the above distinguished committee Messers Wedderburn & Co. will continue to give monthly prizes for the best ideas or inventions submitted to them.

A large number of guests were present at last night's meeting, and after the awards were announced the guests were allowed to inspect the models of the successful inventions. Afterward a handsome collation was served to the members of the board and guests.

Capt. W. F. Joseph, a prominent citizen of Montgomery, and captain of Troop D, Alabama State troops, died suddenly at his home in Montgomery on Tuesday night last. He had an altercation with Mr. Malcolm Hall on Tuesday evening in which he received a blow or blows on the head from Mr. Hall's fist, but no serious results were apprehended. Tuesday night, however, he had a stroke of paralysis and death resulted in a short time.

IN MEMORIAM.

Died suddenly at his home in this city on Thursday the 22d instant, Mr. Joseph Vivian Teague, an old and highly respected citizen. The deceased was a native of England and was born at Redruth, Cornwall, England, on the 9th of June, 1827, hence was in his 70th year. He came to America in 1841, and spent several years of his life in the northern portion of the United States and in Canada. He married Miss Sarah A. Ward, who survives him, at Tunnel Hill, G. A., in the year 1853.

He came to this section in 1865, at the time that the South and North Alabama railroad was being built, and engaged in work on a grading contract for this road between this place and Montgomery. During this time he purchased a home near South Calera, where he resided for several years and which he owned at the time of his death. In 1880 he moved to this place, where he has resided continually since. For several years past he has been an employee of the Southern railroad, holding his position under the various changes of name and management that the road has undergone. He was during the greater portion of this time in charge of the water tank and coal yard of the Southern at this place. He discharged the duties of this important trust faithfully and conscientiously, and to the full satisfaction of the railroad company. His was a strong and rugged character, possessing many sterling qualities. He was in many respects a typical Englishman, self-reliant, determined and persistent in the performance of duty. Whatever he pretended to do, he did well. It was a rule of his life to attend strictly to his own business and to let the business of others alone. Sober and industrious, fair and honorable in his dealings, he made many friends. An honorable, generous, high toned man, a useful citizen, a kind husband and an indulgent parent, he enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the people among whom he lived so long and who knew him so well. He will be greatly missed from the quiet walks of life where he has been so long a prominent figure. He was a believer in the faith of the Protestant Episcopal church. He leaves a widow, a son, Mr. Joseph N. Teague, of Anniston; a daughter, Mrs. Sallie Dook, of this place; several grand children, and many friends to mourn his decease. The funeral services were held at his late residence on Friday afternoon, being conducted by Rev. C. L. Her-ring, after which the remains were laid to rest in the City cemetery, a large concourse of relatives and friends attending to pay the last tribute of affection and esteem.

Capt. W. B. Edmundson, the hustling Life Insurance man was in the city Tuesday.

Mr. J. R. Hill, of the Holcomb Pratt Lumber Co., met with an unfortunate and painful accident on last Friday evening. He was walking along the platform leading from the mill to the dry house when he tripped on a loose plank and was thrown from the platform, falling a distance of ten or twelve feet and severely spraining an ankle, besides receiving several bruises on other portions of his body. He has been confined to his room ever since, but we are pleased to learn is getting on very nicely and will soon be able to be out again.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; to-day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy become known the people will have no hing else. For sale by Dial Bros., Druggist.

W. T. Johnson, Esq., of Highland, was in the city a day or two this week.

Three or four negro boys were arrested by the city authorities yesterday, on evidence implicating them in the shooting of the negro tramp, Tony Franklin in the railroad yards on Tuesday night. It is probable that other arrests may follow.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dial Bros., Druggist.

Mrs. R. E. Bowden visited relatives at Oxford this week.

A negro tramp calling himself Tony Franklin and hailing from Montgomery, was shot in the railroad yards in the northern part of the city on Tuesday night by some unknown party. His wounds are in the side of the head and face, and seem to have been made by shot, and while quite painful may not be very serious.

Americans are the most inventive people on earth. To them have been issued nearly 600,000 patents, or more than one-third of all the patents issued in the world. No discovery of modern years has been of greater benefit to mankind than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, or has done more to relieve pain and suffering. J. W. Vaugn, of Oakton, Ky., says: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my family for several years, and find it to be the best medicine I ever used for cramps in the stomach and bowels. For sale by Dial Bros., Druggists.

RAT PROOF BUILDING.
Messrs. W. R. Carter, of Shelby, and J. T. Crawford, of Wilsonville, spent Tuesday in Calera. They were introducing "Crawford's Improved Rat, Snake and Vernal Proof Building." This style of building is valuable for corn cribs, barns, smoke houses and feed or grain houses. Mr. Crawford is the inventor. His patent was issued in December last. Judging from the model of the building that these gentlemen had with them it is certainly the very style of building that is needed by every farmer, in fact by every person who stores grain or other articles subject to damage or waste from rats. The Sentinel was informed that several of these buildings have been erected in the county during the past two years, and that they are giving the very best satisfaction. Any one wishing further particulars can be fully informed by addressing J. T. Crawford, Wilsonville, Ala.

The Frost Fender
will roll
PLEASURE and PROFIT
—OUT OF—
«WHOA AND WORRY»
Try it. We Guarantee.

This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention; a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he has long needed, and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender.

How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work.

You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow and the plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant.

By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity.

All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectually avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant on an undercurrent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up.

Thoroughly disc passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market.

The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow.

The tilting motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, in the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it.

It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools.

WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc. 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use. 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle. 4th. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it.

All these advantages we will give you for the small sum of two ($2.00) dollars, and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

TESTIMONIALS.

Four Men Entombed Alive.

Blocton, Ala.—At 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning an explosion of gas occurred in mine No. 3 of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company this place. There were about twenty men working in the immediate neighborhood of the explosion at the time it took place. All are known to have escaped except four Italian miners, who were entombed. A rescuing party went to work at daylight, endeavoring to reach the entombed men. Of the men who escaped several were badly scorched and bruised, but none were seriously hurt. They had a hard time, however, getting out of the mine because of fallen timbers and coal. The rescuing party, after ten hours' work, found the dead bodies of four of the missing Italian miners, all of whom, it is thought, were killed outright by the shock of the explosion, as they were badly mutilated. Their names are: Carlo Yalloli, Juan Mani, Frank Yambanini and Joe Regetti.

It develops that there were twenty-six other men in the mines at work, but all escaped. Robert Gunnlock and Frank Regetti were badly bruised and overcome by gas, and were dragged out by their companions after great difficulty.

The gas which escaped was ignited by a lamp of one of the Italians.

The shock was so severe that it awoke the entire population of the town. The scene of the accident is 1,000 feet below sea level.

Will Probably Be Settled.
Birmingham, Ala.—Representatives of 7,000 miners, employees of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Company, after two days' session considering the proposed wage reduction, adjourned late Saturday afternoon after receiving the following proposal from the company:

Thirty-five cents per ton for coal mining when No. 1 foundry iron is $7 per ton, and an advance of 2½ cents per ton in wages for every rise in iron of 50 cents per ton.

The present wage scale is 40 cents per ton, based on iron at $8, and the same proportionate advance. The miners will report back to the camps, who act on the proposition next week. It is thought a satisfactory adjustment will be reached.

Confessed to His Crime.
Selma, Ala.—Two weeks ago two masked robbers entered the home of Henry Parker, a wealthy Bibb county farmer, who, just prior to that time, had been stricken with paralysis.

They bound and gagged James Bowling, overseer of Parker's plantation, and forced Mrs. Parker to open the safe. After securing $400 the robbers left. Saturday Bowling confessed that he was a party to the robbery, and that his conscience would not permit him to longer remain silent. He stated that Daniel Smithman and Newton James, sons of respectable farmers, were his accomplices, and that Smithman, who was the stakeholder, has never divided the spoils. James and Smithman are now in jail. The robbers expected to get $15,000, which rumor said was in the safe.

A Man Found Dead.
Brookside, Ala.—John Silko, a Slav, was found dead beside the Southern Railway track between Cardiff and Brookside Saturday morning about 5 o'clock. Silko's remains were badly cut up, a train having run over them, but it is believed the man was murdered and his body afterwards placed on the Southern Railway track. A train came along and the body was badly mutilated.

Kidd's Successor Appointed.
Montgomery, Ala.—John W. Thaxton has been appointed Superintendent of Education of Marshall county, vice Kidd, the absconding defaulter. James H. Bargainer was appointed Circuit Clerk of Butler county, vice King, resigned.

THE REFORM CLUB DINNER.

Many Able Speakers, Among Them Ex-President Cleveland.

New York, N. Y.—The annual dinner of the Reform Club, which was given Saturday night in the new ballroom of the Hotel Waldorf, was a notable gathering. Representative men of the gold wing of Democracy from all parts of the United States who played a prominent part in the recent campaign were present. It was the first occasion on which President Cleveland has delivered a public speech since his retirement from office. When the list of invited guests was made public it was generally understood that the speeches which would be delivered would, in a large measure, indicate the policy of the gold wing of the Democratic party in the next Presidential campaign.

John DeWitt Warner presided. At his right sat Ex-President Cleveland, and on his left was Ex-Postmaster General, William L. Wilson. Mr. Cleveland was the central figure in the dining hall, and his speech, in response to the toast "Present Problems," the chief feature of the occasion. The toasts and those who responded to them were as follows:

"Present Problems," Grover Cleveland.
"Sound Currency," John G. Carlisle.
"Tariff Reform," William L. Wilson.
"Municipal Administration," Edward M. Shepard.
"The New South," Donelson Caffery.
"National Democracy," William D. Bynum.
"The Political Outlook," Henry G. Turner.
"Andrew Jackson and the Restoration of the Gold Currency," Josiah Patterson.

Five hundred and eight persons sat down to the feast. They were distributed about ten long tables.

PROMINENT MAN FOUND DEAD.

A Well Known Birmingham Contractor Suddenly Summoned Away.
Birmingham, Ala.—Dr. J. J. Clapp, aged 53, was found dead in the hallway of the old Southern Railway building on the corner of First Avenue and Twenty-second Street, Saturday night about 7 o'clock. Death resulted from apoplexy. The remains were interred Sunday afternoon from the family residence at Woodlawn.

Dr. Clapp had the contract from the Caldwell Real Estate Company to remove the debris from the old hotel site on the corner of Twenty-second street and First Avenue, and Saturday afternoon about the time when the men quit work he was missed.

Mr. A. T. Mason, an employee in the Southern Railway building, saw Dr. Clapp enter the building and go to a room in the rear about 5 o'clock. When Mr. Mason returned from supper a couple of hours later he saw the unanimate body of Dr. Clapp lying on the floor. Officers Goggan and Eagan were summoned and an ambulance called.

UNDERGROUND TRAIN WRECKED.

Ten People in a Precarious Condition.—Was It a Bomb?

London, Eng.—A tremendous explosion occurred on the underground railway at 5:30 o'clock this evening as a train filled with men from the city was making its usual stop at Aldersgate station. The glass roof of the station was blown out. Many of the gas lights in the waiting rooms and on the platform were extinguished. A general panic ensued. When comparative quiet had been restored it was found that a first-class coach had been completely wrecked and that its occupants were lying about moaning and bleeding. Ten figures were found to be in a precarious condition and were removed to hospitals. A number of persons who were standing on the platforms were also hurt. Much of the wreckage was hurled across the station.

The cause of the explosion is not known, but it is believed to have been the result of an accumulation of gas, which became ignited in some way. Many persons, however, believe that the disaster was not due to accident, but was caused by the explosion of a bomb which had been placed in the station with the intention of wrecking it.

TAXED TO THEIR UTMOST.

Levees Soft and Mushy and It Is Feared More Breaks Will Occur.

Memphis, Tenn.—Because of Sunday's rain in the lower Delta country and Louisiana, the levees are being taxed to their utmost.

At Natchez the river gauge showed Saturday night a rise during the preceding twenty-four hours of one-tenth of a foot. Showers prevailed in that section all Sunday and Sunday night there was a steady downpour. The levees are soft and mushy and with a continued precipitation it is feared that the embankment will give way.

A telegram from Clayton, La., states that the Tensas River has risen over one foot since Saturday night, and the swift stream is full of heavy driftwood. The backwater from the Biggs crevasse is showing itself near Vidalia and it will inundate many acres of rich land in that section.

At Greenville the river fell two-tenths of a foot in twenty-four hours ending last night. Light showers prevailed yesterday and the weather is warm and unsettled.

At Memphis a fall of one-tenth of a foot is recorded.

The river at Cairo is falling at an increased rate.

THE DOG WAS WORTHLESS

Yet the Suit Went Through All the Courts and Plaintiff Finally Lost.

Washington, D. C.—The United States Supreme Court to-day decided a case involving a claim for damages for killing a dog, which had made its way from the lower courts of New Orleans through the various phases of litigation to be finally decided here in opposition to the claim. The suit was instituted by George W. Sentell, Jr. vs. the New Orleans & Carrollton Railway Company. The dog, a Newfoundland, valued at $200, was killed by a car owned by the railway company. The case turned upon the validity of an act of the Louisiana legislature recognizing dogs as personal property only when placed upon the assessment rolls. In this case the dog was not assessed. Justice Brown delivered the opinion of the court, sustaining the constitutionality of the law and refusing damages.

A Policeman Burglar.

Washington, D. C.—A queer complication in burglary developed here when Policeman James E. Pierce, of the metropolitan force, was arrested for robbing houses on his beat. The sufferers were Mrs. Fannie McMillan and Mrs. M. Cooke. Both have houses in the fashionable residence section. The families were away at the time, and Pierce improved the opportunity to carry away a large amount of glass, clothing, porcelain and other portable valuables. Detectives searched his house and to-day recovered about $1,500 worth of plunder. Pierce, who comes from Vermont, has been on the force four years. He confessed his guilt, but refused to say where all his booty was secreted.

Bob Paine's Dastardly Deed.

Brookside, Ala.—Another murder was added to Brookside's calendar Sunday. Bob Paine, a well known negro, wanted on several charges by the sheriff of the county, shot and instantly killed Lulu Tyres, the wife of Aleck Tyres, a respectable colored miner, while the family of Tyres were at the breakfast table. The killing was a cold blooded murder from all the facts that can be received from the place. The body of the woman was shipped to Georgia for interment.

Heavy Damage By Cloudbursts.

Eufaula, I. T.—A series of cloudbursts, heavy wind and rain storms occurred in and around Eufaula all Sunday night and extended over about 100 square miles of territory. The rain fell in torrents, and was the heaviest for fifty years. Farms, houses, fences and crops were swept away to an extent amounting to a calamity. The North Canadian Railway bridge is so badly damaged that no trains can cross it.

A Cheerful Landlord.
"I stopped at a very small town in Kansas a few weeks ago," said L. M. Martinez, of Chicago, at the Raleigh. "I had been in the place once before and knew where the hotel was. It was late at night when I got off the train and went to the hotel. After repeated knocking and shaking the door the landlord came down and let me in. The next morning breakfast was not ready when I got up, but the landlord was in a good humor about it, saying, 'Everybody is sick about the house. You are the only guest, so I didn't get breakfast ready.' He went out into the kitchen and in half an hour served a very good meal for me. I found that my customer was out of town, so had nothing to do but stay around the hotel all day. The landlord got dinner and supper for me and I asked, 'Who is sick?' 'My wife, two children, the cook, the waiter and the porter.' 'I should think you would get some one else.' 'Can't. They won't come.' 'Why?' 'They are all afraid of the smallpox. I'm the only one who hasn't got it, and I feel the symptoms. I'll be in bed to-morrow, but I think the porter will be well enough to run the hotel by that time. He is sitting up to-day.' 'I paid my bill very suddenly and put myself under medical treatment when I reached the next town.'"

All Foreigners.
The Philadelphia North American quotes the saying of a man who is disturbed about the future of his native land. Mr. Banner—The foreigners are getting an awful hold in this country. Crosby—They are, indeed. Why, I read over a list of men naturalized by the court yesterday, and every one of them was a foreigner.

Extenuating Circumstances.
Robert—What defense are you going to make in Wesley's case? Richard—Oh, the insanity plea, I understand.

Robert—But won't they have a hard time to prove that he is deficient in intellect? Richard—I don't know. They are going to bring his wife into court.—Boston Transcript.

Well-Considered Moves.
She—You seem restless, George. From the window seat you moved to the rocker; now you are moving to the sofa.

He—Yes; I am trying to work out a problem in chess. She—Chess? What problem? He—Why, I'm trying to mate in two moves.—Washington Times.

What Matters It?

What matters it if on the morn
Dull mists obscure and darken,
And nature's charms droop low, forlorn,
As if to grief they'd hearken?
If later on the glorious sun
Bursts forth in all its glory,
'Tis as if day had just begun
And clouds were but a story.

What matters it if life's young dream
Be sometimes rudely shattered,
And often hopes that brightest seem
Be darkened torn and shattered,
If after all our guiding star
Full bright and clear emerges,
And fairer still, no more afar,
Our grief to sunshine verges?

God will forgive our many sins,
Will heal hearts that are broken,
Bind up the wounds when life begins,
Blot out words we have spoken.
What matters it, then, after all,
If hearts with grief are beating?
We are but waiting for the call
And God's eternal greeting.

A Peculiar Condition.

It had been raining all day. The first sharp shower came pattering down on the short grass and broken board sidewalk just as Nicholas Bodman opened his window and thrust out his head to make prognostications of the weather for the coming 12 hours.

It was then just 6.13 o'clock. Nicholas was quite sure of the time, for he had looked at his watch the first thing after getting up, and had made a rapid calculation as to the exact number of hours, minutes and seconds that hour hand should point to 3 o'clock again.

It was the 20th day of May, and a day that was fraught with matters of the gravest import for Nicholas Bodman. He had long contemplated making a hazard of strange and untried fortunes, and one evening away back in the winter, when he had sat before his grate fire cogitating the most felicitous manner of bringing the venture to a successful issue, it had suddenly been borne in upon his mind that 3 o'clock on the 20th of May would be the most propitious time for him to make the trial.

It was a momentous question that Nicholas had determined upon having decided, being nothing more or less than a problem of matrimony. Nicholas was unlike most men in a good many respects. Up to the time when he met Mrs. Rosewater he had never had an affair of the heart that was worth mentioning.

He had no idea how to proceed in cultivating the widow's acquaintance, and as his passion grew the quandary in which he found himself increased in a corresponding ratio. At last, however, he decided to trust himself blindly to Providence on the 20th of May and do offhand whatever circumstance might suggest.

All things considered, it was very aggravating that it should rain that day. By 3 o'clock the heavy down-pour of the morning had subsided into a dreary monotonous drizzle, and Nicholas sheltered his new hat under his best silk umbrella and went to call on Mrs. Rosewater.

May 20th fell on Wednesday that year, which did not happen to be his hostess' regular day at home, but she was too bright a woman to let him know that his call had been ill-timed.

"What do you think of the preacher we are to have as a substitute for our regular pastor this summer?" she asked at length, after a slight pause, during which he wondered if she would ever say anything that would serve as a key for unlocking his own burdened mind.

"I don't know," he answered, with a snap of determination. "I have not thought anything about him. I've had other things to think about."

"Oh, have you?" she said softly.

"Yes," said he, bluntly. "I've been thinking about you," he had found the key and the words came easily enough then. "I have loved you for months, Mrs. Rosewater; indeed, even for years, I think—in fact, I have lost track of the time. And I want you to marry me. I've got about as much to offer you in the way of the world's goods as the average man. I'm the owner of a good business down town, I have an interest in three railroads, and the corner lot over there is mine. Do you think you can care enough for me to marry me?"

"Really, Mr. Bodman," she an-

What matters it if on the sea
The ship may fight and tremble,
Tossed here and yon as winds decree
Where furies wild assemble,
If, when the tempest voice is stilled
And storm gods have retreated,
She still sails on, with glory filled,
Full tried and not defeated?

What matters it when life is done,
If, when we look behind us,
We see no glorious victories won
Or earthly ties that bind us,
If, looking forward to the day,
We see a hopeful gleaming,
With angels smiling on the way
And radiant sunlight streaming answered, going over to the window and looking down the street at the board walk in front of the Bodman house, "I have not thought of marrying—not just now. You have been frank with me and I will speak plainly to you. I have quite a little money of my own; so much that it will not be necessary for me to marry a rich man in order to insure myself a home. I have always known you were strongly drawn toward me, Mr. Bodman, and I candidly confess that the attraction has been mutual. Yes, Mr. Bodman, I am willing to marry you—"

Al Dunlap in Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Nicholas had arisen from his chair and had started toward her, but she waved him back.

"Provided," she continued, "you will comply with one request. Come here."

Nicholas went and stood beside her, and she pointed to the broken sidewalk surrounding his premises.

"Provided," she repeated, "you will take up that sidewalk and replace it with one that will be a credit to the neighborhood. I love and honor you, Mr. Bodman, but I can never marry a man who will take me to a place where I will be continually tormented by such an eyesore as that. When I see a good pavement laid there I will come and tell you that I am ready to keep my part of the bargain."

In his dismay Nicholas gasped out many an incoherent argument, but the widow gave him to understand that the interview was ended, and he took his hat and umbrella from the tree in the hall and went home, with feelings strangely at variance with the unspeakable torture that had unnerved him upon going out an hour before.

The business interests of the family had been so wisely invested by his father that Nicholas grew rich in spite of himself, but the real estate, which was under his direct supervision, remained as it was when it descended to him.

The only repairing that was ever done to the sidewalk was to lay down a new board now and then when the old ones became so badly damaged as to endanger the safety of the lives and limbs of pedestrians.

Its disgraceful appearance finally became just cause for a common scandal, and one night the indignation of patriotic citizens reached such a pitch that a committee of the most influential men called on Nicholas and threatened to enforce the law then extant to the effect that any property-owner who maliciously refused to make the improvements required for public safety and the public good should forfeit his possessions to the state.

But that was the most unpolitic step they could have taken, for what had hitherto been mere carelessness on Nicholas' part, then developed into willful, unalterable stubbornness, and he vowed that he would see half the people in the Twenty-sixth Ward break their necks while walking over his pavement before he would expend one penny in improvements.

And that was the way the matter stood when he proposed to Mrs. Rosewater. The condition imposed upon him put him in an unenviable predicament. He debated it all that night, and all the next day. Then he came to a conclusion. He would keep the board sidewalk.

The three months of summer passed away, and Mr. Bodman's courtship was again limited to casual glances interchanged between him and Mrs. Rosewater at the church door or round the altar rail on communion Sundays.

One morning in the latter part of September Nicholas was awakened by the rat-a-tat-tat of many hammers on the boards beneath his window, and upon looking out he found that a force of workmen had come down on him unawares and attacked him in his lair. After breakfast he sauntered leisurely out into the street and accosted one of the laborers.

"Can you tell me," he asked, "the name of the contractor who has charge of this work?"

"Daws & Daws, Hanover building," said the man as he tore up another large section of crumbling sidewalk.

In the afternoon Nicholas went down to the Hanover building and sought an interview with the firm of Daws & Daws.

"You are laying a sidewalk around my corner lot at Pine and Worthington streets," he said stiffly. "I never authorized the work to be done. Will you kindly tell me to whom the bill will be sent?"

Daws, Sr., whistled.

"It was a lady who came to see us about it," he replied. "I was not to say anything about it, but I guess it will be all right. Here's her card."

It took them four days to complete the sidewalk. On the morning of the fifth day after the beginning of the work Nicholas sat beside his window and surveyed with keen satisfaction the smooth white walk, and wondered what would come next.

He was looking in the direction of Mrs. Rosewater's home, and pretty soon he saw her come swiftly down the steps and cross the street. His breath came in hard, short gasps when she was ushered into the library and hurried up to him.

"My dear Mr. Bodman," she chirped out gayly. "I am glad to see that you have laid a sidewalk at last. You do not know what gratification it gives me. But I knew you were too liberal minded to be a drawback to the public when you once realized the gravity of your mistake. You have done your part, and now I am willing to do mine."

Did she know that he knew? He looked at her furtively from the corner of his eye, but there was not a tremor or flush of deceit to be detected on her comely face.

"It was for your sake I did it, Mrs. Rosewater, not the community's. Had it cost ten times as much I should have done it just the same."

She flashed him a swift, sharp glance then, but that was all either of them ever said about it.—Chicago News.

And the Cat Came Back.

Mr. Downs, an engineer on a local railroad, has a cat that he can't lose, says a Rutland (Vt.) correspondent of the New York Press. The animal came into his possession some time ago. Her traits were not such as to endear her to Downs, and so he determined to get rid of her. He put the cat into a bag and took her to Salem, 45 miles away.

"Now," said Downs, as he turned the cat loose in the roundhouse at Salem, "I guess that I've got rid of you."

But Downs didn't know the cat. When he returned home that night he found the cat sleeping peacefully on the hearth in his home. Downs was amazed.

"How did that cat get here?" he asked.

"She came back this afternoon," replied his wife.

"Well, I declare!" ejaculated Downs, as he moved toward the feline.

But the cat, suspecting some fell design on the part of Downs, leaped nimbly to her feet and sped to the upper part of the house. Downs has taken the cat on several trips and each time tried to lose her. But she returned every time. Downs says that he believes that if he kills her her ghost will come back.

PRESIDENT McKINLEY

Pressed the Key and Set the Wheels of the Exposition in Motion.

In compliance with the request of the Executive Committee of the Nashville Centennial, the President opened the Exposition by wire from the White House at 1:13 o'clock Saturday.

The arrangements were very simple in detail. The circuit was made up by the Western Union officers, under the supervision of Mr. Montgomery Executive Clerk in charge of telegraph, and Manager Marean, of the Western Union.

The wires went direct to Nashville, by way of Richmond, Va., and Asheville, N. C., repeaters being used at the former place. The circuit was a little over 2,700 miles in length.

Immediately upon completion of the circuit into the Exposition grounds, the President was notified by Secretary Porter, and at once walked across the hall to the telegraph room, where, under the guidance of Mr. Montgomery, he stepped up to the desk, placed his finger on the Morse key and slightly pressed it, which action instantly gave the signal to the Nashville end and put in motion the wheels of the Exposition.

The members of the Tennessee delegation in Congress, Pension Commissioner H. Clay Evans and several other prominent Tennesseans, witnessed the ceremony.

Startling Testimony.

At Chicago Miss Sarah Louise Ervin, private secretary and stenographer to President Spaulding of the defunct Globe Savings Bank, testified before the Senatorial Investigating Committee in Chicago. She testified that Spaulding had given her about $75,000, with the understanding that he was some time later to secure a divorce from his wife and marry Miss Ervin.

A special dispatch from Athens says that M. Ralli, the new Greek Premier, has announced his intention of calling to arms every able-bodied man in Greece.

ANOTHER GOLD BRICK ARTIST.

A Georgia Planter Swallows the Bait and Takes Three.

A special from Macon, Ga., to the Atlanta Constitution says:

A swindler from the North reached Macon a few days ago and soon after his arrival met by appointment one of Georgia's wealthiest planters. Neither the swindler nor the planter is here now. The swindler has returned to his eastern haunts wearing a happy smile and carrying $6,300 of the planter's money, while the planter has gone home to hide three gold bricks he bought and to secrete, if he can, the knowledge that he was duped. No one seems to know who the swindler is, but it is a well known fact the planter is Chil Packson, probably the wealthiest of Sumter county.

A few days ago Packson was summoned to Macon by a letter advising him of a "good investment," and here he met the plausible stranger, who exhibited three gold bricks. Packson swallowed the bait, and after carefully examining the gold bricks paid the stranger $6,300 in cold cash and a check for $5,000 for the bargain. Of course the bricks were only brass, and now the victim is endeavoring to keep the affair a secret instead of reporting it to the authorities and making an effort to convict the manufacturer of the scheme.

The gold brick artist told the usual story of an Indian finding the mine in a secluded spot in Nevada and that samples were only sold to get money with which to develop it.

Terrific Earthquake.

A dispatch to the World from Kingston, Jamaica, says: "There has been a succession of terrific earthquake shocks in the Leeward Islands, killing many people and doing great damage to property. The center of the disturbance is at Montserrat, but the area affected extends from St. Kitts to Martinique. The greatest loss of life is at Guadeloupe. All business has been suspended and the churches have been opened for general prayer."

HE HAD COURAGE.

A Negro Loses His Life in Attempting to Prevent Robbery.

Hardaway, a small station on the Savannah, Florida & Western Railway, was one day last week the scene of a bold attempt at robbery which, though unsuccessful, ended in the death of a brave negro, whose courage no doubt saved the lives of several others from the bullets of the robbers.

Three clerks and the negro porter, William Grass, were preparing to close the general store of F. F. Putney about 9 o'clock, when an unknown negro walked in and began to trade with Duncan Forester, one of the clerks. While waiting for the supposed customer to conclude his trading, another man with a pistol in each hand stepped in the door and called out: "Hands up!" He and the other negro covered the clerks. Grass was the only one uncovered. He was sweeping and dropped his broom and drew a pistol which he carried and began to fire.

"Kill the d--d nigger!" the robbers shouted, and turning their attention to him began firing. During the melee the clerks escaped. Later Grass was found dead near the door. The robbers escaped.

The tariff bill was reported to the senate on Tuesday. It is reported to be radically different from the Dingley bill and as practically being another measure. Many reductions are reported and the retroactive feature has been wiped out.

A horrible holocaust took place in Paris, France, on the 4th inst. A fire broke out in a crowded charitable bazaar in which were some 1500 people, including many of the most prominent of the city and hundreds of these were burned to death. The building was a temporary wooden structure and burned very rapidly.

As will be seen from a special from Huntsville, to the Atlanta Constitution of last Sunday, appearing elsewhere, the presidency of the University of Alabama is just now a very live question. Who is to be the man? Is he to be selected from distinguished educators, outside of the state or from those within the South? The Sentinel is still of the opinion that he should be selected from among the leading educators of the state, and still holds to the opinion that no mistake would be made if the trustees did not go outside of the city of Tuscaloosa but should name Prof. W. H. Verner of the University High School as the man. And if they were to go outside of Tuscaloosa, why would not Prof. Phillips of Birmingham, or Prof. Powers of Florence, fill the bill? There are also others who might be mentioned but there is no necessity for leaving the state to find the right man.

The United States Senate on the 5th inst., by a vote of 43 to 26, refused to ratify the general arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain negotiated by Secretary Olney and Sir Julian Pauncefote. The rules of the Senate require a majority of two thirds for the ratification of treaties. Four more affirmative votes were necessary to secure a favorable result as sixty nine votes were cast, but these were wanting. Nineteen Senators did not vote. Some of these were, however, paired. It is unfortunate for the world at large, The Sentinel believes, that this treaty should have been defeated. It would have been the entering wedge for the settlement of all international questions by arbitration, by diplomacy. It would have marked a step for onward in the march of Christian civilization, and we believe would in its workings have resulted in putting an end to wars and rumors of war among civilized nations. It would, to a certain extent at least, have aided greatly in the inauguration of an era of peace.

A new paper in Arkansas is called "The Scorpion." The Little Rock Democrat, in speaking of it, says: "We have had 'The Tooth-pick,' 'The Tomahawk,' 'The Rip-saw,' 'The Buzz Saw,' 'The Thomas Cat,' 'The Bazoo,' 'The Horseshoe,' and 'The Horn,' but nothing so like the wild and woolly West' as 'The Scorpion' has ever made its appearance in this section before." And to which we may add that no doubt this new "Scorpion," like all other scorpions, has a sharp business end, and that is just where it proposes to make the business pay. Politicians not in harmony with the policy of the paper will probably be made to feel where it can make its point felt.

The Birmingham News of 1st inst., contains a special from Montgomery which says: "Nearly 300 negro laborers have been forwarded from here toward Maplesville and Tuscaloosa during the past few days to work on the Montgomery, Tuscaloosa & Columbus branch now building for the Mobile & Ohio railroad, Col. Mann with a number of his assistants, has been here several days perfecting all local and suburban terminal arrangements."

HUNTING FOR A PRESIDENT.

Board of Trustees Will Recommend a Successor to General Jones. Huntsville, May 1.—The approaching election of a successor to General Jones, as president of the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa and the filling of other professorships is attracting attention all over the south and occasional notice is given it in the north. A sub-committee, composed of Judge William Richardson, of Huntsville; Colonel James E. Webb, of Birmingham, and Judge Thornton, of Montgomery, is empowered to make recommendation of a suitable personage to the full board of trustees, which meets in Tuscaloosa June 20th.

Each member of the sub-committee has been diligently at work for some time past, seeking by correspondence and otherwise to find proper and acceptable men to fill the different positions. Letters of inquiry have been addressed to presidents of institutions in all parts of the United States and applications have been received from a large number of educators of the highest standing.

It appears that the committee will not confine itself to Alabama in selecting the new officers for the university. "The school needs as its president a man of broad and liberal educative ability," a member of the committee has said, "and it does not matter what state such a man comes from. It is the man that the university needs. We need a man whose name as an educator will help build up the university. These are our views and all of us having the interests of the university at heart."

SCARED J. ASA.

The State-Herald Manager the Victim of a Cruel Joke.

Huntsville Tribune: J. Asa Rountree was the subject of a very severe scare while visiting Dallas Mills. Asa had on a long tailed coat and not being accustomed to machinery, he apprehended that his coat tail would become hung in some of the powerful machinery, and that he would be whirled and bumped until he was a quivering pulp. The editor of The Tribune, seeing the uneasiness of the State Herald man, slipped up behind him, while standing near a great revolving cog wheel and gave his coat tail a sudden and severe jerk. The result was an exclamation "My God!" and Asa bounded into the air and did not cease bucking stiff legged until he had reached the sliding door, fifty yards away. It was several minutes before he could be pacified. Then he had to take his coat off to convince himself that the tail was still on it.

According to the newspapers, an Ohio husband became the happy father of seven children not long ago. Of the seven, all lived but one. It is to be hoped he laid in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, the only sure cure for croup, whooping-cough, colds and coughs, and so insured his children against these diseases. SOMETHING MORE

In Regard to the Political Story Pertaining to the Aldrich Plowman Contest.

The Sentinel last week printed an article, copied from the Montgomery Journal and duly credited to that paper, under the heading: "A Political Story Pertaining to the Aldrich Plowman Contest." This article appeared in the Journal as a special from its Montevallo correspondent. As the SENTINEL is not willing to contribute in the smallest degree towards doing any one an injustice, we cheerfully give place to the following reply to said article from the pen of Mr. Thomas J. Hoskings, of Aldrich:

ALDRICH, April 30, '97. Editor Shelby Sentinel:

I was surprised, today, on reading an article in your paper in reference to the "Story of the Aldrich-Plowman Contest." Had your caption been "A base lie in reference to," etc., it would have been nearer the truth. The facts are these, which I trust you will publish in vindication of myself:

One Best was employed by me and worked regularly for some time. He then abruptly of his own free will and accord quit his job and opened up a beef market in Montevallo. Finding he had quit, I gave the job to Mr. Pickett. He returned and demanded his job, which I refused him on account of his having abandoned it previously without notice to me and my having already given the job to another man. I did not know how Best voted, but had been all along under the impression that he voted for Aldrich as he told this here repeatedly to every one, and no one knew any better until Best jumped on the train and ran down to Selma to make affidavit that he was discharged on account of voting for Plowman, thus giving the lie to all his previous assertions here.

You can readily see what degree of confidence can be placed in a man who asserts one thing one day and swears the opposite another day. There is not a man on this work, democrat or republican, who believes Mr. Best voted for Plowman. Unless this modern Ananias corrects the falsehood he is seeking to circulate on me, I shall teach him through the courts of the country what slander means.

Very resp.,
Thos J. Hoskings,
Supt. Mines Department,
Aldrich, Alabama.

MRS. STONEWALL JACKSON. Columbus Enquirer Sun.

One feature of the celebration of Memorial Day in Montgomery, which touched the heart of every veteran in the city, and which will impress every one who hears of it was the presence of Mrs. Jackson, the wife of "Stonewall" Jackson, and her visit in the morning to the old Capitol, the house in which the Confederacy was born.

How appropriate it was that she, the wife of Jackson, who died upon the woeful field of Chancellorsville, should upon the day set aside for wives of the Confederate soldiers as a memorial of the dead, be present in the "Cradle of the Confederacy," to take part in the exercises.

Montgomery was honored Monday as she has seldom been. Presidents and ex-presidents may visit her; the representatives of foreign governments may make her gates the objective point of a journey; capitalists may "see millions" in her future and come to invest their money, but the presence of none of these should rival in the estimation of the people of Montgomery, that of this widow of the confederacy, the relic of "Stonewall" Jackson, he whose nature was as gentle as a woman's, but whose heart was as bold as a lion's—the irresistible leader of the great civil war.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Biliousness, Indigestion, Headache. A pleasant laxative. All Druggists.

The Marion Standard is another paper that endorses Prof. W. H. Verner for president of the State University. The editor of that paper knows him, therefore he is for him. Prof. Verner's name is being most flatteringly received all over the state for this position. He would adorn the position and restore the university to something like its old time usefulness and prosperity. There is not a particle of use for the trustees to go beyond the confines of Alabama for a president—Prof. Verner will fill the bill.—Selma Times.

TO THE CIRCUS.

Barnum & Bailey Excursions to be Run on All Railroads.

The great Barnum & Bailey circus is to exhibit in Birmingham May 22nd, and for the notable occasion all railroads will make a special low round trip ticket, so all those who desire to witness the "Greatest Show on Earth," can do so at a small expense. The Barnum & Bailey circus this year, while always the best and biggest in the past, is now conceded to be the most incomparable exhibition in the entire world. Nothing has ever, or will ever approach it, for the genuine merit of its circus performance, the size and completeness of its menagerie, and the wonderful display of its gorgeous equipment. The shows require sixty big railroad cars for its transportation, employs 700 people and possesses over 400 horses and half a hundred cages of rare animals. Its daily expenses are over $5,000, and it annually instructs and entertains several million of patrons. It is the big show of the universe and one of the largest enterprises in the entire world. It will be a great day for this vicinity, and doubtless a large crowd will avail themselves of the low rate and attend the performance from this place.

Prevention is better than cure. Keep your blood pure, your appetite good and your digestion perfect with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and you will be cured of nearly any form of sickness.

Hood's Pills are harmonized with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Harmless, reliable, sure.

It was told to a certain king of England that Lord Blank was his politest subject. WISDOM'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

"I am only too glad to testify to the great value of Ayer's Sarsaparilla which has been a household companion in our family for years. I take from 3 to 5 bottles of it every Spring, generally beginning about the first of April. After that I feel like a two year old, for it tones up my system, gives me an excellent appetite and I sleep like a top. As a blood medicine it has no superior, at least that is my opinion of it.—H. swallows.
One of the traditions which the early Romans cherished as to swallows was that they were the spirits of dead children revisiting their homes, and therefore the birds were treated with love and reverence. The swallow is still, if not a sacred, at least an honored bird in different parts of the world. It is the "bird of consolation" in the North. They style it in the South "the bird of the happy beak." It is greeted as the "bird of the hearth" in the West; and, when it flies to the East, the advent of the "bird of God" is announced.

The man in the bicycle suit laughed heartily.

"Very funny," he said.

"What?" asked the man with a large section of skin gone from his nose.

"Why, these 'Don'ts' for bicyclists," replied the man in the bicycle suit.

"Let's see them," said the man who was short of skin.

The man in the bicycle suit handed him the paper.

"The best one isn't there," said the man with the fantastic nose, shortly.

"If it was the rest wouldn't be necessary."

"What do you consider the best one?" asked the man with the bicycle suit.

"Don't ride," answered the man whose nose stood in need of grafting, and then he carefully put a large piece of court plaster where it would do the most good.—Chicago Post.

Improving.

A celebrated German physician was once called upon to treat an aristocratic lady the sole cause of whose complaint was high living and lack of exercise.

But it would have never done to tell her so; so his medical advice ran thus:

"Arise at 5 o'clock, take a walk in the park for one hour, then drink a cup of tea, then walk another hour, and take a cup of chocolate. Take breakfast at 9 o'clock."

Her condition improved visibly, until one fine morning the carriage of the Baroness was seen to approach the physician's residence at lightning speed.

The patient dashed up to the Doctor's house, and, on his appearing on the scene, she gasped out:

"Oh, Doctor, I took the chocolate first."

"Then drive home as fast as you can," directed the astute disciple of Aesculapius, rapidly writing a prescription, "and take this emetic. The tea must be underneath."

The grateful patient complied. She is still improving.

TENNESSEE'S EXPOSITION

Was Opened to the World Last Saturday Morning.

The Tennessee Centennial Exposition was thrown open to the world Saturday last under auspicious skies and impressive ceremonies. The day dawned cloudless and cool, after a rainy night, which threatened at one time to interfere with the festivities of the inaugural day. At 8 o'clock the gates of the Exposition were opened and the people began to arrive. By 11 o'clock, the hour fixed for the exercises in the auditorium, that building holding 6,000 people, was filled. The brief, simple, but impressive program was carried out before one of the most brilliant gatherings ever assembled in Tennessee. On the platform were the Exposition officers and committee, Governor Taylor and his staff, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, members of the Woman's Board, the Mayor of Nashville, United States Senator W. B. Bate, Hon. J. W. Gaines and hundreds of prominent citizens. President J. W. Thomas, at 11 o'clock, with a historical gavel, rapped for order, and Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, Co-Adjutor Bishop of Tennessee, offered prayer.

The opening of the Exposition marks the 100th year of the admission of the State into the sisterhood of commonwealths.

The members of both houses of the Legislature and their wives assembled at the Union Street depot of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway at 9 o'clock, and were conveyed in special trains to the handsome terminal station at the west side of the Exposition Park. The place of rendezvous was the administration building, whence the officials, legislators and distinguished guests, including the Governor of the State, Hon. Robert L. Taylor, Gen. Ignacio Garcia, Postmaster-General of the Republic of Mexico, and suite, escorted by a vast concourse of citizens, proceeded to the auditorium which in a few moments was filled with about 7,000 people, while a perfect multitude was unable to obtain admission, and contented itself with listening to the inspiring strains of Bellstedt & Bollenberg's superb military concert band, of Cincinnati. The ceremonies were opened with prayer by Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, Co-Adjutor Bishop of Tennessee.

Conservative estimates place the day and night attendance at 30,000. Perfect order prevailed.

JAPS AROUSED

Incensed Against Hawaii and the United States.

According to advices by steamer the Japanese Government is aroused over the refusal of the Hawaiian Government to permit Shin Shu Malu immigrants to land there and has ordered warships to Honolulu to enforce what the Japanese immigrants consider their rights.

Grave complications have arisen, according to Japanese official newspapers, over the action of the United States Government in sending the Philadelphia to Honolulu. Japanese official organs claim the cruiser has been sent as a menace to the Japanese Government and is significant in that it foretells annexation of the islands to the United States.

Japanese official newspapers are full of war talk. The Chowie states that a telegram had been received by the Japanese authorities to the effect that England has sent an intimation to the United States Government that she objects to the intended annexation by the latter of the Hawaiian Republic.

Blind, Rheumatic and Dropsical—A Union Colonel is Given Over to Die—How the Old Soldier Gave Azeal the Slip.

From the News, Barbourville, Ky.

In the year 1863, while in command of a Union regiment at Cumberland Gap, Colonel Messer, now of Flat Lick, Kentucky, received a severe gunshot wound in his abdomen. In a few months he was again in the saddle, but soon was obliged to undergo further medical treatment, and his condition became so serious that in the winter of 1863 he returned to his home, and was never again fit for active service. During the years that have since passed, Colonel Messer has been a confirmed invalid from the effect of his wound, and has been under the constant care of the local physicians, not improving, but growing weaker and more emaciated. His condition eventually became deplorable. Almost blind, legs swollen, so that he was unable to walk, the doctors who could do nothing to arrest the progress of the disease, diagnosed it as dropsy, and said recovery was impossible.

The old soldier did not believe his physicians, but said that since they could do nothing for him, he would, upon an old friend's strong recommendation, try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The first box was taken by Col. Messer according to directions, and by the time that was gone, he felt so much better that he was able to get up and walk. He was so comfortable, that several other boxes were procured, and he continued to take them faithfully. Soon the swelling in his legs disappeared, and with it the fierce rheumatic pains with which he had long suffered. Strangers of all his eyesight, which for so many years had been useless, was restored. In all, Colonel Messer took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills six months, and then was thoroughly cured. He now is a healthy looking man, rides on horseback, and stands as much fatigued as any man of his age.

The Colonel, since his recovery, is never tired of decanting on the virtues of those pills, and every advertiser of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. is careful to send to some sick friend or neighbor, with the assurance that they will cure him.

The high standing of Colonel Messer, and his remarkable recovery, makes this report more than usually interesting, and when it was at the office of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., it was referred to Messrs. Phipps & Herndon, the well-known druggists, of Barbourville, Ky., for verification. We append the reply:

TURKS CAPTURE PHARSALOS

STRATEGIC PLANS OF THE MOS-LEMS PROVE SUCCESSFUL.

GREEKS DRIVEN TOWARDS ATHENS.

Smolenski, Who Is Cut Off, Will Be Compelled to Fight for Freedom Or Annihilation.

Edhem Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief in Thessaly, has sent the following dispatch to the minister of war at Constantinople:

"The imperial army while marching to Pharsalos met the enemy in the villages of Soubathi, Souledji, Turcomanli and Lamia. After a severe engagement, lasting fifteen hours, we dislodged them from their positions and advanced to Pharsalos, which the imperial army has just victoriously occupied."

A London cable dispatch says: Evidently it was Edhem Pasha's ability to cut in between the two Greek armies which led to the speedy retreats which were the beginning of the end. The Greek accounts say that both retreats were orderly, but such news comes only from official sources in Athens, which are not exactly reliable.

It is just possible, so far from being orderly, they may both have ended in a panic, as was the case at Larissa.

Edhem Pasha will almost certainly follow to prevent General Smolenski from rejoining the main army.

In any event, General Smolenski is now cut off from all chance of embarking on the Greek vessels at Volo. He must either surrender to the Turks or endeavor to reach Larissa by the difficult mountain paths, so that everything indicates that Greece will be compelled to sue for peace in order to save the remnant of her army from destruction. The absence of Greek cavalry at Pharsalos left the Greeks in complete ignorance of the movements of the Turks and it is another illustration of the general incompetency of the Greek staff.

General Smolenski has admitted that long habits of guerrilla warfare have made the Greek army helpless against modern military strategy. It is now believed that the end would come much sooner, but for the difficulty the Turks have experienced in bringing adequate supplies of ammunition for magazine rifles and modern artillery over the mountain passes.

FIFTY FIREMEN PROSTRATED.

Fumes of Ammonia Cause the Trouble One Death.

Fifty or more men disabled and one dead was the record of the New York fire department at a fierce fire at No. 161 to 163 Chambers street Thursday night.

The fire was in the large cold storage warehouse of the Merchants' Refrigerating company, and it was the fumes of ammonia and the heaviest of smoke that struck down men by the dozen.

The call for ambulances was as rapid as the call for engines. The dead fireman is John Reinhard, of Engine Company 7.

Fireman John Reinhard, missed his way in leaving the cellar, and was finally taken out unconscious. He died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital.

Those overcome, some of whom are in a serious condition, include members of a dozen of companies that were called out as reserves, when Chief Bonner found he was losing his men on every hand.

The fire was an unusual one and is estimated to have done damage to the extent of at least half a million.

RESOLUTION FOR ARBITRATION.

Bacon, of Georgia, Introduces Measure To Offset Defect of Treaty.

As a sequel to the defeat of the Anglo-American treaty of arbitration, Mr. Bacon, of Georgia, introduced a joint resolution in the senate Thursday, deprecating war and announcing the policy of the government favorable to arbitration.

The resolution was in effect "That the United States of America deprecate war and desire the maintenance of peace and friendship with all the world, and that this desire is not limited to their relations with any one nation, but extends to their relations with all the nations, whether the same be great or small, strong or weak."

AFTER DISPENSARY MEN.

Investigations Result In the Issuance of Warrants.

T. J. Williams, a member of the South Carolina state board of control, has sworn out warrants against S. W. Scruggs, chief clerk of the dispensary, and Col. John T. Gaston, ex-commissioner of the dispensary.

This is the result of investigations by the attorney general, the testimony showing that Scruggs had taken from a trunk which was seized by constables four boxes of cigars and several cans of peaches. The trunk was the property of Wm. Beckroge, of Savannah, who went to Charleston about a month ago to get married and carried a trunk full of wine and whisky, cigars, canned peaches, oranges, etc.

United States Judge Simonton declared the seizure illegal and when Beckroge demanded his trunk and contents they were gone.

The trunk was sold to Legislator Garis, but the board decided that was a perfectly legitimate transaction, but could not stand the idea of employees appropriating the cigars and things to their own use.

Gaston got a few cigars, some oranges and a pair of shoes out of the trunk, but after the whole matter was ventilated he paid for them.

Scruggs has been decapitated as chief clerk and W. H. Lawrence, an expert bookkeeper, was appointed in his place.

REVOKED CLEVELAND'S ORDER.

Ex-President's Forest Reservation Criticized By the Senators.

The senate Thursday agreed to an amendment to the sundry civil bill revoking the order of President Cleveland, made on February 22d last, establishing forest reservations aggregating 17,000,000 acres.

The debate brought out much criticism of Mr. Cleveland's order, Senators Pettigrew, Wilson, Turner, Rawlins and White speaking against it.

Mr. Gray, of Delaware, defended the course of the president, pointing out that it was the result of an inquiry authorized by congress and conducted by the National Academy of Science.

Mr. Allison endeavored to have the amendment restricted so as to leave the question of revocation to the president, but he was defeated on an aye vote—14 to 32.

Mr. Gorman made a point of order against the amendment, but this being submitted to the senate, was defeated 23 to 25. The amendment was then agreed to without division.

Another amendment agreed to provides for a continuance of the investigation of the condition of the fur seals in Behring sea. The sundry civil bill was passed late in the day. It carries an aggregate of $53,000,000.

GOVERNOR SEIZES THE ROAD.

Richards & Co. Fail to Pay Rental for Northeastern.

Governor Atkinson, of Georgia, has taken possession of the Northeastern railroad, forty miles long and running from Athens to Lula, on the Southern railway.

The lessees, E. A. Richards & Co., defaulted in the last quarter's rent and Governor Atkinson, after having giving the lessees three days of grace, signed an order taking possession and naming R. K. Reeves state agent to take charge of the road, subject to orders from the executive department.

This effectually disposes of the twenty-year lease held by Richards & Co., and makes the sale of the property by the state an easy matter. The long lease was a serious impairment of the marketable value of the road, which has been ordered sold at an early date by the legislature.

UNCERTAIN ABOUT WAGES.

Miners In the Jellico District Awaiting Conference.

A special from Knoxville, Tenn., says: The coal miners of the Jellico district are all idle, awaiting their big conference, when it will be decided whether or not the reduction of wages will be accepted for the next year.

The miners are not in position to stay out of work any great length of time, as some are now in destitute circumstances. The operators say they will not make contracts for another year unless the reduction is accepted.

Indicted Cashier Made No Charges Against Other Officials.

Harry Cassin, the defaulting cashier of the Georgia Loan, Savings and Banking company, of Atlanta, was before the grand jury Thursday morning.

Cassin was questioned about the connection of the bank with the property that was burned in Pittsburg. He testified that the property had been turned over to the bank.

He was also questioned in regard to the connection of other individuals with the misappropriation of the Georgia Loan's funds. It is understood that he made no charges against the other officials.

CREMATED ON A STEAMER.

SIXTEEN PASSENGERS ON THE LEONA LOSE THEIR LIVES.

WERE PENNED UP BELOW DECK.

The Fire Was Subdued In Time to Save Others—City of Augusta to the Rescue.

The Mallory line steamer Leona, which left her pier at New York on Saturday, bound for Galveston, took fire at sea, put back and arrived in port Sunday night with sixteen corpses on board.

The dead were thirteen steerage passengers and three members of the crew, who succumbed to a terrible fire which occurred off the Delaware coast Sunday morning.

Details of the horrible story are meagre.

Those who are dead were penned up below decks, and although frantic efforts were made by the officers of the vessel to save them the fire had gained such terrible headway before the danger was discovered that all escape was cut off.

The steamer carried in her cargo many bales of cotton. It is not certain how the fire originated, but when it was discovered, it burst forth with such fury that it was impossible to reach the steerage. Even the steerage passengers apparently were un-mindful of the danger, else the smoke and flames had not reached them. The saloon passengers were first aroused, and in such a manner as to occasion little alarm.

When it became apparent that the fire had cut off the steerage passengers the captain and his men poured great quantities of water down the ventilator and heroic attempts were made for the escape of those penned up.

In this way eight of the steerage passengers made their escape.

The dead steerage passengers are: Bridget Sullivan, R. Caliane, Miss Guzza, Mrs. G. C. Guzza, Miss Hannah Solomonson, Mrs. Valiricks, Miss Valiricks, Sophie Schwartz, Marie Wade, two unknown children, and two unidentified.

Of the crew: Alfred Hardy, waiter, forty-one years old, New York; Alfred Lang, waiter, nineteen years old, New York; H. Hartmann, butcher, twenty-seven years old, New York.

Captain Wilder was in command, with First Mate Wallace and Second Mate Sweeney assisting. The chief engineer was below with three assistants and a crew of about seventy-five men, including firemen and deck hands.

After a hard fight the flames were finally subdued.

The surviving passengers were transferred to the steamer City of Augusta, of the Savannah line, which came upon the scene in answer to signals of distress.

ROBINSON STEPS DOWN.

Agricultural Department Has a New Statistician from Nevada.

Henry A. Robinson, of Michigan, of the agricultural department, tendered his resignation to Assistant Secretary Wilson Saturday.

Mr. Robinson is a free silver man, and says he deemed it only right that the administration should have the office at its disposal. The office pays $3,000 per year, and is protected by the civil service law.

John Hyde, of Nebraska, now editor of the year book of the agricultural department, has been appointed to succeed Mr. Robinson.

DISASTROUS RESULT OF FIRE.

Horses Run Into a Railroad Trestle and Wreck a Freight Train.

At Manning, S. C., Friday night, fire destroyed Bradham's ginnery, the county dispensary with its entire stock, Shradham & Thomas' big stables and two big warehouses, one full of vehicles.

Two horses from the stable ran down the railroad and, becoming fastened in a trestle, wrecked the night freight, pitching the engine in Black river and wrecking three box cars. No lives were lost.

A dispatch to The Morning Post (London) from Constantinople says it is possible that Turkey will demand a war indemnity of over £6,000,000.

CAPT. STRONG ASSASSINATED.

Was Known as a Famous Fighter in Kentucky.

Captain William Strong, aged 72 years, was shot and instantly killed near his home in Breathitt county, Ky., Sunday morning by unknown persons.

He had left home to go to a neighbor's and when not more than a mile away was fired upon from ambush, seven bullets entering his body.

A large number of his friends are searching the mountains for the assassins, and if caught they will be summarily dealt with.

Captain Strong was one of the most famous fighters in eastern Kentucky. He was a captain of the federal army, serving four years under Woolford.

BIMETALLIC COMMISSION SAILS.

They Go To Confer With Heads of European Governments.

Ex-Vice President Adlai Stevenson, General J. C. Paine and United States Senator Edward O. Wolcott, who were recently appointed by President McKinley as a commission to confer with the heads of European governments relative to the holding of an international bimetallic conference, sailed from New York Saturday for Havre on the French liner La Touraine.

Before their departure Mr. Stevenson said that the commission would go direct to Paris and, after conferring with the French government, would visit London, Berlin, Vienna and the capitals of other European governments.

He expected that much good would be accomplished by the commission and did not anticipate any trouble in inducing the governments to appoint delegates to the contemplated conference.

WILL ABANDON CRETE.

Report That Greeks Will Gradually Withdraw From the Island.

Advices of Sunday from Athens, says: "The government has informed the ministers of the powers verbally that following the recall from Crete of Colonel Vassos, twenty-five officers and two companies of sappers, the gradual withdrawal of troops from the island of Crete will take place."

After a brief delay the powers will offer to mediate between Greece and Turkey. The powers will insist, however, that Greece shall confide her interests unreservedly to their hands."

The correspondent of the Associated Press at Athens learns on the best authority that Greece has made a written application to the powers, through their representatives at Athens, for mediation.

All the representatives have promised in their replies to use their best offices, except the German minister, who has merely acknowledged the receipt of the note from the cabinet. The porte is inclined to support the powers, with a view to the facilitation of negotiations, but it declines to consent to an armistice, on the ground that this would enable Greece to reorganize her forces.

GOVERNOR TAYLOR TO RESIGN.

Tennessee's Chief Executive Will Return to Lecture Platform.

A report is going the rounds that Governor Taylor will resign October 1st and again go on the lecture platform. Under the constitution Hon. John Thompson, speaker of the senate, will succeed to the governorship.

It is known that Governor Taylor has contemplated this action and the fact that he entered into the lyceum convention with Hon. Henry Watterson, General John B. Gordon and others some weeks ago seem to indicate that he will return to the lecture platform, where he made ten or fifteen thousand dollars per annum, while his salary as governor is only four thousand.

While the governor refuses to talk for publication concerning the reports, it is known that he has so made up his mind, and has told several gentlemen that the reports were correct.

MINERS SIGN NEW CONTRACT.

A Reduction of Two and One-Half Cents a Ton Is Accepted.

Representatives of the 3,000 coal miners working for the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company at Pratt mines and West Pratt, met with General Manager G. B. McCormack, of the company, in Birmingham, Ala., and signed a contract for mining to begin on May 10, 1897, and to extend to July 1, 1898.

The minimum price to be paid for coal mining will be 37½ cents per ton, which is 2½ cents below what is being paid now.

The sliding scale was adopted again with No. 1 foundry pig iron, $7.50 per ton, as a basis, and for every 50 cents advance of 2½ cents per ton on coal.

The company agrees to abolish the sub-contract system and regulate other complaints in mining objected to by miners. A representative from each mine at the places named signed the contract.

The miners working for the same company at Blocton, Adger, Johns and Sumter have refused to accept any reduction and will not consider any new contract until the expiration of the present one.

A Tug and Schooner Collide With Fatal Results.

The tug Paoli, Captain Harding, brought news to Vineyard Haven, Mass., Sunday afternoon of her collision with and sinking of the schooner Annie E. Rudolph, of Camden, N. The fifty-seventh annual session of the grand lodge of Alabama Independent Order of Odd Fellows convened at Bessemer on Tuesday. The Bessemer lodge made extensive preparations to entertain the delegates, and a large number were present.

Copper from the old Wood mines near Heflin is being hauled to Heflin and deposited for shipment. It is brought by the wagon load. Several wagons are on the road each day. This ore will be shipped by the carload to New Jersey for smelting. The assayist shows that this copper consists, besides its principal basis, which is copper, of gold, silver and sulphur, a big per cent of each. The present company gets pay for all these various metals, while the operators of twenty years ago only received pay for copper. It is said that the cost of shipment is today $10 cheaper on the ton than twenty years ago.

Pursuant to the action recently taken at the meeting of the State Commercial & Industrial association at Huntsville, President H. L. McKee, of that body, has issued the following:

To the Commercial Bodies of Alabama: At the meeting of the State association held in Huntsville, April 28, it was resolved to render such aid to the Nashville Centennial and Alabama exhibit as lay in the power of the association.

The president was authorized to name a committee of nine persons who were to co-operate with the commissioner of agriculture in his work.

In pursuance of the plan I have visited Nashville, and had a conference with Major Culver, and I beg to announce some information not generally known.

Space has been obtained in two buildings in the agricultural hall, 48x18 and 23x30 feet, has been assigned to Alabama. In the mineral and forestry 71x18 feet has been assigned.

This space is now being arranged and properly decorated under the direction of the commissioner.

Transportation—Free carriage of all exhibits of the state is offered by the railway companies, and tags can be had by addressing the secretary of the commission, H. G. McCall, Nashville, which are to be used in marking for transportation.

Installing—The commissioner will receive upon notice of shipment and install all exhibits sent to him, free of charge, and will make proper notice of such exhibit.

Exhibits—The commissioner desires counties, corporations and individuals to send suitable articles. Prompt answer to inquiry will be made by writing Maj. I. F. Culver, at Montgomery or Nashville. Success is already assured, but this may be greatly amplified by our co-operation. Let this be quick and full. I will thank parties who are willing to serve on this committee to advise me.

POWDER AT A PRAYER MEETING.

One of Lincoln's Anecdotes Recounted by General Horace Porter.

The following anecdote of Lincoln is recounted by General Horace Porter in his "Campaigning with Grant" in the "Century." It was told during Lincoln's visit to the front at City Point:

In the course of the conversation that evening he spoke of the improvement in arms and ammunition, and of the new powder prepared for the fifteen-inch guns. He said he had never seen the latter article, but he understood it differed very much from any other powder that had ever been used. I told him that I happened to have in my tent a specimen which had been sent to headquarters as a curiosity, and that I would bring it to him. When I returned with a grain of the powder about the size of a walnut, he took it, turned it over in his hand, and after examining it carefully, said: "Well, it's rather larger than the powder we used to buy in my shooting days. It reminds me of what occurred once in a country meeting-house in Sangamon County. You see, there were very few newspapers then, and the country storekeepers had to resort to some other means of advertising their wares. If, for instance, the preacher happened to be late in coming to a prayer meeting of an evening, the shopkeepers would often put in the time while the people were waiting by notifying them of any new arrival of an attractive line of goods."

"One evening a man rose up and said: 'Brethren, let me take occasion to say, while we're a-waitin', that I have just received a new invoice of sportin' powder. The grains are so small you kin scarcely see 'em with the naked eye, and polished up so fine you kin stand up and comb yer hair in front of one o' them grains jest like it was a lookin'-glass. Hope you'll come down to my store at the crossroads and examine that powder for yourselves.'

"When we had got about this far a rival powder-merchant in the meeting, who had been boiling over with indignation at the amount of advertising the opposition powder was getting, jumped up and cried out: 'Brethren, I hope you'll not believe a single word Brother Jones has been sayin' about that powder. I've been down that and seen it for myself, and I pledge you my word that the grains is bigger than the lumps in a coal-pile; and any one of you, brethren, ef you was in your future state, could put a bar'l o' that powder on your shoulder and march squar' through the sulphurous flames surroundin' you without the least danger of an explosion.'

A Lost Diamond.

A Glasgow lady has had a singular experience. About the beginning of November she had paid a hurried visit to her business premises, and while there lost the diamond from a favorite ring. Search was made everywhere for the precious stone. The shop was given an extra sweep, the dust placed in a "hair" sieve and washed, but not a trace of the lost jewel was got. Concluding that the diamond was gone for good, the ring was reset and the loss was almost forgotten, when the owner's daughter, who had accompanied her to the shop on the occasion, remarked: "Mother, there's something in the heel of my right boot which catches the carpet every step I take." "See what it is," was the reply, and there, firmly imbedded in the solid leather was the missing diamond. Singularly enough, during the past two months the young lady has been in the country and walked over the hard macadamized roads. Diamond, in no way injured, and bootheel able to join the heirlooms of the family.

MINERAL MANURES FOR CLOVER.

There is no use of mineral manures that in the long run pays so well as to make them grow clover. Both potash and phosphate of lime are required for the clover plant. Though it has the power to make each of these from land where they are too deficient for grain crops, yet the clover is quite as much as the grain benefited by having these minerals offered in available form. We never failed to get a good clover catch when seed was sown with grain that had been phosphated. By the use of the clover a double benefit was secured from the mineral fertilizer, as the clover itself supplies nitrogen by dissolving the air confined in the soil.

The Czar's Feat.

Physicians who have been instructed to deny reports of the Russian Czar's ill health tell remarkable stories of his physical achievements. They say that he is out every morning as soon as it is light, and keeps himself in condition by running a verst (1,160 yards, or about five furlongs), watch in hand, to see that he can do it in his average time.

One of his amusements is said to be shooting from a bicycle, and he can bring down a crow even when he is going at a good speed.

NEWSPAPER FRIENDSHIP.

Every newspaper treasures up in its memory the names of its friends and, likewise, its enemies. It seldom, if ever, overlooks an opportunity to assist the former, but never goes out of its way to boost the latter. Human nature is pretty much the same everywhere. People who show the newspaper man kindness never make a better investment or one that more surely pays them a hundred-fold sooner or later. As has been truly said, there comes a time in the life of every man when a word said by a newspaper either makes or unmakes the individual mentioned.

The Cincinnati Time-Star says that the greatest educational institution in the South at the present time is the Tennessee Centennial Exposition.

We print elsewhere a card from Mr. T. A. Best in reply to the card of Mr. Thos. J. Hoskins, which appeared last week. Now that both parties have had their say as to the facts in the case, The Sentinel hopes that this will close the controversy so far as it is concerned.

A reunion of the Confederate Veterans of the county, to take place at Columbiana some time in July is being agitated. Mr. John W. Johnston of Columbiana, is taking an active part in the movement. The suggestion is a good one and should be carried out. Would it not be a good idea for Emanuel Finley Camp of this place to call a meeting of its members and take steps to further the movement by making arrangements to attend in a body? Let us hear from you!

TAYLOR WILL RESIGN

Says One of His Close Personal Friends, to Return to the Platform.

Memphis, Tenn., May 11.—The rumor that is going the rounds that Governor Robert L. Taylor of Tennessee, would resign in October ceased its life as a rumor today, when Hon. James H. Coleman, a personal friend of the governor, announced in an interview that beyond doubt his excellency will resign and return to the lecture platform. It is also announced that the governor is in no sense a prospective candidate for the United States senatorship.

THE CHAUTAUQUA.

[A CARD FROM MR. BEST.]

Montevallo, May 12, 1897.

EDITOR SENTINEL:

I read with surprise the card appearing in your paper last week from Mr. Thos. J. Hoskins, superintendent of the mines department at Aldrich. I have no desire to enter into a newspaper controversy with any one, but I feel in justice to myself and my friends who have sympathized with me in my misfortune, that I should make some reply to the charge made by Mr. Hoskins that a "base lie" has been circulated on him. I will simply give the facts as I understand them and let the public decide as to who has told the "base lie" that the gentleman so flippantly rolls under his tongue. In advance, I do not accuse any one of telling or circulating a "base lie," but I think my reputation for truth and veracity will compare favorably with that of Mr. Hoskins who makes such charges. At any rate I will let the public have the facts and draw their own conclusions as to where the "base lie" belongs:

Mr. Hoskins says I was employed by him and worked regularly for some time, etc., and then abruptly quit my job and opened a beef market in Montevallo, and finding I had quit he gave the job to another man. The facts are as follows: I was never employed by Mr. Hoskins in any shape, form or fashion. I was employed about three years ago by Mr. Aldrich, who gave me a job on the coal dumper, with a promise of something better later on. I continued at this work, off and on, as work was being done, being idle a great portion of the time for want of orders. Frequently I would go off and work while the mines was idle.

Several months ago I applied for some advances at the store while the mines was idle, and was told that they did not want the men to get in debt, and that I had better look out for some thing to do on the outside until work got better. I then opened up a little market in town for a short while. In the mean time evidence was being taken in the Plowman-Aldrich contest case and I was pressed to make affidavit as to how I voted. This I declined to do on either side. I had voted for Capt. Plowman because I had been a lifelong democrat and a personal friend of Capt. Plowman. I had refrained from telling any one how I voted because I was employed by Mr. Aldrich and I well remembered the 25 men who lost their jobs two years ago on account of voting against him. I said nothing to influence any one against Mr. Aldrich as he was my employer and had always treated me well up to this time, and I did not think it becoming in me to take a stand against him.

After work got better at the mines, I went out and saw Mr. Hoskins and told him I would be out the next week to go to work. He said alright he would see Mr. Aldrich and let me know. The next day he told me to come out and bring my bucket. Early Monday morning I went to my post as usual and word was sent to me by Mr. Hoskins that "I had no more job there than a rabbit." I went to see Hoskins then and was told that Mr. Aldrich said he had no more work for me.

I have no desire to slander Mr. Hoskins or Mr. Aldrich, and simply give the facts as they occurred. Although I am a poor man and needed the job I had under Mr. Aldrich I will not sacrifice my principles for any man or any job.

Should Mr. Hoskins desire to teach me through the courts what slander means, I will state to him that the courts are open at all times and I am ready to learn the lesson he is desirous of teaching me. Resp'y,

TROS. A. BEST,

According to the newspapers, an Ohio husband became the happy father of seven children not long ago. Of the seven, all lived but one. It is to be hoped he laid in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, the only sure cure for croup, whooping-cough, colds and coughs, and so insured his children against these diseases. FOUND IN COOSA RIVER.

While a party composed of J. B. Killingsworth, Chas. Martin, Chas. Ellison and Tom. Ellison were fishing on Coosa river at a place called Robinson's Fish Hole in Chilton county, on the 28th of April last, Mr. J. B. Killingsworth found a bottle which had lodged on a little tow head in the river. Noticing that it was tightly corked, he gave it a thorough investigation and found its only contents to be the following letter:

Sunday, March 14, 1897.

This bottle and one more was put in Coosa river at the same place and at the same time. I want to see how far they will go and how far apart they will be when they are found. When you find this please send it to E. G. Harbone, Melson, Floyd county, Georgia.

P. S.—Please state where it was found and what date. E. G. H.

Addressed—
"To Some Unknown Person."
In addition to the bottle mentioned, the party made a splendid catch of fish, the largest of a considerable number, weighing sixty three pounds.

TRAVELING COMPANIONS.

Negro Man and Small Boy Touring the Country Together.

Warden Svl Daley landed a unique pair in the county jail last night. He got them at Vincent, in Shelby county. The one was a negro man named Samson Lee, the other a 10 year-old boy named Will Dennis. The charge against the negro is kidnapping. The accuser is Mr. Sam Byars, who lives in Shade's Valley, and for whom the boy worked as apprentice. The boy states that he was not kidnapped, but was simply making his way home to his mother in Talladega county. His father, he says, lives in Anniston. The negro states that he and the boy were simply traveling companions.—Birmingham News.

The great Barnum & Bailey circus is to exhibit in Birmingham May 22nd, and for the notable occasion all railroads will make a special low round trip ticket, so all those who desire to witness the "Greatest Show on Earth," can do so at a small expense. The Barnum & Bailey circus this year, while always the best and biggest in the past, is now conceded to be the most incomparable exhibition in the entire world. Nothing has ever, or will ever approach it, for the genuine merit of its circus performance, the size and completeness of its menagerie, and the wonderful display of its gorgeous equipment. The shows require sixty big railroad cars for its transportation, employs 700 people and possesses over 400 horses and half a hundred cages of rare animals. Its daily expenses are over $5,000, and it annually instructs and entertains several million of patrons. It is the big show of the universe and one of the largest enterprises in the entire world. It will be a great day for this vicinity, and doubtless a large crowd will avail themselves of the low rate and attend the performance from this place.

Prevention is better than cure. Keep your blood pure, your appetite good and your digestion perfect with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and you will not need to fear any form of sickness.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Harmless, reliable, sure.

MISS LOLA WOODS.
Yesterday morning, shortly before noon, the dread summons came to Miss Lola Woods, at the residence of her brother, Mr. F. A. Woods, 905 South Fifteenth street. The deceased was an estimable young lady of many sterling qualities, which endeared her to a large circle of friends, who deeply mourn her untimely end. Although not unexpected, the lady's death came as a great shock to her family, as she had lingered with a dread disease for some time. The funeral services will be held this morning, after which the remains will be taken to Montevallo for interment.—State Herald.

THE COUNTRY NEWSPAPER.
There has been, and still is, a disposition to make fun of and ridicule the little items of neighborhood gossip which appear in the country weeklies, and only Monday we noticed a half-column of reproductions printed in one of the city dailies from a Litchfield county newspaper. It is true many of these items look foolish to many readers who are unacquainted with the people and the neighborhood whence they emanate, yet we venture to assert that, to those who live in those localities, or who have lived there and are now residing elsewhere, these items are of great interest. In fact they are read with greater eagerness than the city papers' long telegrams about the war in Greece or the doings of the English Parliament, and they give more pleasure than any article with a big head which the city papers print. Life in the country has none of the excitement of city life. People are personally acquainted with each other, and their goings and comings, their guests, their doings from day to day, possess a personal interest that the country editor does well to print and cultivate. Instead of trying to cast ridicule on his country brother, the city editor might take lessons from him and make his paper more interesting and readable.—Exchange.

PERSONAL.—The gentleman who annoyed the congregation last Sunday by continually coughing will find relief by using One Minute Cough Cure, a speedy and harmless remedy for throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

The Horrors of Nervousness.
Those who are going through the indescribable terrors of this dreadful disease, require no description of the agonies they constantly suffer. But why suffer? Good blood gives good nerves; and gives good blood. PLEASURE and PROFIT
—OUT OF—
«WHOA AND WORRY»
This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention, a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he has long needed, and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender. How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work. You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow and the plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant. By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity. All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectually avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant on an undercurrent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up. The rolling disc passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market. The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow. The tilting motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, in the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it. It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools. WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc., 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use. 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle. 4th. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it. All these advantages we give you for the sum of one dollar and seventy-five cents and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

TESTIMONIALS.
Mr. J. H. Frost—Dear Sir: I used your Plow Fender the past season, and find it to be the best invention I ever saw, and would not be without it for twice its cost. Yours truly, A. J. WOOLLEY. Randolph, Ala., Nov. 22, 1895.
Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Ala.: Having thoroughly tested your Plow Fender, cheerfully say that no farming implement has given so much value for the investment. Don't believe now I could make a crop without them. There is more genuine service in it for the money than any implement I ever used. Yours, respectfully, A. J. KERSH. Centreville, Sept. 25, 1896.
Six Mile, Ala., Jan. 13, 1896.—This is to certify that I have lived on a farm 40 years, and have used a great many fixtures for plowing small plants, and I hereby certify that the Frost Fender is the only thing of the kind I ever used that would do the work just to suit me. J. M. HAYES. Randolph, Sept. 28, 1895.—Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender, we certify that it is all you claim for it, and more, it being the best thing we have ever used for the protection of small plants while plowing them. As ever, yours, T. J. & F. J. FITTS. Trio, Ala., Sept. 26, 1895.—J. H. Frost, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender we find it to be the very thing. It does excellent work, and every farmer needs them and ought to have them, and would not be without them after once trying them. E. H. ELLIOTT & SON. Ashby, Ala., Oct. 15, 1896.—Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender the past season, it affords me pleasure to add my testimony of its good merits. It is one of the few implements I ever saw that would do perfectly and satisfactorily all that was claimed for it. Yours truly, J. GEE OAKLEY.

CARE'S SLAVE.
It was the budding May-time,
The white boughs overhead;
"Oh, give to me some play time,
Good Master Care," I said.
I saw his head begin to shake:
"Not now; just wait and see,
I'll give you a holiday
When planting's done," said he.

It was the glowing summer;
How cool the wood and shade!
Again an eager comer,
"Oh, give to-day!" I prayed.
Old Master Care his forehead knitted;
"The grass is ripe to mow;
Work on till haying time is past,
And then I'll let you go."

It was the glad September;
The maple leaves were red;
"Oh, Master Care! Remember,
You promised me," I said.
"And you will find," he answered me,
"I'll keep my promise true,
And you may sport when harvest's done,
With nothing else to do."

Now winter's winds are blowing—
(How weak I feel and old!)
And by the hearth bright glowing,
I shiver with the cold.
And Care sits down beside me,
And counts up one by one,
The tasks that I have done amiss,
Or I have left undone:
While I, low muttering to myself,
Wished I had laughed and sung,
And had my share of honest joy
When I was strong and young.

CAPTAIN STORMS

Captain Storms put the glass to his eye, and took a long look. Far on, black against the silvery horizon line, that shapeless speck showed. What was it? Captain Storms' prolonged survey ended, he slowly dropped his glass, and turned to Mr. Scott, the mate.

"I knew I was right," he said; "it is a wreck, a dismantled hulk, drifting about at the mercy of wind and sea. There may be no one left aboard, but we'll bear down and have a look."

And then Captain Storms lifted up his voice—a stentorian voice it was—and gave the proper orders to the man at the masthead, or at the helm, or somewhere—I don't know exactly. I would tell you the precise words which Captain Storms used on this occasion, if I could; but I'm deplorably backward in nautical matters. So you'll have to be content with learning that the gallant bark, the Lovely Lass, bore straight down upon that dark mass, outlined against the sunny sky.

Captain Storms leaned over the side and lit a cigar. He was a bronzed young man, stalwart and gallant as I take it sailor men mostly are! and he looked the very beau ideal of a dashing seaman, in his off-hand seafaring costume. He had a beard, and he had a mustache, big and brown, like himself; and from the crown of his glazed hat to the sole of his boots, Captain Storms was a sailor, every inch of him.

The Lovely Lass bore down along the sunlit tropic sea and reached that floating wreck. Captain Storms was the first man to hear the moaning cry of a faint human voice. No living thing was to be seen; but from a corner of the deck that faint, plaintive cry waivered.

"There's some one alive here still," said Captain Storms. "Speak, friend! Who are you? Where are you?"

Again that unspeakably mournful wail. Captain Storms strode across to where a heap of torn canvas and rotten wood lay, and looked down. There in the garish sunshine, with her face upturned to the serene sky, a woman lay dead. Crouching over her, a skeleton child, with long, wild hair, sat making that feeble moan of dumb agony.

"My child!" Captain Storms said, pitifully "my child, what is this?" The ghastly little creature lifted a bloodless face and a pair of haggard eyes.

"Mother's dead!"
"My poor little girl," said the sailor, bending over her as tenderly as that dead mother could have done, "you must come with me, or you will die, too. Come!"

She rose up—a frail little shadow of ten years—and held up her skeleton arms.

"Peace is hungry," she cried, piteously. "Peace is sick and cold, and mother's dead."

And then as the strong arms lifted her as though she had been a wax doll, the blue eyes closed wearily, and the weak baby drooped heavily against his breast; and hunger, and sickness, and cold, and death were all blotted out in blind darkness.

And for weary days and weary nights—while the Lovely Lass sailed along the southern seas, and the dead woman lay quietly under the great Pacific—the little rescued wail lay fluttering between death and life. And during these endless days and nights, the big sun-browned sailor watched over his little girl as a father—nay, as a mother—might have done, until the fluttering spirit ceased its struggles and grew calm in strength and health once more.

Little Peace—her name was Priscilla Weir, she said; Peace for short—came up on deck by-and-by, pale and weak still, and lisped her story to the soft-hearted sailor.

"There had been a great storm—oh a dreadful storm!" Peace said, with a shudder; and they went away in boats—all the men did—and mamma was sick down in the cabin, and left behind; and Peace stayed with mamma and was left behind, too. And then mamma came upstairs on deck, and died; and Peace sobbed, and was so ill and so cold; and then you came," looking gratefully at the captain, "and Peace doesn't remember any more."

"Does my little Peace know where mamma came from, and where she was going?" Captain Storms asked.

"Yes, Peace knows. Mamma came from New York and was going to China to papa. Papa lived in China and was rich."

But that was all she could tell; and Captain Storms knew that among all the unlikely things on this earth, the most unlikely now was that papa and his little girl would ever meet.

The Lovely Lass spent nine long months on the Pacific coast, and then sailed back for America.

"And I shall leave my little Peace behind next voyage," Captain Storms said. "I have a sister who keeps a school in Philadelphia, a fashionable young ladies' academy—and Peace shall stay there and learn to play the piano, and talk French and paint pictures, and grow up a pretty young lady."

"And I shall have silk dresses and lots of pictures and story books!" Peace asked, with interest.

"Heaps of 'em, Peace! And nice little girls to play with, and music, and dancing, and everything beautiful all the day long."

Peace clasped her hands—that would be lovely. So, by-and-by, when Philadelphia was reached, the captain of the Lovely Lass consigned his little girl—a willing captive—into the hands of Mrs. Lee. Not but that she shed a few tears at parting, too, and clung to the sailor's neck, and was very sorry when it came to the last, and the good-bye kiss was given.

"There—there, my little Peace!" Captain Storms said, unclasping the clinging arms; "you mustn't cry like that; it will redder your eyes and swell your nose, and make you look ugly. Keep up heart, little Peace; I will come back in a year or two with a cartload of lovely presents for my little girl. Kiss me again, and let me go."

Captain Storms imprinted a sounding smack on the wistful little tear-wet face, and unwound the clasping arms and walked off, and straightway was whistling cheerily along the deck of the Lovely Lass, and quite forgetful, I am afraid, of his little Peace and her grief.

"Dear, good guardian," thought Peace; "he's so kind and so good-natured; and it was nice playing on the deck of the Lovely Lass; but, for all that, I had rather be here and wear pretty dresses, and play with Mrs. Lee's boarders, and never be afraid of shipwrecks any more."

Captain Storms sailed for New Zealand; and on windy nights, when the doors and windows rattled, and great sighs came down the chimneys, Peace lay awake, and thought of him on the terrible ocean, and said her simple child's prayers for his safe keeping.

Two years went by, and Peace had just one letter from "guardy" (guardian) in all that time, and that one to say he was coming back. She was a tall, rather awkward looking school-girl of twelve now, with preternaturally long limbs, that were always in her way; high shoulders, and prominent cheek-bones. And so Captain Storms found her when, more bearded and sunbrowned than ever, he walked, with his sea-swing, into Mrs. Lee's prim parlor.

Peace sat at the piano singing, "My Willie's On the Dark-Blue Sea," and with a shrill cry of joy, she jumped up, and flung herself headforemost into his blue pilot-coat.

"Oh, guardy! dear, darling guardy! I'm so glad to see you again! So glad—so glad!"

"And so am I, little Peace. Don't choke me with those long arms, my girl. Heads up, and let us see you."

Peace lifted her flushed face and kissed him ecstatically.

"Why, how my little woman's grown, getting as tall as the mainmast, by George! and as thin as a shadow. Don't they give you enough to eat Peace?"

"Plenty, guardy; but growing girls are always thin—Mrs. Lee says so. And now, what have you brought me from New Zealand?"

"Bushels of things, Peace. They'll be here by-and-by. How does the learning progress? Let us hear you at the piano."

Peace sat down and rattled off polkas and waltzes.

"And I can read French, guardy," whirling gayly round on the stool, "and draw pencil drawing, you know, and do fancy work. I like everything! And, guardy, when I grow up and am a young lady, and my education is finished, I want you to fit up the cabin of the Lovely Lass with a Brussels carpet, and a piano, and heaps of new novels, and take me to sea with you all the time until I'm an old woman, won't you?"

Of course, Captain Storms devoutly promised, and rose up to take his leave.

"I'm going to China this voyage," he said, pulling her long, brown braids. "If I see papa, I'm to give him my little girl's love, I suppose?"

"Ah! if you only would see him!" Peace cried, clasping her hands. "Darling papa! Guardy, he used to be in Hong Kong, I know. Try if you can find him for me when you go there."

Captain Storms promised this also and departed. Peace clung to him sobbing at the last.

"You'll write to me often this time, won't you, dear guardy? You only sent me one little stinky letter last time, you know."

"All right, Peace," the captain said. "I'll try. I never was much of a scribe, but this time I'll do my best."

So once again the captain of the Lovely Lass left this little girl, to sail merrily over the world; and once more Peace went back to her horn-book and fancy work.

But the months strung themselves out, and the years rolled slowly backward, and Captain Storms, sailing to and fro in golden eastern and southern climes, never came to take this little girl from school. His letters were few and far between, despite his promises, only six in six long years, and in an-wers he had at least received sixty.

But the sixth and last announced his coming, and told her the wonderful news that he had met her father in Hong Kong, and that she must be ready to go with him next voyage to China.

Captain Storms, hale and brown, and handsome despite his middle age, rang Mrs. Lee's door-bell, and strode, like a sun-burnt giant, into the boarding-school parlor.

"But of course she couldn't know I was coming," he thought, as he sent up his name; "poor little girl. I hope she'll be glad to see guardy."

The door opened and a young lady walked in. A tall and stately and graceful young lady, with a dark, handsome face and waves of sunny brown hair. Surely, surely, this was not "Little Peace."

"My dear guardian, welcome back! Oh, how happy I am to see you once more!"

Yes, Peace, beyond doubt; but, oh, so unutterably changed. Captain Storms reddened under his brown skin, and actually stammered.

"You surely know me, I see," she smiled brightly. "I dare say I have grown out of all reason. Am I taller than the mainmast now? I was almost as tall, if you remember, six years ago."

She recollected what he had said all these years, and Captain Storms' face beamed.

"I expected to find my little Peace, and I find a young lady so stately and womanly that I am at a loss what to say to her. I'm not used to ladies' society, you see."

She laid her hand on his arm, and looked up in his honest sailor face, with deep, sweetly shining eyes.

"Talk to me as you used to, and call me Little Peace. Ah, guardy, how I have longed for your coming. And my father—tell me of him."

Captain Storms told her how, by merest accident, he had met, how he was rich and lonely, and longing for her, but unable to come to America; how she was to return with him, and that the steward of the Lovely Lass was to take out his wife with him to wait upon her. And Peace listened, like one in a peaceful dream. It was being a heroine—it was living a chapter out of one of her pet novels, to romantic Peace.

So they sailed for that far-off celestial land of tea and pig-tails. Captain Storms and his handsome ward, and Peace had her fairy dreams realized, and there was a Brussels carpet in the cabin, and a piano, and lots of new novels; and she was as happy as the days were long. Her music filled the Lovely Lass with sweetest melody; her clear voice rang out over the purple midnight sea, in songs sweeter than the siren strains of the mermaids; and her beautiful face lit up the grim old ship like the summer sunshine itself. Peace was bright and bewitching, and happy as a bird. The sailors adored her as an angel of light; and the captain—ah, the captain!—adored her too. Sailing along, by day and by night, through days of amber sunshine and nights of misty moonlight, to that distant land, Captain Storms, in his 42nd year—old enough and big enough to know better—fell madly desperately and ridiculously in love. He lost his sleep and he lost his appetite; and he hung on a girl's foolish words, and existed only in the radiance of a pair of laughing girlish eyes.

"Fool that I am for my pains!" he thought, sometimes, in bitter moodiness; "I am more than double her age; and I am rough and black and weather-beaten as the timbers of my old ship. No, no, Harry Storms; the only wife for you, my boy, is the Lovely Lass."

And yet, sometimes he wildly hoped. She talked to him so happily, she smiled upon him so sweetly, she was ever so glad when he came, so regretful when he went. And girls of 18 had married men of 42 before now; and, oh, why should it not happen again, and Harry Storms be the most blessed among men?

They reached China—they reached Hong Kong—and Peace was folded in her father's arms.

"So like your mother," he said, his tears falling. "Oh, my child! So like your lost mother."

Captain Storms was to stay three weeks in the Celestial City—to visit it, perhaps, never again. He made the most of his stay; visiting Peace every day in her palatial home, and growing moodier and moodier every visit. Peace, too, drooped a little, and looked at him wistfully, and lost some of that bright happiness that made her the light of all places. And when the last day came, and he stood up to say good-bye, she broke down altogether and cried like a very child.

"And I shall never see you again," she said; "you who saved my life! Oh, Captain Storms, must you go?"

And then that bashful giant took heart of grace, as a landsman would have done weeks before.

"I must go," he said, "but we need not part, my darling Peace, if you say so, for I love you dearly; and if you will be my wife, we will sail together, for ever and ever, as you once wished, until our heads grow gray. Mine is not so far from it now," he added, ruefully.

But Peace had thrown her arms impetuously around him, and kissed the dark, crisp locks.

"And if every hair were white as the foam of the sea, I should love you, and go with you, just the same. Why, Captain Storms, you have been my hero all these long years; and I should have died of disappointment, I know, if you had left me behind."

So the China merchant lost his daughter, and the Lovely Lass had a second commander; and in all the years to come Peace will reign perennial in the heart of Storms.

A grasshopper can spring more than two hundred times its own length.

"Be cheerful," says the man who is easy in his circumstances, missing no loved face at the table, nor by the hearth. But does he ever consider how hard it may be to be "cheerful" when the heart aches, and the cupboard is empty, and there are little fresh graves in the churchyard, and friends are few, or indifferent, and even God, for the time being, seems to have forgotten us, so desolate is our lot? How difficult for one man to understand another in such differing circumstances! How easy to say, "Be cheerful!" How hard he would find it to practice, were he stripped of all life's brightness!

It disgusts us to see others doing the foolish things we do.

Merit Wins.
The invention of Alabastine marked a new era in wall coatings, and from the standpoint of the building owner was a most important discovery. It has from a small beginning branched out into every corner of the civilized world. The name "kalsomine" has become so offensive to property owners that manufacturers of cheap kalsomine preparations are now calling them by some other name, and attempting to sell on the Alabastine company's reputation.

Through extensive advertising and personal use, the merits of the durable Alabastine are so thoroughly known that the people insist on getting these goods, and will take no chance of spoiling their walls for a possible saving of at the most but a few cents. Thus it is again demonstrated that merit wins, and that manufacturers of first-class articles will be supported by the people.

THE SULTAN IS ARROGANT.

THE PORTE NAMES PREPOSTEROUS TERMS OF ARMISTICE.

VERY INDEPENDENT IN ATTITUDE.

Annexation of Thessaly Demanded Besides An Indemnity of Ten Million Pounds. Situation Looks Serious.

Sunday advices from Constantinople state that the porte has replied officially to the note of the powers and declines to agree to an armistice until the following conditions are accepted:

The annexation of Thessaly, an indemnity of £10,000,000 (Turkish) and the abolition of the capitulations.

The porte proposes that plenipotentiaries of the powers meet at Pharsalos to discuss the terms of peace and declares if these conditions are declined the Turkish army will continue to advance.

The demand for the annexation of Thessaly is based upon the fact that the province was originally ceded to Greece on the advice of the powers with the object of ending brigandage and Greek incursions into Ottoman territory, the porte believing at the time that the cession would obtain these objects, but the recent incursions of Greek bands and the events immediately preceding the war have proved to the contrary. This is the substance of the reply.

The ambassadors met Sunday to consider the porte's answer, which is regarded as raising an extremely grave issue. It is believed that representations will be made to the sultan personally to induce a modification of these terms, but it is foreseen this will be very difficult, owing to the attitude of the powerful old Turk war party.

If the porte proves obdurate European interference is not improbable, although at the present Russia is opposed to this.

It is regarded as quite certain that the powers will not consent to a retrocession of Thessaly. Even Germany is believed to be resolute on this point because it would involve a violation of the Berlin treaty and imperil the peace of the Balkans.

Altogether the reply of the porte has caused the greatest surprise. It appears that during the discussion of the note from the powers by the council of the sultan's ministers, news reached the council that 3,000 Greeks had landed at Palona and would march into Janina with the intention of co-operation with other forces from Arta. This created a bad impression among the ministers.

Terms Preposterous.

A cable dispatch from London says: The preposterous terms proposed by the porte must be regarded as the natural and usual method of bargaining. They would not be serious and force a continuance of the fighting. With the failure of the Greek dash in Epirus there is no chance to make a further stand unless at Thermopylae.

At Domokos the Greek troops must be suffering severely from the heavy rains, as they have no tents. The capture and evacuation of the town is only a question of a few days. The Turks have been seen at the passes east and west of Domokos, and General Smolenski has warned the crown prince to expect an attack.

The weakness of the Greek position is in the great extent of the line. The news of the retreat in Epirus serves to still further demoralize the troops in Thessaly. The terms on which peace will finally be declared, the general said, will be settled by European conference.

FINANCIAL TROUBLE IN HAVANA.

Refusal to Exchange Bank Bills Causes a Panic in Cuban Capital.

The decision of the government against the exchanging of bank bills for silver coin has caused a panic in Havana.

Prices of bread, milk and other necessities of life have doubled within the past few days. The working classes as well as all government employees, both civil and military, openly express their dissatisfaction with the action of the government in paying them in script which is 90 per cent. below par.

AGAINST TOBACCO COMPANY.

A Decision Which Says the Corporation Is an Illegal One.

Judge Gibbons, at Chicago, has rendered a decision declaring the American Tobacco company an illegal corporation and prohibiting its agents from carrying on its business within the confines of Illinois.

The decision sustains the information filed last December by Attorney General Maloney asking that the American Tobacco company be enjoined from selling paper cigarettes on the premises, that it was a trust monopoly and conspiracy in the business.

The court said that the power of self-preservation is inherent in statehood.

PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED.

Tumbled Through a Trestle—Fifteen People Badly Hurt.

A southbound passenger train on the Santa Fe road, known as the Chicago and Galveston express, went through a trestle at 5 o'clock Sunday morning.

Fifteen persons, passengers and trainmen, were injured. Several of these are seriously hurt and two will die.

The accident occurred near the town of Marietta, Texas. A heavy rainstorm, amounting almost to a water spout, caused a sudden rise of all the small streams in that vicinity. The accident occurred at a point where a deep, narrow gulch was spanned by a wooden trestle. The foundation works supporting this trestle was undermined by the sudden rise of the stream, which flows through the gulch, and the trestle went down under the heavy weight of the train.

So great was the speed of the train, however, that the engine and tender, the express, mail and baggage cars and one passenger coach passed over the narrow chasm, though the trucks of several of these cars went to the bottom, twenty feet below.

The coach next to the last, the one immediately in front of the Pullman, was left standing directly over the chasm, the end resting on each bank of the gulch. The Pullman remained on the track. The four coaches which were dragged by the locomotive across the broken trestle were badly wrecked. The baggage car telescoped with the passenger coach, which was the smoker, and the latter was all but demolished. The most of the injured were riding in these coaches.

FOUR LIVES FOR A BRIDE.

A Bloodthirsty Mexican Slays His Sweetheart's Brothers.

Henry Briggerman, an American stockman living near Moncloa, Mexico, arrived at San Antonio Saturday with news of a desperate quadruple tragedy just enacted on the Hacienda del Cedral, near his ranch.

Macedonia Fransk, a seventeen-year-old boy of that neighborhood, was in love with Anita Moyas, the daughter of a ranchman.

The family opposed the marriage, and Fransk determined to get possession of her. He armed himself with a rifle and started for her home.

On the road he met Manuel Solis, manager of the hacienda, accompanied by one of the girl's brothers.

The boy and the two men had words, and Fransk shot and killed them both. Another brother of the girl arrived on the scene and was also shot and killed.

Before the boy got away from the scene of the crime, Manuel Herrera came up and attempted his capture.

Herrera was also killed. The murderer then proceeded to the girl's home and the two eloped.

WASHINGTON IN BRONZE.

Statue of Nation's First Ruler Unveiled At Philadelphia.

George Washington was honored at Philadelphia Friday in monumental bronze. All possible pomp marked the ceremonies.

The cord which released the swaddling flags from the figure of the first ruler of the republic was drawn by its latest ruler.

Surrounding him were men in whose veins runs the blood of those first patriots who battled with Washington and with him made possible the scene enacted under the auspices of the Society of Cincinnati.

President McKinley's address was the feature of the ceremonies.

The oration was then delivered by Mr. Porter, a great-grand-son of General Andrew Porter, who was on Washington's staff in the revolution. He began with a recital of the formation of the Society of the Cincinnati by officers of the American army, together with origin of the plan which culminated in the day's event.

STEAM LAUNCH CAPSIZED.

Three Drowned and Thirteen Others Are Rescued.

A steam launch, in which were sixteen persons seeking a view of the dedication ceremonies at Philadelphia became unmanageable and was swept over the dam at Fairmount at Schuylkill river. The boat capsized and all the occupants were thrown into the river. A woman named Ewen and two young sisters named Matthias were drowned. The others were rescued.

IN BEHALF OF CUBAN CAUSE.

A Monster Massmeeting Held at the National Capital.

An enthusiastic audience of men and women, many of them well known in Washington, packed the Columbia theater, in that city, to its doors Sunday afternoon at a monster mass meeting held in behalf of the cause of the Cuban insurgents.

Seated on the platform and participating in the exercises were Senators Gallinger and Allen, ex-Senator Butler, of South Carolina; Rev. Hugh Johnson, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist church; Rev. Howard Wilbur Ennis and a number of others identified with the interests of the insurgents.

ASKS FOR AID

For the Suffering Americans in Cuba.

MR. BAILEY BLOCKS THE WAY.

An Appropriation of Fifty Thousand Dollars is Urged and the Senate Immediately Acts Favorably Upon It.—The Cuban Question Was Sidetracked.

Washington, May 17.—The President sent in a message to Congress today urging an appropriation for the relief of the destitute Americans in Cuba.

A special meeting of the Cabinet was summoned this morning to consider the matter, and the outline of the message was discussed. Work on the preparation of the message was begun.

Senator Davis of the Foreign Relations Committee called at the White House while the message was in progress, and was admitted to the Cabinet room at once. The members of the Cabinet present were Sherman, Long, Alger, Gage and McKenna. The President sent out word to politicians and others waiting to talk with him that he could see no one.

When the Cabinet meeting was over one of the members announced that the President would send a message to Congress today.

The Message.

Washington, May 17.—The President today sent the following message to Congress:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

"Official information from our Consuls in Cuba establishes the fact that a large number of American citizens in the Island are in a state of destitution, suffering for want of food and medicines. This applies particularly to the rural districts of the central and eastern parts.

"The agricultural classes have been forced from their farms into the nearest towns, where they are without work or money. The local authorities of the several towns, however kindly disposed, are unable to relieve the needs of their own people and are altogether powerless to help our citizens.

"The latest report of Consul General Lee estimates that from six to eight hundred Americans are without money. I have assured him that provision would be made at once to relieve them.

"To that end I recommend that Congress make an appropriation of not less than $50,000 to be immediately available for use under the direction of the Secretary of State.

"It is desirable that part of this sum, which may be appropriated by Congress, should, in the direction of the Secretary of State, also be used for the transportation of American citizens who, desiring to return to the United States, are without means to do so. (Signed)

"WILLIAM McKINLEY.

"Executive Mansion, May 17, 1897."

Passed the Senate.

Washington, May 17.—The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations decided today to report a resolution carrying into effect the President's message in regard to Cuba.

It was immediately considered in the Senate. The resolution appropriating $50,000 for the relief of destitute Americans in Cuba passed without a division.

Bailey Blocked It.

Washington, May 17.—In the House Mr. Hitt of Illinois asked for immediate consideration of a bill to appropriate $50,000 for the relief of the destitute Americans in Cuba, but Mr. Bailey of Texas said that he must object unless an amendment embodying Senator Morgan's resolution for the recognition of the insurgents be added.

Mr. Dingley objected to the amendment, whereupon Mr. Bailey objected to the bill and the Cuban question was sidetracked.

LEXINGTON'S COURT HOUSE BURNED.

A Number of Valuable Portraits Were Destroyed by the Flames.

Fire broke out in the attic of the courthouse in Lexington, Ky., Friday, last, at 9:45 a. m., and in a few minutes the upper story and dome were in flames. Hart's study, "Woman Triumphant," bought by the Lexington women for $5,000, is in the rotunda. The records were saved.

When the fire was gotten under control it was found that the first floor and basement were partially saved from destruction by fire, but were deluged by water. In addition to the many valuable paintings in the court rooms were lost. These were portraits of Henry Clay, Richard Menfee, William T. Barry, Judge Robertson, Thomas F. Marshall and other famous Kentuckians, painted by Healy, Sully and other noted artists. The loss on the building is $60,000; insurance $40,000.

LATE STATE NEWS.

The State Cotton Mill at Speigner is turning out 4000 yards of cloth per day.

The Madison county exhibit is being put in shape at the Nashville Centennial.

Crop prospects around Oxford have improved during the last week.

Selma has received $25,000 in subscriptions for the projected railroad from that city to Atlanta.

The Governor has appointed A. S. Clarke notary public and ex-officio justice of the peace for beat 10, Dale county.

A mule belonging to Clem Stallworth near Camden, fell thirty feet to the bottom of a well and was taken out unhurt.

J. H. Benham, one of the night policemen at Florence, shot and killed Dan Rand, a negro, while trying to arrest him.

Drs. A. B. Shelby, A. M. Duffield and B. E. Scruggs were appointed to constitute the medical board of pension examiners for Madison county.

The Commissioners of Bibb county compromised the back tax business with the receiver of the Alabama Iron and Steel Company for $1,410.

Lina Reed, convicted of grand larceny in Marion Circuit Court in 1896, and sentenced to twenty-five months in the penitentiary, has been pardoned.

Bettie Harris, colored, accused of killing John Woods of Burnsville, has been allowed bail of $1000. The body of Woods will be exhumed for further evidence in the case.

The contract for building the new court house at Luverne has been let to Messrs. Arnold Hugger & Co. of Brewton, Ala., their bid being $14,880.

Work will be commenced today. The building will be fire proof. The court house is to be completed within six months. When finished Crenshaw county will have one of the most complete and convenient court houses in the State.

George Bradford, the young negro arrested in Bibb county recently, charged with criminal assault, and who narrowly escaped lynching, has been released, his innocence having been established. It was shown that his confession was made with a rope around his neck and under fear of death. The boy's father was lynched last month for a similar offense. However, his guilt was proven beyond doubt.

The body of John Woods, who was murdered near Selma two weeks ago, was exhumed Saturday and the pistol ball extracted. It was found that the ball entered the forehead and ranged backward and upward. The attorneys for Bettie Harris, now under bond for the murder, had the investigation made and propose to show that the ball came from Haword Zimmerman's pistol and that it could not have been fired by the woman in the position they testified she occupied with relation to Woods when the fatal shot was fired. Zimmerman is prominently connected and great interest centers in the case.

Thomas Kennedy of Huntsville possesses two very old bank notes that were once the property of William Kennedy, an officer in the continental army during the revolutionary war. They are well preserved. The oldest was issued in 1775. It reads as follows:

Six Dollars. No. 6,075.

This bill of six dollars entitles the bearer hereof to receive Gold or Silver at the rate of Four Shillings and Six Pence Sterling per Dollar for the said Bill according to a Resolve of the Provincial Convention of Maryland, held at the city of Annapolis, the seventh day of December, MDCCCLXXV.

Signed, J. G. Willett, J. Hunt.

The other bill was issued by the North Carolina State bank, the value of which was $25.

SPEEDY IS THE "NASHVILLE."

New Gunboat Proves Highly Satisfactory On Trial.

The fastest vessel of her class in the world was the verdict accorded by the officers of the trial board at the conclusion of the speed trial of the new gunboat Nashville, on Long island sound.

The speed required by the government was 13.07 knots. The average speed made by the vessel was 16.706 knots, making an excess of speed very near three knots. With a bonus of $20,000 for each excessive knot this means a total of $60,000 for the builders.

The 219th anniversary of the landing of the first permanent English colony in America was celebrated at historic Jamestown, Va., under the auspices of William and Mary college.

There was an excursion there from Richmond on the steamer Pocahontas under the auspices of the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, of that city.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Two Hundred and Fifty Failures for the Past Week.

Bradstreet's review for the past week says: The unexpected falling off in the request for staple goods within a month results in a period of comparative calm at a time when a general revival in demand has been looked for. Wholesalers report that the volume of business consists of filling in orders, even Chicago not claiming more than to have held its own in volume of goods distributed. Interior merchants continue to buy for nearby wants only, and in many directions farmers are too busy with field work to supply their wants at the country stores.

The continued subsistence in the lower Mississippi Valley have encouraged wholesale merchants in that region, grocers report a large distribution of canned goods west and southwest and the extreme depression in pig iron prices is followed by large western purchases. Wholesale dealers announce an increase in the demand for groceries and hardware at Duluth, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City, and Memphis. Exports of wheat (four included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal this week amount to 2,483,875 bushels, as compared with 1,799,000 bushels last week, 1,903,000 in the week a year ago, 2,397,000 bushels in the week two years ago, 2,240,000 bushels three years ago and as contrasted with 3,885,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

Exports of Indian corn amount to 3,096,834 bushels, compared with 3,127,000 bushels in the week two years ago, 1,111,000 bushels three years ago, and as contrasted with 1,247,000 bushels in the corresponding week of 1893.

There were 250 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 228 last week, 265 in the corresponding week one year ago, and 210 two years ago, 180 three years ago and as compared with 255 in the like period of 1893.

There are 31 failures reported from the Canadian Dominion this week, against 39 last week, 34 in the week a year ago, 28 two years ago and as contrasted with 25 in the like week of 1894.

ROMEYN'S FRIENDS INTERCEDE.

Will Ask the President Not to Visit the Extreme Penalty on Him.

A Washington dispatch says: The friends of Captain Romeyn at this end of the line have begun active efforts in his behalf and they feel confident these efforts will induce the president to lighten the punishment which the courtmartial has put upon the shoulder of the old soldier.

General Greeley and other friends of Captain Romeyn have telegraphed him that the finding of the courtmartial was dismissal from the service.

FIFTY-EIGHT WERE KILLED.

First Report of Disaster Was Greatly Exaggerated.

Official reports of the disaster which befell a military railway train on the Valki Juriev line show that fifty-eight persons were killed, instead of one hundred, as first published.

Twenty-four bodies have been recovered and the remains of other victims are beneath the debris. The train which was carrying a regiment of infantry was derailed in crossing an embankment which had been undermined.

PEABODY SUMMER SCHOOL OF PEDAGOGY.

To Teachers of Alabama:

The Peabody management, per Dr. J. L. M. Curry, Agent, in connection with Dr. J. O. Turner, State Superintendent of Education, Montgomery, Ala., and the State Normal College authorities, at Troy, Ala., will hold the Ninth Annual Session of the Peabody Summer School of Pedagogy at Troy, Ala., beginning June 1st, and holding four weeks.

The State Normal College is then in session, too, and all the advantages of the college classes will be open to the Summer School Teachers, and the College Model School work may be observed and studied by them, too. This will indeed be a great help to teachers attending and taking advantage.

And the work of the P. S. S. of Pedagogy students having a full credit on the college records, all college advantages of every kind are theirs and these advantages inure to their benefit by receiving from the college a certificate of attendance and work, which will be a strong testimonial in receiving better positions.

The instruction provided is of a high order, and pains are taken in every way to make this a most profitable thing for all teachers attending and working diligently.

The expenses will be but about $8 or $9 for the four weeks board, and all other incidentals are moderate. Write for arrangements and be on hand June 1st, 1897.

Steel Freight Cars.

The next great revolution in the use of steel will be the building of complete steel freight cars. The cost of a steel car fifteen years ago, says the Railroad Gazette, would have been several times that of a wooden car, rendering its use impracticable. Today it is possible to build a complete steel car for about the same cost, per ton carrying capacity, as a wooden car, and the advantages from the transportation point of view are very great. The saving in dead weight is a large factor in this direction, as also is the saving in repairs, and incidentally the absence of risk from fire, while the life of the car would be, say, three times as great.

For example, take a saving of 5,000 pounds per car in dead weight as compared with the wooden car of equal capacity in an equipment of 1,000 cars; that means the saving in haulage of 5,000,000 pounds, or 2,500 net tons. It has been computed that it costs in round figures $10 per annum to haul one ton of dead weight on the basis of the average mileage made per car per annum. This would mean a saving of $25,000,000 per annum on 1,000 cars alone (saying nothing about the saving in repairs), a sum equal to the interest on their cost. Applying this to the 1,250,000 cars which constitute the freight equipment of the United States, the saving would amount to the enormous sum of $31,250,000. Of course, these cars cannot be so altered as to effect this saving. It should, however, serve as an object lesson, and cause every railroad man, charged with the responsibilities regarding the possible economics in this direction, to look well and carefully into everything which will tend to lessen the dead weight and produce a permanent structure, such as may be found in a completed steel freight car.

For the Mississippi Levees.

First, heavy barges are swung out from the banks and securely fastened and anchored, to provide safe moorings for the broad, weighted willow and cable mats, which are designed to regulate and deflect a current of water running from two to four miles an hour. To hold these boats and the mattress as it is woven and sunk into the water from the barges a network of thick wire cables is needed, often extending some thousand feet from the barges to the shore. The mattresses are woven on specially designed weaving barges, from willows and underbrush fastened together by means of poles and wires, much after the manner of giant baskets. After the weaving, the mattresses are stiffened by crib work of willow poles, the top cribbing serving as a support for the heavy layer of stones by means of which the mattresses are sunk into their proper place on the river bed, sometimes 80 feet below the surface. Many of these mats are 300 feet in width and measure more than 1,200 feet in length, covering areas of from 4 to 8 acres. Additional strength is given by a number of wire cables, and by cross cables holding the so-called mats to the shore. After the mattresses have been sunk, the river banks, which had to be graded down to facilitate the work, have to be riveted with layers of stone rip nearly a foot deep to prevent them from washing away with the next flood. Naturally the construction of each of these mats costs thousands of dollars, for the work can only be done during the low-water season.

Sometimes the next flood destroys it all. Sometimes, though left unharmed by the flood, which passes over it, it rots away in its stagnant water; sometimes it actually deflects the swift currents of the water. In that case it lasts some four years, when the strain proves too much, and immediate repairs have to be undertaken to save what has already been accomplished from sure destruction.

The Teeth.

Upon the condition of the teeth depends largely the bodily health. The care of the child's first teeth is very important. The future of the second set depends upon the care of the first. Nature uses the first set as a base to supply nutriment to the second. No child under eight should lose a tooth. Decayed teeth in the mouth of a child produce digestive troubles, and produce an acid which destroys the second teeth.

Liquid food should not be given a child after the teeth are large enough for use. Too often soaked biscuits, crackers and the like are used instead of food which requires chewing. In order to preserve the teeth we must use them. The use of more coarse breads would be beneficial. Beware of charcoal and pumice stone. The following formula, used by most dentists, is harmless: One ounce orris root, three ounces precipitate of chalk, one teaspoonful powdered castile soap and one tablespoonful bicarbonate of soda.

A pleasant mouth wash is one-half teaspoonful listerine in one-half a glass of water.

A little bicarbonate of soda placed upon a tender tooth will often bring comfort, or for persistently tender teeth a mouth wash of milk of magnesia and water in equal quantities.—New Orleans Picayune.

FLOWERS WANTED

TO DECORATE SOUTHERN SOLDIER'S GRAVES AT COLUMBUS, OHIO.

To the Ladies of Alabama.

The following facts have been officially mentioned to me by Gen'l. George Moorman, Adjutant-General of the United Confederate Veterans:

1. There are 431 Alabama soldiers buried at Camp Chase, near Columbus, O., who died while in prison.

2. Rutherford B. Hayes, afterwards President of the United States, while Governor of Ohio, caused the graves of these and all other Southern soldiers buried there, to be properly cared for at the expense of that State. In this noble work Gov. Foraker followed his example.

3. Colonel Wm. H. Knauss, a gallant Union soldier, has had immediate control of this generous work. He has had a handsome stone wall erected around the cemetery, the graves marked as far as possible, and beautified by flowers and shrubbery.

4. Colonel Knauss and his associates have set apart the 5th day of June next to be observed as memorial day for these Southern soldiers and for the decoration of their graves, and has suggested that the ladies of the South send flowers to him for that purpose.

These facts tell a patriotic story which I will not elaborate. But I do appeal to the daughters of Alabama to aid Colonel Knauss in his noble and patriotic work by sending flowers and garlands to be laid on the graves of Alabama's sons.

This can be done by writing to Colonel William H. Knauss, Columbus, O., who will without delay give instruction how, when and where to ship them.

I respectfully suggest, however, that flowers shipped per express from almost any railroad station in the state on the 3rd day of June, will reach Columbus, O., in time to be used on the 5th of June.

Not doubting that this appeal will meet a cordial response from the ladies of the State, I leave the matter in their hands.

TEN MILES OF THE NEW RAILROAD COMPLETED.

Tuskaloosa Times.

The following telegram from Division Engineer W. A. Hankins to Chief Engineer H. P. Farrar received Saturday is only an earnest of the rapidity with which the construction of the Extension of the Mobile and Ohio R. R. is being pushed:

Columbus, May 15, 1897.
Capt. H. P. Farrar, Chief Engineer, Tuskaloosa, Ala.

Train crossed Luxapallila today near track at station 95.

W. A. Hankins, Engineer.
Mr. R. C. McCalla, Jr., the engineer in charge of the government works here, received a letter from Major W. T. Russell, of the corps of engineers U. S. A., yesterday morning stating that he would be in Tuskaloosa Tuesday morning to investigate the matter of the bridge in Tuskaloosa.

Major Russell requests that all those who feel an interest in the matter furnish him with written opinions and expressions Tuesday. He will be in Mr. McCalla's office during the day where he will be glad to have any of our citizens interested in navigation at this point call in person and talk the matter of bridge location over with him.

As stated in the Times Friday, the boards of mayor and aldermen of both Northport and Tuskaloosa have passed resolutions asking the U. S. Engineers to allow the bridge to be built at the original survey—at the present wharf just below the county bridge. We can't see that the bridge here would very materially affect the wharf, and we hope with all Tuskaloosa that Maj. Russell will view the matter in the same light. It will be a great calamity to the city if the bridge is forced down the river half mile or more.

News from the various camps out on the line is to the effect that the grading is being pushed in great rush. Most all of the contractors except those who have the first five miles on either side of the river are at work with large forces and the earth is being tumbled about in great shape. Stebbins Bros. & Bush, we understand, have more than a mile of their grade complete about six miles out. Quigley & Co. and Ryan both have their outfits going in the Sipsey neighborhood. It is said that they have exceptionally fine teams. Quigley & Co. received two car loads of young mules Wednesday that were the finest ever seen in this city. The average was unusually large.

The excursion train from Meridian to Birmingham yesterday brought up a lot of laborers for Callahan & Co. to work up near Coaling as tie hewers. They will work in the neighborhood of three hundred men. Mr. Harlan Miller, a member of the firm, is personally supervising the work.

The offices here in the city present a busy appearance all the time. The first regular pay-day, it is said will be on the 20th of June. The cash will jingle around the city then, and almost everybody will get a share in it. A merchant remarked to us yesterday that he was selling the contractors more than $1000.00 per week. We suppose there are others who are doing equal as well, besides those who are getting it in small doses. This increase in trade is making everybody feel better, whether he is getting any of it or not.

ANOTHER SCHOOL TO BE ESTABLISHED.

Brierfield, Ala., May 12, 1897.

SHELBY SENTINEL:

At a meeting called here today for the purpose of starting a Male and Female Academy, quite a number of representative citizens from the town and vicinity convened. Men were here from three counties, Chilton, Shelby, and Bibb. The meeting was composed of the very best of our citizens, and was quite enthusiastic. If the performance comes up to the promise the school will soon be an accomplished fact.

W. W. McCollum was elected chairman and S. R. Sheppard secretary. The chairman explained the object of the meeting in a few appropriate remarks. Capt. A. J. Day then addressed the meeting, pledging his support to the best of his ability. He was followed by B. J. Large, who moved and it was carried, that a committee composed of A. J. Day, Dr. Oscar Whitfield and Pedy Fancher, be appointed to see what inducements will be offered to locate the school here—employing and paying teachers—what amount of money can be raised—how many scholars subscribed—procuring suitable school buildings, and in fact to do all the work of an executive committee. On motion, B. J. Large and R. C. Barker were added to the committee.

Short addresses were made by nearly all the gentlemen present pledging themselves to start the school and to keep it going.

A subscription started by the young men of Brierfield to get up a grand picnic here on the 3rd of June in the interest of the school was referred to the executive committee for action.

Moved and carried that the proceedings of the meeting be sent to the Advertiser, Shelby Sentinel, Weekly Observer and Bibb County Press with request to publish.

The meeting then adjourned to meet again at the call of the Executive Committee.

S. R. SHEPPARD,
Secretary.

MONTEVALLO.

The preliminary investigation of the case of the State vs Pink Montgomery, charged with the murder of John Gentry, at Gurnee in this county, on the 6th of March last, was held before Justices West, Ozley and Graham at Montevallo on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week and resulted in the discharge of the defendant from custody. The State was ably represented by W. S. Cary of Montevallo and the defendant by Messrs Logan and Pratt of Blocton.

town. The streets have been graded and put in good condition during the past few weeks and new buildings are springing up on all sides. The splendid new dormitory of the Polytechnic Institute is approaching completion. Also the handsome new residences of Mr. Wm. Lyman, Mr. Pat McConaughy and Mr. C. C. Vandegrift. Mr. C. L. Meroney's new brick store will soon be completed. A large and handsome hotel will be erected in the near future and other buildings are contemplated.

Next week is commencement at the Polytechnic and preparations are in progress for this interesting occasion. Examinations have engaged the attention of the young ladies and the teachers during the past week or two.

Judge N. B. Feagan and wife of Birmingham were visitors to the school Tuesday.

Life insurance agents and commercial pilgrims are frequent visitors to the city these days.

Quite a number of citizens of Blocton and Gurnee were in the city Tuesday and Wednesday, called here as witnesses in the case of the State vs Pink Montgomery.

Mrs. J. M. Reynolds is still seriously ill.

The many friends of P. O. West will be gratified to learn that he is improving.

Montgomery and Tuskaloosa are fighting for the location of the M. T. & M. machine shops. They are simply throwing away their time, however, for when the officials come here and see the manifold advantages offered by this place, further debate on the subject will cease.

Mr. Seymour, engineer for the M. T. & M., arrived in town this week with his corps of assistants. He will have charge of the work on the new road from Centerville to a point 8 miles west and will make this town headquarters for himself and party.

The engineers of the M. T. & M. railroad arrived in town Monday and made glad the hearts of the local grade contractors by furnishing them with grade stakes so that to day the work on the road bed will commence in earnest all along the line—Centerville Press.

HIS REPUTATION IS WIDE SPREAD.

Prof. W. H. Verner, principal of the Verner Military Institute at Tuskaloosa, has a wide-spread reputation as a teacher, and his is not local as some suppose.

1. He has boys in his school at the present time from six different states.

2. His former pupils are in almost every county of the state and in all of the important towns.

3. He has former pupils and patrons in all of the Southern states and several Northern and Western states.

These form a constituency that any man might well feel proud of. He would have these to draw on as feeders for the depleted ranks of that institution. Besides this he has a strong and almost unanimous endorsement of the people of Tuskaloosa. When the home folks endorse a man you may put it down that he is all right, for they know him better than anybody else.—Selma Times.

The fact that Alabama is going ahead in railroad building, in the midst of the almost entire suspension of work in such enterprises elsewhere, is receiving favorable comment abroad and is attracting attention to the push, energy and public spirit of our people. The boundless resources of the State are going to be developed, and in the darkest times capital is the keenest for paying and safe investment. It is sure that roads through the rich and fertile sections that it is proposed to run them will be profitable from the beginning.—Advertiser.

The office seekers at Washington do not observe Sunday, and it is said the lives of Senators and Congressmen are made miserable on that day. During the day the cards that are sent up to the statesmen are of such a number that it is a physical impossibility to see all the callers. The President's announcement that no appointments will be made for a while now, may bring about an armistice, and some rest for the weary politicians for a short season.—Advertiser.

THE CHAUTAUQUA.

The fourth annual session of the Alabama Chautauqua Assembly will be held in Talladega, June 21, to July 18. The Alabama Chautauqua was a brilliant success the first year. The interest and attendance have increased each year since the first. The present program is the richest and most varied that has ever been presented. It contains the names of the finest lecturers, musicians, and entertainers in America. The printed program, giving full information as to cost of board, railroad fare, etc., will be sent upon application to Rev. S. P. West, Manager, Talladega, Ala.

People Believe what they read about Hood's Sarsaparilla. They know it is an honest medicine, and that it cures. Get Hood's and only Hood's. Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, relieve constipation assist digestion. 25c.

TO THE CIRCUS.

Barnum & Bailey Excursions to be Run on All Railroads.

The great Barnum & Bailey circus is to exhibit in Birmingham May 22nd, and for the notable occasion all railroads will make a special low round trip ticket, so all those who desire to witness the "Greatest Show on Earth," can do so at a small expense. The Barnum & Bailey circus this year, while always the best and biggest in the past, is now conceded to be the most incomparable exhibition in the entire world. Nothing has ever, or will ever approach it, for the genuine merit of its circus performance, the size and completeness of its menagerie, and the wonderful display of its gorgeous equipment. The shows require sixty big railroad cars for its transportation, employs 700 people and possesses over 400 horses and half a hundred cages of rare animals. Its daily expenses are over $5,000, and it annually instructs and entertains several million of patrons. It is the big show of the universe and one of the largest enterprises in the entire world. It will be a great day for this vicinity, and doubtless a large crowd will avail themselves of the low rate and attend the performance from this place.

Prevention is better than cure. Keep your blood pure, your appetite good and your digestion perfect with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and you will not need to fear any form of sickness. Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Harmless, reliable, sure.

A VISION OF BEAUTY.

Dedicated to the young ladies of the Polytechnic Institute, Montevallo, Ala.

BY L'ETRANGER.

There's a Rosebud Garden of Beauty,
With the sunlight straying through,
And I am half-wild with the magic
Of colorings, bright and true.
There's a deep-hearted Red and a Pink.
A cluster of half-opened Tea,
The purest of white buds, I think,
Ere I chance my fancy to seize,
There's a rose-vine over the window,
Heaped in blossoms of snow,
And this vision of beauty greets—from
The church steps of Monte-vallo.

They speak! these impassioned roses.
To a life barren of perfume,
They hint of a fruitless ambition,
Purposeless purpose; and doom.
The red-hearted rose of deep passion
Yields a love un-repressed.
And flaunts in unhalloved fashion
Empty favors, years will attest.
Yet 'mid this effulgence of beauty,
Comes, as I pass to and fro,
The thrill of a new life and duty,
'Mong the roses of Monte-vallo.

Such buds of rare, sweet promise I find Bloom in their exquisite grace,
With a fragrance and richness combined
A God-given purpose and place.
The sweet-scented Tea, so confiding
Is so laden on some hero's breast
Whose faithful, true love all-abiding,
Even now stands half-confessed,
And the fairest white buds unfold
Her wings of peace as I trow,
Across the wild waste of my soul
In dedication at Monte-vallo.

But the hour of their parting is come,
The roses scatter and fall
They list to a whispered "Come home,"
And heed the beckoning call,
But a fragrance and grace, if you will,
'Bout my heart lingers always,
As I turn with an exquisite thrill
To this vision of yesterday.
And should there steal o'er me a regret,
Memory will evermore bellow,
That which my soul will never forget,
The Rosebuds of fair Monte-vallo.

According to the newspapers, an Ohio husband became the happy father of seven children not long ago. Of the seven, all lived but one. THE POTATO BUG.

The potato bug is playing havoc with the potato crop. So destructive has been their work this season that the question of getting rid of them in some way has become serious. The Atlanta Journal has been giving some attention to the pests and offers the following remedy, that is worth the trial.

A few days ago we called attention to the ravages of the potato bug, which is making raids upon the Irish potato crop and which has almost destroyed that crop in the south for two years past.

Several communications have appeared in our columns recommending remedies. Almost everything proposed is poisonous and consequently dangerous to handle. In nearly every instance Paris green, a deadly poison, is proposed.

We publish today a communication giving as a safe and sure remedy Gray Mineral Ash, which is not poisonous, but is as destructive as Paris green. This remedy is worth a trial and should command the attention of all farmers and gardeners.

It is for sale at drug stores.

W. B. Johnson, Newark, O., says, "One Minute Cough Cure saved my only child from dying by croup." It has saved thousands of others suffering from croup, pneumonia, bronchitis and other serious throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

Mr. Job Reynolds of the Dry Valley neighborhood in Chilton county, brought to this office a few days ago some fine specimens of Potters' clay found on his place.

Mr. C. C. Dubose of Columbiana was a visitor to the city this week.

Rev. Mr. Russell, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, filled his regular appointment last Sabbath, preaching instructive sermons. At his next appointment, the 3rd. Sabbath in June, a dedicatory service will be held as the church will be dedicated at that time.

Mrs. J. T. McMillan returned home Saturday from near Harpersville, where she was called by the serious illness of her sister. Her many friends will be glad to know that her sister is improving.

Mr. William Cook of Alpine passed through the city last Thursday en route to Decatur.

Ry. here, says: 'I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for ten years or longer—and never without it in my family. I consider it the best remedy of the kind manufactured. The Best Remedy for Rheumatism.

From the Fairhaven (N. Y.) Register: Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. Blood Brains Money

A sick man can't make money. That's because his brain won't work. A healthy man's brain works as he goes properly fed. Money will be a brain. If the brain is not kept in good condition with pure, rich blood, it won't produce much.

Money is what they call "Nervous Prostration." Nine times in ten the nervous troubles are purely secondary. The real sickness is in the digestion and in their blood. If a man keeps his digestion in good order, and keeps his body full of pure, rich blood, he is never going to be very sick.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla is made for people who want to get well and stay well. Sarsaparilla is a simple, "grandmother" remedy, but it cures. It purifies and enriches the blood and sends it tingling to every part of the body. That is the way it cures all ailments of the brain and nerves—cures locomotoria—cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and every other blood disease. It clears the complexion, plumps out the cheeks, and brings back the sparkle to lifeless eyes.

One Dollar is the price, and One thousand Dollars is the health-giving value of every Quart Bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla.

PLEASURE and PROFIT

—OUT OF—

WHOA AND WORRY

Try it. We Guarantee,

If any Break should occur in the Castings the Part or Parts Will Be Replaced Without Charge.

This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention; a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he has long needed, and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender.

How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work.

You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow and a ridge plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant.

By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity.

All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectively avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant on an undercurrent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up.

The rolling disc passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market.

The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow.

The tilting motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, in the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it.

It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools.

WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc. 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use. 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle. 4th. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it.

All these advantages we give you for the sum of one dollar and seventy-five cents and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

TESTIMONIALS.

Mr. J. H. Frost—Dear Sir: I used your Plow Fender the past season, and find it to be the best invention I ever saw, and would not be without it for twice its cost. Yours truly, A. J. WOOLLEY.

THE PILGRIMS.

"Whither, pilgrims, whither bound Passing slowly with no sound?"
One by one they journey by,
Gliding, gliding silently;
Slowly, slowly, dim and gray,
Hold they on their ghostly way.

"Hither, children, making May
Of the solemn autumn day,
Who were they but now went by
While the dead weeds gave a sigh?
Who the pilgrims, dim and gray,
Stopped and looked upon your play?"

"We have wandered many hours
Here where some one hides the flowers;
We heard laughter in the grass,
But we saw no pilgrim pass."
Whispers one,—pale-cheeked is she,— "Shapes went by; they beckoned me."

MISS LATIMER'S ASSASSIN.

There was a man hanged under mob law in Southern Ohio several years ago. It was the first incident of the kind that had ever occurred in that part of the State, and the people thereabouts were naturally greatly excited over it. The man's crime had been a heinous one. He had shot down in cold blood, and without the slightest provocation, two women and wounded a third. The rest of the women and children were wrought up to a high degree of frenzy, and even after the desperado was hanged the sight of a strange man was enough to send them into spasms of terror.

Perhaps the person who suffered most acutely at the time was Miss Ellen Latimer. Miss Ellen was well-to-do. In her younger days she had spent two seasons in "society," in the nearest city, and in the top drawer of her bureau was a satin-lined rosewood box filled with costly jewels and other mementoes of that happy period. Then there was her silver; her knives and forks were the best in the country and her spoons couldn't be matched anywhere. In addition to that she always kept a little ready money on hand. All things considered, a villain who had plunder for his object could not find a more profitable victim than Miss Latimer.

Besides, Miss Ellen's mode of living was a regular standing invitation to ill-disposed persons to come and do their worst. Her sole companion was Harvey Hempstead, a half-witted boy of 12, whom Miss Latimer, in the goodness of her heart, had taken from the poorhouse when he was a little fellow and brought up as a sort of social experiment. Miss Ellen and Harvey lived in the red brick house that had sheltered the last three generations of the Latimers. It was a very lonesome place, being situated on the edge of a large field at the end of a lane that extended fully a quarter of a mile back from the main highway. Miss Latimer had often been urged to take some one into the great house for her protection, but even after the shock attendant upon the shooting and subsequent hanging she stolidly refused to do so on the ground that she couldn't afford to be bothered.

"I don't deny that I'm afraid," said Miss Ellen one day to her married brother, who had earnestly implored her to do something to insure herself against danger from possible robbers, "but I really think that Harvey and I are better off as we are. You can't trust anybody nowadays. I wouldn't dare to have even a hired girl around, and if I undertook to allow one of the farm hands to sleep on the place I'm sure we would be murdered before morning. There's Pat Henning, for instance. He's been doing chores around the house and barn for more than two years, yet I'm as afraid as death of him. The only really easy moment I have is when I see him lock the stable door at night and strike out across the field toward his own home. Harvey is 12 years old and strong, and nobody would touch a hair of our heads without our giving him a lively tussle. No, thank you, brother, I don't want anybody here but Harvey."

As the months passed and nothing further transpired to break the monotony of existence in that neighborhood Miss Latimer's fears gradually subsided, and she remarked that "she guessed it would be a cold day when another woman killer set his foot on that soil." But that hopeful view of the case was not shared by Harvey. Harvey Hempstead was a boy who said little, but who, when his weak mind was once set on any particular subject, never ceased thinking of it. He had never expressed himself very freely on the question of the hanging, but for all that not a day passed that he did not expect to receive some caller on evil bent before the night came, and he made preparations accordingly. That was the first thing he thought of when one Wednesday morning in May, Miss Latimer announced her intention of going to the neighborhood village to spend the day.

"S'posin' he comes to-day—to-day—to-day, while I'm alone—alone—alone," lamented Harvey, in his drawing, disjunct way.

"Who?" demanded Miss Ellen, sharply.

"Somebody like him that was hanged—hanged—hanged," faltered Harvey. "Nonsense," returned Miss Latimer. "That's a thing of the past. You mustn't think of such stuff. If you get lonesome you can get one of Pat Henning's boys to come over and stay with you."

Patty Henning had brought the horse and buggy around to the door and Miss Latimer climbed into the vehicle and drove away, leaving Harvey looking after her through a swirl of apple blossoms. The brown horse jogged leisurely down the lane and out into the highway. The air was redolent with the perfume of billows of apple blossoms in the orchards that lined the road and the scent of newly upturned earth. Miss Latimer had passed up and down that same thoroughfare a good many times in the last twenty years, and often under similar conditions, but somehow the flowers had never seemed so fragrant, the air so balmy, nor the sky so blue. She could remember but one other morning when all the elements of nature had conspired to produce so fair a scene and that was many years before when she had ridden over the same road—but not alone.

It all came back to her that bright May day with startling vividness. She could see him as plainly as if he were then at her side. She met him the first season she was in "society." She was young and pretty then, and he made no effort to conceal his admiration for her. Throughout those happy months she spent in the city he was her devoted admirer and when she came home in response to a call from her sick mother, he soon followed. He stayed a week, and it was arranged that he should come again in autumn for their marriage. She drove him over the smooth yellow road to the railroad station one radiant morning in May.

That was the last time she saw him. She never even heard from him directly, but three months later the news came through a natural friend that he had married a girl in a Canadian town whither he had gone on business. Many times throughout the ensuing months Miss Ellen assured herself that her love for the man was dead, but as she drove slowly toward the village that spring day twenty years after their last meeting the flood of recollection that surged over her heart brought home the truth that affection such as she had given cannot die and that in her loveliness and loneliness she had lost the very essence of life.

In the meantime Harvey, being installed housekeeper at Latimer place for the day, set about his duties. He busied himself in the kitchen and cellar for an hour or more, then went into the woodyard and began to bring order out of the chaos of stovewood, which Pat Henning had split the day before. That done he went around to the porch, and, sitting down in the shade, rocked his long, lanky body slowly to and fro until the shifting shadows warned him of the approach of noontime. Then he started into the house to prepare luncheon. Just as he stepped over the threshold he heard the clicking of the latch of the front gate, and, turning quickly round, he saw a man coming down the path. The man was a stranger, with a black beard, black clothes and a black straw hat.

"Good morning," he said politely. Harvey's tongue was benumbed and he could not answer.

"Is Miss Latimer in?" asked the stranger.

Harvey's voice was returning by degrees and he said, "No," very faintly. "Will she be here soon?"

"No, not till night—night—night," quavered Harvey.

To the boy's dismay the man sat down on the edge of the porch and began to fan himself with his slouch hat. "That's too bad," he said in a tone of genuine regret, "but I'll wait till she comes if I have to stay a week. I must see her. My boy, I'm hungry. Do you think you could get me something to eat?"

Like a flash Harvey's ordinarily dull mind conceived the situation over which he had secretly pondered for many months and with equal agility the few rays of his concentrated intelligence planned a way out of the difficulty.

"I guess I can," said Harvey, forgetting in his enthusiasm to repeat the final word of his sentence.

In less than an hour after the black-whiskered man had eaten his luncheon he had fallen asleep on the sofa in the sitting room. As soon as his deep, regular breathing announced that he had fallen into a stupor from which he could not be easily aroused Harvey quickly pushed the narrow couch into the long dark closet that ran far back under the stairway; then locking the closet door, he took up his station beside it and impatiently awaited the arrival of Miss Latimer. It was 5 o'clock when that lady came home. Harvey heard the wheels when she turned into the gate and went out to meet her.

"Miss Ellen," he said in an awed whisper, "he ca-ame."

"What are you talking about?" queried Miss Ellen.

"That man came to steal your silver. He wanted you, too—too—too. He said he'd have you if he had to stay a week—week—week," and his voice arose in a shrill treble indicative of the excitement under which he was laboring.

Miss Latimer let the reins slip from her nerveless fingers and regarded the boy through a film, which sudden fear had quickly brought before her eyes.

"My goodness, Harvey," said, "And not an officer in the neighborhood. Which way did he go? He'll come back to-night and kill us, sure."

Harvey shook his hand. "He didn't go," he said with unusually rapidity. "He's in the clo-o-o-set. I put him to sleep with a dose of laudanum—"

Miss Latimer did not wait to hear the termination of the series of "laudaniums" but drove around to the barn and unhitched and stabled the horse.

"Now, Harvey," she said, "hurry right over to Pat Henning's house and tell him to fetch the Sheriff as quickly as possible. 'I'll stay here and watch the closet door till you get back.'"

Harvey needed no second bidding. Pat Henning had just started over to the Latimer place when he neared the little cottage.

"There's a man up there come to shoot Miss Ellen," he shouted, as soon as he turned the corner of the house. "Go for the Sheriff—Sheriff—"

Neither did Pat Henning wait to hear the end of the command. He caught the gist of Harvey's communication, and in an incredibly short time he had saddled his own sorrel mare and was off for the county seat, only stopping on the way to tell friends, or, perchance, strangers, whom he happened to meet that there was another desperado in the community and that he had assaulted Miss Ellen Latimer. Pat Henning was barely on the way when Harvey started across the fields at a steady lope. He reached the house none too soon, for, the effects of the sleeping potion having worked off, the man who was imprisoned in the closet was emphatically demanding his release, and Miss Latimer was beside herself with fear. She had taken refuge in the back yard, but even there the threats and entreaties shouted out by the prisoner were distinctly audible, and it was plain, not only to her and Harvey, but to the neighbors who soon began to drop in, that her situation was critical. They held a consultation, and it was decided that it was best for no one to venture into the house until after the arrival of the Sheriff.

It was almost 10 o'clock when that worthy accompanied by his deputy, Pat Henning and three other men whom he had picked up on the way rode pell mell up to the front gate, and, hastily dismounting, stalked bravely toward the house. At the Sheriff's urgent request Miss Latimer continued to rusticate in the back yard until the trying ordeal should be over and the would-be assassin carried away in chains. She was surprised by the shouts of the men within, when the prisoner was dragged forth from the closet and the handcuffs clapped on his wrists. Then she watched for them to ride away, but for some reason they still lingered. She could hear the stentorian voice of the Sheriff raised in the noisy altercation with another person, whose voice was too low for her to distinguish either the tones or the words. Presently the officer appeared in the doorway. She could see by the light of the lantern he carried that he was flushed and vexed about something.

"Miss Latimer," he said, advancing toward her, "this man insists upon seeing you a moment. He says there has been a grievous mistake and that if he can only speak a few words to you everything will be all right. You needn't be afraid. His hands are bound. Will you come?"

"Certainly," said Miss Latimer.

She took Harvey's cold hand in hers and the two followed the Sheriff into the house. The prisoner was sitting dejectedly on a low chair near the closet door. His head was bent, and only his profile was visible as she approached him. But there was something in the very air of the man that made her start and clutch Harvey's hand more and more tightly. She stood before him and he looked up. A smile passed over his bearded face. She leaned on Harvey for support then, but quickly mastering her emotion she signified her desire to speak with her assassin alone. Harvey discreetly looked out of the farthest window.

"Ellen," he said, meekly, "I wasn't expecting such a reception at this after the lapse of all these years. I wasn't counting on being locked up as an assassin."

"No," she returned calmly. "Neither was I counting on your running away as you did twenty-one years ago. You are worse than an assassin. You murdered my heart. You—"

She was on the point of breaking out a torrent of reproach and scorn, but in an instant she seemed to be riding over the yellow road again with him by her side and the fragrance of the rich, dark earth rising round them like an incense. The sudden transition of thought brought with it a corresponding change of heart, and the love thrills of the morning pulsed through her veins suffusing her comely face with becoming blushes. She drew a step nearer and laid her hands on his shoulders.

"Why did you come back, John?" she asked, softly.

He attempted to take her hand in his, but those useful members being for the time incapacitated for duty he only looked the eloquence his tongue could not utter alone.

"Why?" he repeated. "Because I love you."

"And was that the reason you left me?"

"Ellen, Ellen, be just—"

"As you have been?" she remarked.

"As you alone know how to be," he went on. "I've been an idiot and a rascal. All men are if you'll give them half a chance. It's their nature. I didn't know my own mind. A man never does. Ellen, I haven't a word to say in my self-defence except that I love you. Neither have I a word to utter against the woman I married. She was a dear, good wife. But I love you and always have. Ellen, you'll have to be good to me. Haven't you tried to keep me by taking me prisoner?" he added facetiously.

"Do you know your own mind now?" She meant her voice to be very severe, but it sounded like strains of sweet music instead.

"Take these handcuffs off," he thundered, "and I'll show you, I'll kill that rascally boy of yours."

"I know it," wailed Harvey, whose ear had caught the final threat. "I knew he was an assassin—assassin—"

"Hush, Harvey," said Miss Latimer.

She stopped down and kissed the man's dark, wrinkled face—and, oh, what a tender kiss it was! Then she went to the door and called the Sheriff.

"I find there has indeed been a mistake," she said. "This gentleman is an old friend who called in my absence. Harvey drugged him and locked him up. I'm sorry to have troubled you. You may free his hands. These bonds are needed no longer."

"It was a mistake—mistake—mistake," echoed Harvey, who stood by her side.

There was much disappointment at the Latimer plate that night over being cheated out of a possible lynching, and even after the prisoner was freed the people still lingered, hoping that something would turn up, after all. Miss Latimer and her lover did not heed them. Long after midnight the two sat by the window, through which the apple blossoms were drifting on the night wind ever and anon and talked over the past and future. Harvey did not take the persistence of the neighbors so affably, however.

"It's all a mist-a-a-ake," he shouted from the kitchen door. "You'd better go home—home—home."

And at length they went. Pittsburg Press.

A Careful Little Financier.

It was a bank near the suburbs of Brooklyn in which a little girl not more than eight years old, made her appearance the other day, asking if she might see its workings. A polite little girl was not to be refused, and she was taken inside and shown the various departments of the institution. But that was not where the money was kept; could she see where the money was kept? Certainly, and she was taken to see the vaults. Still there was no money to be seen, and she was not satisfied. Could she see the money? Certainly, if that was what she wished, and the vault doors were thrown open, and, with a sigh of satisfaction, the little girl saw some of the money in which she was interested. "Do you think burglars could get in here?" she asked, finally. "Certainly not," replied the bank official who had been acting as conductor. "It would be very difficult for burglars to get into the bank, and they could not get into the vaults. But now," he continued, "you have asked me a great many questions, little girl, and I should like to know why you are so much interested in this bank." "Well," said the little girl, confidentially, "my papa put $5 in this bank for me the other day, and I wanted to be sure that no burglar could get in and get it."—New York Times.

A Rudder Indicator.

G. E. Painter, a young electrician of Baltimore, has obtained a patent upon an invention of a helm indicator which will show upon a dial in front of the man at the helm every move the rudder makes, and exactly how it has gone one way or the other out of the desired course. It works by electricity, the transmitter being placed at the rudder, and connected by wires with the dial in the pilot house. That is also arranged so as to be illuminated. The appliances are placed in watertight cases, the works being inside to prevent salt air from rusting the delicate machinery. Mr. Painter has also devised an improved electrical signalling instrument between the pilot house and engine room. Both inventions will be sent to Newport News, and given a thorough trial on board the gunboat Nashville, now being constructed there.

SENATE IS FOR RECOGNITION.

STRUGGLING CUBANS GAIN A VICTORY ON UNITED STATES SOIL.

STORMY SPEECHES PRECEDED VOTE

Mr. Hale Fought Desperately the Consideration of the Morgan Resolution on Recognition of Belligerency.

The joint resolution recognizing the existence of a state of war in Cuba, and declaring that strict neutrality shall be maintained by the United States, passed the senate Thursday afternoon by a vote of 41 to 14. The resolution as passed is as follows:

"Resolved, etc., That a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some time maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba, and that the United States of America shall maintain a strict neutrality between the contending parties, according to each all the rights of belligerents in the ports and territory of the United States."

The vote on the final passage of the resolution was as follows: Yeas—Bacon, Baker, Bate, Berry, Butler, Carter, Chandler, Chilton, Clark, Clay, Cockrell, Culom, Davis, Deboe, Foraker, Gallinger, Gorman, Hansbrough, Harris of Kansas, Heitfeldt, Jones of Arkansas, Jones of Nevada, Lindsay, McBride, Mantle, Mason, Mills, Morgan, Nelson, Pasco, Pettigrew, Pettus, Pritchard, Rawlings, Shroup, Stewart, Thurston, Tillman, Turner, Turpie, Walthall—41.

Nays—Allison, Burrows, Caffery, Fairbanks, Gear, Hale, Hanna, Hawley, Spooner, Wellington, Wetmore, White and Wilson—14.

An analysis of the vote shows that the affirmative was cast by 18 republicans and 19 democrats and 4 populists, and the negative by 12 republicans and 2 democrats.

Prior to the final vote, the motion of Senator Hale to refer the resolution to the committee on foreign relations was tabled—yeas, 34; nays, 19.

Mr. Fairbanks, of Indiana, then proposed a substitute providing that the president extend the good offices of the United States to Spain toward securing an end to the conflict and the ultimate independence of the island.

This, too, was tabled. Yeas 36, nays 16. Then followed the adoption of the original resolution.

The voting occurred after an exciting debate, participated in by Senators Thurston, Nebraska; Elkins, West Virginia; White, California; Fairbanks, Indiana; Hale, Maine; Spooner, Wisconsin, and Gorman, Maryland.

Mr. Thurston, who presided over the republican national convention at St. Louis, recalled the stirring scene when that convention enthusiastically inserted a Cuban plank in the platform, and declared that this resolution was in partial fulfillment of that pledge.

Messrs. Elkins and White urged a conservative course and an inquiry by a committee. Then came the first vote—that on the Hale motion to refer.

It was a test of strength, and the defeat of the motion assured the passage of the resolution.

Mr. Fairbanks tried to stem the tide by offering a compromise proposition, somewhat on the lines of the Cuban plank adopted at St. Louis, but it met the same fate as the other motion.

This brought Mr. Hale forward for a final protest. He spoke with intense earnestness and feeling and with a trace of bitterness in his words. He declared that the elements opposed to the administration, democrats and populists, had furnished the bulk of the vote in favor of the resolution, and that the foreign policy of the administration was thus to be dictated by its opponents.

He expressed the fear also that the resolution would lead to war with Spain. Mr. Spooner added his protest against trying the hands of the administration.

Mr. Morgan closed the debate, resenting the suggestion that party lines were drawn on the resolution and asserting that the administration should have dispatched a war vessel to Cuba to protect our officials on the island.

The final vote was then taken, and the senate adjourned until next Monday.

MORE POSTOFFICES.

New Ones Will Be Established Wherever Needed.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow has inaugurated a new policy as to the establishment of postoffices.

The last administration exercised a very conservative policy in dealing with this question, holding that there were already too many offices in operation, and that it would be better, as a general proposition, not to have the offices too close together.

The present regime has determined to establish offices wherever any reasonable amount of business can be secured, with the idea of accommodating as many people as possible.

SENATOR EARLE DEAD.

Prominent South Carolinian Laid Low By Bright's Disease.

United States Senator Earle, of South Carolina, who was elected last January, died at his residence in Greenville Thursday afternoon at 5:35.

He had been ill for several weeks, but until last Wednesday hopes were entertained of his recovery. Bright's disease was the trouble.

His death has already caused a stir among the politicians. The selection of his successor may change the whole political checker board as it had been drawn for South Carolina to 1900.

Judge Earle was a native of South Carolina, being born in Greenville county on April 30, 1847. His father, Elias D. Earle, of Greenville, was a prominent lawyer and at one time held the office of superintendent of public works of the state.

Judge Earle's early education was received in the Academy of Sumter. Immediately upon leaving the academy he hastened to join the ranks of the confederate army. In July, 1864, at the age of seventeen, he enlisted as a private in Charles' battery of light artillery, at the close of the war a part of Komper's artillery.

At the close of the war Judge Earle returned home and entered the Furman university, where he graduated in 1867. He chose law as his profession, but being too poor to study it independently, he taught school by day and studied law at night. In April, 1870, he was admitted to the bar and began the practice of his profession at Anderson, where he remained until 1875, when he removed to Sumter, S. C.

As a lawyer Judge Earle soon distinguished himself.

In 1878 he was elected to the legislature, and for four years he was a useful and able member of that body. He declined re-election to the house in 1880, but was elected senator from Sumter county in 1882.

In 1886 he was elected attorney general and for two terms filled that responsible position with signal ability. In 1880 he had the honor of representing his party in the national democratic convention at Cincinnati. Again in 1884 he went as a delegate to the national convention.

In 1888 Judge Earle declined the nomination of governor because he was committed to the support of Governor Richardson, who was a candidate for re-election. He ran against Tillman for governor in 1890, but was defeated. Judge Earle then returned to Greenville, the home of his boyhood, and opened his law office, determining to devote his entire attention to the practice of his profession. In 1892 he was elected judge of the sixth circuit.

The history of the campaign in which he triumphed over John Gary Evans and was chosen by the people as United States senator is familiar to all.

Judge Earle was married May 19, 1869, to his cousin, Miss Anna M. Earle, a most attractive and interesting woman. To them have been born nine children, of whom six survive.

HOUSE EVADES QUESTION.

Consideration of Cuban Matter to Be Delayed.

Cuban affairs furnished the house with a day of bitter partisan debate Thursday.

The resolution appropriating $50,000 for the relief of American citizens was adopted without a dissenting vote, but the democrats endeavored to force consideration also of the Morgan resolution for recognition of the belligerency of the insurgents.

They accused the republicans of endeavoring to evade this issue, but the dominant party through its spokesman, Mr. Hitt, made the important statement that the republicans desired not to embarrass negotiations which were being projected by President McKinley to secure the independence of Cuba.

MCKINLEY GOES TO NASHVILLE.

He Has Decided Upon June 12th as the Date of His Visit.

President McKinley has finally decided to go to the Nashville exposition next month. He has fixed upon the 12th as the date and will doubtless be accompanied by some members of the cabinet.

To Increase Spanish Army.

General de Azcarraga, Spanish minister of war, has introduced a bill into the cortex providing for an increase of the army in Spain to 100,000 men.

DOCKS NEED REPAIRS.

Congress Will Be Asked to Furnish the Wherewith.

The navy department is making arrangements looking to the passage by congress of a resolution appropriating $100,000 for repairs to the dry docks in the New York navy yard.

Commodore Matthews, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, saw Speaker Reed with reference to the matter. The speaker referred him to Mr. Hilborn as the senior member in the city of the naval committee of the last congress. That gentleman advised Commodore Matthews to prepare a report and submit it to the house, in which event it would be considered at once.

FOR ALDERMEN:

The Tariff bill is now engaging the attention of the U. S. Senate.

Senator Earle, U. S. senator from South Carolina died last week. Congressman Jon. L. McLaurier will be appointed to succeed him.

The Senate has passed Senator Morgan's resolution giving belligerent rights to the Cuban insurgents.

Libby county's new railroad appears to have waked up the some time sleepy town of Centreville. The Press announces that it proposes to don all home print at an early day, as the demand upon its columns will not longer permit the use of the patent or so operative sheet. The Sentinel extends congratulations and wishes it much success.

Gov. Johnston, State Superintendent of Education Turner, and Commissioner of Agriculture Culver composing the board, are looking around and making investigations with the view of locating the Agricultural school in this the 4th District. Heflin, Calera, Columbiana, Childersburg and Sylacauga are candidates for this school. The committee visited Sylacauga, Childersburg and Columbiana last week.

ENDORSED THE TICKET.

As will be seen from the proceedings printed elsewhere, the colored voters of the city held a mass meeting on Tuesday night of this week and adopted resolutions fully endorsing the ticket headed by Mr. J. R. Pratt, which was nominated a few weeks ago at Black's Hall by the citizen's mass meeting, and pledged themselves to give it their hearty and earnest support at the polls next Tuesday. This act on the part of our colored citizens is to be commended, and demonstrates the fact that they appreciate the situation and understand where their best interests and the best interests of the city will be best protected and advanced. The Sentinel learns that their mass meeting was well attended, and the proceedings show that their deliberations were harmonious and its action unanimous. Now let each and every voter turn out to the polls on next Tuesday and cast his vote for the citizens' ticket and thereby promote the advancement and upbuilding of the town.

W. C. Barrett, general foreman at the Hicks-Wise gold mine, was in Heflin last Saturday and went on to Chattahoochee the same day. Mr. Barrett informed the New Era that he had, in one week, taken from a shaft 20 feet deep, from $2,000 to $2,500 in gold. The Hicks-Wise is one of the richest mines in the South and the present owners will fully develop it.—Edwardsville New Era.

The discussion of the use of the Bible in the public schools has broken out afresh in West Virginia and is being vigorously waged on both sides. It started in a Court action in Marion county, where it is sought to enjoin the school commissioners against permitting the reading of the Bible in the school. In defense of the Bible the Junior order of American Mechanics has rallied, regarding the legal assault as an attack upon the objects of the association. It fears also that if the case is lost it will be used as a precedent to bar the Bible from all the schools in the state. It has summoned the National Council of the Order to its assistance, will employ the best legal talent it can obtain and announces a determination if defeated in the local courts to carry the case to the Supreme Court of the United States.—Advertiser.

CROPS AND FARMS.

It is said that the crops of cotton are smaller than it has ever been known at this season. By this we mean the plant, not the acreage.—Troy Messenger.

There is a great deal of complaint among the farmers about a bad stand of cotton, but corn is doing well.—Guntersville Democrat.

One of Chilton county's most progressive farmers is J. A. Logan. Eight years ago he came to this county and took up a piece of timbered land about one mile north of Clanton and began improving it. He now has over fifty acres in one field cleared without a stump in it, besides other smaller fields that are nearly cleared of stumps. This farm is an example of what an industrious and progressive farmer can do in a few short years. The crops are varied and are all doing exceedingly well.—Thorsby Call.

The University of Alabama has received an invitation to send a representative to an inter-collegiate oratorical contest to be held at Montague, Tenn., July 31st.

The invitation comes from the Chautauqua management at that place and has been accepted. Vanderbilt, Sewanee, the Universities of Tennessee, of Georgia, and probably of Virginia, as well as of Alabama will be represented. These are all leading and representative Southern Colleges and a contest between them will be most interesting.

A joint meeting of the Seniors and lawyers was held yesterday afternoon and D. M. Sneed, law, was selected to represent the University of Alabama.

Mr. Sneed is an eloquent and forcible speaker and never fails to make a favorable impression on his audience. We are sure Alabama's reputation in oratory will not suffer at his hands.—Crimson White.

TWO KINDRED CELEBRATIONS.

Atlanta Constitution, May 21.

Georgia was flanked yesterday by two kindred celebrations, both of which mark epochs in the liberty-loving character of our own people.

The 20th of May, for more than a century, has been celebrated in North Carolina as the date of the first declaration of independence, made in Mecklenburg county in 1775. The hardy frontiersmen of that region had imbibed too fully of the spirit of liberty to submit to the degrading exactions imposed on them by the English government, which impelled them to meet in Charlotte, the county seat, where, in language of lofty purpose and high resolve, they declared their connection with the northern country at an end. A year later the movement had so spread that it was taken up by the Philadelphia convention of representatives from all the colonies. The truth of history now does justice to the memory of the men who blazed the way for independence, and their descendants take just pride in its celebration.

The other celebration was that in Montgomery, where the daughters of the south marked the spot on the steps of the state capitol of Alabama, whereon stood Mr. Jefferson Davis when he took the oath of office as president of the Confederate States of America. This movement of which this inauguration was the culmination was, likewise, a protest against the interference of outsiders in local concerns. It was a war for the maintenance of home rule—a cause which may be occasionally smothered but which can never die. In the collapse which came to that struggle, no stain attached to the Men who conducted it, and the chapter which records its place in history must ever remain bright with nobility of cause and bravery of deed. The fair women of Alabama have done well in marking so historic a spot.

The original declaration of independence was made in the south; the second declaration was conceived by a southern statesman and carried to success by a southern general, while the great war for the defense of the reserved rights of the people was the one in which Lee, of Virginia, led, so that the south well claims to be the home of liberty, which has made the American people what they are.

MONTEVALLO.

A Montevallo special to the Montgomery Advertiser gives the following interesting account of the commencement sermon of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute on last Sunday:

The first commencement Sunday of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for Girls dawned bright and beautiful and was throughout an ideal day.

None of the churches had Sunday School and at half past 10, the ministers of the village, the faculty and pupils of the school assembled at the Baptist church and marched to the college chapel, where the sermon was preached by Dr. John O'Keener, President of the Southern University at Greensboro.

After singing led by Miss Crump on and her chorus class, prayer, and the reading of the morning lessons, Dr. Keener announced his text from Ecclesiastes ix:11: "I returned and saw under the sun that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, neither yet bread to the wise, nor yet riches to men of understanding, nor yet favor to men of skill: but time and chance happeneth to them all."

From this discovery of Solomon of a truth which the world thought was not a truth, Dr. Keener preached a grand sermon.

Replying to the oft-quoted saying that genius is a law unto itself, he boldly asserted that nothing in all the sweep of God's creation is a law unto itself.

It is not our superior endowment which makes us great but the fidelity with which we use that endowment. Don't get too intellectual for divine truth and the eternal providence of God.

Dr. Keener said that he is alarmed every day at the American theory of manhood and of womanhood. We measure everything by the dollar.

The money power has taken hold of the throat of the world. The most awful curse of America is the disposition to realize the highest aspirations of life in riches.

With money you may buy fine dresses and hats and you may buy false social position, but never a pure heart and true character. You may buy the tinsel work of life, but the beautiful garment of righteousness with its gold of the Christian graces is woven only by the Son of God. Money can't buy that and there are ten thousand things money can't do. The folly then, of manhood and womanhood in laying their offerings at such a shrine!

God didn't give us life to spend in achieving those things that perish with using. "The longest pole always fetches the persimmon" is not God's philosophy.

This eminently practical and timely sermon was closed with Jeremiah's magnificent climax: "Let not the mighty man boast," etc.

In the evening Dr. Keener preached another fine sermon, his theme being Knowledge vs. Obedience, or Knowing vs. Doing.

PROCEEDINGS OF MASS MEETING OF COLORED VOTERS.

A mass meeting of colored voters of Calera, Ala., assembled in A. M. Pope's shop Tuesday night, May 25th, to consider and discuss the situation of the coming municipal election on the first Tuesday in June.

After having obtained an expression from those present the following resolution was offered by A. M. Pope and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we, the colored voters of the city of Calera, Ala., do hereby endorse the Pratt municipal ticket as nominated in a mass meeting of citizens assembled in Black's Hall a few weeks ago, and pledge our undivided support to the same and herein call upon every peace loving and law-abiding colored voter to come on next Tuesday, June 1st, and cast his vote in the interest of law, order, and good government.

CITY AND COUNTY.

POLYTECHNIC COMMENCEMENT.

The first commencement of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for girls at Montevallo took place this week and from the commencement sermon on Sabbath to the close of the exercises on Wednesday demonstrated most forcibly the wonderful success that has marked the career of this splendid institution during its first year. The attendance of young ladies throughout the session has been a surprise to its most ardent friends and advocates. The matriculates numbered two hundred and twenty-six and of these more than two hundred were foreign patronage. Nearly every section of the state has been represented in the school. The scene presented when on last Sabbath morning, bright and beautiful, two hundred lovely girls filed into the chapel, was indeed one of beauty, and lent a charm that cannot be portrayed. The large assembly of visitors showed the intense interest of the town and community. The sermon by Dr. J. O. Keener of Greensboro, Ala., was most able, eloquent and appropriate to the occasion. The singing by Miss Crumpton and her choral class of young ladies was superb. Good order reigned and the opening service of this important occasion for the Polytechnic was most auspicious indeed.

The Art Levee was held on Monday night and reflected much credit alike upon the members of the Art class and their accomplished teacher, Miss Ella McCombs. Three hundred and eleven works of art adorned the walls of the large class rooms and halls of the second floor. These consisted of pencil studies, character sketches, crayon work, pastels, water colors and oil paintings. Many of them were much admired and attracted most favorable comment.

The exhibitions of the work of the dress-making and the cooking departments were most satisfactory, plainly showing that these departments were peevished over by accomplished and skilled teachers.

The concert on Tuesday night was superb, impressing the large overflowing audience that the directors of this department were equally as skilled and accomplished in their particular line as were those of other departments in theirs. Able and eloquent addresses by Gov. Johnston and other distinguished gentlemen also added to the interest and charms of the occasion.

President Reynolds and his entire faculty are to be congratulated upon the magnificent success that has crowned their work. All the circumstances considered, they have accomplished wonders—and the grand result of their labors—vibrant success that has crowned their efforts during this first year marks the Alabama Polytechnic School for girls, as the female school of the future, of our state.

The meeting of the Board of Trustees held on the afternoon of yesterday was a most harmonious and enthusiastic one. The Trustees were not only gratified but delighted with the wonderful success of the school, and showed their appreciation of the splendid work of President Reynolds and his accomplished assistants by re-electing the entire faculty.

Now that the first year's work of the Polytechnic School for girls has given a practical demonstration of its wonderful possibilities, the State could not do a nobler thing than to expend $100,000 in buildings and appropriate annually $1,000 for the school. It would be an institution that would pay one hundred fold, bringing in its train the grandest wealth of a state, educated mothers, without whom there cannot be an educated citizenship.

Not only piles of the very worst kind can be cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, but even a scald, burn, bruise, boil, noma and all other skin troubles can be instantly relieved by the same remedy. Dial Bros.

A KILLING.

On Monday night of this week an altercation took place between two negroes, Shelby Harkins and Louis Woolley, at the home of Woolley near Calera which resulted in the killing of Harkins by Woolley. It seems that Harkins was interfering with the family relations of Woolley and had invaded his home with evil intent. Upon his return home on Monday night Woolley found Harkins there when the altercation occurred and Woolley using a knife stabbed Harkins fatally. Woolley's wife was also hurt in the scuffle but not seriously. Woolley, seeing what he had done, immediately reported the occurrence and surrendered to the authorities. An investigation was held Tuesday morning by Justice W. D. Huggins acting as coroner and a jury empanelled for the purpose, and Woolley was discharged from custody, the verdict being justifiable homicide.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism.

From the Fairhaven (N. Y.) Register: Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it wherever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. FOUNDED BY JOHN WESLEY.

Christ Church, the Oldest Church in Georgia, Destroyed by Fire.

Christ church, the oldest church of Georgia, founded by John Wesley before he promulgated the Methodist faith, was burned almost to the ground shortly after midnight Saturday. The fire was discovered shortly after 12 o'clock and it spread rapidly. It is supposed to have originated from a gas jet left burning by some member of the choir which held a practice there. It contained all the records of Savannah and practically of Georgia since 1865, most of which are a total loss.

The church cost about $25,000 and about as much more has been spent upon it. The price set upon the building and lot recently was $100,000. It is only partially covered by insurance.

Christ Church, standing on Bull street, fronting Johnson square, is the mother church of the Episcopal communion in Georgia. Christ church parish was founded soon after the settlement of Savannah. The first edifice was begun in 1743, but was not completed until 1750. In 1796 it was destroyed by fire and was rebuilt upon an enlarged plan in 1803. The next year it was partially demolished by a hurricane and was not rebuilt until 1810. In 1833 the corner stone of the present edifice was laid, the old church having been torn down, and the building was completed in 1840. The founder of Christ church was Rev. Henry Herbert, who came over from England with Oglethorpe.

John Wesley was its third rector, and on the site of the present edifice stood the rude chapel in which he ministered as chaplain to the colonists. The late Bishop Stephen Elliott was rector of the church from 1861 until his death in 1866, and in the chancel is a beautiful window to his memory.

THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT

Grant Lottery Privileges to Jesse Grant and Associates.

It has leaked out at San Francisco that the concession obtained by Jesse Grant and his associates from the Mexican Government for lands surrounding the famous Hot Springs of Tijuana, across the boundary line, covers also privilege for running a lottery and gambling device.

Who the Eastern people are is not known, but it is learned that the Dwyers are figuring on the purchase of the Ryerson and San Antonio ranches, some miles below Tia Juana, to be used for raising racing stock.

A local real estate man who is handling the matter for Grant and his associates is authority for the statement that the intending purchasers declare that they will build the finest gambling houses in the world at the springs, to cost $2,000,000, to include every game of chance known, with a lottery connection. The deal is to be completed this week.

A Valuable Estate.

Prince Bismarck has several estates, but that of Friedrichsruh is the largest and most valuable of his landed possessions. It is a memorial of the greatest achievement in the ex-chancellor's life, and was given to him by old Kaiser Wilhelm in 1871 in token of his services in re-establishing the German empire.

The property, whose chief value lies in the magnificent forests with which it is almost entirely covered, is situated in Lauenburg, one of the Elbe duchies of historic memory, on the railway between Berlin and Hamburg. The estate is about 30,000 acres in extent, and over two-thirds of it is forest of pine, oak and beech. From these forests Prince Bismarck draws a large part of his revenue. Almost the entire supply of telegraphic poles used throughout the whole German empire is grown in the woods of Friedrichsruh. The cutting of the one hundred thousand pole some years ago was celebrated by the tenantry, and the pole was planted on the lawn in front of the house.

It is amid these scenes that the most powerful figure in German history is passing the last of his days.—New Orleans Picayune.

Ripans Tabules.

A resident of Shawnee, Tennessee; says: "I want to tell of the benefit I received from taking My stomach had got into such a fix I could not digest my victuals at all; everything I ate I threw up, with great pains in my chest and bowels. I tried several doctors, who did me no good. At last, after spending about $75, a friend advised me to try Ripans Tabules. I commenced taking them and soon I could eat almost anything, and I had the satisfaction of knowing that what I eat 'would stay with me.' I am grateful for such a medicine, and I hope before many years it will have place in the house of every family in these United States."

POLITICS MAKES PHILOSOPHER MAD

Presidential Appointments Stir His Ire.
The G. A. R. and the Republican Party Roasted.

Horace said in one of his philosophic odes that 'anger is a brief fit of lunacy.' Then I am ready for the asylum right now, for I am mad—mad with McKinley, and Buck, and Bullock, and the Grand Army, and the Republican party, and everybody else who is trying to impose on our people. The Grand Army demands the publishing of a school history that will make southern treason odious to the generations to come. This is not the Grand Army for they are about all dead except the pensioners, but it is the grand army of political plunderers who don't want any peace with the south. General Grant said: "Let us have peace," and Lincoln said so, too, but these politicians are afraid of peace. Peace would wet all their ammunition. It is a very late date to revive this cry of treason. The argument has been long since exhausted and now nothing is left but disgust and contempt for the political schemers who seek to perpetuate discord. Treason is a favorite cry among pretended patriots. Athaliah murdered the sons of the king and usurped the throne, and when the prophet ordered her to be slain she rushed forth and cried treason, treason! When Patrick Henry in his first great speech denounced George the IV the judges cried treason, treason! Well, I reckon that Patrick Henry and Ben Franklin and Jefferson and Adams and Payne were the first traitors this country produced, and we don't mind being in their company. In fact, we are proud of it. I get awful mad when I read the vile slanders of the northern papers. The scriptures tell us to love our neighbors, but those fellows up there are not our neighbors, and it is not forbidden to hate an army, is it?

My contempt for that grand army is not limited by time or distance or the statute of limitations, but I had made up my mind to let them alone if they would let me alone. Of course there are some clever men belonging to it just like there are some clever men in the Republican party, but that don't prevent me from hating both of the concerns as organizations, collectively and categorically; schemers and plunderers, and scoundrels and scoundrels run both. Nobody but an unprincipled politician would seek to put a negro in the postoffice at Augusta or in any other southern town. It is an insult to our people, and there is no excuse for it—no palliation. Of all the offices in the gift of the government there are none about which the people have such moral, social and political rights as the postoffices. Every man and woman in the community should be consulted, if it were possible. But as it is not, then the public sentiment should be considered and the business men be consulted, and nobody should be appointed who would not be acceptable to a large majority of the people. In fact, there should be no partisanship about it. In a Democratic community a Republican who could not get a majority vote should not ask for nor receive the office, but inasmuch as the rule now is that to the victors belong the spoils, of course we must submit. We in the south must take the best Republican we can find, but no president who is a gentleman will seek to put a negro in this office and no politician who is a gentleman will ask him to do it. It is an office that emphatically belongs to the people of the community. It concerns them and them alone. No doubt but that 90 per cent of all the letters and papers and money orders that go and come from Augusta are to the white people of that city. Besides this the color line is drawn at the south, and McKinley knows it, and so does Buck and Bullock, and they cannot wipe it out. When will our people quit running after these scoundrels who would stab us with the blade of Joab while they embrace us and say: "How art thou, my brother?"

What is there that a politician will not do for office? When the sexton threw up a skull Hamlet said: "Perhaps it is the pate of a politician, one who would circumvent God." And it does seem as if they become hardened to all sense of the proprieties of life. A hundred years ago Sheridan wrote: "Conscience has nothing to do with politics." Our people have been doing their best to think well of McKinley and esteem him as a clever, upright gentleman, but the fact that he entertains the idea of appointing Lyons to Augusta has wiped out all respect for him. The mugwump Democrats who voted for him have all become cross-eyed and can't look you straight in the face. Why did he single out that bright little town of Hogansville to insult her people with a negro postmaster? Why does he not appoint negroes to the northern towns where they claim there is no color line?—towns whose white and black go to the same school and sometimes intermarry.

And now there is another trouble here in Cartersville. A Michigan man moved here not long ago with his family and went into partnership with a negro blacksmith and they all lived together on terms of social equality and eat at the same table, and as the Michigan man's children go to our public school he has been notified that they cannot go there any longer. So he has taken his children away, and says he don't care a damn what our people think and he will do as he pleases, for it is a free country. Well, that is hard on the children, but the time is not yet passed when the sins of the father will not be visited upon the children. He may conclude to send them to the colored school, as that would be more consistent with his principles, but it is hoped that he will pack up and go back to Michigan. The line is drawn and will remain. Thirty-four years have passed since freedom and there is no change, neither in hotels nor churches nor public conveniences or places of amusement. Both races would be content if it were not for the politicians. As long as the negro has a vote he will be made a fool of by the candidates. They say that Lyons is moral and capable. Suppose that he is—he is an impudent idiot to want to thrust himself where he is not wanted. No gentleman will do that, either socially or politically, and no gentleman will help him do it. Thank heaven, we will now be rid of Buck for four years to come. I wish that more of his sort would leave the country for their country's good. And now I think I feel better.—BILL ARP in The Atlanta Constitution.

"TOO UNWIELDY."

Atlanta's City Council Abolishes the Board of Education.

A big sensation was produced in Atlanta last Friday afternoon when the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, at a special session, abolished the present Board of Education, consisting of eighteen members, and passed an ordinance providing for a board of seven members, with the Mayor and chairman of the schools committee of the City Council as ex-officio members. The action was a complete surprise, as the meeting had been called ostensibly to consider the city water ordinance. The reason given for the action is that the Board was unwieldy with eighteen members.

The seven members appointed are all new men. The appointees are: E. B. Rosser, Howard Van Epps, J. G. Bloodworth, W. S. Thompson, Dr. F. H. Orme, Hoke Smith and Prof. E. C. Merry.

APPEALED IN VAIN.

Russell Sage Neglects to Aid a Dying Relative.

A telegram from Joliet, Ill., says: One night last week at the poor house in this county, George Sage, aged 21 years, son of Eliza Sage, of Shannan township, died of consumption, hastened by worrying over the affairs of his parents. His father, after paying his uncle, Russell Sage, the $40 on the mortgage house, could not afford to give George any of the delicacies needed. George also worried greatly over the attempt of his mother to commit suicide a couple of weeks ago. The supervisor of Shannan wrote to Russell Sage two years ago asking him to make provision for the young man to keep him out of the poor house. The appeal was unanswered.

NEW ORLEANS SELECTED

As the Next Meeting Place of the Southern Presbyterians.

The thirty-sixth annual assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church was dissolved at Charlotte, N. C., Saturday at 2 o'clock, after a session of ten days. The morning was devoted to disposing of various reports and resolutions as they came up. The assembly paid Dr. Goetchin, the moderator, a handsome tribute, testifying to his ability and efficiency.

The assembly was a notable one in many respects. There were eleven ex-moderators present.

The 250th anniversary of the Westminster symbols was celebrated. Drs. Dabney and Hoge were present.

The next assembly meets in New Orleans.

THE BANK WRECKER

Johnson Will Not Speculate for the Next Six Years.

John F. Johnson, the Logansport, Ind., bank wrecker, was taken to the Ohio penitentiary Saturday from Indianapolis by two deputy United States Marshals. Johnson was very cool, but felt his position keenly as he was ushered behind the barred gates, where he will remain six years and four months if his record is clear and he is not pardoned. He was given a cell in the famous "Bankers' Row."

LEE SUSTAINED.

Calhoun Will Hold Spain Responsible for Ruiz's Death.

Of the two reports understood to have been sent from Havana last Saturday by the commission investigating the death of Dr. Ruiz, the one by Mr. Calhoun, who represents the United States, and the other by Dr. Jose Gostoso, the Spanish Consul at Philadelphia, who acts for the Spanish Government, the former will, it is said, agree with the statement of Consul General Lee that Dr. Ruiz died from concussion of the brain, the result of violence after solitary confinement of more than thirteen days, regardless of his treaty rights.

Consul-General Lee declined at Friday's session of the commission to question the witnesses, who were interrogated only by the Spanish representative. Consul-General Lee will shortly make a report on the Ruiz case, and Mr. Calhoun will make a further report on other matters, such as the money question, the state of the insurrection, the condition of American interests and the general suffering due to Captain General Weyler's style of campaign. Consul-General Lee's position is just what it was in February last. He holds that Spain is responsible, since Ruiz died because he was deprived of his treaty rights. The exact facts as to how Dr. Ruiz received the blow which killed him, Gen Lee and Mr. Calhoun could not learn, because half the witnesses examined by the commission were prisoners and it is believed were afraid to testify fully. The remaining witnesses were the jailers, who would not testify so as to incriminate themselves.

PROMINENT SPANIARD

Favors the Sale of Cuba to the United States.

The relief of suffering Americans in Cuba by Consul General Lee goes on daily. Several hundred have already been assisted. A prominent and influential Spanish resident of Havana, upon being questioned with reference to the suggested sale of Cuba, authorized the representative of the Associated Press to tell the American press that he favored the sale of Cuba to the Cubans, but to the United States, for the sake of avoiding in the future ruin, desolation and bloodshed.

"The sale of the island of Cuba," he said, "means a step backward and carries us to barbarism, as many of the chiefs of the actual revolution were formerly bandits. The United States, as an industrious country, symbolizes progress and civilization, and the Spanish residents in Cuba cannot be indifferent to the welfare of Cuba, having fertilized the land with the sweat of their brows, and they will always protest against the sale of the island to the Cubans."

CHURCH WORKERS ON WHEELS.

Christian Endeavor Bicycling Squad Organized in Jersey.

In Plainfield, N. J., where about 5,000 of the 20,000 people are bicycle riders, and many of them enthusiasts, the church workers have found that in summer months many persons sacrifice time usually devoted to spiritual duties to bicycle riding. The Union of Christian Endeavor Societies decided recently on a plan which they believe will be a solution of the problem of maintaining an all-the-year-around interest. In accordance with this plan the Christian Endeavor Bicycling squad was organized, which is to include in its membership all members of the society who ride bicycles.

The movement is original with Plainfield, as was the first church bicycle run arranged by the Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, last summer. At frequent intervals runs will be arranged, whereby exercise and the work of the Endeavorers can be united.

DENOUNCED CHRIST.

A Free Thinker Denounced Christ on Atlanta's Streets.

Rev. James Hoskins, a preacher of Free Thinker faith, who has been holding forth on the streets of Atlanta, Ga., for thirty nights, was tried in the police court the other day and fined. His arrest was caused by the vicious terms with which he characterized Christ, denouncing Him as a hypocrite, liar and pretender. The preaching created general indignation and many complaints were made. Hoskins was warned to desist, but, refusing to do so, he was arrested. Only a nominal fine was assessed, as Hoskins promised to discontinue his sermons.

Chicago's Population.

Chicago's annual census, taken by the directory company, is fast nearing completion. The figures which will be given to the public about July 1, as to the present population of the city will approximate 1,800,000. So far as can be seen from the returns now in it may go a few thousand above that total.

RAGING WATERS.

Thousands Are Driven From Their Homes.

THREATS TO CUT LEVEES

To Afford Relief Was Met With the Announcement That the Greasers Would Be Shot If They Dared to Touch the Dykes.—A Scene of Destruction.

A special from El Paso, Texas, says: Over 500 families or 2,000 people were on the streets of El Paso Friday morning searching for shelter. Their furniture, clothing, etc., were piled up all along the principal thoroughfares of the city.

Last night the waters continued to rise and before day had dawned had reached that portion of the city in and around San Antonio street, where prominent business and professional men reside. After 11 o'clock last night the flood swept over six more blocks and above the roar of the water the shouts of the men trying to save their property could be heard the cries of frightened women and the screams of children who were hurried from their homes out into the night. The waters were full of struggling teams, hauling out property from flooded houses. It was a scene of destruction, begging description.

All night long the streets were thronged with wagons moving people out of the flooded districts.

Handsome Residences Threatened.

The Texas and Pacific Railroad had thrown up a dyke to protect its track near the round house and this backed the water up over San Antonio street, flooding a number of houses and threatening to cross the street and flood hundreds of the prettiest residences in the city. Six prominent citizens residing in the vicinity, headed by Collector of Customs Capt. Charles Davis, armed themselves with Winchester, and crossing over the railroad levee, cut the dyke, letting the back water out and it began to recede from San Antonio street. The railroad people repaired the cut and it was again ordered cut by Mayor Maguire. Early Saturday morning a party of Mexican guards appeared at the head gate of the canal on the American side and told one of the workmen there that they intended to cut away the headgate to afford relief to the other side. The Mexicans were told they would be shot if they touched the American embankment, and were ordered back to the Mexican side. It is understood that the Mexican officials had no knowledge of the proposition to cut the American embankment.

Soldiers Guarding Property.

A troop of the Fifth cavalry from Fort Bliss came down to the city today and offered their services to guard property of homeless people, which was piled in the streets. The city Board of Health met Saturday morning and appointed a committee of six leading physicians to take charge of a relief hospital being established for the homeless and sick, and the physicians are taking them to the improvised hospital. Col. Van Valzoh, of Fort Bliss, loaned the city fifty three tents, and citizens committees were out with wagons gathering provisions for distribution among the destitute. At least 400 out of the 520 families whose homes are under water are without the necessities of life.

Saturday morning the city Council held a meeting authorizing the Mayor to wire Texas Senators and Representatives in Congress to secure an appropriation of $10,000 for relief of the flood victims. The war department has also been appealed to for more tents.

Saturday afternoon the river was at a standstill, neither rising nor falling, but a rise of one foot is reported up the river in New Mexico.

He Has Six Wives.

A telegram from Raleigh, N. C., says: John L. Davis, the worst moonshiner in this district, was convicted in the Federal Court here and fined $500 and sentenced to fourteen months in the penitentiary.

For twenty-seven years he has been a moonshiner. For three years he had been pursued. He is like a wild man and is the most frightful looking prisoner ever tried here. He has six wives and thirty-nine children.

Oppose Secret Societies.

At Saturday's session of the Reformed Presbyterian synod in Beaver Falls, Pa., Dr. A. G. McFarland presented the report on secret societies. In it the Presbyterians were enjoined to use caution in licensing ministers by seeing that they were unalterably opposed to such institutions; that the same care be exercised in admitting members, and that parents use every means to instruct their children on the sin of secretism.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Charity Hospital.

The ladies of Anniston have inaugurated a movement looking to the establishment of a charity hospital.

New County Jail.

The Commissioners' Court at Huntsville let the contract for the steel and structural iron work for the new county jail for $15,390. The Commissioners will now advertise for bids for stone work, for which the contract will be let June 7th next.

Birmingham to Have a Fertilizer Factory.

Birmingham is to have a fertilizer factory. It will be built by Georgia and South Carolina capitalists. The location of the factory was finally decided upon Friday morning. The factory will be located on the little stream just south of the Vanderbilt Furnace.

Large Steamboat.

Messrs. George Gould, Sam Casper and Herbert Coulter have under course of construction near Ewing's Ferry, a large steamboat to ply the Coosa river between Rome and Greensport. The boat will be for freight and passenger traffic, and will be much larger than Clifford B. Seay, now in service on that river.

Conference Adjourned.

The district conference of the M. E. church adjourned at Gurley, Saturday, to meet at Bridgeport next year. The Odd Fellows laid the cornerstone of their new building at Gurley Saturday, Grand Master W. T. Hutchins acting as master of ceremonies. Rev. George L. Jenkins delivered the oration. There were 500 people present.

Physician's Sudden Death.

At Furman, Dr. J. J. Harris was called one day last week to the bedside of his wife's sister, Mrs. J. D. Robins, who was critically ill. At about 11 o'clock, while standing near his patient feeling her pulse, he was stricken with neuralgia of the heart and fell across the body of Mrs. Robins and expired. Mrs. Robins died shortly afterwards.

Bought a Valuable Farm.

At Scottsboro, Probate Judge William B. Bridges has purchased from its owner, J. E. Mason, the right of redemption to the Mason farm near Lark. The farm is valued at $6,000. This is one of the best farms in the county, and before the fall of prices was considered a bargain at $10,000, and now becomes the property of Judge Bridges.

Huntsville Infirmary.

The Huntsville infirmary will be opened Wednesday. This matter has been under consideration by our physicians for some time, but not till recently was it fully decided to have one. Drs. S. H. Lowry and H. D. Westmoreland will have it in charge. Miss Ella Kimbro will have charge as chief nurse, which position she has held at Brown's infirmary, at Birmingham. An institution such as mentioned has become a necessity.

Light of Way Defined.

In the Supreme Court the case of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad vs. Ninn Hill et al. was affirmed. The suit grew out of the cutting of timber by the agent of the road, under instructions from the superintendent to clear all timber out within fifty feet of the road bed on each side of the railroad. The heirs of Hill brought suit in the Circuit Court of Limestone county against the railroad for damages and received a judgment for $980, and the railroad brought the case by appeal and lost, the Supreme Court reaffirming the decision of the court below.

Roasted the Child.

A most horrible crime was committed near Selma one day last week. Billy Griffin, colored, aged 4 years, went into the house of his grandmother, Millin Griffin, and seeing a hoe on the gridiron helped himself to a piece of it without the knowledge or consent of his grandmother. This infuriated the old woman and she proceeded to punish the child by tying him up in an empty sack, tying it to a pair of pot hooks in the chimney and leaving it there while she went to work in the field. About two hours later an uncle of the child heard groans in the cabin and he was horrified to find that the sack had caught fire and the child had been roasted alive. The negroes in the neighborhood gathered at the cabin and it was with great difficulty that they were prevented from lynching the old woman, who is 75 years old.

Tuskegee's Colored School.

About 5,000 people attended the commencement of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, (colored), in Tuskegee, last week. Charles W. Anderson, of New York city, delivered the annual address. Remarks were made by Rev. J. L. Dube, a native Zulu, who is studying the methods of the school as a model for one in his own country. The number of students enrolled this year is 1,073, representing twenty-one States, Indian Territory, Africa and the West Indies. Forty-nine have received diplomas.

The cash receipts of the school have been $104,595.62. Seventy-seven thousand one hundred and fourteen dollars and fifty-one cents have gone into current expenses, the balance into permanent plant. Students have paid toward their expenses about $8,000 in cash and $40,000 in work done for the school.

This school now has an experiment station for colored people; established by the last Legislature. Prof. G. W. Carver, a young colored man, educated at Annes, Iowa, under Prof. Wilson, now Secretary of Agriculture, is in charge of it. The school has just completed an agricultural building at an expense of $10,000.

W. J. Baldwin, Jr., of New York, R. O. Simpson, of Furman, Ala., were added to the Board of Trustees.

A Smooth Swindler.

Several Birmingham business men have within the past few days been victimized by cashing worthless checks. Several days ago a well-dressed man calling himself J. S. Mayers, went there and put up at the Metropolitan Hotel. He claimed to be traveling for a Vicksburg novelty house, and said he had a good trade. He received a letter at the hotel which contained a draft for $65 alleged to have been issued by the First National Bank, of Vicksburg, on a New York bank. He said the draft represented his week's salary. He had it cashed by Emil Lesser, proprietor of the hotel. Mr. Lesser was advised that the draft was a forgery and that several similar forgeries have been worked on the Vicksburg bank. Mayers' whereabouts are not known.

A few days ago a First Avenue merchant cashed a draft for $74 which was presented by a man calling himself William Lodtman, who claimed to be a traveling newspaper writer. It was signed by Charles A. Brush, assistant editor of the New York Sun, and was on the Sun Publishing Company. The bank in Birmingham was notified that it was worthless. Several more similar to these two are also reported to have occurred recently but the details are being kept dark in hope of apprehending the guilty parties.

BLOOMERS IN SCHOOL

are Not Approved by Milwaukee Dress Reform Aldermen.

Alderman Okershouser, of the Milwaukee common council, has called down upon himself the wrath of a number of women bicyclists in the Milwaukee public schools. The alderman threatens to introduce a resolution in the Council to forbid the wearing of bicycle costumes by teachers during school hours, but before doing so he says it is his intention to have the legal phase of the question looked into to ascertain definitely whether the common council has any right to interfere in the matter. Mr. Okershouser says the habit of wearing bicycle costumes by teachers during school hours has become quite popular in Milwaukee, and he thinks a stop should be put to the practice. The teachers, however, are of the contrary opinion, and it is probable their influence will be stronger with the Board of School Directors than that of the common council or Alderman Okershouser.

PULLMAN WINS.

Chicago's Suburb is the World's Most Perfect Town.

George M. Pullman has received from Archduke Rainer two magnificent medals and a richly wrought diploma as testimonials of honor and merit in founding and building the most perfect town in the world. This distinction for the superb came as the result of an exhibit in the international hygienic and pharmaceutical exposition in Prague. The Archduke was the protector of the exposition. Pullman won against the settlements created by Krupp, the gun man, and Stumm, the great maker of steel, and Baron von Ringhofer.

A Governor's Son Indicted.

David Robinson, son of Ex-Governor Robinson, and Ex-Mayor of Elmira, N. Y., was indicted by the grand jury one day last week for grand larceny. His bail was fixed at $10,000.

The specific charge is the larceny of $24,000 by misrepresenting the value of Elmira property which he is alleged to have purchased for $6,500 and procured a loan of $30,000 upon, through reporting to the company a valuation of $60,000. It is alleged that he embezzled nearly $30,000 in three years while acting for the company, a good part of which has been refunded.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

The municipal election for the city of Calera was held on last Tuesday June 1st, and passed off very quietly.

The ticket nominated by the the mass meeting of citizens held at Black's Hall on the 16th of April, and headed by J. R. Pratt, was elected without opposition, securing the entire vote cast with few exceptions. A. S. Bristow, H. T. Caffey and John Black were the inspectors and S. J. Bross and W. E. Breazeale were the clerks who conducted the election. Sheriff E. F. Vest was present and in charge of the polls—as the special act under which the election was held required One hundred and twenty votes were polled, resulting as follows:

For Mayor: J. R. Pratt, 113. For Aldermen: R. E. Bowden, 113; Wm. Dial, 113; J. M. Frost, 112; F. H. Hardy, 116; J. W. Killingsworth, 116; W. M. Lanham, 115; J. T. McMillan, 113; L. G. Privett, 115; T. C. McKibbin, 3; Walter Bailey, 1; D. E. McLenden, 1.

As will be seen the opposition failed to materialize, being doubtless convinced that they did not have material enough even to get up a ticket.

MORE ABOUT THE SCHOOL.

Brierfield, Ala. May 27.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the citizens of this town and vicinity was held here yesterday in the interest of the proposed High School to be established here.

W. W. McCollum was elected chairman and S. R. Sheppard was made secretary of the meeting.

Capt. A. J. Day for the Executive committee appointed at a former meeting made a verbal report, stating that all he had met were in sympathy with and would heartily support the school.

The secretary's report of the previous meeting of the Executive committee and also the preamble and resolutions hereinafter set forth were read by B. C. Parker.

Prof. Smithson and Gibbon then addressed the meeting in earnest and able speeches insisting that with unity of action and proper support of the people the school could be started and maintained.

The preamble and resolutions were next taken up. B. J. Large moved and A. J. Day seconded that the first resolution should be amended so as to have School Board to consist of five instead of three members. The preamble and resolutions thus amended were adopted and are as follows:

TO THE CITIZENS OF BIBB AND SURROUNDING COUNTIES:

WHEREAS, The town of Brierfield, Bibb county, Ala., is pleasantly and conveniently situated on the line of the Southern Railway near Birmingham Junction, and has the advantage of two important rail road connections—a rail road depot, express office and a post money-order office; and whereas, the town is in an exceedingly healthy locality, on the banks of a beautiful and ever gushing stream—supplied with an abundance of pure and healthy water, and surrounded by nature's most charming and romantic scenery; and

Whereas, The town has four comfortable church buildings of four different Christian denominations, and has three good mercantile establishments—a good physician—good boarding houses—a blacksmith and wood shop and a fine flour and corn mill; and

Whereas, The citizens of Brierfield and surrounding neighborhood are a peaceable, lawabiding, Christian and God-serving people; and

Whereas, The town is supplied with many vacant yet comfortable residences, together with an available, large commodious building, most suitably adapted for a comfortable and convenient school house—with all these advantages Brierfield is a most excellent place for a good and permanent school; and

Whereas, The citizens of Brierfield and surrounding community stand greatly in need of a well organized and permanent school prepared to give instruction in all the branches of education for both male and female; and

Whereas, Many of the citizens of Brierfield and vicinity have expressed an ardent desire for the establishment of a good, substantial, systematic Male and Female High School that will meet their present wants in education and those of all others who may desire to patronize said school; and

Whereas, The people of Brierfield and vicinity have the opportunity to secure the services of an able corps of most excellent and up to date teachers to conduct said school on liberal terms;

In order to accomplish this much desired object and consummate this most needful enterprise, now, therefore to it

Resolved, 1st—That the citizens here assembled appoint a committee of five members to be constituted a School Board, empowered to take immediate and all necessary measures to organize and establish said school in the town of Brierfield.

Resolved, 2nd—That each and every citizen assembled agree and do hereby pledge themselves to patronize and encourage said school to the best of their ability.

Resolved, 3rd—That this preamble and these resolutions be printed in circular form and delivered to the School Board for general distribution.

SCHOOL EX. COMMITTEE.

The following gentlemen were on the motion of B. J. Large, elected on the School Board:

Dr. Oscar Whitfield, Chairman, A. J. Day, F. M. Fancher, J. T. Wilson, R. C. Parker.

Mr. Perry, Receiver of Ala. Iron and Steel Co., stated that houses would be rented on very reasonable terms to all who desire to move to Brierfield to educate their children.

Four hundred and five ($405.00) dollars for the purpose of obtaining school buildings, seats, desks and other expenses in equipping the school were raised by voluntary subscription.

Moved and adopted that Prof. Smithson and Gibbon be elected principals of the school.

B. J. Large and J. T. Wilson were appointed a committee to take up a collection to have the foregoing preamble and resolutions and the proceedings of this meeting printed in circular form for general distribution. They raised in cash $2.35. Subscriptions due on demand $1.95.

Besides the money ($405) subscribed, a piano was donated by Dr. Whitfield and an organ by Mr. B. J. Large for the use of the school.

It was moved and adopted that a basket picnic be had at Brierfield, in the grove near the Nabors Mill, on the 3rd of June in the interest of the school, and that Revs. P. L. Abernathy and John G. Murray and Messrs. Smithson, McCollum, Sheppard and others be requested to address the assembly on that day.

Moved and adopted that Messrs. Sam. Perry and Cunningham Mahan be appointed to solicit contributions from those attending the picnic and the proceeds be turned over to the School Board to be expended in the interest of the School.

It was moved and carried that any barbecue contribution tendered be allowed to be prepared on the grounds and used in connection with the basket dinner.

The meeting then adjourned.

S. R. SHEPPARD, Sec'y. W. W. McCOLLUM, Chair.

PRESBYTERIANS' IN SESSION.

Constitution May 21st.

On yesterday three general assemblies of the Presbyterian church simultaneously convened in different parts of the United States; the Cumberland assembly in Chicago, Ill.; the Northern assembly at Warsaw, Ind., and the Southern assembly at Charlotte, N. C. These various bodies, which will be in session for the next ten days, are composed of some of the brainiest men in the American pulpit, and interesting developments are expected.

There is no religious denomination in the United States which contains a greater number of branches than the Presbyterian church; and, while the various bodies now in session represent the great bulk of the Presbyterian family in this country there are several minor branches of the church not included. Some idea of the strength of Presbyterianism, as well as the numerous branches into which it is divided, may be obtained from the pan-Presbyterian congress held last summer in Glasgow, Scotland. Statistics gathered at that time present the following figures: The Northern Presbyterian 922,904; the Southern Presbyterian, 203,999; the United Presbyterian Church of North America, 117,706; the Cumberland Presbyterian, 193,393; the Dutch Reformed church in America, 103,348; the German Reformed church in America, 212,830; the Reformed Presbyterian church in America, 11,272; Associate Reformed church, 7,282; Welsh Calvinistic in the United States, 12,600; the Presbyterian church in Canada, 185,809; the Church of Scotland, in Canada, 10,000; the Presbyterian Church of England, 65,841; Welsh Presbyterian, 150,000; Presbyterian Church in Ireland, 102,735; the Church of Scotland, 593,395; Free Church of Scotland, 338,978; the United Presbyterian of Scotland, 185,298.

In the various other countries of Europe the strength of Presbyterianism is as follows: In Bohemia, 70,000; France, 800,000; Germany, 3,000,000; Holland, 2,500,000; Hungary, 2,000,000; Switzerland, 1,700,000.

These figures make it evident that the Presbyterian church is one of the strongest religious organizations on the globe. In speaking of American Presbyterianism and the stirring part which the church took in the great revolutionary drama, a writer in the Chicago Times Herald says:

Calvanistic influence in American history is familiar to all who know the story of the Plymouth Rock and the band of Puritans who settled New England. The revolution hate was fomented by Presbyterians and the whig club of New York, founded in 1752, to whose action Bancroft ascribes the inception of the continental congress, was so largely composed of Presbyterians that the Tories called it the "Presbyterian Junta."

The synod of the Presbyterian church of Philadelphia was the first religious body that urged the American colonists to take up arms. While all the clergy of the Church of England in New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania were on the side of the mother country, the Presbyterian preachers preached revolution, and Bancroft gives the Presbyterians full credit for their share in the bringing about of American independence.

It is claimed by the Presbyterians that the government of the United States is modeled after the government of the Presbyterian church, and in support of this claim is cited not only the similarity existing between the two systems, but also the fact that Rev. John Witherspoon, one of the early American patriots had much to do with the original framework of the federal government. Whether or not the claim of the Presbyterians can be fully substantiated, it nevertheless remains that the Presbyterian church has been a potential factor in American history, and that its influence is still felt in both religious and political affairs.

TALLADEGA SPRINGS.

Editor Sentinel,

One day last week I concluded to run over to Talladega Springs on a visit with a two fold purpose in view. One was to spend a short time in recreation and in the company of my better half who is sojourning at this popular resort for the present, and the other was to see how our young friends, the new proprietors of the Springs, were managing this favorite watering place. I found everything in tip top shape and spent a most enjoyable visit. The new management is doing everything possible for the pleasure and comfort of their guests. As yet the number of guests is not very large but the prospect is good for a large attendance of pleasure and health seekers during the season. I found a number of pleasant and agreeable people among the visitors already there. I met a Mr. Thornton of Talladega who is writing a book on agriculture, a most engaging and companionable gentleman; also Dr. Green who was very sociable and agreeable. These gentlemen are both great lovers of music. On Saturday night at the Pavilion these gentlemen joined with Mrs. Beanland in singing a few of the old time songs such as "Coming through the Rye," "Old Black Joe," "Old Kentucky Home" etc., and it would have made you feel young again to have heard them, or at least such was their effect upon your scribe who enjoyed them hugely. Early Sunday morning, before the rays of the sun began to make their heat disagreeable, in company with a party consisting of W. H. Duran, Mrs. W. H. Duran, Mrs. Cox and Miss Robinson, I visited the old grave yard situated about one half a mile south of the Springs, on the side of the mountain. In this old and almost abandoned burial ground we found a number of tombstones indicating that they marked the resting place of persons whose births dated in the last half of the eighteenth century. One marked the resting place of Isaac S. McMeans, born Sept. 24th, 1762, and died Dec. 25th, 1839; another the resting place of Cornelius Beard who died Jan. 30, 1844 aged 68 years. On the end of the sheltered cover of another hearts and diamonds are painted. This, it is stated, is the grave of a gambler who was killed over a game of cards for holding too many aces and the painting of hearts and diamonds on his grave it is said was made at his request as a warning against gambling. This graveyard appears to be sadly neglected, which ought not to be. Well I will close for this time. Will write again should I make another visit.

The groom is the son of Judge John Gardner and is an energetic, promising young man. They passed through the city yesterday, boarding the L & N train for Montgomery. The Sentinel extends congratulations.

A H Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." DIED.—At her home in Montevallo on Friday 28th ult., after a lingering illness, Mrs. Reynolds, the beloved wife of Mr. J M Reynolds of that place. The deceased was a most amiable and lovable lady, a true christian mother and a devoted wife. Through out her long and painful illness she exhibited true christian fortitude and passed away leaning upon the precious promises of her Savior. She leaves a grief stricken husband, several children and hosts of friends to mourn her decease. The remains were laid to rest on Saturday in the Montevallo cemetery.

"There's no use in talking," says W H Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me, a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

On Saturday morning last as Mr. I M Roy accompanied by his daughter Mrs. Gus McClinton and her little child were leaving this city in a buggy the horse they were driving became frightened by a loose horse near the residence of Mr. Irvin Bailey, and ran away throwing them out of the buggy. Mr. Roy received several bruises about the face and head, and Mrs. McClinton's right arm was badly bruised. No bones were broken however and none of the injuries are considered serious. The child was not hurt. The buggy was badly wrecked.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are today its warmest friends. For sale by Dial Bros.

DEATH BY MORPHINE.

Wm. P Cramer, at one time clerk in the Vanderbilt Hotel at this place, committed suicide at Gadsden on Friday last by taking morphine. He was out of work and out of money and decided that life was not worth the living. He was between forty and fifty years of age, and was a well-known hotel clerk having worked in that capacity in several different towns and cities. He had recently been in Chattanooga with the Stanton and Merchants' Hotels. He left a note stating that he had two sisters, one in Kansas City Mo., and one in Colorado Springs, Mo., Mrs. Chas. Reese, and Mrs. Chas. Mc Gee, and requesting that they be notified if anything happened to him.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Barton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the State was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians said nothing could be done for me, and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894 Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Company, recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me that my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. BURGULARS.

Burglars entered the residence of Mr. W M Landam, a merchant of this place, on last Saturday night between midnight and daylight, and going into his bedroom chloroformed and robbed him. They secured about one hundred and sixty dollars. They entered through a window on the North side of his dwelling and were evidently familiar with his surroundings indicating the fact that they must have watched his movements from the outside when he retired for the night. His family were away from home at the time and he was alone in the room. The money for his day's sales was in his pantaloons pocket and he had taken the precaution to conceal them, wrapping them up in a quilt and throwing them carelessly on a cradle, nevertheless the robbers secured this money and scattered trunks and bureau drawers besides. No clue has yet been obtained as to their identity.

We learn that the Southern Express office at Columbiana was also broken into and robbed on last Tuesday night. The robbers, however, failed to secure more than four or five dollars in money, but they appropriated some clothing.

Also that the store of Mr. Crossett at Shelby was broken into and robbed principally of groceries and canned goods. So far as we have been able to learn no trace has been obtained of the thieves. The frequency of these robberies should warn our people to be on the alert to catch the perpetrators of same and bring them to the punishment they deserve.

The Tusculum North Alabamian is very complimentary to the teacher of the colored city school in that place. This teacher, George W Trenholme, was raised in this vicinity, and is a negro who has many friends among the white people here as well as the colored, who will be gratified to note the success that is crowning his efforts. The Alabamian, after speaking at some length of the closing exercises of the school says: "Under the management of Prof. George W Trenholme the colored school of this city has made excellent progress during the past year.

The Lamp that lights the way to Good Health.
Johnston's Sarsaparilla.
This great blood purifier and nerve tonic, cures diseases by removing from the system, the conditions which produce them. It expels all poison and impurity from the blood. It acts upon the nerves as a stimulant, particularly upon those nerves belonging to the great organs of the body; therefore, it causes the heart to beat with greater force, the lungs to take in more oxygen and to expel more carbonic acid; it induces the kidneys to send off more of the poisonous excretions from the blood; the bowels to have more regularity and healthfulness in their action; the sweat glands to throw out more impurities.

PLEASURE and PROFIT

—OUT OF—
WHOA AND WORRY

Try it. We Guarantee,
If any Break should occur in the Castings the Part or Parts Will Be Replaced Without Charge.

This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention; a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he has long needed and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender.

How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work.

You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow and the plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant.

By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity.

All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectively avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant on an undercurrent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up.

The revolving disc passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market.

The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow.

The fifth motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, in the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it.

It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools.

WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc., 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use. 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle. 4th. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it.

All these advantages we give you for the sum of one dollar and seventy-five cents and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

TESTIMONIALS.

Judicious Expenditures Cause Big Returns.

To the merchant who is happy if he can sell his goods at an increase of ten to twenty per cent. over the cost how almost incredible must it seem that typewriting machines and bicycles, which cost from about sixteen to twenty-five dollars to manufacture, can be sold for $100—or even $50—each?

What machines are more universally used today than these two, excepting the sewing machine?

How hard the merchant struggles for his ten per cent. profit while the typewriting machine and the bicycle sell at a price which is from four to six times the cost of manufacture.

Judicious and continuous advertising has made this possible.

Extracting Gold.

A process of extracting gold by which every particle of the metal in the ore is recovered is stated to be in successful operation in West Australia. It is called the ore atomic process. Gold quartz is crushed into small lumps and is then put into a closed chamber, subjected to the heat of a furnace, to the action of water and of hydrogen gas. This eliminated sulphur and reduces all oxides to the metallic state. After being heated, the material is suddenly cooled by jets of water—an operation repeated several times till the quartz crumbles to powder at the touch of the finger. It is then thrown into a tank and the gold is separated by washing. —Chicago Tribune.

In speaking of the widow of William Morris, who has just asked that letters of the dead poet be sent to her to be used in his biography, the Boston Transcript says: "Her extraordinary beauty was for years in her youth a sort of outward and visible sign in this world of what the young painters and poets of Morris' set were striving for in art. It is her face which appears in numbers of the paintings of all the pre-Raphaelites, notably in Rossetti's—her wonderful brow, with the thick masses of hair above and the not-to-be-forgotten eyes and mouth, appearing in many pictures, well known also in copies and prints dear to many lovers of art, who have not associated them with the personality of the woman who became the wife of William Morris."

WEIGHING AN ENGINE.

Curious Test Recently Applied to a Famous Locomotive.

A peculiar scientific experiment has been made with the famous engine 870, of the New York Central Railroad, at the shops at West Albany. Some months ago this large engine, which, in the opinion of many well-informed railroad men, excels even the famous 999, was taken into the shops and completely overhauled. It was taken apart completely, and every part of the engine, from the massive driving wheels to the very smallest bolt and nut, was separately weighed. The heavy portions were weighed in the shops and the small parts were taken to a Water-vliet avenue pharmacy, where they were weighed on the pharmacist's scales.

The greatest care was taken by the machinists under the direction of Master Mechanic Buchanan to see that the weighing was accurate. When every part of the engine had been weighed a force of the best skilled mechanics was put to work to reassemble the engine. When it was complete again it was put into active service.

A short time ago the engine was taken back to the shops and mechanics were put to work dissecting it again. Once more every part was weighed. The scales of the pharmacist were brought into service again. When every portion had been weighed the record was compared with the former one. Then Master Mechanic Buchanan knew just how much the engine had lost in weight through the wear of a known amount of work. The records of the weights of the separate parts showed which parts were subjected to the most wear.

The test cost many hundreds of dollars, but the New York Central was willing to spend the money in order that it might be able to know what parts of an engine wear out most quickly and in what ratio the several parts wear out. The exact figures have not been made public. There is no doubt that they will be interesting to mechanics and scientists.—Albany, N. Y., Express.

Longest Cable Ever Constructed.

The new cable now building for the French Cable Company will be the longest ever constructed—3,250 nautical miles. The conductor will have a casing of thirteen strands, requiring 975,000 kilograms of copper, while the wrapping will take 845,000 kilograms of raw gutta percha. The strands of galvanized steel which form the first armature will need 4,687,000 kilograms of steel, and it will be necessary to have a further sheathing of iron to protect the parts of the cable submerged near the coast. For this purpose 1,495,000 kilograms of iron will be needed. In all, the total weight of the cable for the full length of 6,000 kilometers is estimated at the enormous figure of 10,976,350 kilograms. The cable will be laid between Brest and this city this Summer, four steamers being required for the work.—New York Times.

Kingfisher and Swordfish Fight.

George Craft witnessed a fierce battle between a kingfisher and a swordfish at Lake Mahopac, New York. The battle lasted for at least fifteen minutes, and when it was over the combatants were both dead. The kingfisher was flying over the lake looking for prey, when it was seen to make a quick dive into the water. In a few seconds it appeared on the surface with a swordfish.

Both were fighting fiercely. The swordfish plunged his long, sharp beak repeatedly into his opponent, while the kingfisher attempted to strangle its quarry. The water was churned into foam during the struggle.

Finally it was observed that the swordfish was about exhausted. Suddenly, however, it made a terrible lunge at its enemy and the battle was over. Both fighters lay dead on the surface of the lake.—New York Press.

A Standard Joke With the Cavalry.

The United States cavalry officers have one standard joke which they play on the infantry whenever the two branches of the army come together. For instance, says a correspondent, I happened recently to be a guest at a dinner in Omaha, the hosts being some twenty cavalrymen and as many infantrymen. When one of the latter attempted to speak he was interrupted at a critical point by a cavalryman, who said to the guests: "Gentlemen, excuse me one moment. I must order my horse." Then turning to the infantryman, he continued: "Boys, you know what I mean? A horse! A horse! A horse! Animal, rectangle, four corners with a leg at each corner. Pardon me for the interruption." The laugh follows, and the speech is finished.—New Orleans Picayune.

A Brave Bully.

When Judge Pendleton grows reminiscent he is always interesting. Court was short this morning and when Mr. Henry Tompkins walked in he said: "Mr. Tompkins, your cousin, Louis Garth, was the only bully I ever saw who was a brave man. He was in a poker game in camp with Lieutenant Forrest, a brother of General N. B. Forrest, and he called Forrest a liar. Forrest pulled his pistol, a double-barreled weapon, and placing it to Garth's breast, he pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to fire, and Garth spat out a chew of tobacco and without moving a muscle, said: 'Lieutenant, you had better try the other barrel.' Forrest put his weapon up, and said: 'Garth, you are a brave man, and I will not shoot a brave man.' They were inseparable friends forever afterward."—Owensboro (Ky.) Inquirer.

A FAMOUS BAT CATCHER.

Old Matterhorn Makes a Living in Paris by Hunting Queer Animals.

One of the queerest characters in Paris is Matterhorn, the famous toad-hunter and bat catcher. His favorite hunting ground is the great Arcueil aqueduct, which brings the waters of the Dhuys to thirsty Parisians. This is a regular place of refuge for bats, which hang by thousands to the long tunnel, digging their sharp claws into its rough juttings and looking for all the world in the shadows like festoons of cobwebs. There the are, in colonies of forty or fifty, cold and still, waiting for Matterhorn to come along with his lantern and iron box and catch them between his ready thumb and forefinger. The bats make slight resistance, being drowsy with sleep, and in a night Matterhorn often captures a hundred of them or more, and he sells the bats to people who eat them, some from necessity, some from choice, for those who have tried it avow that the flesh of the bat is delicious. It is red and somewhat fat, and, fried and served with chopped parsley, it is said to equal the finest venison in flavor.

"Why should one not eat bats?" exclaimed Matterhorn, in reply to my question. "The little animal is scrupulously clean and feeds on nothing but insects, which is more than can be said of many animals that are eaten with a relish. I tell you that the bat is a much culminated creature, although the number of people who realize that is limited."

"Then I suppose you sell your bats mostly to those who are very poor?"

"Yes, mostly; although there are gourmets who have got beyond popular prejudice and pay me a good price per dozen."

"But you don't live entirely by catching bats, do you?"

"O, no; I catch all kinds of animals that other people do not want. You'd be surprised to know how many kinds of animals there are to catch right here in Paris. Why, the city is full of rabbits, for instance."

"What—wild rabbits?"

"Why, certainly; they burrow all over the cemeteries. Only last year two poachers were caught in the Pere la Chaise cemetery, where they were working with guns, if you please, there was so much game. They should have stuck to snares and the keepers would never have got them. In some of the cemeteries there are so many rabbit holes that the city authorities have had to take measures to get rid of the little animals. We'd save them that trouble if they'd give us a free hand. Some people don't like the idea of eating cemetery rabbits, but pshaw! what's the difference when they're made into a savory stew? Besides, who knows what a rabbit eats, anyway?"

"I'll tell you another thing you will wonder at. I've shot ducks in Paris—wild ducks—on winter nights, just as day was breaking. When a pinch of bitter weather comes on they're driven up the Seine as far as the city, but are frightened away by the people in the daytime. And gulls come up the river, too—flocks of them—but it's queer they never go further than the bridge at the Place de la Concorde, and I have always thought it was because they were afraid of the owls in the ruins of the Cour des Comptes. Yes, there are plenty of owls there all through the year, and starlings and falcons, and also out near the abattoirs. And there are owls in some of the old, uninhabited hotels in the Faubourg Saint Germain. There is one of them that I have tried to catch many a time, that is sole tenant of an abandoned estate No. 20 Rue de Verneuil. That owl has been there for years, and its cries haunt the neighborhood, so that children are terrified and old women make signs of the cross as they hear them."

After this Matterhorn went on to talk about the green lizards, which abound in Paris, and the slow worms, to be found at Montsouris Park and the Buttes-Chaumont, and he told how he hunts toads for scientists and occasionally hunts rats for sport, but he does not think much of rat hunting. All in all, bat catching is his favorite sport, and he said I must come with him out to the aqueduct and watch him fill his iron box.

Where We Get Corks.

The cork oak is said to grow and even thrive in America, but the material obtained is such an inferior quality that all attempts to raise it here have been abandoned in favor of the product from Southern Europe. Spain and Portugal produce the best corks. The finest cork oak forests are found in the interior of these countries, those near the coast being liable to the attacks of a parasite which quickly destroys them.

The trees are not barked until they are fifteen years old; after that they can undergo the spoliation every three years without detriment. A strong healthy tree will yield its bark for 150 years. The season for stripping the tree is in the summer, and the work gives employment to large numbers of men, who can earn on an average about sixty cents a day. The process of manufacture is simple. It consists of boiling the bark in sheets to thicken and make it more elastic, after which the corks are stamped out of the sheets. All over southern Europe many articles, such as coffins, kitchen pails, pillows, shoes, boots and drinking vessels are made from cork.—The Manufacturer.

Potato Diggers.

It is frequently the custom for merchants in Scotland to buy potatoes when in the ground and undertake the lifting and carting. For this purpose they often communicate with a man in ire and called a gaffer, who was a gang of young women over to assist, as the Irish are some of the best workers in the field.

PHYSICIANS BAFFLED.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, Instructor of Natural Science in Hartsville College, Cured of a Severe Illness by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People After Physicians Failed.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.
Prof. R. S. Bowman, the able instructor of natural science in the famous Hartsville (Ind.) College, is well and favorably known, not only as an educator, but also as a minister of the gospel, as for a number of years he was pastor of the United Brethren church at Charlotte, Mich., before coming to Hartsville.

PROF. R. S. BOWMAN.

Some time ago he had a severe illness which was cured almost miraculously. A reporter hearing of this, interviewed him regarding his experience. Prof. Bowman was in the midst of his work when the reporter called, but he cheerfully gave him a hearing.

"A year ago last fall," said the professor, "I broke down with nervous exhaustion, and was unable to properly attend to my duties. I tried different physicians but with no relief, and also used many different proprietary medicines, spending almost fifty dollars for these medicines alone. I then succumbed to a seige of the grip in the middle of winter, and was left in a much worse condition. My kidneys were fearfully disordered, and my digestion became very poor. I was indeed in a bad condition."

"A minister in conference learning of my condition advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had heard much about the wonderful curative powers of this medicine, but it was with reluctance that I was finally persuaded to try it, as it seemed that nothing could do me any good. However, I procured three boxes of pills and took them strictly according to directions. By the time the last dose was taken I was almost cured, and in better health than I had been for years. I continued using the pills awhile longer and was entirely cured. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Such was Professor Bowman's wonderful story, which was fully endorsed by the following affidavit:

HARTSVILLE, Ind., March 16, 1897.
I affirm that the above accords with the facts in my case.

Mechanism of the Human Body.

The human body is an epitome in Nature of all mechanics, all hydraulics, all architecture, all machinery of every kind. There are more than three hundred and ten mechanical movements known to mechanics to-day, and all of these are but modifications of those found in the human body. Here are found all the bars, levers, joints, pulleys, pumps, pipes, wheels and axles, ball and socket movements, beams, girders, trusses, buffers, arches, columns, cables and supports known to science. At every point man's best mechanical work can be shown to be but adaptations of processes of the human body, a revelation of first principles used in Nature.—Ladies' Home Journal.

THE TOWN OF HAY.

The town of Hay is far away,
The town of Hay is far,
Between its hills of green and gray
Its winding meadows are,
Within the quiet town of Hay
Is many a quiet glen,
And there by many a shaded way
Are homes of quiet men;
And there are many eyes away
That turn with longing night and day,
Back to the town of Hay.

Within that good old town of Hay
There was no pride of birth,
And no man there pursued his way
A stranger in the earth,
And none were high and none were low
Of golden hair or gray,
And each would grieve at other's woe
Down in the town of Hay,
And many a tired soul today,
Mid crowded thousands far away,
Weeps for the town of Hay.

A road leads from the town of Hay Forth to a world of din,
And winds and wanders far away,
And many walked therein,
For in the crowds of toil and stress
Their restless footsteps stray,
Their souls have lost the quietness
Of that old town of Hay,
But in some respite of the fray,
In transient dreams they float away
Back to the town of Hay.

Old men are in the town of Hay
Amid its quiet trees,
Who dream of strong sons far away
Upon the stormy seas,
Old mothers when the twilight dews
The woodbine leaves has pealed,
Dream of their boys who wander through
The wilderness of the world,
And tears fall in the twilight gray,
And prayers go up at close of day,
In that old town of Hay.

A hillside in the town of Hay
Is slanting toward the sun
And gathered 'neath its headstones gray
Are sleepers one by one,
And there are tears in distant lands
And grief too deep for tears,
And farewells waved from phantom hands
Across the gulf of years,
And when they place that headstone gray
It crushes hearts so far away
From that old town of Hay.

The Moonshiners' Revenge.

The little group had been indulging in reminiscences through the smoke of their cigars. The stories had taken on a tragic turn. In the party was a Representative from a Southern State, and when the others stopped as though it had come to his turn he was slow to break the silence. He ran his fingers through his mass of iron-gray hair as if in meditation and then leisurely consulted his watch.

"I might tell you a bit of history," said he, "a story which was familiar to almost all the inhabitants in our section some thirty years ago, but I do not know that I can expect you to believe it, things are so different now than they were then, you know."

There was a general request to "go on," and during the time consumed by the Congressman in relating the story each one present sat as if bound by a spell, no one uttering a word from start to finish. This is what he said, to the best of my recollection, and I paid strict attention to every word he uttered:

"At the time this little tragedy was enacted the mountainous regions of our state were infested with illicit distillers. They were dangerous men, and as reckless of the consequences of law-breaking as they were dangerous. It happened that one day, after an exciting chase, a sheriff's posse overtook and captured two of the moonshiners who were wanted, and as a result of the trial which followed, each received a long sentence in prison. I remember the incident quite well and I recall with distinctness that there were many threats, some of them made openly, that the witnesses for the prosecution would suffer dire consequences for having taken the parts they did. One of these witnesses was a man of middle age, as fearless as a lion, who lived in a small log cabin, some three and a half miles from the county seat where the trial had been held, in an isolated mountainous region. He lived with his son, a young fellow, born and reared in the section, a man who had seemingly inherited the courage and vigor of his father. He was one of my own age, and as I was, and have since been, on intimate terms with him, I am able to relate the incidents which occurred in an accurate manner.

"Scarcely a week had elapsed from the time the pair of moonshiners were convicted when the old man was surprised one afternoon, an hour before sunset, just as he was entering his cabin home. Two men had their rifles leveled at his breast, and, being taken unawares, he had no course left but to throw up his hands as they commanded. As it turned out, had the outlaws been content to shoot their victim then and there and thus ended the affair it would have been well for them, but they were intent upon torturing their enemy and the means they employed were the most fiendish and cold-blooded that a pair of cut-throats' minds could well conjure up. They followed the old man into his home, bound his hands securely behind his back, tied his feet tightly together and finally lashed him in an upright position to the stonework of the fireplace. They next gagged their prisoner, dragged the heavy article of furniture which answered for a table to a position in front of him, placing an old-fashioned chair on its top. In another moment they had securely fastened the barrel of the old man's rifle to the chair, in such a manner that its ominous muzzle was directly on a level with his heart. One of the villains next produced a piece of stout cord, carefully made a slip-noose in one end and drew the noose tightly over the hammer of the weapon. The other end of the cord was soon fastened to a convenient nail in the wall at the other side of the room, after which, with deliberate coolness, the heavy table and chair were pushed a little nearer the bound man until the rifle was almost at a full cock. It would be difficult for any man accustomed though he might be to danger and death to imagine the feelings of the prisoner as he realized that the severing of the cord meant instant death! He was not left long in suspense as to the nature of the death-dealing means his enemies had prepared for him, for in a shorter time than it takes to relate it, they had taken a candle from the window sill, lighted it, placed it conveniently upon a small box they had placed upon the table in such a manner that the flame had but to burn a half hour until it should reach the cord and burn it in two. And in another moment, with a few taunting remarks, they were gone.

"How the helpless man must have longed for the return of his son! How he must have watched with bulging eyes and fainting heart the flame of doom burn closer and closer! It was a situation to drive the strongest man to madness. But I will not dwell at any length upon that sad portion of the story. A few moments more, shortly before sunset, the son came down the lonely mountain road, whistling a merry tune. Wholly unconscious of what he should find, he approached his cabin home, tried the door and found it securely locked. Not a sound came from within. Still unaware that anything unusual had happened, he placed his rifle beside the door and walked slowly to the first of the two windows the cabin contained. It was fastened, nailed securely from the inside. A look inside and a wonderful change came over him. He rushed frantically to the one remaining window, only to find that it also resisted his best efforts to open it. At this moment the father's eye rested upon the form of his son, and tears of gratitude wet his rough cheeks. There was not an instant to lose—a less observing man than the son could have seen that. In the fraction of a minute he had gained possession of his trusty rifle, shoved the muzzle through the window pane and fired. His nerve was not the steadiest nor the light the best, but simultaneously with the discharge of the weapon the flickering flame of the candle went out and the whole weight of the pinioned man's form tested the strength of his bonds. He had fainted! With a muttered curse, knowing not but his father was dead, he picked up a log of wood and with three giant sweeps battered the door in. In another moment he had cut the bonds which held the limp form of his father and placed him tenderly upon his cot in the corner.

"Then, with his father safe for the present, the thought of personal danger came to him. Rushing to the window overlooking the road, he saw in the gathering twilight the forms of two men, as they approached, with uncertain steps. The true condition of affairs dawned upon him in an instant! These men, temporarily content with the success of their plans, had left, imbibed freely of moonshine, and, having heard the report of a rifle from the cabin, were now returning to loot the premises, thinking it was all over! They were soon to realize their error, however, for, before they had proceeded half a dozen more steps, the report of a rifle again broke the stillness, and the foremost of the two went down without a cry."

The narrator paused a moment at this juncture, and wiped the perspiration from his brow, while his three auditors awaited the resumption of his story with eagerness.

"The other villain took to a tree," he went on, "but as the son injudiciously showed his form at the window, a rifle ball came crashing in and tore his good right hand almost to pieces. His teeth were set now and a look of intense hatred glowed in his eyes. His opportunity came before long, for the desperate moonshiner was imprisoned behind the moon. Knowing escape to be well nigh impossible, he hastily reloaded his weapon, and, getting down upon his knees, cautiously peeped from his covering, unable to resist the chance of taking another shot at the man in the cabin. It is needless to tell you what followed, except to say that the single look caused his death, which might otherwise have been averted for some time, perhaps indefinitely, as darkness was fast coming on.

"There is little more to relate. The older man, he upon whom the torture had been inflicted, lived for many years after the tragedy, and the son—well, he is living today."

"And the son was never brought to trial, I presume," spoke the treasury official, with a rising inflection of his voice.

"No, sir," was the emphatic response, "that is not the way things are done, in our section of the country, at least. Why, sir, he was one of the most talked-of men in the whole state, and, strange as it may seem, was elevated to a position of some prominence. In fact, some of you may have heard of him."

He arose as he spoke, took a deep breath of cool air at the open window, swung his overcoat over his arm and extended his hand to his host with a hearty "Good night."

"But his name; who was he?" I asked. But the colonel, more used to such revelations than the treasury official and myself, made answer for him. There was no word spoken, but raising the hand he held in his own, so that it was fully exposed to the electric light, we saw, with feelings of awe, that it bore a ragged, unsightly scar extending from the second joint of the forefinger clear to the wrist!—Washington Star.

WHERE FORTUNES ARE STORED.

A Look at the Strong Room of a Great New York Bank.

No little dramatic interest is latent in these huge boxes of heavy masonry, of the dimensions of a large room, with their thousands of interior safes, each with its own locks of various complexity and strength. In a single vault on Broadway there are 15,000 compartments, from a size just sufficient to contain a dozen railroad bonds to the huge caverns of masonry that hold tons upon tons of silver and gold.

The main doors which furnish entrance to the great box are the points on which the utmost mechanical skill is lavished. No burglar would ever think of trying to effect an entrance through the walls. If he disposed of the watchman who tramps around the outside in a little alley between the outer walls of the building and the vault, it would require days to drill sufficient holes to take a solid piece out of the wall. But if a burglar can only overcome the lock of one of the main doors, there is the entrance ready-made. These doors are marvellous. One of them weighs fifteen tons. They are constructed by welding together layers of different hard metals, sometimes seven distinct kinds, so that if an ingenious burglar finds a way of piercing the first, an entirely different problem confronts him at the second, and so on. At any moment his drill is likely to make connections with an electric alarm, which not only raises the guards of that vault, but tells the watchman of half a dozen others, some a mile away, that trouble is at hand. But even if the lock were overcome the monster doors would not open, because a large section of the stone floor has to be sunk down by an electrical device before the bottom of the doors are above the masonry. Just above each door appears an ominous-looking pipe; it can, in the event of burglarious efforts, belch forth boiling water and steam on the assailants below.—C. D. Lanier in Scribner's.

Regulating the Pitch of Bells.

In the casting of bells of large size for chimers or given tones, the skill and secret of success lie in getting the thickness of the ring which is at the mouth of the bell just right. It will be noticed that just a little back from the edge of the bell, on the flange, the metal is thicker than in any other portion. The maker, in order to get the desired tone, makes a drawing of the bell, and in a cross section of this thicker ring describes a circle the diameter of which determines the tone.—Albany Express.

ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF FAURE.

PRESIDENT OF FRENCH REPUBLIC HAS A NARROW ESCAPE.

BOMB THROWERS WERE AFTER HIM.

Several Parties Are Arrested on Suspicion of Having a Hand in the Affair.

A special from Paris says: An attempt was made Sunday to assassinate Felix Faure, president of the French republic, while he was en route to Long Champs to witness the grand prix.

While M. Faure's carriage was passing a thicket near La Cascade restaurant near the Bois de Boulogne, a bomb, which subsequently proved to be a piece of tubing about six inches long and two inches in diameter, with a thickness of half an inch, charged with powder and swan shot, exploded. No one was injured by the explosion.

A man in the crowd, suspected as the prime mover, was arrested. He gave his name as Gallet and made only the briefest replies to questions put to him by the police. Gallet said that he had no occupation, but resided at Leveillers-Pere.

The police are making a thorough search of his lodgings. He is believed to be insane, for he shouted as the carriage passed along so loudly as to attract general attention in the crowd.

The police have made another arrest in the case—a youth—but it is thought probable that the actual culprit escaped in the thicket.

The news of the attempt spread like wildfire through the city, and when M. Faure returned to the Elysee the streets along the route where it was known he would drive were crowded with people who cheered vociferously.

It was at first reported that the would-be assassin was a young man, about twenty-five, who stood in the crowd a hundred yards or more from the race course and discharged a pistol at M. Faure as he drove up to the entrance; and there was another report that both pistol and bomb were used. But the police now believe the supposed pistol shot was merely the noise of the bomb.

The bomb was a clumsily made affair, to which a piece of fuse was attached, and the fuse was probably lighted by a paper fixed in the end of a stick as soon as the head of the procession came in view. The presumption is that the moment the fuse was lighted the culprit fled. In any case, the bomb could not have done much harm.

In the thicket where the police found the remnants of the bomb they also found a pistol, upon which were engraved the words, "Mortu Felix Faure," and the names "Alsace-Lorraine" and "Cologne." Near the pistol was a small dagger bearing a similar threatening inscription, and a few feet away the police found a newspaper with a cartoon grossly insulting to the president. This contained an offensive inscription hinting at the execution of M. Faure.

The police made three arrests on suspicion of complicity in the bomb explosion, among them being two brothers, Galbel and Lavrin Gannier. They were closely questioned by M. Athalin, the examining magistrate, but as they gave satisfactory accounts of themselves and their movements, they were released about midnight.

The attempt on the life of M. Faure was made on the very spot where Berezowsky tried to shoot the czar while driving to the military review at Long Champs in 1867, and where Fancois, a lunatic, last year fired his revolver at M. Faure on July 14.

WHOLESALE ARRESTS.

Nineteen Negroes Were Charged With the Murder of Jackson.

The sheriff of Georgetown, S. C., carried nineteen negroes there Saturday charged with the curving to death of Jackson on an adjacent island, when he attempted to kill their pastor.

They were arrested without any trouble, although while the tragedy was being enacted the negroes are said to have been in a religious frenzy. Sixteen were released on bond, the others committed for trial.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN SLAIN.

Negro Desperado in Mississippi Does Bloody Work With His Gun.

News has been received of the murder of five negroes in the extreme northwestern portion of Kemper county, Miss., Sunday night.

A negro named Sibley, while drunk, secured a gun and started out to kill every person he met. He came across five negroes, three women and two children. He shot them down. He also shot at six other negroes, who narrowly escaped.

As soon as the bloody work of Sibley was discovered a mob was organized to lynch the murderer. Sibley took to the woods, carrying his gun with him.

GLADSTONE IGNORED.

Official Programme of Queen's Jubilee Offends Liberals.

A London cablegram says: The official programme of the queen's jubilee procession as published has given umbrage to the liberals, owing to the utter absence of recognition of the civil and industrial side of the queen's reign.

The Daily Chronicle is very outspoken on the subject, especially at the omitting of Mr. Gladstone, and asks:

"What kind of a show is it that gives a prominent place to the soldiers of Emperor William and to the representatives of Turkish barbarism and excludes the greatest living English speaking statesman of the world?"

Continuing, The Chronicle remarks: "The Victoria era is conspicuous above all in the progress of labor and the steady growth of self government. Yet the working classes are ignored. A still more striking fact is that the presiding officers of the two houses of parliament are not recognized. The speaker's office is centuries old. He is the first commoner in England, presides over its most famous representative institution and is the figurehead of democratic government, yet he has no place in the procession. What will the colonials, who are wedded to pure democracy think of this?"

In conclusion, The Chronicle says: "If the crown has done something for the country, it is also true that the country had done much for the crown, for its own progress and for the general cause of human welfare."

INDIAN OUTLAWS IN LIMBO.

They Are Under Arrest and Will Be Tried For Murder.

The Indian office at Washington has received from Captain Stouch, of the Tongue river, Montana agency, a detailed report on the recent troubles there, arising from the murder of settler John Hoover by David Stanley, a Cheyenne brave.

After much diplomacy on the part of the agent, Stanley, with his two accomplices—Sam Crow and Yellow Hair—are now lodged in jail in Miles City, and will be tried by the civil courts.

Captain Stouch's description of the trouble is interesting in that it shows constant conflict between federal officers and the state authorities in the arrests of Indians. In this case the presence of the sheriff and a large posse came near causing a conflict with the Indians.

ALDRICH TO TAKE A REST.

The Senator's Physician Orders Him To Take a Vacation.

Senator Aldrich, republican member of the tariff bill committee, left Washington Saturday by order of his physician. He has been confined to his room at the Arlington almost all the time since the first week of the tariff debate with an aggravated attack indigestion with other complications.

He was able to be present at the first caucus on the sugar schedule and was taken with a relapse afterwards. As he did not improve, his physician directed that he should go where he would have absolute rest and be free from the possibility of any consultation with him on the tariff. The senator accordingly went to his Rhode Island home.

The department communicated this information to all collectors and masters of the patrol fleet on the Florida coast with instructions to be on the alert to prevent the departure of any suspected expedition.

The league also requests that the public school teachers devote the last half day of the spring and summer session to the story of Cuba.

Some Big Women.

Some years ago there was exhibited in Piccadilly a young Swiss lady named Catherine Boebner. At the age of twenty-three she measured six feet five inches, and came to this country after a tour in Europe, during which she was presented at the courts of Russia and Germany, creating quite a sensation by her beauty, which was greatly enhanced by the picturesque costume in which she appeared. Another lady, described as "The Astonishing French Giantess," was exhibited in St. James's street about the year 1825. This Frenchwoman was six feet four inches in height.

About fourteen years ago a very remarkable spectacular performance, called "Babil and Bijon," drew enormous audiences to the old Alhambra, in Leicester square, then under the management of "The People's Caterer," the late William Holland. Maas, the celebrated singer, made his reputation in the piece, but the chief attraction was the Amazon Queen, impersonated by a young German girl called Marian, whose gigantic proportions put all former tall ladies completely in the shade. She measured eight feet two inches, and presented a gorgeous appearance as she strode on to the stage with the lime light shining upon her comely face and well-proportioned limbs.—New Illustrated Magazine.

A Japanese Tea Myth.

The origin of tea, according to Japanese tradition, was as natural as it is credible. Prince Darma, in the remote ages, was a holy Asiatic who spent day and night in meditations upon the Infinite and, like the Shoeblack in "The Dweller on the Threshold," all things that begin with a capital letter. One night his ecstasy was interrupted by sleep. On awakening he was so dismayed at his infirmity that he tore off his eyelids, and flung them (says the writer from whom comes this version of the legend) on the ground. The spectacle of a holy Asiatic flinging his eyelids on the ground deserves the notice of an historical painter. On visiting the spot later Prince Darma found that his eyelids had grown into a shrub. He had the wit to take some of the leaves and pour boiling water upon them. Ever after by simply drinking a little of the precious liquid he was able to keep sleep at bay and pursue his thoughts with added zest and profit.

JAMES K POWERS

WILL BE THE NEXT PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA.

The Birmingham News of Tuesday says:

Professor James K Powers, of Florence, will be the next president of the University of Alabama.

The nominating committee of the Board of Trustees, composed of Mr. James E Webb, of Birmingham, Judge Wm. Richardson, of Huntsville, and Judge W S Thorington, of Montgomery, met this morning at the office of Mr. Webb in this city.

As the result of their conference Professor Powers was nominated for the University Presidency. His nomination is equivalent to an election, as it is understood that the full Board of Trustees has practically clothed the Committee on Nominations with complete power in the matter of filling the University chairs.

The Dean of the Law Faculty was not chosen, nor were any other selections that might have been determined given out.

A BRIEF SKETCH.

Professor Powers is the president of the State Normal School at Florence. He is one of the best known and ablest educators in Alabama. The following brief sketch of him is taken from the "Memorial Record of Alabama," published in 1893:

"James K Powers, A. M., President of the State Normal College at Florence, was born in Lauderdale county, August 15, 1851. He was educated at the Florence Wesleyan University and at the University of Alabama and was a tutor in the former institution in 1870-71. In 1873 he was graduated from the State University with the degree of Master of Arts, when that institution was granting that degree for a grade of ninety or over in every department of the institution. Immediately after his graduation he was appointed Professor of Mathematics in the State Normal College.

In 1888 he was elected President of the Normal College and was re-elected in 1890 and 1892. Under his Presidency the Normal College has reached the highest point of efficiency and attendance in its history. The average attendance in 1891 was 294, whereas the highest enrollment, previous to his election to the presidency never exceeded 240 in any one year. It has attained the position of a Normal School principally under his management. Prof. Powers was one of the originators of the Alabama Educational Association, and has served as Chairman of the Executive Committee for two years; and President for one year. He has a very extensive acquaintance among the teachers of the South, and has probably supplied more places with teachers than any other man in the South. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, is a Knight of Pythias, and is a Past Grand Dictator for the State in the order of the Knights of Honor. He was married January 30, 1879, at Nashville, Tenn., to Miss Lula Reynolds, daughter of the late Calvin A. Reynolds, of Giles county. As Prof. Powers connection with the Normal College dates from the first day of the first session, he is now completing his twentieth year's service. Every graduate and under-graduate sent out by the institution (hundreds in number) has passed through his hands. These fill many of the most important positions in the state. To know these facts is to realize the influence that Prof. Powers has had in molding the educational sentiment of the state."

ALABAMA'S GREATNESS.

"Did it ever occur to you" said the Hon. F. J. Kilpatrick of Bridgeport, Ala., "that in the state of Alabama is found six of the seven great American 'raw materials,' namely, coal, iron, corn, cotton, timber and clay in almost unlimited quantities and at first cost? That is why we believe Alabama is destined to be the greatest manufacturing state in the Union. We manufacture iron now at a smaller cost than it can be produced in any other portion of the globe, and we are now perfecting methods and means to convert our iron into steel, which, when accomplished, will leave us without a rival in that business.

"Recent discoveries of immense beds of kaolin and pottery clays have been made in close proximity to practically inexhaustible deposits of pure silica. These, being the two greatest raw materials used in the manufacture of pottery, will enable us to manufacture all classes of this ware at as proportionately low prices as we now produce iron. The vast importance of this industry to our State can hardly be exaggerated, especially when we consider the new schedule in the tariff bill on crockery and china.—Washington Post.

HENRY ARMSTRONG KILLED

Near Vincent Last Monday—John Warren His Slayer.

The Birmingham News of Tuesday gives the following account of the tragedy:

A difficulty took place yesterday afternoon between Hapersville and Vincent, Shelby county, thirty-five miles east of here, in which Henry Armstrong, a sawyer at John Warren's saw mill, was shot and instantly killed.

The details of the terrible affair as received in this city are as follows: Armstrong was in Birmingham yesterday and is said to have purchased a pistol. He went out on the Central of Georgia train at 9:45 yesterday morning. He arrived at Vincent about 11 o'clock and was met by Warren at the mill.

It seems that Warren had paid Armstrong $10 a few days ago. Armstrong said he needed it for a certain purpose and with it came to the city. When he alighted from the train at Vincent yesterday, it is stated that he told Warren that he had spent the money for something else than what he at first intended to buy. It is averred that he told Mr. Warren that he had bought a pistol and with it he intended killing him (Warren).

The story goes that Armstrong told Warren five times that he intended killing him. When the two men arrived at Armstrong's house, at which place Warren boarded, Armstrong renewed his threats, so it is said. About that time, it is said, Armstrong pulled the pistol and was going to fire on Warren, when the latter, who is a strong man, took hold of the weapon and, wrenching it from Armstrong, turned the barrel on his assailant.

Two shots were fired in rapid succession. One of the bullets passed through Armstrong's heart, causing death almost instantly. The other bullet sped through another part of the body.

Armstrong's father was near at hand and he pulled a pistol as if to kill Warren, but the latter pointed the weapon which had already done killing, towards the old man and Warren told the latter to lower or he would fire. The elder Armstrong lowered his pistol and Warren walked out of the house.

Warren then walked down to Hapersville with the pistol still in his hand, and went to a Justice of the Peace, to whom he told the story of the killing. He promised to surrender the weapon if the Justice of the Peace would guarantee him protection and that was done. Mr. Warren is now in the hands of the law. He claims self defense.

The deceased was a son of Mr. Mack Armstrong who resides near this city and the Sentinel is informed that the elder Armstrong was on a visit to his son at the time of the sad and unfortunate occurrence, and that he and the wife of the dead man were the only witnesses. A preliminary investigation was held and Mr. Warren was released from custody.

LESS THAN ONE FARE.

To San Francisco and Return—What the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Has to Say of this Trip.

To San Francisco and return at much less than one fare.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad company has this to say:

On account of the International Convention of the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor, to be held at San Francisco, Cal., July 7 to 12, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company will sell tickets from Birmingham to San Francisco at the very low rate of $25.85.

Arrangements have been perfected whereby the above amount is paid for going passage and the passenger is allowed to select the same or a different route returning at the same rate.

Upon payment of a small additional amount returning passengers can visit the North Pacific slope on the way home by way of Portland, Ore., and the famous Yellowstone National Park. Unexcelled transportation arrangements have been made in the way of special through Pullman Tourist and Buffet Sleepers, bringing the cost of living in transit down to a comparatively nominal figure. The Louisville and Nashville and its connections have been named by the Alabama State Y P S C E as absolutely the official route.

Florida, Tennessee, Georgia, South Carolina and other southern states have also named the above great popular highway as the official and most liberal and interesting trans-continental route. Just notice a few of the attractions put for the first time on record within the reach of almost every one: St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, Oakland Beach, Ogden, Sacramento, San Francisco, Portland, Yellowstone Park, Los Angeles, El Paso, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas, New Orleans and lots of other big cities of our country with their surrounding attractions. It is a great big bill of fare at popular prices. Grandest scenery in the world, best railroad service, congenial people and low rates make the trip one of a lifetime. Don't make any mistake selecting your route. Get your sleeping accommodations booked early and save confusion.

Remember the date tickets will be on sale June 28 to July 2, good to return until August 15, 1897. From Montgomery, Selma, Mobile, Florence, Huntsville and other points rates are based correspondingly low as from Birmingham. Newspaper space is too limited to do justice to a description of a trip of this kind.

See the nearest Louisville and Nashville ticket agent and have him tell what he knows of the attractions offered. They are all ready and willing to help you select a delightful route.

The undersigned will be glad to give full particulars and to furnish the populace at large and Endeavorers in particular descriptive matter, etc. The Sunset Coast is waiting to give everyone a hearty welcome and the Louisville and Nashville railroad has made preparations to carry them in a manner befitting the occasion.

The trial of Mrs. Anna Seale, for the killing of her husband, which has been occupying the attention of the circuit court of this county for the past week, came to an end Monday. The jury rendered a verdict of manslaughter in the first degree, and fixed the punishment at imprisonment in the penitentiary for five years. This is the second trial of this case, as on the former trial, the jury, after being out a week, failed to reach a verdict and a mistrial was rendered.

He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians said nothing could be done for me, and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894 Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Company, recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me that my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. The Frost Fender will roll
OUT OF
WHOA AND WORRY
Try it. We Guarantee.

If any Break should occur in the Castings the Part or Parts Will Be Replaced Without Charge.
This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention; a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he has long needed, and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender.

How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work. You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow and the plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant.

By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity.

All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectually avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant on an undercurrent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up.

The revolving disc passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market. The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow.

The revolving motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, in the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it.

It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools. WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc., 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use. 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle of the field. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it.

All these advantages we give you for the sum of one dollar and seventy-five cents and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

TESTIMONIALS.

Randolph, Sept. 28, 1895.—Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender, we certify that it is all you claim for it, and more, it being the best thing we have ever used for the protection of small plants while plowing them. As ever, yours, T. J. & F. J. FITTS.

Trion, Ala., Sept. 26, 1895.—Mr. J. H. Frost, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender we find it to be the very thing. It does excellent work, and every farmer needs them and ought to have them, and would not be without them after once trying them. E. H. ELLIOTT & SON.

Asbury, Ala., Oct. 15, 1896.—Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender the past season, it affords me pleasure to add my testimony of its good merits. The English newspapers are becoming venturesome. One of them has sent a correspondent on a secret mission, of which it speaks in the following mysterious terms: "We cannot indicate his destination, for the journey that lies before him is one of the most perilous kind, and a whisper of his identity or the purpose of his mission would seal his death warrant. He purposes to tread a path that has never known the foot of a white man, and will travel with such a following as no newspaper correspondent has ever mustered for his private ends. Hundreds of men and scores of horses will follow his banner and every man of the party will carry his life in his hand." Whew!

The Alton turfman who killed himself because "horses were so slow" verified the common experience. The only fast horses are those you did not bet on.

THE STATE NORMAL AT FLORENCE, THE BEST IN THE SOUTH.

JAS. K. POWERS, President.

DR. MAYO TO GOVERNOR JOHNSTON.

Dr. A. D. Mayo, of Boston, spent a month last spring in visiting the several institutions of learning in Alabama. The following extracts are from a letter to Gov. Johnston under date May 8, 1897.

"During the past 17 years I have visited every State Normal College in the 16 Southern States.

"I can honestly say that in all my experience in the South, I have seen no State Normal which seems to me to have more completely grasped the true idea of that style of school or more completely carried it out than the one at Florence. * * * * *

"I have never seen in any State so much good work done for so small a sum of money as I see here at the State Normal at Florence."

LUMBER FOR A LUNCH.

The Porcupine Enjoys Anything so Long as It's Salted.

"You wouldn't have to skirmish around much to get feed enough to fatten a Hemlock Belt porcupine on, say, in that you wanted to fatten one," said an old Potter County, Pennsylvania, woodsman. "Just sprinkle salt over a stick of cordwood, or a sawlog for that matter, an' he'll eat up the whole business an' enjoy it same as you would a hunk o' mince pie. Why, them critters is so fond o' salt that if you should salt the four sides of your hunting shanty from the ground to the roof they'd eat it down over your head and not leave a splinter to mark where it stood! They don't mind a man, or twenty men, if there's a salt barrel, or a barrel that's had salt pork in it, anywhere in camp, and they'll fight like little devils to get at it as long as one of 'em is alive.

"Look at the time me and Bill Bent was campin' over at 'Tater creek in Newcom's lumber shanty. One night we was woke up by somethin' trampin' over us, an' I knowed in a minute it was porcupines.

"Lay still, Bill," says I, "till they git over, for if you rise up they'll make a pincushion out o' you."

"So we laid still till more'n twenty porcupines had walked over us. They came from all directions, and got in the shanty through some big cracks on the sides.

"It's that old pork barrel in the corner that they're after," says I; but as we didn't care to have the tinned quill drivers fooin' round there all night, we went at 'em with our axes, and fit 'em till we killed every one. Next day we battened up all the cracks in the shanty. Another drove o' porcupines come along next night, and findin' no place to get in, begun to chaw their way in. Bill got up an' was fur now in 'em all down again, but I told him to let 'em alone.

"Let's jest see what they'll do anyhow," says I.

"I wouldn't dast tell you how short a time it took fer them salt-crazy porcupines to chaw holes in that shanty big enough to let 'em in, but if you should guess ten minutes you'd be too high. They come a-rattlin' in, an' I poked up the fire so's we could see what they was goin' to do. They didn't pay no more attention to me an' Bill than if we hadn't been there, but scrambled over to the corner where the empty pork barrel was, an' sot to work at it. In less than an hour they had eat the barrel up, staves, hoops, an' all, an' then turned to an' chawed up a couple o' boards near the bar'l, a lot o' brine havin' been spilled on 'em some time. Then the drove scampered out o' the shanty same as they came in, except that they took with 'em a to'able good-sized load o' lumber they had lunched on."

Aged Farmer Killed.

One day last week William Romine, an aged farmer, was knocked off the approach to the iron bridge that spans Loss Creek one mile east of Carbon Hill by a west bound freight train and instantly killed. The deceased was about 80 years old. He was sitting on the track and did not move until the engine signaled, and then was hit before he could get out of the way.

Decensed was a good citizen and had lived in the country over fifty years.

May Lease Its Convicts.

Justice Coleman, of the supreme court, recently rendered a decision in the Birmingham convict lease case, reversing the decision of Circuit Court Judge Banks, which declared the lease of the city of Birmingham prisoners to the Sloss Iron & Steel company for work in the coal mines unconstitutional. Under Justice Coleman's decision the habeas corpus of Powell, the prisoner who brought the suit, is dismissed, and the lease with the Sloss company holds good. The convicts, as the result, will go back to the mines.

The Lane-Oates Case.

At Huntsville the case of the state against Charles P. Lane, editor of the Huntsville Tribune, for blackmailing Governor Oates, was practically disposed of last week. Ex-Governor Oates was present and coached the prosecution. One ground of the demurrer was sustained. Governor Oates then arose and suggested to the court that a nolle prosequere be entered, to which Solicitor Richard Lowe agreed. Judge Richardson, attorney for Lane, objected, saying a jury and verdict of not guilty was the least the defendant would accept. The defendant gave bond and will await the future action of some grand jury.

United American Mechanics.

A state council of the junior order of United American Mechanics was instituted at Huntsville Friday night. Eight subordinate councils met, from different parts of the state and assisted F. C. Borden, of Missouri, national organizer. The officers elected were: L. G. McMillan, Greenville, Ala., Jr. P. S. C.; R. M. Fletcher, Jr., Huntsville, S. C.; J. Walker Tyler, Decatur, S. C.; G. T. Sets Out 23,000 Potato Plants.

M. L. Funkhauser, a practical farmer who recently located near Tusculum from Maryland to spend two years in farming, during which time he will make a careful and thorough test of the lands in this immediate section of the South, and if pleased with permanently locate in the South and probably be the means of securing a number of other farmers from his state to locate here, is sweet potato planting on a large scale. With the assistance of four hired men and fourteen boys one day last week, he pulled, puddled and planted 23,000 sweet potato plants, giving to each a pint of water, besides preparing and fertilizing the ground. Already he has set out 63,000 plants this season, and will plant as many more. Is successful, next fall he will ship his crop to Northern and Eastern markets. He is also testing the growth of upland rice, and holds to the opinion that rice can be raised to profit in Northern Alabama. Mr. Funkhauser is a gentleman of considerable financial means and has the best and most modern farm machinery of all kinds.

Bankers' Association.

The eighth annual session of the Alabama Bankers' Association which was held in Birmingham last week was largely a ndle.

It was decided to memorialize the Alabama delegation in congress to work for the reduction of taxation on circulation, and that the national banks be allowed to issue legal tender at the par value of the bonds. It was also determined to refer both of these matters to the National Bankers' association. On motion it was decided to bring to the attention of the next legislature the need of a bank supervisor and a system of state bank supervision in Alabama.

At the afternoon session officers were elected as follows: President, J. B. Cobbs, Birmingham; vice-president, F. S. Moody, Tuscaloosa; secretary and treasurer, T. O. Smith, Birmingham. President Cobbs appointed the following executive committee: Gen. T. A. Rucker, H. S. Earl and B. T. Stevens, Birmingham; R. M. Green, Opelika, and Gen. J. W. Whiting, Mobile. The following committee was appointed to visit the National Bankers' association and urge the memorial adopted at the morning session: Gen. J. W. Whiting, Mobile; B. Steiner, Birmingham; W. R. Rison, Huntsville.

The local bankers tendered the visiting bankers a banquet at the Morris.

A Speedy Trial Assured.

The negro woman implicated in the Decatur assault reached [Huntsville-Saturday] at 2 o'clock a.m. by private conveyance from Athens, Ala., twenty-five miles away. She was intercepted there by officers from Decatur, who knew it would be at the peril of her life to be carried there. She was arrested in Nashville at the home of Dr. Stubblefield, where she was employed.

A newspaper correspondent visited the jail Saturday morning and interviewed her, Lewis Thompson and Walter Neville. They all stoutly deny knowledge of the crime.

The woman gave her name as Rose Buford; says she was born in Giles county, Tennessee, and is 19 years old. She is rather under the average in size and much above the average in intelligence. She worked with Mr. Lawton one year in Decatur. Lewis Thompson is a burly looking young man, rather heavy set. He makes all kinds of contradictory statements in regard to the charge and shows guilt in every expression. He says he is only 18 years old. He says it has been three months since he was at Lawton's house. He says Walter Neville is his partner.

Walter Neville is a more intelligent looking young negro, 16 years old. He talks freely. Proof of their guilt is positive and it is believed one or more of them will confess.

Judge Speake has issued an order for a special term of court to try them.

TAKEN TO BIRMINGHAM.

Capt. Ledbetter, in charge of the state troops, was ordered by the Governor Saturday to return to Birmingham by first train with the criminals, only the officials being notified. As the soldiers began to break camp the crowd began to assemble, and when the prisoners were marched out and manacled, and placed in a carriage and driven to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis passenger depot a great crowd followed.

THE WORK OF FIENDS.

Diabolical Attempt to Cremate a Family Living Near Gallatin, Tenn.

About 2 o'clock Friday morning Mrs. John Stratton, who lives three miles west of Gallatin, Tenn., was awakened by the roar of fire, to find that her house was in flames. She at once began to get her children out, and they barely escaped with their lives. The house and entire contents were destroyed.

Upon investigation it was found that the smoke house, near by, had been robbed, and coal oil had been poured in profusion around the dwelling and then set on fire, which shows that it was the desire of the brutes to cremate the inmates.

The people of that section of the county are very much enraged over the brutal act, and if the felon is apprehended he will be dealt with severely. Up to date there is no clue to the milk snatcher.

CAUSE OF YELLOW FEVER.

Physician Hopes to Discover a Serum for Preventive Vaccination.

At Montevideo, Dr. Sanaralli, in a lecture delivered before delegates from all parts of South America, members of the diplomatic corps and others, announced recently that he had discovered the cause of yellow fever to be a bacillus which he had named leteroid and which was very rare. He explained that it infested the blood of parents and their bodies after death. The bacilli, he continued, could be easily eliminated by secondary injections, and he hoped soon to discover a curative serum for preventive vaccination.

THE CURE OF DIABETES.

A Case Successfully Treated in Madison County, N. Y.

From the Press, Utica, N. Y.

On the recommendation of Mr. William Woodman, of South Hamilton, New York, that Mr. Amos Jaquays, a resident of Columbus Centre, New York, be interviewed regarding his extraordinary recovery from advanced kidney trouble, embracing diabetes in its worst form, Mr. Jaquays was visited and willingly made the accompanying statement:

"I am fifty years of age, and five years ago began to suffer with pains in the back and weakness in the region of the kidneys, and I had a tremendous flow of urine. Strange to say my appetite increased to an extraordinary degree, but instead of giving me strength my food seemed to make me weaker and thinner, and I was terribly constipated. My mouth was pasty, I had continuous heartburn and pain across the lower part of my stomach and frequent vomiting. Indeed all or nearly all my functions became impaired, my sight was dim, memory deserted me, and life became irksome. I consulted the best medical talent in the county, and they all diagnosed my case as sugar diabetes in its most aggravated form, but gave me no relief whatever. At last I was in such a desperate condition that a council of physicians was called but their good offices did me no good, and I looked forward to death with satisfaction as the only relief I could expect.

"My old friend, William Woodman, about this time came to visit me, and from him I first heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which he declared had cured him of rheumatism, with which he had suffered all his life, and he believed they would do me good, as he had read of a case of diabetes being cured by their use. I believe it was next day after Mr. Woodman's visit that Mr. F. Hyde, of South Hamilton, New York, called on me, and I was told by him that Pink Pills had saved his life and he advised me by all means to try them.

"This settled the question and I at once began a course of home treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Within a week the medicine began to do its work, the constipation was relieved, my skin, which had been dry and hard, assumed its normal feel and appearance, I no longer had the insufferably bad taste in my mouth, and though still weak and almost helpless, the pain in my back and kidneys began to abate, and the flow of urine decreased. But I was far from health, and built very few hopes on permanent cure, though I continued to take the pills constantly for the next year and a half, growing slowly but surely during that time better and better. Then I began to reduce the daily dose, and kept meddling until six months ago, when I discontinued them, and I was entirely cured.

"I am still subject to cold which is apt to settle in my kidneys, and always keep Pink Pills by me, as they bring me round very quickly. In all, I have, I believe, taken fifty boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and shall never be without them as long as I have half a dollar. I have recommended them to all my suffering friends, and they seem to be good for any disorder of the system as they have never failed to do their work in any case that I know of, and some were pretty low.

"I certify the above statement to be true in every particular, and if I commanded stronger language, I should use it in praising Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"Amos Jaquays."

Mr. Jaquays is a highly respectable and well-to-do farmer and builder, and highly connected in Madison County.

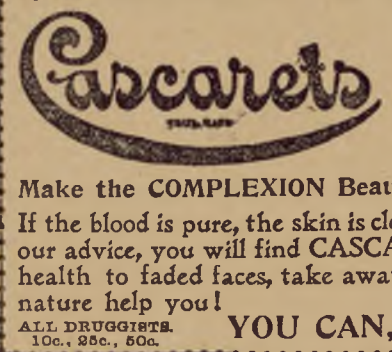

The proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills state that they are not a patent medicine but a prescription used for many years by an eminent practitioner who had produced the most wonderful results with them, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill to which flesh is heir. The pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppression, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing-down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. They are entirely harmless and can be given to weak and sickly children with the greatest good and without the slightest danger. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

BICYCLE EXCITEMENT.

The greatest sensation of the season in the bicycle market has been occasioned by four of the leading manufacturers combining to protect the retail trade from being imposed upon by agents and others who have no reputation to lose, as bicycle dealers. This combination, of which the John P. Lovell Arms Co. are the moving spirits, have forced down the price of high grade wheels so that there is now no reason why a cyclist should ride anything but a first-class, guaranteed wheel, and at prices charged from the nameless and unguaranteed wheels. There is considerable opposition to this combination on the part of those who handle low grade wheels, but the public will be the winners, thanks to the Lovell Arms Co. A catalogue of our regular bicycle stock and a special list of wheels issued by the Big Four Combination mailed free on application.

MR. MEEKS'S PRISONER.

BY LESTER KETCHUM.

He said his name was Meeks, and it struck thoughtful ones in Buffalo Horn that the patronymic was singularly appropriate; for the gentleman himself was a mild-eyed, "sandy-lookin'" little man, with a self-deprecatory air that suggested a standing apology on his part for presuming to exist. He floated into town quietly, and so unobtrusive and modest was he that it was several days before his presence began to be noticed, and then only on account of a rumor that had gained circulation to the effect that he was an officer of the United States secret service. Then Buffalo Hornites smiled. Of course, like all western people, they understood that it is not best to judge from appearances; but, oh! what a chump Uncle Sam must be, to send a wee bit of a man like this to arrest an Oklahoma malefactor!

To be sure, nobody had the temerity to suggest this to Mr. Meeks. There are communities in which the one who presumes upon appearances is taking very long chances, and Buffalo Horn was one of these. Therefore, Mr. Meeks was treated with great show of respect by all the leading citizens, who squared things with themselves by privately "giving him the horse-laugh." And, all unconscious, Mr. Meeks kept on his way, or, rather, stayed where he was and lay in wait for some certain criminal who was wanted for violating a score, more or less, of the federal statutes.

In strictest confidence, and with child-like faith, he had imparted more or less information concerning his mission to Mart Winslow, the landlord of the little hotel where he was staying—and Mart being, after the manner of his kind, an inveterate gossip, soon spread what information he had gleaned from the stranger, thereby causing a broad grin to appear whenever his guest was mentioned.

"Oh, but ain't 'e easy?" chuckled Mart to a couple of friends, one day, as he nodded towards the barroom, where Mr. Meeks was engaged in "settin' 'em up" to the ever ready crowd. "D'y ever see sech a sucker? Comes yer an' 'xpec's th' duck 'e's layin' fer 't lope right intuh th' camp an' give 'isself up, I s'pose; so yere 'e stays, diggin' up fifteen a week 'r board an' spendin' copious at th' bar. Oh, I c'n stand it awhile."

"S'posin' th' man sh'd come in, all of a suddint?" said Jim Wylie, the city marshal. "Say, I bet 'e'd die o' scare!"

"Who is it th' little feller wants, Mart?" asked some one sitting by the window.

"Sh-h-h! Easy, Frank! Oh, I d'no', not now. But I'll bet ye one thing—'tain't nobody he's a-goin' t' ketch right off."

It came to be rumored, within a day or two, that "Kingfisher" Williams was the man Mr. Meeks was after, this rumor being based upon the fact that the little man had been—very quietly, of course—making inquiries concerning that notorious person, whom numerous county and national officers were more or less anxious to meet. He was not known personally to anyone in Buffalo Horn, but Mr. Wylie assured the little man that Kingfisher Williams was a very bad man indeed, and that if Mr. Meeks effected his capture it would be a great feather in his cap—whereupon the little man swelled up considerably and invited Mr. Wylie to join him at the bar.

It was about a week after this conversation that the secret service officer and the city marshal were standing in the barroom, discussing some question or other, when the door opened, and a stranger entered and, walking up to the bar, called for whiskey. Mr. Meeks was looking earnestly upward into the big marshal's face as the stranger entered, but with his gaze for a moment to glance at the newcomer. Then he reached for his revolver.

"There's my man!" he remarked, calmly, in an undertone, to the marshal. "Get back from the bar, please."

Wylie, dumbfounded, did as he was bidden, in time to see the stranger look up just as Mr. Meeks got him covered.

"Hands up, Mr. Williams!" commanded the little man. "I want you!" With an oath the other "drew," and for a few seconds there was a confusion of shots, in which the city marshal could take no part by reason of his revolver getting stuck and refusing to come forth. Then the stranger threw up both hands in token of surrender.

"Have you—er—a pair of handcuffs, Mr. Wylie?" asked Mr. Meeks. "Put 'em on him please. Sorry, Mr. Williams, but I can't take any chances with you."

Williams did not answer, but growled angrily under his breath as he submitted to being handcuffed. "I'll git you for this!" he said to Wylie, as the latter stepped back after finishing the operation.

"Oh, ye will, will ye? Wait ontell my friend, Mr. Meeks, gits through 'ith ye, Mr. Williams," was the cheerfully reply.

"Wan't put 'im in th' cooler?" asked the marshal, presently.

"No, thanks. He'll bunk with me tonight, and tomorrow we leave. Much obliged, all the same."

It was not more than an hour before everyone in Buffalo Horn knew that little Mr. Meeks had, single-handed, captured the notorious Kingfisher Williams, after a short battle in which nobody was hurt, and the general sentiment was of the "Well, I'll be dog-goned!" variety.

That night Mr. Meeks had a levee and blushing received the congratulations of the best citizens of Buffalo Horn during a period of two hours, the while his now staunch friend, Jim Wylie, obligingly guarded his desperate prisoner. Had he been a less temperate man he might have retired somewhat the worse for liquor, as did most of the citizens of Buffalo Horn; but he kept his wits about him and was as sober as his prisoner when they turned in.

Next morning a half-score of leading citizens had sufficiently recovered from the night's revelries to accompany him and his prisoner to Four-Mile Creek. This honor was modestly protested against by the little man, who seemed not to see that he had done anything remarkable, but he was hooted down, and when they reached Four-Mile his escort parted from him with three rousing cheers and a volley of revolver shots by way of salute.

It was about one o'clock in the afternoon when an excited, hatless man, mounted on a panting horse that dripped with perspiration, dashed up to the Hotel Winslow, in front of which a number of citizens were sitting, discussing the events of the day and night previous, and hoarsely announced: "Kingfisher—he's killed 'im!"

"What? Who?" asked Winslow. "What ye talkin' about, man?"

The stranger was gasping for breath, but presently managed to explain that, 20 miles south, he had been resting under a tree by a stream, when a little man and a big man, whom he had known in Kingfisher as "Kingfisher" Williams, came along and dismounted near by. The little man was leaning over to get a drink when Williams sneaked up behind him and struck him down with his handcuffs. After this, said the stranger, he saw Williams take the keys from the little man's pocket and unlock his handcuffs. Then he shot the insensible victim with the latter's own gun, mounted and rode away; and the new-comer hurried into Buffalo Horn the faster because Williams caught sight of him as he was leaving and took a few shots at him.

"W'y didn't ye shoot back—'r else git th' drop on 'im when 'e hit little Meeks w' th' bracelets?" asked Jim Wylie, fiercely.

"Cause, in the first place, I didn't think 'e'd kill the man. Second"—and the stranger eyed Wylie quizzically—"I reckon ye ain't real well acquainted 'ith Kingfisher Williams, be ye?"

In less than an hour the little town was practically depopulated of men, all but the cashier of the local bank and a few bartenders having gone on the warpath to catch and hang Kingfisher Williams for the murder of Mr. Meeks. The stranger did not accompany them, his horse being blown and himself not being anxious to meet Mr. Williams. However, it made no difference, as everyone knew the ford which the stranger said was the scene of the tragedy.

Thus, nearly everyone being gone southward to mete out justice to the alleged murderer of Mr. Meeks, it was really child's play for that gentleman and Mr. Williams, emerging from their hiding place in the hills just north of the town, and joining the stranger who had brought the news, to loot the bank, three stores, the hotel and every saloon in the place, and to get safely away on fresh horses at least three hours before the pursuit could be organized.

And that is why every officer whose business takes him into Buffalo Horn and neighboring towns is looked upon with suspicion until his credentials are approved.—The Argonaut.

SOME LAWS OF THE ROAD.

Rules Regulating Travel Upon the Public Highway.

The talk of the many thousands is often turned toward the law of the road, for there is no one who does not make use of roads either to ride, drive or walk upon. For the protection of the traveling public it is necessary that certain rules regulating travel upon the public highways be generally observed, says the Utica (N. Y.) Observer.

Our statutes do not require a traveler to keep upon any particular part of the road, or to turn out in any certain direction, but it is the universal custom in this country for vehicles and animals under the charge of men to take the right side of the road when meeting others, if it is reasonably practical to do so. A team should, in general, keep the right side, whether meeting another or not. Yet, when two are going in the same direction, and one wishes to pass the other, he should pass on the left side, as the first team has the right of way, and cannot be expected to deviate from his course upon the right side. One passing another must use great care to avoid a collision, as nothing but necessity will warrant him in doing this, for both, going in the same direction, belong upon the right side, and by any deviation from his proper side one assumes all risk of the experiment. The rule must be very strictly observed at night, or when, by reason of storm or fog, it might be difficult to distinguish others approaching.

A traveler on foot or on horseback must give way to a vehicle, and a lightly loaded team must give way to a heavily loaded one, but a team with a heavy load ought, in certain cases, to stand still so as to allow a lighter vehicle to pass. The driver of a horse must use ordinary care in its management, and is liable for all damage caused by careless driving, and if he leaves his team he must use ordinary care in hitching it, for if a horse left unhitched starts and occasions damage the responsibility rests upon him who neglected to hitch it. But if a team is hitched with ordinary care and is frightened by some unusual disturbance, as by a runaway team running against it, and the team so hitched breaks away and in turn runs and causes damage, no liability rests upon him who carefully hitched his horse.

The movement of sleighs and sleds upon the snow being comparatively noiseless, it is customary to attach bells to them or to the horses, and the want of bells would render a person liable for damages. Bicycles are regarded as vehicles, and are subject to the same rules—they must give way to heavier vehicles, and foot passengers must in turn give way to them. Massachusetts laws require bells to be attached to all bicycles. As no one is obliged to build fences next the highway, the use of which is common to all people who choose to travel upon it, so droves of cattle and other animals are not responsible for damage by their traveling heads, if reasonable care be exercised in their management.

Penalty for Eating Stamps.

Every day some fresh source of food supply is discovered, says the Stamp Collector. Adhesive stamps have not hitherto been regarded as nutritious; the ostrich prefers gold watches for a steady diet, and the traveling tinker's donkey has a reputation for consuming any clean linen that may be handy.

A Hindoo paper, however, gives an account of a curious incident that occurred at the residency, in a remote district in Ceylon, a little while ago. Mr. Pieris, the office assistant, placed on his table some judicial stamps to the value of about 200 rupees. While his attention was drawn to something else his pet goat was slowly but surely making a meal of the stamps. This was not discovered until the goat had swallowed some fifty rupees' worth of stamps. Immediately the goat's life was demanded as a penalty, and the stamps afterwards taken from its stomach were forwarded to the commissioner.

A Method of Measurement.

"There is such a thing as becoming too much devoted to the bicycle," said the young woman, thoughtfully. "I was riding with a friend of mine who demonstrated that fact."

"Did she talk constantly about the wheel?"

"No. She didn't talk about anything until I asked her if she knew what the hour was. She looked down at her cyclometer and said we'd better hurry home, as it was two miles and a quarter past dinner time."—Washington Star.

Displacement.

They were telling fish stories in a Lewiston barber shop. "I caught a pickerel the other day out of a pond in this county, and he was the biggest pickerel I ever saw."

"How much did he weigh?" "Dunno; but when I pulled him out he lowered the lake four inches."—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

A famous pear tree, which has lived nearly six centuries, near Tonlon, France, was destroyed recently by a violent wind storm. The trunk was nearly twelve feet in circumference.

EX-QUEEN LIL

Protests Against the Annexation of Hawaii.

GIVES A NUMBER OF REASONS

Says It Would Be in Violation of International Rights and a Gross Injustice to Her—Protest Was Delivered to Secretary Sherman by Mr. Joseph Heleluhe.

About 3 o'clock last Thursday afternoon ex-Queen Lilioukalanani filed the following protest in the office of the secretary of state. It was delivered into the hands of Secretary Sherman by Mr. Joseph Heleluhe, representing the native Hawaiians, duly commissioned by two of their patriotic leagues. Mr. Heleluhe was accompanied by Capt. Julius A. Palmer, the American secretary of Lilioukalanani. Mr. Sherman treated the bearers most courteously, but gave no indication of his action in the matter: "I, Lilioukalanani, by the will of God named her apparent on the 10th day of April, A. D. 1877, and by the grace of God queen of the Hawaiian Islands on the 17th day of January, A. D. 1893, do hereby protest against the ratification of a certain treaty which, so I am informed has been signed at Washington by Messrs. Hatch, Thurston and Kinney, purporting to cede those islands to the territory and dominion of the United States. I declare such treaty to be an act of wrong towards the native and part native people of Hawaii, an invasion of the rights of ruling chiefs, in violation of international rights both towards my people and towards friendly nations with whom they have made treaties, the perpetration of the fraud whereby the constitutional government was overthrown, and, finally, an act of gross injustice to me.

"Because the official protest made by me on the 17th day of January, 1893, to the so-called provisional government, was signed by me and received by said government with the assurance that the case was referred to the United States of America for arbitration.

"Because that protest and my communications to the United States government immediately thereafter expressly declare that I yielded my authority to the forces of the United States in order to avoid bloodshed and because I recognized the futility of a conflict with so formidable a power.

"Because the President of the States, the secretary of state, and an envoy commissioned by them, reported that my government was unlawfully coerced by the forces, diplomatic and naval, of the United States, and that I was, at the date of their investigations, the constitutional ruler of my people.

"Because such decision of the recognized magistrates of the United States was officially communicated to me and to Sanford B. Dole, and said Dole's resignation was requested by Albert S. Willis, the recognized agent and then minister of the government of the United States.

"Because neither the above commission nor the government which sends it has ever received any such authority from the registered voters of Hawaii, but derives its assumed powers from the so-called committee of public safety, organized on or about said 17th day of January, 1893; said committee being composed largely of persons claiming American citizenship, and not one single Hawaiian was a member thereof or in any way participated in the demonstration leading to its existence.

"Because my people, about 40,000 in number, have in no way been consulted by those 3,000 men who claim the right to destroy the independence of Hawaii. My people constitute four-fifths of the legally qualified voters of Hawaii, and excluding those imported for the demands of labor, about the same proportion of the inhabitants.

"Because said treaty ignores not only the civic rights of my people, but further the hereditary rights of their chiefs. Of the 4,000,000 acres comprising the territory said treaty offers to annex 1,000,000, or 915,000 acres, which has heretofore been in no way recognized as other than the private property of the constitutional monarch, subject to a control in no way differing from other items of a private estate.

"Because it is proposed by said treaty to confiscate said property, technically called the crown lands, those legally entitled thereto either now or in succession receiving no consideration whatever for estates, their title to which has been always undisputed, and which is legitimately in my own name at this date.

"Because said treaty ignores not only all professions of perpetual amity and good faith made by the United States in former treaties with the sovereigns representing the Hawaiian people, but all treaties made by those sovereigns with other and friendly powers, and it is thereby in violation of international law. By treating with the parties claiming at this time the right to cede said territory of Hawaii, the government of the United States receives such territory from the hands of those whom its own magistrates, legally elected by the people of the United States and in office in 1893, pronounced fraudulent in power and constitutionally ruling Hawaii.

"Therefore I, Lilioukalanani, of Hawaii, do hereby call upon the President of the nation to whom alone I yielded my property and my authority, to withdraw said treaty, ceding said islands, from further consideration. I ask the honorable senate of the United States to decline to ratify said treaty, and I implore the people of this great and good nation, from whom my ancestors learned the Christian religion, to sustain their representatives in such acts of justice as may be in accord with the principles of their fathers, and the Almighty ruler of the universe, to Him, who judgeth righteously, I commit my cause."

ENTITLED TO RECOVER.

The Kentucky Building and Loan Association Severely Crippled.

By a decision of the Appellate Court, rendered at Frankfort, Ky., Saturday, all the building and loan associations in the State are either knocked out or more or less crippled. The court holds that the remedial law enacted by the Legislature in 1893, and which authorized the associations to charge not exceeding 12 per cent. interest, including dues and the legal rate, is unconstitutional. It holds that all the interest, and even dues, in excess of 6 per cent. is usurious and cannot be charged.

It is also held that even the dues are "interest," and that the borrowers, who have been paying from 12 to 17 per cent. in dues and interest, are entitled to recover or be credited by all in excess of a 6 per cent. interest he has paid.

The decision will work a great hardship on thousands of people who have their all wrapped up in building and loan associations.

FIREMAN BURNED TO DEATH

And Iowa's State Library Building Destroyed.

The library building of the State University, at Iowa City, Ia., was struck by lightning at 4 a. m. Saturday and destroyed by fire.

The library was the best in the state. Many of the books are out of print and cannot be replaced. The Talbot collection of 4,500 volumes was about two-thirds destroyed. This collection was exceedingly valuable, many books dating from the beginning of the sixteenth century. The damage to the physical laboratory resulted largely from water. The firemen with difficulty prevented the flames from spreading to the dental building, close by.

Fireman L. M. Leek was caught in the building under a falling roof and burned to death. The state carries no insurance on any public buildings. The university authorities have been for many years urging the legislature to make an appropriation for a fire-proof building.

KNOWS ALL ABOUT IT.

Chronicle's Correspondent Reiterates His Statements.

The Washington correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle reiterates his previous statements to the alleged instructions given by President McKinley to Gen. Stewart Woodford, Minister of the United States to Spain, and adds:

Spain will be permitted to exercise merely a titular sovereignty over Cuba. She will be compelled to withdraw her troops and to permit the Cubans to make their own laws, to raise their own revenue and to control their own expenditures.

President McKinley believes Cuba must ultimately be annexed to the United States. The withdrawal of the Spanish troops will lead to a repetition of the Hawaiian incident.

RIOTOUS SCENES.

Members of the Arkansas Legislature Velled Like Wild Men.

The special session of the Arkansas legislature adjourned last week after having been in session since April 16, in addition to the regular session of ninety days. In the house, before adjournment, was witnessed one of the most riotous scenes ever seen in an Arkansas legislature. A railroad bill was up for a vote and members jumped on tops of desks and yelled like wild men. The speaker and several members were powerless to fight, while one dared the speaker to fight personal combat on the floor of the house.

FORT CAPTURED.

Cubans Wiped Out, All But a Few of the Garrisons.

GOMEZ TACKLES THE TROCHA

There Are Said to be Actually 16,000 Sick Soldiers Now in the Government Hospital—Putrid Dysentery is Making Havoc Among the Troops.

A special from Havana says: Fugitive soldiers from Fort Mogotes, five leagues from Santa Clara, report that insurgents surprised the fort, wiped out all but a handful of the garrison and captured all of the ammunition. The soldiers who bring the story claim to be the only survivors.

Gomez is reported making a demonstration against the Jaruco-Monou trocha.

There are actually 16,000 sick soldiers now in government hospitals, and the authorities have been compelled to re-open the Regla sugar warehouse hospital. Putrid dysentery is making havoc among the troops in Santiago de Cuba.

Admiral Navarro, during his stay at Santiago de Cuba, was visited by the local authorities and by all the consuls except the American, who simply sent his card to the admiral.

SITUATION SOME WORSE.

The Trocha is a Pestilential Ditch, Hundreds Will Die.

A dispatch from Havana says: Extermination on the island is an appalling, actual fact. The death rate is actually increasing. A prominent Spaniard medical officer who has full knowledge of the interior says that should the war be prolonged fifteen months the western half of the island will be entirely depopulated. The death rate is likely to double next month. Contagion will then mow the people down rapidly.

The rains have turned the interior into quagmires in many places. The trocha is a pestilential ditch. The soldiers are suffering terribly from fever and dysentery. Little smallpox vaccination is effective. With foresight thousands of pacificos might easily have been saved by vaccination.

A sanguinary engagement occurred Wednesday at Managua, fifteen miles from Havana. The insurgents attacked a column of Spanish and the latter lost heavily. The details were suppressed here.

Many ambulances with wounded have arrived here.

The rebels are certainly concentrating around Havana. Trains have been fired into repeatedly. A Spanish force while reconnoitering was ambushed near San Miguel. They fought, but were compelled to retire.

General Rivera is sick and appears indifferent as to his fate. He will assuredly be shot unless some action is taken by the United States government.

AGAINST MOB VIOLENCE.

Texas Legislature Accedes to the Request of the Governor.

The Texas legislature, after being in session nearly six months, has adjourned. The legislature passed a law preventing mob violence at the urgent request of the Governor, and has made a very strict law on the subject, providing for the punishment of all participants in mob, for murder in the first degree upon apprehension at the time of the crime.

LOSS, $100,000.

The Pickwick Hotel Entirely Destroyed by Fire.

At 2 o'clock Sunday morning the Pickwick hotel safe and annex, 119 and 121 Carondelet street, New Orleans, La., and the building adjoining, occupied by W. H. Moore, fishing tackle, guns, etc., were gutted by fire, as were also the two upper stories of the Pickwick hotel. There were but few guests in the hotel and all escaped without injury. The total loss by fire is $100,000; fully insured.

A Millionaire in Jail.

At San Francisco W. B. Bradley, the millionaire, will have to serve the sentence of twenty-four hours' imprisonment in the county jail, imposed upon him by Judge Lowe, recently, on his conviction for the second time of spitting in street cars. Judge Wallace of the Superior Court has affirmed the judgment.

M. L. Yates, a farmer who resided in South Oxford, was found dead at his plow Saturday afternoon. A physician examined the body and pronounced death due to heart failure. The funeral services were held Sunday from the Methodist church, Oxford, of which he was one of the oldest and most active members.

The fourth annual session of the Alabama Chatauqua, in connection with the Alabama Educational Association, began in Talladega Monday evening, June 21. The Confederate Veterans are having a grand reunion in Nashville this week. There are 20,000 old Veterans from Alabama in attendance and they all pronounce it to be the biggest reunion ever held. It is said that outside of Tennessee Alabama has the largest delegation there. Miss Bernoy is the sponsor and Gen. Ferguson is in command of the Alabama division.

It is certainly very gratifying to all Alabamians to see the prominent stand which General Pettus is taking in the United States Senate. He is frequently heard from and when he speaks he has something to say. It was on his motion, and largely due to his efforts, that cotton bagging was placed on the free list by the senate a few days since. If the tariff bill is passed with bagging on the free list, it will greatly reduce its price and destroy the bagging trust.—Hot Blast.

Mr. J. D. Donelson, night yard master of the L. & N. railroad at Birmingham, met a frightful death at that place Tuesday night. He stepped from a window of the train dispatcher's office on to the roof of the Union Passenger Depot shed and in the uncertain light stepped upon a skylight and plunged through to the floor beneath. He fell on his head, causing concussion of the brain, from which he died in a few minutes. He was a trusted employee of the L. & N. and had occupied the position of night yard master for many years.

TUSCALOOSA.

PROF. POWERS FORMALLY ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY.

Tuscaloosa, June 21.—(Special).—Prof. James Knox Powers, President of the State Normal College at Florence, was today elected President of the University of Alabama. Mr. Powers was graduated from the University of Alabama as a master of arts with the highest honors in 1873. He was immediately elected to the professorship of mathematics in the State Normal College and afterwards to the presidency of that institution. His success in administering to the affairs of the State Normal College has been remarkable and his election to the presidency of the University of Alabama will be hailed with delight by its alumni and other friends throughout Alabama and other States of the South.

AT SHELBY SPRINGS.

Shelby Springs, Ala., June 18, 1897. Editor Advertiser:

I have been resting and rusticated a few days at this famous old watering place. I certainly find it good to be here. The days, if full of sunshine and warmth as elsewhere, are breezy and restful, and the nights are refreshingly quiet and cool. Nature has surely done her part toward making this an ideal health resort. This fine old grove of stately oaks, so grateful to the eye and so generous of shade, these noble springs, rich in sulphur, iron, magnesia and arsenic; this perfect drainage and freedom from malaria (it is in the whitest part of the health belt on the map of Alabama); this proximity to the great trunk lines of railroad and yet comparative freedom from their noise; this ample supply of comfortable cottages duly spaced and neatly furnished, not to speak of other attractions which would slip through the meshes of mere verbal representation go far to account for the favor the place has been accorded by Alabamians in the past, and bespeak for it their continued patronage. The present proprietor, Mr. T. J. Law, has left nothing undone to add to the natural attractions such advantages as may be suggested by the mention of a herd of Jerseys, five hundred chickens, a new kitchen, a new dining room and a new pavilion, good servants galore, post and telegraph offices, etc., etc.

I have found my brief sojourn here most grateful—full of refreshment and renewal, and I have felt constrained to do what I could to awaken some others who might be sighing for a little change and rest to a sense of the advantages offered them here. I can assure them that if they come with anything like reasonable expectations they will not be disappointed.

Here when twilight comes and "the glimmering landscape" fades upon the sight,

"All the air a solemn stillness holds, Save where the beetle wheels his droning flight

And drowsy tinklings lull the distant folds"—

O! the festive tree-frog croaks or the whippoorwill "sings to his mate." And when "The breezy call of incense-breathing morn"

Steals on the senses, one finds the woods fairly vocal with the minstrelsy of birds and himself wakened to sounds of sweeter music than ever charmed the waking hours of young Montaigne. In short it is just the place for rest and for that refreshment and renewal which comes always "to him who in the love of nature, holds communion with her visible forms." Geo. B. Eager, —Montgomery Advertiser.

Shelby Springs, Ala., June 19, 1897. Mr. Editor,

During the past week Shelby Springs has been honored by the visitation of Mr. Jones, the new Superintendent of the Southern R. R., by the sojourn of Dr. Eager of Montgomery, and the arrival of several new guests viz: Mrs. Winn, Sr., Mrs. Winn, Jr. and two children accompanying them, of Demopolis. The epicurean saying of dum vivimus vivamus finds a fitting place to the carrying out of that sentiment at this grand old watering place. Those who desire to make life enjoyable by escaping the disease-producing heat of the summer season can find beneath the loftiest and stately shade trees a boon in the way of gushing waters and invigorating breezes. Nature has loosed from her bosom some of the finest of health-giving springs, holding in chemical solution medicinal ingredients prepared by no human agency, but such as has been tested by the sick time and again and not found wanting. Even before the war this place was a resort to which some of the most pronounced valetudinarians came and after a brief sojourn went away fully restored both in mind and body. In point of beauty of situation and appearance it stands unrivalled by any other watering place in the land. Its nearness to that great railroad artery the Southern—for the north side of its enclosure infringes upon its right of way and thus obviates the necessity of a fatiguing walk or ride to get to it: its proprietor, Mr. T. J. Law, whose long experience in this particular business has stamped him long since with the unquestioned honor of being one of the best and most accommodating caterers to be found anywhere: its corps of servants whose ready attendance to the wishes and wants of guests, as well as the menu that is served with a uniform lavishness which equals some of the finest car-van series of our metropolitan cities, all attest the fact that any one can live here to the full measure of their wishes. Shelby Springs is ready today to demonstrate every assertion we have made concerning it, and as an evidence of that fact such a noted divine as Dr. Eager, whom we have mentioned, has recently published an experience of his recent visitation in which he corroborates every syllable of the foregoing pronouncement of its attractions. Gov. Johnston, our chief executive, has signified his intention of coming here in the near future, and daily applications, especially from those who know it best, are being made. It is when the sun pours down its intensest rays, when the heated air prostrates the city resident with coup de soleil, when fever super adds its prostrating temperature to an almost unbearable degree, that you can revel amid the luxuries of invigorating breezes and health restoring water. Here no disease can originate from germ producing agencies, but there is induced an ever increasing disposition to say vivamus.

June 21—Mr. Wilson, of Calera, after accompanying his wife to Montgomery yesterday, returned. He has been domiciled here some time.

Mr. Gassenheimer came in today. He hails from Montgomery.

Mr. Johnston of the firm of Johnston & White of Columbiana, accompanied by his wife, visited the Springs yesterday and remained for some time. "O"

Prof. W. C. Carpenter is the coolest man in town.

Mr. Joe Hoskins has returned to Aldrich. He has been attending the Southern University at Greensboro.

Billie Cobb is the happiest and apparently the largest man in town owing to the arrival at his home on the 17th inst. of a twelve pound boy.

Col. S. S. Holbrook went to Birmingham one day last week to visit his daughter. His stay is uncertain.

Mr. P. W. Hoskins returned from Birmingham on Sunday last. While there he had a tumor cut from one of his eyes from which he has been suffering for several weeks.

The Aldrich and Montevallo ball teams crossed bats on Saturday morning at Montevallo. The score stood 12 to 8 in favor of Aldrich. Saturday afternoon the Dogwood team put in appearance to play ball. When they returned home they were convinced that they had been badly beaten by a score of 25 to 17 by the Aldrich team.

The negro school at this place closed on last Friday night. Saturday they had a picnic and at a rough estimate there were at least 1,000 or 1,200 people on the grounds. Everything passed off quietly and as far as heard nothing unpleasant occurred to mar the pleasure of the occasion. During the afternoon the colored ball teams of Aldrich and Montevallo played a match game of ball and the score was 27 to 17 in favor of the Aldrich team. The game was played without the usual quarreling that follows a game of ball by the negroes.

Our citizens both white and colored are as quiet and peaceable as any in the state. We don't require a police force to keep them in order. Their own self respect and the example set them by the leaders of the town is all that is necessary.

Mr. P. J. Hoskins, our efficient mining boss has been laid up for several days with sciatica. We hope to see him at his post of duty in a short time.

Messrs Robbins and Cobb of Aldrich and Pat McConaughy, Bowdon, Lee, Banks and Nabors of Montevallo rode their wheels to Calera one night last week. They reported a good time, and so far as heard from no bones broken but several stiff joints.

Mr. W. F. Aldrich is expected to reach home Friday the 25th.

LESS THAN ONE FARE.

To San Francisco and Return—What the Louisville and Nashville

Railroad Has to Say of this Trip.

To San Francisco and return at much less than one fare.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad company has this to say:

On account of the International Convention of the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor, to be held at San Francisco, Cal., July 7 to 12, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company will sell tickets from Birmingham to San Francisco at the very low rate of $25.85.

Arrangements have been perfected whereby the above amount is paid for going passage and the passenger is allowed to select the same or a different route returning at the same rate.

Upon payment of a small additional amount returning passengers can visit the North Pacific slope on the way home by way of Portland, Ore., and the famous Yellowstone National Park. Unexcelled transportation arrangements have been made in the way of special through Pullman Tourist and Buffet Sleepers, bringing the cost of living in transit down to a comparatively nominal figure. The Louisville and Nashville and its connections have been named by the Alabama State Y. P. & C. E. as absolutely the official route.

Florida, Tennessee, Georgia, South Carolina and other southern states have also named the above great popular highway as the official and most liberal and interesting trans-continental route. Just notice a few of the attractions put for the first time on record within the reach of almost every one: St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, Gaifield Beach, Ogden, Sacramento, San Francisco, Portland, Yellowstone Park, Los Angeles, El Paso, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas, New Orleans and lots of other big cities of our country with their surrounding attractions. It is a great big bill of fare at popular prices. Grandest scenery in the world, best railroad service, congenial people and low rates make the trip one of a lifetime. Don't make any mistake selecting your route. Get your sleeping accommodations booked early and save confusion.

Remember the date tickets will be on sale June 28 to July 2, good to return until August 15, 1897. From Montgomery, Selma, Mobile, Florence, Huntsville and other points rates are based correspondingly low as from Birmingham. Newspaper space is too limited to do justice to a description of a trip of this kind.

See the nearest Louisville and Nashville ticket agent and have him tell what he knows of the attractions offered. They are all ready and willing to help you select a delightful route.

The undersigned will be glad to give full particulars and to furnish the populace at large and Endeavorers in particular descriptive matter, etc. The Sunset Coast is waiting to give everyone a hearty welcome and the Louisville and Nashville railroad has made preparations to carry them in a manner befitting the occasion.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—nor simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by Dial Bros.

The July number of the Delineator is called the Summer Number and its resume of the latest styles of hot weather attire, with special reference to the needs of sojourners at seaside and inland resorts, is rendered graphically complete by glowing color plates and scores of accurate wood-cuts. Various aspects of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee are entertainingly considered by Mrs. Alec Tweedie, whose books of travel have made her name famous on both sides of the Atlantic. Mrs. A. B. Longstreet begins a serial discussion of Domestic Problems. The season of Canning and Preserving is taken note of by an article describing the latest and best methods in these processes, and notices of new books are among other features of this capital number. The Delineator is the woman's favorite magazine, and is issued by the famous fashion publishers The Butterick Publishing Co. at 7 to 17 West 13th St. at the low rate of $1.00 for a year's subscription, or ten cents per copy.

In June, 1894 Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Company, recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me that my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." PLEASURE and PROFIT

—OUT OF—

«WHOA AND WORRY»

Try it. We Guarantee.

If any Break should occur in the Castings the Part or Car Will Be Replaced Without Charge.

This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention, a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he has long needed, and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender.

How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work.

You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow and the plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant.

By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity. All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectually avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant on an undercurrent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up.

The revolving disc, passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market. The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow.

The tilting motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, in the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it.

It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools.

WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc. 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use. 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle. 4th. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it.

All these advantages we give you for the sum of one dollar and seventy-five cents and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

TESTIMONIALS.

Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Ala.: Having thoroughly tested your Plow Fender cheerfully say that no farming implement has given so much value for the investment. Randolph, Sept. 28, 1895.—Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Dear Sir: Having used your Plow Fender, we certify that it is all you claim for it, and more, it being the best thing we have ever used for the protection of small plants while plowing them. As ever, yours, T. J. & F. J. FITTS.

Summer Care of Blankets.
Blankets after the winter use are never clean, and should not be put away without being washed. Many housekeepers in view of the sunbaking and discoloring caused by washing, satisfy themselves with airing and shaking their blankets, but this is a great mistake, for if the work is properly done the soft appearance and whiteness may be retained for years. The most important consideration in washing blankets is to have plenty of soft water and good soap. An inferior cheap soap is really the cause of the injury done to the woolen goods in washing, as it hardens and yellows the fibre. When ready to begin the work, shake the blankets free of dust, fill a tub nearly full of soft hot water, and dissolve a third of a cake of Ivory soap in it. Put one blanket in at a time and dip up and down, gently washing with the hands. Never rub soap on blankets, or wash on the washboard. After the blankets are clean, rinse them in warm water until free of suds. Add a little bluing to the last water. Shake and squeeze rather than wring, and hang on the line until dry. Then fold and pack away in a box securely to exclude the moth. Blankets washed in this way will keep their original freshness and wear very much longer than if put away soiled year after year. ALABAMA AFFAIRS.

Interesting Happenings Throughout the State.

Mrs. Hughes, who resided near Oxford, accidentally shot herself Saturday while handling a pistol and died from the effects the next morning. She thought the pistol was not loaded.

The director of Athens Female College decided to shorten the term of the scholastic year from forty to thirty-six weeks. This is the second institution ever chartered for the exclusive education of women.

The Alabama Chautauqua opened at Talladega Monday and will continue for about a month. The programme is the best ever prepared by the management, including many of the leading lecturers and educators of the country. Tuesday the Alabama Educational association met in annual session. It was attended by several hundred teachers from all over the state.

Sunday afternoon late Henry Thomas, a negro excursionist from Birmingham, fired into a party of Gadsden negroes just as his train was leaving and wounded Will Garner, a local cabman. Garner and his friends returned the fire and a general fight ensued. Thomas was shot in the neck and stabbed twice in the shoulders and will die. Two other Birmingham negroes were shot and another stabbed. The cause of the row was whisky.

News reached Evergreen Sunday from Burnt Corn, a little village in Monroe county, of a shocking murder which occurred near there last Saturday, the victim being Richard Rumbly, 70 years old, one of the oldest and most prominent farmers of the county. Rumbly conducted a store in connection with his farm and Saturday night George Bradley walked in. The negro demanded the money in the cash drawer, about $100. Rumbly turned to get a gun near by when Bradley knocked him down and cut his throat. A desperate struggle then ensued. Bradley continued to stab his victim, who soon died. Armed men are searching for Bradley, and if he is apprehended will likely be lynched.

During a windstorm at Montgomery Saturday night lightning struck a wire running into the Western Union Telegraph Company's office and set fire to the place. The blaze spread rapidly and the inmates of the building were forced to flee for their safety. Before the fire could be checked the office was gutted and the wholesale tobacco store of Jonas & Co. adjoining, the saloon of Ben Burch and the two-story buildings of Mayor Clesby and Mrs. Judge Stone were burned. The total loss is about $50,000, partially insured. The telegraph company opened an office across the street from its old stand last night and is doing business as usual. The storm did considerable damage in the country near here. The wind registered fifty-four miles an hour for several minutes, and a rainfall of three-fourths of an inch was registered. But for the rain a very serious conflagration might have resulted from the fire.

Will Hunter, a Tennessee negro, was on Saturday sentenced by Judge Greene, in the criminal court at Birmingham, to serve forty years in the penitentiary. Hunter was serving a twenty years' sentence in Tennessee for burglarizing the house of a Memphis man and shooting the owner. He escaped from the Tennessee prison last year and came to Birmingham. In February he burglarized the residence of P. Giacomazzi, a prominent merchant of Birmingham. On the following afternoon Policeman Will Perdue, while attempting to arrest the negro, was shot in the jaw. He then fled, with Perdue in pursuit. The officer fired at Hunter several times down an alley, wounding him in the back. During the shooting one bullet struck and instantly killed Myrtis Boland, a little white girl who was playing in the alley two blocks away. Hunter sprang into a well, where he was captured after desperate resistance. Hunter pleaded guilty to the burglary, but not to the assault on Perdue. He was convicted of both charges and given twenty years in each case. Perdue recovered.

An item from Birmingham states that activity in the Southern iron market has caused a stiffening in prices, but local iron men deny an all around advance of $1 per ton, quoted in many papers. Birmingham iron producers admit nothing beyond an upward tendency and a disposition among buyers to purchase more heavily. A large speculative order for 100,000 tons of Alabama pig iron was placed this week with Eastern people. The contract calls for grey forge on a basis of $5.75 per ton, but No. 2 or No. 3 may be substituted to any extent at the option of the furnaces at $6.25 and $6, respectively. The contract calls for immediate delivery, which means continued activity for the furnaces in this district. Meanwhile the export iron trade continues good. The Sloss Iron & Steel Company this week booked orders for 8,000 tons for Liverpool and Glasgow. On the whole, the iron situation in Birmingham is very satisfactory, all things considered, and the placing of this week's big orders serves to unload the yards and insures continued activity at the furnaces. Conservative iron men regard the prospects good for an early material rise in prices.

Professor Powers Chosen.

Professor James K. Powers, of Florence, will be the next president of the University of Alabama.

The nominating committee of the board of trustees, composed of Mr. James E. Webb, of Birmingham; Judge William Richardson, of Huntsville, and Judge W. S. Thornton, of Montgomery, met Tuesday morning at the office of Mr. Webb in Birmingham.

As the result of their conference Professor Powers was nominated for the University presidency. His nomination is equivalent to an election, as it is understood that the full board of trustees has practically clothed the committee on nominations with complete power in the matter of filling the University chairs.

The dean of the law faculty was not chosen, nor were any other selections that might have been determined upon given out.

A Brief Sketch.
Professor Powers is the president of the State Normal School at Florence. He is one of the best known and ablest educators in Alabama. The following brief sketch of him is taken from the "Memorial Record of Alabama," published in 1893:

"James K. Powers, A. M., President of the State Normal School at Florence, Ala., was born in Lauderdale county, August 15, 1851. He was educated at the Florence Wesleyan University, and University of Alabama, and was a tutor in the former institution in 1870-71. In 1873 he was graduated from the State University, with the degree of Master of Arts, when that institution was granting that as a graduating degree, for a grade of ninety or over in every department in the institution. Immediately after his graduation, he was appointed Professor of Mathematics in the State Normal college.

In 1888 he was elected president of the Normal college, and was re-elected in 1890 and 1892. Under his presidency the Normal college has reached the highest point of efficiency and attendance in its history. The average attendance in 1891 was 291, whereas the highest enrollment, previous to his election to the presidency, never exceeded 240 in any one year. It has attained the position of a Normal school, principally under his management. Professor Powers was one of the originators of the Alabama Educational Association, and has served as chairman of the executive committee for two years, and president for one year. He has a very extensive acquaintance among the teachers of the South, and has probably supplied more places with teachers than any other man in the South. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, is a Knight of Pythias, and is a Past Grand Dictator for the state in the order of the Knights of Honor. He was married January 30, 1879, at Nashville, Tenn., to Miss Lula Reynolds, daughter of the late Calvin A. Reynolds, of Giles county. As Professor Powers' connection with the Normal college dates from the first day of the first session, he is now completing his twentieth year's service. Every graduate and under-graduate sent out by the institution (hundreds in number) has passed through his hands. These fill many of the most important positions in Alabama. To know these facts is to realize the influence that Professor Powers has had in molding the educational sentiments of the state."

DESTRUCTION BY EARTHQUAKE.

In Many Places Everything Was Levelled to the Ground.

A telegram from Calcutta says: Terrible reports about the recent earthquake are coming in from Assam. At Shilong everything has been leveled to the ground. An inspector of prisons has been killed and there have been many deaths in the public offices, in the military lines and the bazaar. No further details are obtainable.

The official records have been buried at Gauhati, where the roads are now crossed by wide chasms. The railroad has vanished in that vicinity, and at Goalpara a tidal wave has destroyed the bazaar and all the other buildings, and the neighboring country is covered with fissures, which are spouting mud and sand.

Numbers of buildings have been destroyed at Dhubri, where the river bank has subsided, flooding the country and ruining the crops. There has been heavy loss of life at Goalpara and Dhubri.

Several of the shaken districts have not been heard from, but isolated roads have been broken up by fissures; bridges have been destroyed and the telegraph lines have been broken down throughout Assam.

PREPARING FOR UNCLE SAM.

Double Forces are Working on Spanish Vessels.

A Madrid dispatch says that since Jan. 1, last $8,100,000 has been paid into the government treasury by Spanish peasants redeeming their sons from military service in Cuba and the Philippines. This money, it is announced, has been turned over to the navy department to meet the expenses of increasing the navy.

In Havana it was reported yesterday that orders had been given to transport twenty of the best vessels of the trans-Atlantic line into armed cruisers for immediate service in West Indian waters in view of the strained relations existing with the United States. At the arsenal here a double force of employees are working both day and night and new torpedoes are being laid at the entrance to all Cuban ports of importance.

THE UNWASHED IN LUCK.

Meal Tickets for Dinners for a Political Convention Went Wrong.

At Pittsburg the republicans held a county convention the other day to nominate candidates. District Attorney Haymaker was a candidate for re-nomination, and Edward Sawyer and A. J. Edwards were after the jury commissionership and the assistant district attorneys, respectively. Having a sure thing of it, they bought between them 500 meal tickets at $1 each at the Monongohela house, a fashionable hotel. Four hundred of the tickets were stolen from the pocket of the man who was to distribute them to the delegates. When the convention was ready for dinner the candidates gave their personal orders for meals.

Candidates and delegates went to the hotel, and there they found 200 men seated at the tables, pounding plates and swearing at the waiters, while nearly 200 more filled the corridors. It was a tough gang, and the district attorney recognized several, whom he had sent to the workhouse.

Beary eyes, red noses and ragged clothing were distinguishing characteristics of the crowd. The stolen tickets had not been wasted, but the treat cost the candidates nearly twice as much as they had supposed it would.

BARNEY BARNATO.

Remains of the Kaffir King Arrive at Southampton.

On the arrival of the British ship Scott at Southampton last Friday with the body of the late Barney Barnato the coroner's officers went aboard and held an inquest, the jury returning a verdict of death from drowning while temporary insane.

The passengers subscribed 100 pounds as a reward for Mr. Clifford, the officer who tried to rescue him.

Col. Joel, Barnato's nephew, says: "My uncle showed no sign of a suicidal tendency until that fateful day. I decided at 7 in the morning not to leave him for a moment."

The Daily Mail asserts that Sir Gordon Sprigg, premier of Cape colony, who was a passenger on the Scott, says that when Mr. Barnato first came into the saloon for his meals he was quiet and social, but his moods varied to such an extent that ultimately his nephew, Mr. Joel, who was virtually his keeper, found it impossible to continue him at the table, and had to have all meals taken to his cabin.

"SOCIAL DEMOCRACY."

That is Name of New Organization.

The A. R. U. was last week formally adjudged by E. V. Debs and his followers to be a corpse and the Social Democracy of America the name of the organization which is to take its place.

This was quickly settled at the meeting of the A. R. U. delegates in Chicago. But when it came to the declaration of principles under which the Social Democracy is to exist there was trouble from the start. Six hours of wordy warfare terminated, however, in the adoption of the platform on which the social democracy is to stand.

Companies Manufacturing Steel Tubing For Bicycles Combine.

A consolidation of the interests engaged in manufacturing welded steel tubing for bicycles has been formed in London with H. A. Loxier, of Cincinnati, as the head. A number of wealthy Englishmen, with Arthur Pilkington at their head, have invested $3,000,000 in the new corporation. Three large factories—at Toledo, O.; Ellwood City, Pa., and Greenville, Pa., are embraced. The Pennsylvania establishments, which already cover seven acres of land and employ 1,200 men, will be enlarged to employ 3,000 men.

TOLL-GATE RAIDERS.

They Threatened to Lynch One of the Collectors.

Toll-gate raiders in Kentucky, thirty-eight in number, tore down the gate beyond Blue Lick a few nights since. They captured the guards, James Dawson, Harrison Green and Charles Dawson. The raiders placed a rope around Charles Dawson's neck, but released him on condition that he would collect no more toll.

Madeline Lives in England.

Miss Madeline Pollard, who was the plaintiff in the sensational suit against former Congressman W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Frankfort, Ky., and who disappeared after the trial, which resulted in a verdict in her favor for $15,000 damages, has been living quietly in London. She is apparently in good circumstances, and is apparently studying with a view of engaging in literary work. She intends to make England her home.

Counted $195,383,000.

The experts from Washington, who were detailed to count the money in the vaults of the sub-treasury, have completed their labors. They counted exactly $195,383,000, composed of: Notes, $64,465,000; gold $77,940,000; silver coin, $52,739,000; minor coin, $239,000. The weight of the gold handled was 155 tons and the silver weighed about ten times as much. The accounts were "straight" save for a discrepancy of something like a dollar in the petty cash.

Strange Himalayan Tribes.

MM. Olafsen and Phillipsen, two Danish officers who recently explored the Pamir country north of the Himalayas, found there unknown tribes who are fire worshippers and ignorant of the use of money. Their animals are all dwarfed, the cows being the size of ponies, the donkeys of large dogs and the sheep of small poodles. Women are sold for five or six cows or fifteen sheep apiece. Their chief article of barter is furs.

A GENTLEMAN OF '76.

He cut a gallant figure
In bonnie buff and blue;
A goodly sight his buckles bright
And primly powdered queue!
A more courageous quater
Ne'er served Sultan nor Shah
Than he, my brave ancestor,
My great-great-grandpapa
And then in his elation
Did my forefather say,
Speak out the word he'd long deferred
For fear she'd say him "Nay";
And when he saw how tender
Within her eyes the light,
He cried: "In your surrender
I read—we win the fight!"
And when the freedom-pean
Swept, surge-like, through the dells—
He clung, as was his wont,
From Philadelphia bells
Loud from a stern old steeple
He hurled the proud hurrah,
The joy-peak to the people.

My great-great-grandpapa,
He held the brutal Briton
A "thing" beneath his scorn;
A Tory he conceived to be
The basest traitor born;
And not a neighbor wondered
He looked upon them so—
Forsooth, that was one hundred And twenty years ago!
How true the happy presage!
In faith, how led and true
Thy whole long life of love and strife,
Thou saint in buff and blue!
Beyond all touch of travail,
With great-great-grandmamma,
Now flooding time, slips by in rhyme
For great-great-grandpapa

GRIGGSVILLE'S CANNON.

A Fourth of July Story.

GRIGGSVILLE was very sorry, indeed, but it didn't see how it was going to have a Fourth of July celebration. Not that Griggsville wasn't anxious to set off firecrackers and have a balloon ascension, with fireworks in the evening. Quite the contrary, for the Fourth of July in the past had always been the greatest day of the year. Griggsville had thought it all over, remembering that crops were bad, that the times were hard and that taxes were high, and had come to the conclusion that it would need all the money it could get for winter fuel and buck-wheat flour and bacon.

All of the older folks agreed with this decision; not without many mournful shakes of the head, but the boys of Griggsville were much displeased. "It's what I call a burning shame," sniffed Jack Morris when he heard the news.

"Yes," chimed in Ruddy Wilson, "Alden's Mills and Norcross and Simpson's Landing and nearly every town in the county is going to have a celebration, and now Griggsville has backed out."

"Course all of our games are off," remarked Dick Lansing, disconsolately; "no team will come here to play unless there is something going on."

Dick was the manager of the Griggsville Baseball Club and he felt the disappointment deeply.

"A HUNDRED WILLING HANDS DRAGGED THE OLD CANNON."

For a moment all the boys were silent, as if the weight of the affliction was too great for expression. Presently Will Spencer blurted out:

"Let's have a celebration anyway. I've got a few dollars I'll put into it and we can get enough more among the boys to make something of a show at least—and we'll leave the old folks out of it, too."

"That's all very well," returned Dick, "but it's easier said than done, and there the matter dropped."

UNCLE SAM'S FOURTH OF JULY BICYCLE.

The next day when the boys met at the ball field Will came rushing up the street, evidently much excited. As soon as he was within hearing he shouted:

"I've got it, fellows, I've got it."
"Well, out with it, old man; don't keep us in suspense," replied Dick, who didn't think much of Will's many plans. For Will had only lived in Griggsville a short time and Dick was a little jealous of his popularity.

As soon as Will recovered his breath he unfolded his scheme. It was to go down to Sullinger's Hole and find the cannon and muskets that were supposed to lie hidden in its depths. During the war the part of Missouri in which Griggsville is located had been overrun by roving bands of marauders belonging to both the Confederate and Union armies, and it was on one of these raids that the Southerners had pounced down upon a quantity of stores and ammunition held at Griggsville, and, being unable to get entirely away with their plunder, they had dropped it into Sullinger's Hole. All this had been known to the boys of Griggsville, whose fathers and mothers often told of the wild day of the raid, and pointed out the bullet-furrows in their homes. And they knew, too, all about Sullinger's Hole.

It lay at the end of a tangled path among the hazel brush and prickly ash at the bottom of the bluff which sheltered Griggsville. It was a quiet, glassy pool with a harmless little stream trickling into it, but no outlet that any one knew about. Grass and weeds and a few yellow water lilies grew close around its edges, but at its centre, it was said, no one had ever found bottom, although more than one of the men of Griggsville had sounded the pool. The earliest settlers in the county had called it the "haunted pool," but ever since old man Sullinger had scoffed at the idea and had gone bathing in its waters, never to return, it had been known as Sullinger's Hole. All these things the boys knew and they avoided the dark pool. They neither skated on it in winter nor swam in it in summer, although a few of the braver ones had fished around its edges and caught big, lazy, old bass and pickerel. It was, therefore, not at all surprising that Ruddy Wilson shrugged his shoulders and laughed when Will made the suggestion.

"None of that for me," he said.
"Oh, well, you needn't go along unless you want to," responded Will, impatiently. "All this talk about Sullinger's Hole being haunted is foolishness. I've caught a good many fish there, and it's a beautiful place. May be the old cannon and muskets were never dumped in there at all, but if they were it would be a great thing to drag 'em out and have a parade with 'em on the Fourth and fire the cannon early in the morning. I tell you, boys, it would be the biggest celebration that Griggsville ever had."

Will was very much excited, and several of the boys at once grew interested. Will didn't know as much about Sullinger's Hole as the other boys, and so he was less afraid. "I'd help," said Dick Lansing, "if I was sure there was any way of doing it."
"All right, Dick, we'll show 'em," put in Will, whose eyes fairly glowed with excitement. "We'll have the old guns all up here by the Fourth and it will be a celebration worth seeing."

When Dick went over, all of the doubters except Ruddy went with him. The company was pledged to the greatest secrecy, and work was to begin at once. The baseball practicing was forgotten, and seven boys set off down the narrow pathway that led to Sullinger's Hole.

That night and the next evening they dragged or rolled a number of big dry logs and poles down to the edge of the pool. These they cut off into equal lengths and fastened together in the form of a huge raft that would support a dozen or more boys. As early on the afternoon of the third day as possible the seven slid quietly out of the town and down the hill to the pool. They carried with them ropes and a crowbar or two and a number of long poles cut in the woods, besides hammers and nails and other implements. On reaching the shore of the pool they mounted the raft and pushed it out. They all whistled and shouted and sung until the birds of the woods, unused to being so disturbed, flew away much frightened. Every one of the workers felt just a little nervous in spite of the bright warm sunlight and the clear sky overhead. Once out on the pool they poled themselves along until they were about twenty feet from the shore.

One of the ropes with a big iron hook on the end was let down in the water and dragged back and forth. Suddenly it pulled against something hard. Half shivering with excitement Dick and George Merton pulled away on it. The raft swayed and lurched, and the other boys came to help them. At last a big, dark object came to the surface, and they saw that it was only the limbs of a big dead tree. As long as there was light they poled about the edges of the pond with their drags, but with the exception of snags and weeds and mud they could find nothing at all.

After two more discouraging afternoons of work "Lank" Everson said he wasn't going to waste any more of his time.

Three of the boys agreed with him, but Will Spencer was able to persuade Dick and Jack to make one more trial. By this time they had got over most of their awe of the pool and they had all expressed their intention of going there often to fish.

The next night Will was handling the drag rope. Suddenly it began to pull, and, assisted by Jack, he drew it carefully in. At the end was a mass of snags.

"What's that?" shouted Dick, suddenly.
Will pulled the rope nearer and Jack lifted out a long, narrow object. It was a gun barrel, rusted beyond recognition. The stock was wholly gone, but it had evidently been broken off in raising it from the bottom, because there were the marks of a fresh fracture.

Forgetting that he was on a raft Will threw up his cap and shouted at the top of his voice:

"We've found 'em! we've found 'em!"

But although they dragged an hour they could bring up nothing else.

"I don't see how we can ever get the things up even if they are there," said Dick.

"Dive," answered Will, quietly.

The other two boys looked at him with horror. But when they parted for the night Will had expressed his firm intention of diving to the bottom to see if he could find the cannon. And the next day all seven of the boys came back very much excited. The finding of the gun barrel had reassured them. Carefully they poled out so as not to make the water muddy, and then Will stripped and stood poised for a moment on the edge of the raft. Dick had insisted that he tie a rope around him. The word was given, and, with a look at the clear sky above, Will splashed head-first into the Sullinger's hole. They saw his white body go down and down through the water and then faded out of sight. No one moved nor uttered a sound; every muscle was strained and every eye was fixed on the water. It was a critical moment. What would Will find? Would he be sucked down to his death as Sullinger had been?

But the rope had ceased to spin through Dick's hands. Then it pulled again and a dozen feet away from the boat a wet head popped out of the water. Will shook himself, spluttered and shouted:

"It's there, it's there; I touched it." Then he struck out for the raft, dragging something along in his hand. When he crawled out he laid an old, worn, rusted musket on the logs. All the boys were wild with excitement. Dick insisted on stripping and making a dive, and he, too, brought up a musket. Then Will went down with one end of a small rope in his mouth. This he ran through the fork of the cannon. A larger rope was dragged down, and before dark the boys were on shore ready to begin pulling in their prize. But it would not stir. It was too deep in the mud.

The next afternoon they came down with Tom Fisher's old white-faced team, fastened it to the rope, and with one strong pull the cannon came loose and then it was no trouble to pull the battered and rusted and wholly worthless old piece of artillery out of the water.

Somehow, in spite of all the boys could do, the news spread about like wild-fire, and every one in town came out to see what Sullinger's Hole had given up to the light of day. A hundred willing hands dragged the old cannon to the top of the bluff, and on Fourth of July morning it was loaded with powder—but that is getting ahead of the story. For when Griggsville heard what the boys had done Will Spencer became the hero of the hour, and the money for a great celebration was quickly subscribed. And on the morning of the great day Griggsville was out in her best with flags waving and firecrackers popping and anvils booming. The news of the great find had spread, and men and women and children came from all over the country to help Griggsville celebrate and to see Will Spencer, And Dick Lansing's ball team won two games.

About the old cannon? When it was fired it split from end to end, but Griggsville still keeps it as a proud trophy. And she is probably celebrating around it to-day, for Will Spencer made the dive which brought him fame all over Missouri many years ago.—Chicago Record.

A Four-Legged Fire Extinguisher.

I guess most boys think all the fun of the Fourth is to light firecrackers, but the writer had a dog named Democrat who had lots of fun putting out firecrackers as they exploded. He was a plucky bull-terrier, and earned the title of "four-legged fire-extinguisher" in this way. After an exciting day with him, when he had put out many crackers with mouth and paws, we were on the lawn, watching the fireworks, when the thin dress of a child caught fire from a smoldering cracker, and Democrat saw the blaze and put it out before the older people had noticed it.

We first discovered his taste for fire-fighting when he jumped and took a lighted match from my father's hand. He finally burned his throat while putting out a blazing paper, and died, much missed by all the boys in the neighborhood.—Chicago Record.

Costly Displays of Fireworks.

The cost of a finely managed display of fireworks is no small consideration. At the Presidential inauguration at Washington March 4, 1885, $5000 was paid to one company for fireworks, and I was shown one check for $11,000, which was given for a similar but more extensive display at the Centennial of Washington's inauguration, April 30, 1889. Paris and London have always been exceedingly lavish in this regard. As early as 1697, $60,000 were spent in London on fireworks to celebrate the peace of Ryswick. In 1814 an even larger amount was spent to celebrate in St. James Park the 100th anniversary of the reigning family; and at Crystal Palace, where fireworks are frequent, three tons of quick-match are sometimes let off in a single evening.

The Prisoners' Holiday.

Once a year, on the Fourth of July, the prisoners at the Wisconsin State's prison at Waupun have a half-holiday. They are let out of their dark cells into the prison yard. They can't have firecrackers, but they are so glad to get out that the time goes away quickly. They have boxing, wrestling, running, races, ball playing and all kinds of games. On the Fourth two years ago one old man, who was a little bit crazy, wanted to make a stump speech, so he got on top of an old windmill tower and began to shout. He was very much excited, and some of the men turned the hose on him. He was wild with anger, and could think of nothing more to say.

Here He Is Again.

GRAND REUNION.

Thousands of Old Soldiers Were in Line in Nashville.

GO TO ATLANTA NEXT YEAR.

After an Eloquent Farewell Address Gen. Gordon Was Again Chosen Commander-in-Chief, Amid the Shouts of Thousands of Old Soldiers.

At Nashville the parade of the United Confederate Veterans, last Thursday, the closing events of the reunion, in which more than 10,000 veterans took part, was the largest in the history of the organization, and one of the greatest ever seen in Nashville. The streets were densely crowded.

The Stars and Stripes and the Confederate flags were conspicuous in the long line that reached from the public square to the Tennessee Centennial exposition gates. One hundred thousand people had collected to see the parade. Nothing in the history of Nashville has equaled the outpouring; never was there such a procession. On the faces of lookers-on and of some of the bent figures stepping briskly and proudly, could be seen the suggestion that never again would there be such another parade.

The line started promptly. Police on horseback cleared the way and from start to finish the best order prevailed.

Gen. W. H. Jackson of Nashville, chief marshal, headed the procession, his staff consisting of distinguished men. Commander-in-Chief John B. Gordon and staff came next with the Savannah Hussars as an escort. Following the chief marshal and General Gordon, came Troop A, Captain Haggar, commanding of Tennessee Cavalry and thirteen young ladies on horseback, as the escort and guard of honor. General Vaughn, the new major-general of the Tennessee division, followed. Then came the state divisions, each division preceded by sponsors, maids of honor and invited guests, beautifully attired in summer costumes. South Carolina, Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Virginia, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Maryland, Indian Territory, New York, Illinois, North Carolina, Texas, Oklahoma, West Virginia, District of Columbia, all had veterans in line.

The Sons of Confederate Veterans also marched, and were commanded by Robert J. Smith of Charleston, the newly elected commander. The Daughters of the Confederacy were present in large numbers and rode in carriages. General W. T. Bate, Gen. Joseph Wheeler and General S. B. Buckner were in a carriage at the head of the Tennessee division. General A. P. Stewart, General M. C. Butler, Miss Buckner and Mrs. W. B. Bate preceded them in a carriage. Judge Reagan and General John S. Ford rode with the Texas division. Mrs. A. P. Stewart, Robert E. Lee and John H. Hook aroused continued cheers.

General Stephen D. Lee was easily recognized.

With their respective divisions, the commanding officers from each state rode by and as they were recognized shouts went up, and as little bands marched along, bearing tattered flags, inscribed with the names of bloody battlefields, a mighty roar ascended.

For the time the South Carolina troops, bearing palmetto branches, started to the music of "Dixie," all down the line until the Tennessee troops passed the stand where General Gordon for one hour and a half reviewed the passing posts, the air was rent with cheers, with drum beats, bugle blasts and music by bands. And though at noon rain fell in torrents, the veterans, sponsors, maids of honor, generals and privates stood at their posts and when the storm had passed resumed the line of march. As was to be expected, the Tennessee division was the largest, but the adjoining states furnished thousands, and from the distant ones the attendance was heavy. The veterans were not all in uniform, though a large number in each division wore the uniforms of the days of battle.

Each state was represented in the exercises at the auditorium by the delegates, their friends and a speaker selected for the occasion. The speeches were short, but excellent, suited to the occasion and were received with rounds of applause. Captain W. J. O'Brien presided.

Among the speakers were men from every state, and so great was the enthusiasm of the vast audience which packed the auditorium that it was after 7 o'clock before the last speech was made, and the last note of a Southern melody floated out, telling those who could not get in the building that the joyous one successful jubilee was ended. At night the same vast throng witnessed the fireworks prepared for the occasion.

While old Confederate flags, regimental flags, tattered and torn, appeared in the decorations and in the parade the national standard was seen in every division.

At the unanimous verdict of the veterans and their visiting friends that the reunion was the most successful yet held.

At the business it was voted to meet in Atlanta next year. The afternoon session was held for the purpose of winding up the business matters before the association. The unanimous refusal of the association to allow Gen. John B. Gordon to retire as commander-in-chief had put an end to probable difficulties and entanglements and paved the way for a speedy disposition of the remaining business.

A resolution commendatory of the reign of Queen Victoria was voted down and the resolution of praise for the queen's jubilee was defeated.

The principal reports made to the business meeting were by the committees on history and memorial associations. The history committee in substance reported in favor of the plan now pursued of inviting many writers into the field of history rather than selecting one or more to write a history. The memorial report showed the board of trustees were making excellent progress and would be able to report a location for the memorial building at the next reunion, provided camps and bivouacs subscribed liberally. Both reports were adopted.

AN IMPRESSIVE SCENE.

When General Gordon had concluded his address, a motion that General Joe Wheeler be requested to nominate General Gordon for re-election was made and carried. Gen. Stephen D. Lee, who had been called to the chair, declared nominations closed, and General Gordon was unanimously re-elected. The thousands of delegates present cheered and waved their hats and handkerchiefs, and the scene was a most impressive one.

General John B. Gordon was born in Upson county, Georgia, July 6, 1832. In 1852 he graduated from the University of Georgia at the head of his class. He practiced law in Atlanta for a while, but soon gave it up for the mining business, and was thus engaged when the war broke out. He enlisted at once and served heroically to the close, being rapidly promoted until he was finally made lieutenant-general in command of one wing of the Army of Virginia.

Since the war General Gordon's career has been equally brilliant. He was elected United States senator in 1873, and re-elected in 1879, resigning the next year. He served as governor of Georgia from 1886 to 1890, when he was again returned to the senate. His service in the senate was brilliant and statesman-like. As governor his administration was faultless. General Gordon has all his life been a model of social worth and an ardent Christian worker.

WILL DROP OUT.

The International Bell Telephone Company Has Had Enough.

At New York preparations are being made by the International Bell Telephone Company to discontinue business. The company once had a capital of $1,750,000, but it was reduced to $1,000,000. It has now decided to reduce to $750,000 by the payment to the stockholders of a cash dividend of $250,000.

This concern introduced the telephone in several foreign countries, the principal one being Russia.

Among telephone men this action is indicative of some changes in the business in this country. They assert that a patent right in this country lapses when the same patent expires abroad, and that it is possible a new phase of the telephone business will develop.

TO PREACH THE GOSPEL.

Missionaries Will Make a Tour Among the Cannibal Islands.

A telegram from San Francisco says the Morning Star, with its captain and crew of Christians, is ready to make another tour among the cannibal islands in the South Sea. The vessel will be manned by men who will preach the gospel to the natives. Two young ladies will also go out as missionaries. They will make their future residence on some of the little islands, where they will continue their work for life.

THE CONFEDERATE REUNION.

The Seventh Annual Reunion of the United Confederate Veterans was held in Nashville last week. It was a grand success and was well attended. The old Vets were there in force. Alabama was well represented by a number of its Camps—as well as by the oldest of the Veterans, the venerable Gen'l. M. J. Bulger of Tallapoosa.

Gen'l. John B. Gordon, the gallant commander, was present and insisted upon resigning the exalted position of chief commander, but his old comrades would not listen to it and forced a reelection upon him. The oration tendered him by the old veterans was a superb one—one that touched his heart and the hearts of all present. He could do nothing else but accept a reelection.

It was a grand time for the old Confederates and they enjoyed it to the full. The parade was immense and the strains of Dixie and the Bonnie Blue Flag were never greeted with more enthusiasm and the rebel yell rang forth with all its old time vigor. It was a great time for the old veterans, a great time for Nashville, and Nashville did her whole duty in the way of hospitality to her war scarred guests.

FOURTH DISTRICT SCHOOL.

The Montgomery Advertiser of the 29th ult. has the following to say in reference to the Fourth District Agricultural school: On Thursday the Governor, Superintendent of Education and Commissioner of Agriculture, constituting the board to locate the Fourth District Agricultural School and Experiment Station, will visit Heflin, and from there will go to Calera on Friday. The Board has already visited Sylacauga, Childersburg and Columbiana, the other three places bidding for the school. There is a hot rivalry on, the institution being worth much to the fortunate community. It is announced that the location will be determined Monday July 5.

As is well known Calera is an applicant for this school, and our citizens are very anxious to have it located here. The Board to locate will be with us tomorrow, and it behooves each and every citizen to be awake to the importance of this visit. We think that Calera possesses many advantages over all its competitors as the place for the location of this school. It is more central than any other point in the district and is more accessible than any other to all portions of the district. It is healthful, and the lands are well adapted for an experiment station. It behooves every citizen, however, to interest himself in this matter and spare no pains to impress upon the locating Board, during their visit tomorrow, the many advantages Calera possesses as the location for this school.

TALLADEGA SPRINGS.

It was our good fortune to spend a short while at this favorite watering place a few days ago, and we must say that under its present management it has lost none of its attractive and inviting features. Messrs. Holcomb & Beauland are sparing no trouble nor expense in providing for the comfort and pleasure of their guests. The fare is excellent and the appointments of the dining room all that could be desired. The cabins are comfortable and cozy, the water delightful and the cool shade superbly refreshing. If you wish to while away the heated term in quiet, comfortable and restful abandonment, you cannot find a more desirable spot than Talladega Springs. The health giving waters, the restful quiet, the excellent accommodations, all combine to benefit, to invigorate, to comfort, and to rejuvenate the worn and tired system. Visit Talladega Springs if in search of health or comfort. You will be pleased. You will be benefitted, and you will go again.

COL. J. M. FAULKNER.

Cullman People's Protest.
Col. J. M. Faulkner must once have been an editor himself, he knows so well how to contribute to the ease and happiness of the profession. The Alabama Press Association is largely indebted to him and the management of the L. and N. through him for the success and pleasure of its recent meeting at Florence and attendance upon the Centennial. The power of the Press for good is conceded to be great, but if all contributed as much as he to the promotion it would indeed become wonderful. It is very unfortunate for every important enterprise that all do not realize as fully as Col. Faulkner the need of a great educational power. The higher and broader the intelligence of the masses the more extensive is the co-operation among the various energies of men, and the greater security and permanence of all important institutions.

THE CONFEDERATE HOTEL.

The Management and the Veterans Satisfied with the Outcome.

Nashville, June 26.—Friday night at 6 o'clock a hotel which had fed 36,000 men during three days closed its doors. It was the "Confederate Hotel," erected especially for the accommodation of the Confederate Veterans during the re-union.

On Tuesday, June 22, 11,600 veterans were fed, and in doing so the management used 4,700 pounds of bread, 325 hams, 1,420 gallons of coffee, 94 gallons of pickles, 750 pounds of sugar and 60 gallons of buttermilk. On Wednesday 12,000 were fed and the rations consumed is as follows: 4,500 pounds of bread, 200 hams, 2,500 pounds of barbecued meats, 125 gallons of pickles, 750 pounds of sugar and 40 gallons of buttermilk.

Thursday, the last day, 13,200 were fed—4,500 pounds of bread, 300 hams, 1,500 pounds barbecued meats, 1,705 gallons coffee, 110 gallons pickles, 800 pounds sugar and 65 gallons buttermilk were used.

GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

The Montgomery Advertiser of the 29th ult., has the following: "President H. C. Reynolds, who is at the helm of the Girls' Industrial School of Alabama, came down from Montevallo yesterday morning. I am just going to advertise for bids for additional buildings," said the president to a reporter as he entered the Advertiser office.

"I saw Governor Johnston up at the capitol awhile ago and received his instructions to go ahead with the extension of the state's noble enterprise, and I will lose no time in getting the new buildings for our school.

"Yes, I am very proud of the showing we have made so far, and next winter we expect to have accommodations for 500 young ladies. Last term we had to turn away many excellent girls from all parts of the state for the reason that we didn't have room."

President Reynolds and his staff will not have much vacation this year. They will have a great deal to do getting ready for the opening of school in the fall.

The Montgomery Advertiser of Tuesday says: "On the 8th of July a very important meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama will be held at Tuscaloosa.

The purpose of the meeting, which was adjourned over from commencement, is to elect a Dean of the Law School of the University and notwithstanding Judge W. S. Thoroughton's declaration that he is not a candidate, the name of this gentleman is being prominently mentioned for the position."

Two attempts were made last week to burn Waxahatchie Bridge on the Southern railway eight miles above Calera. One on Thursday late in the afternoon and the other a few hours later. The first fire was extinguished by the crew of the Southbound passenger train. The second fire was put out by section force. The bands who at-

The Sentinel is informed that it was the bridge over Waxahatchie on the Ala. Mineral road that was tampered with, set on fire, etc., and not the bridge on the Southern road as stated by the Journal.

CROP REPORT TO JUNE TENTH.

This report is made up from the replies of 284 reporters embracing every county in the state except two.

Condition of crop compared with last year at same date: Cotton, 85; corn, 90; oats, 82; wheat, 109; gardens, 88; farm animals, 84; milk cows, 100; sheep and goats, 100; hogs, 97; poultry, 100; an increase acreage of tobacco; the last report in acreage was, cotton, 10 per cent increase, corn, 5 per cent decrease.

General Summary. Crops of all kinds have been well cultivated, are clear of grass and weeds, and with good seasons will grow very rapidly. Since the last report cotton and corn have improved but are still small! for this season of the year. There has been some complaint of lice being on cotton and killing it in places. Early planting of corn is now being laid by, late corn is about all planted. Oats have been harvested, the fall plaiting the yield was fine, the spring crop was poor; wheat is above an average. Field peas have been planted, and I would the farmer could see the great necessity of planting more of them, as one of the restorers of fertility to the soil. Gardens are good but are suffering for rain. The Irish potato crop is the best in several years. The horses and mules on the farms are in good condition when we take in consideration the great scarcity of feed in the country, an immense amount of corn has been shipped into the state this year. The latest information is that rain is falling in various sections of the state and crops are improving very rapidly.

THE REAL MONTEVALLO SEAM.

The Telegram has been to some trouble to investigate the claims of the Montevallo Lump Coal Co., that they are mining on the true Montevallo vein. There is no longer any doubt. The location, reports of expert mineralogist's practical tests with coal from their veins demonstrate conclusively that they have struck the true Montevallo vein, undoubtedly the very best grate and domestic coal yet discovered.

Montevallo coal has been for years known the world over as the very best coal mined, and it has been restricted in supply so that at all times it commands a higher price than other coals. But for exceedingly high value for grate purposes it could not be mined at a profit because of the expense attached to mining so small a vein, so pitched as to require a double price to be paid to miners as compared to the usual scale.

The Montevallo Lump Coal Company have a fine property and no doubt will reap rich profits on their investment as this coal "sells itself," and the new company are prepared to supply all reasonable demands.

It is their purpose to establish an agency in Selma for the sale of the real Montevallo coal.—Selma Telegram.

Dr. J. W. Acker of Montevallo was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Allen Givhan of Jemison has moved his family to this place and is occupying the residence on Northside recently vacated by Mr. J. R. Pratt.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Price returned home on Tuesday from a pleasant trip to the Tennessee Centennial.

Mr. McDonald and wife of South Alabama are visiting Mrs. McDonald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Galloway, in this place.

A Lodge of the order of Knights of Honor was organized at this place on Tuesday evening last, with thirty-three charter members. The old Lodge which had an existence here of twelve or thirteen years surrendered its charter a few months ago.

The rains of the past week have been very partial in this section. A good rain visited the sections between here and Montevallo, and also the Shelby Springs neighborhood on last Sunday, but other sections hereabouts are still very dry and suffering for rain.

DEATH OF WILLIAM WARE.

On Sunday morning, the 27th ult., the life of one of the most worthy and respectable colored citizens of this community went out when William Ware expired. The end came very suddenly and unexpectedly. On Saturday he was apparently in his usual good health and doubtless had no premonition of the dread summons. He was attacked about midnight with violent pains in the head, and in less than two hours his spirit had winged its flight. Congestion of the brain it is thought was the trouble. He was in charge of the plantation of Rev. J. P. Word at the time of his death and had been a trusted employee of Mr. Word for about seventeen years. During this long period he had ever been true and faithful to the interests of his employer and had won the confidence and esteem of the people among whom he lived. He was honest and faithful and true to the many trusts reposed in him and had conducted himself as became a good and law abiding citizen. He leaves an example worthy of imitation by his people, and demonstrates the appreciation in which honest, industry and true integrity of character is ever held. An humble colored man he was, it is true, but nevertheless it can be said of him that he was a good citizen and a Christian gentleman.

delivery and thought caught the attention of every one present. His appeal to the young men and ladies for solid work and usefulness in life will not fail to have its effect upon our people.

Prof. Kilpatrick is a fine teacher, and his stay in Shelby county and his noble work in the schools will best be felt as time ripens. He leaves this county for a better field of labor. Our loss is Danville's gain, in Morgan county. Shelby county can ill afford to lose such men. We feel assured that he will take along with him some of our young men and ladies to his institution.

The Cyclopaen Literary Society rendered its final program, consisting of recitations, declamations, and debate by four young men, at 3 p. m., to a large audience.

At night was the fun—the Annual Concert, which consisted of recitations by the little folks, and then the plays which were well rendered.

There was the largest crowd present ever seen at this school. It was estimated that over a thousand people were present who listened with breathless interest 'till eleven o'clock.

Respectfully,
Bill Smith.

CITY AND COUNTY

Mr. Lewis Bowdon, of Montevallo, spent Sunday with the home folks here.

Miss Pat Huggins, after a weeks pleasant visit to her parents in this place, has returned to her home in Meridian Miss.

Don't forget the auction sale of Texas horses at Montevallo on next Friday.

"Last Summer one of our grand-children was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Fredericktown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by Dial Bros.

The attention of the Confederate Veterans of this county is called to the fact that the re-union will be held at Columbiana on the 15th and 16th inst. Let all attend and have a glorious time.

Mrs. M. F. Bowdon returned home last Thursday from a visit of several weeks to relatives at Plantersville.

Mr. C. L. Housbrück, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale by Dial Bros., druggists.

The heated term has been on hand in all its fullness during the past week or ten days and in many localities has broken the record, the thermometer climbing through the nineties to and above the 100 notch.

Rev. W. I. Sinnott filled his regular appointments at the Presbyterian church in this place last Sabbath, giving his hearers excellent sermons.

You may hunt the world over and you will not find another medicine equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. It is pleasant, safe and reliable. For sale by Dial Bros., druggists, Calera, Ala.

Editor M. E. Taylor of the Chilton County Call, published at the new and progressive town of Florisby, was a pleasant caller at the Sentinel office one day last week. He publishes a live, up-to-date paper, and is doing a good work for our neighbor county.

Mrs. A. L. Hinds and Miss Emma are at home again after a pleasant visit of several days to relatives in Calhoun county.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Beauland of Talladega Springs, visited relatives in the city this week.

REASONS WHY CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY IS THE BEST.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
 2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
 3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
 4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent biliousness.
 5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemic dysentery.
 6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
 7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
 8. Because it produces no bad results.
 9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
 10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.
- The 25 and 50c sizes for sale by Dial Bros.

Prof. J. B. Kilpatrick, of Wilsonville, spent several hours in the city one day recently and gave the Sentinel a pleasant call. Prof. Kilpatrick is an accomplished educator and has been doing excellent work with his school at Wilsonville for the past several years. We learn that he has been elected president of the large school at Danville, Morgan county, and that he has accepted the position and will take charge this fall. The Sentinel regrets to lose him from Shelby, but takes pleasure in commending him to his new field and wishes him every success.

Don't nauseate your stomach with teas and bitter herbs, but regulate your liver and sick headache by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers.—Dial Bros.

Capt. H. C. Reynolds, president of the Girls' Industrial school was a caller at the State Herald office last night. He is arranging to have some work done on the building, class rooms, etc. He is very enthusiastic over the prospects of the school, and with such thorough going men as he at the head of this school, and Powers with the University if given such an opportunity as they should have, will mark an era in the cause of education in Alabama.—State Herald.

"I crave but One Minute," said the speaker in a hasty voice; and then he took One Minute Cough Cure, and proceeded with his oratory. One Minute Cough Cure is unequalled for throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

Contractor W. E. Skaggs is putting the finishing touches on the new Baptist church and the painters are at work with brushes in hand. In a short time now the Baptist congregation will be able to take possession of their new quarters. It is a handsome building and quite an addition to the town.

John Griffin, of Zanesville, O., says: "I never lived a day for thirty years without suffering agony, until a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled.—Dial Bros.

Claude Duran was a visitor to the Tennessee Centennial the past week.

Rev. W. I. Sinnott of Columbiana was a visitor to the Nashville Exposition last week.

S. H. Gist and N. A. Graham of this place attended the Confederate Re-Union at Nashville last week.

Vim, vigor and victory.—these are the characteristics of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and all stomach and liver troubles.—Dial Bros.

Prof. S. J. Bross is visiting Wetumpka this week.

Capt. H. C. Reynolds of Montevallo was in the city Tuesday.

Mr. W. B. Reynolds, of Montevallo, visited the city Tuesday.

It heals everything except a broken heart, may be said of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Piles and rectal diseases, cuts, bruises, tetter, eczema and all skin troubles may be cured by it quickly and permanently.—Dial Bros.

Mrs. W. F. Ross, of Anniston, was a visitor to the city this week.

Mr. C. C. DuBose, of Columbiana, spent a day or two in the city last week.

Mrs. Thos. Francis and little Henry Jeffers are visiting Talladega Springs this week.

"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe.—Dial Bros.

Mr. J. R. Pratt is at home again from a business trip to the Northwest.

Mr. DeJarnette and wife of Montgomery, and Mr. Lancaster and wife of Eclectic are among the visitors to Shelby Springs.

There is a time for everything; and the time to attend to a cold is when it starts. Don't wait till you have consumption, but prevent it by using One Minute Cough Cure the great remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.—Dial Bros.

ALA. STATE S. S. ASSOCIATION.

Anniston, Ala., June 25, 1897.
The Alabama State Sunday School Association has arranged to have a four days Sunday school from July 6-10 to be held in Anniston, for the Primary Sunday School Teachers of Alabama.

This course is free to the Primary teachers of Alabama, and will be open to teachers from other states by their paying a small tuition fee. The citizens of Anniston recognizing the great benefit of this course of instruction have generously thrown their houses open to these teachers and invite them to come and accept their hospitality while in attendance.

The railroads have granted a one and one-third rate on the certificate plan. So the cost of attending this course of instruction has been reduced to the minimum.

Every School in the state should arrange to have their primary teachers in attendance upon this course, which is to be conducted by Miss Millette Allen, of Atlanta, one of the finest Kindergarten and teachers in the south. She will be assisted by Miss Minnie Allen, Mrs. J. S.

Burnett, Mr. R. L. McCally and other well known teachers of Alabama.

All who expect to attend should forward their names at once to Miss Mabel Osburn, 1109, Wilmer St. Anniston, Ala., so that homes may be in readiness.

Be sure to start in time to reach Anniston on the 5th of July or not later than the early morning trains of the 6th, as the school opens in the afternoon of that day.

The Frost Fender

PLEASURE and PROFIT
—OUT OF—

«WHO A AND WORRY»

Try it. We Guarantee.
If any Break should occur in the Castings the Part or Far Will Be Replaced Without Charge.

This implement we place before the public with pleasure. A new invention; a Revolving Plow Fender, a labor saving implement to the farmer. Something that he has long needed, and one that gives desired results, not obtained from any other fender.

How you obtain these results you will see in part, from the above cut, and a description of how it performs its work.

You will observe that the Fender is disc that rolls between the plow and the plant, and only the amount of soil desired is allowed to pass from plow to plant.

By adjusting it to suit the work and the upward motion of the rear part of the disc all the rocks, clods, etc., are thrown in the rear of plow and only the pulverized soil allowed to pass to the plants in a uniform and regular quantity.

All farmers know that it is the overturning dirt and clods, the plow upheaves, that knocks down and covers up small plants. We effectually avoid this trouble by the disc intercepting the overturning soil, allowing the pulverized dirt to pass to plant on an undercurrent, under the rear circle of the disc, thereby preventing the plants from being knocked down or covered up.

The rolling disc passes over any stalks, litter, etc., that it comes in contact with, which gives it the best anti-clogging qualities of any Fender on the market.

The construction of the Fender is such, that it can be adjusted in any way desired, and works equally well on either side of the plow.

The tilting motion enables it to adjust itself to the unevenness of the surface without interfering with the depth of the plowing, in the least, as the plow works as free and easy as it would without it.

It is complete within itself, and can be attached and adjusted without the use of extra tools.

WE GUARANTEE—1st. To practically do away with the usual annoyances, such as having to use the slowest horse for the first running around, stopping to uncover, straighten up, etc. 2nd. That if the Fender is properly applied and used, it will save one-third the amount of hoeing over any implement now in use. 3rd. That you can do as much plowing around small plants as you can in the middle. 4th. That you can plow your crops from two to three weeks earlier with it than you can without it.

All these advantages we give you for the sum of one dollar and seventy-five cents and when you have tried it two or three days, if you think you have not made a good investment you can return it and we will refund your money.

TESTIMONIALS.
Mr. J. H. Frost—Dear Sir: I used your Plow Fender the past season, and find it to be the best invention I ever saw, and would not be without it for twice its cost. Yours truly,
Randolph, Ala., Nov. 22, 1895.

Mr. J. H. Frost, Calera, Ala.: Having thoroughly tested your Plow Fender cheerfully say that no farming implement has given so much value for the investment. Sweetness and Light.

Put a pill in the pulpit if you want practical preaching for the physical man; then put the pill in the pillory if it does not practise what it preaches. There's a whole gospel in Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills; a "gospel of sweetness and light." People used to value their physic, as they did their religion,—by its bitterness. The more bitter the dose the better the doctor. We've got over that. We take "sugar in ours"—gospel or physic—now-a-days. It's possible to please and to purge at the same time. There may be power in a pleasant pill. That is the gospel of Pleasant Valley has experienced a building boom for several weeks past. M. F. Jackson has recently erected a handsome residence; S. P. Clemmons and J. C. Thrasher have erected barns, and R. M. Wilkes, in addition to enlarging his furniture factory, has constructed other buildings on his place.

Will Have Pure Water.

A portion of the machinery for boring the artesian well at Georgiana has arrived and the balance is expected daily. As soon as all of the machinery reaches there the work will be commenced and prosecuted with all dispatch. The issue of $2,000 in bonds has been sold, and no doubt another issue of $3,000 or $5,000 will be made in the near future.

Youngest Confederate.

The youngest Confederate veteran who attended the Nashville reunion was W. E. Clutts, of Huntsville, who entered the service in 1861 at the tender age of 13 years and 5 months, under Capt. John Gardner, Company K, Forty-ninth Alabama, and in 1865, after all was over, was paroled at Danville, Va.

Will Encamp at Montgomery.

The Alabama Cavalry will encamp at Montgomery, the opening day being July 12. This was decided upon by Major Beck, of Camden, who has command in the state. Selma and Birmingham had asked for the encampment, but Major Beck thought best to go to Montgomery.

It Beats the Record.

At Huntsville, the city sexton's record up to June 19, shows that there have been but three burials in the city cemetery during the present month, and two of them were persons who died in the county and were taken there for interment. This is a good showing for a city of 15,000 inhabitants.

Colbert County Bonds.

The purchasers of the Colbert county road bonds, which were recently issued, have refused to take the bonds unless the Supreme Court decides that thirty days notice of the election was necessary. A twenty days notice of the election to decide whether bonds should be issued was given, and it is believed the Supreme Court will decide this was sufficient.

To Increase Steel Output.

A call has been issued for a special stockholders' meeting of the Birmingham Rolling Mill Company, to convene July 22, for the purpose of considering a proposition for increasing the common stock of the company from $500,000 to $600,000. If the increase is made, as no one doubts it will be, the steel plant of the company, now about finished, will be doubled in capacity at once.

Thinks Himself Sharp.

W. F. Marshal, a horse trader of Gadsden, is in serious trouble. He was arrested on the charge or highway robbery, made a $400 bond and it is alleged has skipped out. He told J. M. Collins that he would give him "six fives" for his horse, which offer was accepted. He offered Collins six 5-cent pieces, which was refused. Thereupon he dropped the six nickels in Collins' pocket and forcibly took the horse.

Lithographic Stone Discovered.

News comes from just over the Madison county line in Jackson county of the discovery of a superior quality of lithographic stone, which will be quarried and put on the markets. Col. C. Nesmith was in Huntsville a few days since and closed a deal with a New York syndicate transferring the ownership of this quarry to them.

Colonel Nesmith has been experimenting for years in testing the quality of this stone.

Found in a Well.

John and Charles Mitchell, sons of Wright Mitchell, a Choctaw farmer, went playing near an old unused well. Later in the day they were missed and search was made for them. They were finally found in the bottom of the well, having drowned in three feet of water, having probably fallen in. They were clasped in one another's arms. They were 10 and 12 years of age respectively.

Social Democracy Colony.

George Harrison, of Birmingham, a former railroad man, who has been the local leader of the American Railway union since the strike of 1894, has a scheme on foot looking to the location of the southern end of Debs' social democracy colony in South Alabama, near Mobile. Harrison says that Washington state is too far away for Southern people in sympathy with Debs' plan to go, and he has written to the leader with regard to establishing a Southern colony in this state. He says that the American Railway union has 1,900 members in Birmingham, 1,000 in Montgomery and 400 in Mobile. He says there are vast tracts of land which could be obtained near Mobile for the proposed colony and he believes Debs will approve the scheme. Harrison says he is arranging for the American Railway unions all over the south to take up his project and help him push it to consummation.

Thorington and William Richardson. The fees of the university have been reduced from $172 to $130. Of the now men elected in the faculty Professors Wilkins and Graham are Princeton men and Professor Stafford is from Johns Hopkins.

Preparing to Meet Competition.

News has reached Birmingham of a conference which was held in Washington recently between the officials of the Southern railway and representatives of the American Coal company, the Virginia and Alabama Coal company, the Corona Coal and Coke company and the Sloss Iron and Steel company, with regard to taking steps to provide better facilities for the Alabama coal trade down the Mississippi river, from Greenville, Miss., in order to meet competition from Pittsburgh. In view of the fact that private contractors who have undertaken to establish large lines for transporting coal down the river to the sugar plantations have not succeeded very well in the undertaking for a lack of capital and other reasons the Southern railway itself has decided to take up the project and accordingly has leased 100 barges with tow boats sufficient to pull them and will engage in the business of transportation on the Mississippi river on its own account. The road has also determined to reduce the freight rate on coal by rail from the Birmingham district to Greenville, Miss., from $1.25 per ton to $1 per ton, a lowering of 20 per cent. The lease of the barges is for a period of five years with the option to buy. They will ply between Greenville and points on the river not reached by rail and every effort will be made to drive Pittsburgh coal out of that market. Coal men in the Birmingham district are very buoyant over the prospects and expect to furnish the section in question a very large part of the million and a half tons of coal it annually consumes.

LONDON'S POOR

Given Jubilee Dinners by the Princess of Wales.

The Princess of Wales' jubilee dinners to the poor in London last week were very successful. About 3,000 denizens of the slums were sumptuously entertained at various centres.

The Princess, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, Princess Victoria of Wales, and the Prince and Princess Charles of Denmark, visited the principal halls where the feasts were given, the Peoples' Palace in the East End, Central Hall, Holborn and Wesleyan School House at Clerkenwell.

The guests at the Peoples' Palace consisted of 1,000 ragged children. After the national anthem had been sung, the children were served with a good feast of roast beef, potatoes, pies, tarts, blanc mange, jellies, apples, oranges and ice cream.

The Princess of Wales and party received an ovation everywhere.

Child Scalded to Death.

A little child of Robert Lee Royal died at Savannah last Thursday morning under peculiar circumstances. Wednesday a cook on Fourth avenue threw a pot of hot water out of the kitchen window. The boy was playing beneath the window and was so badly scalded that he died the following day.

Verdict Against the Long Island Road.

The coroner's jury at Inwood, L. I. which has been investigating the collision at the Merrick road crossing at Valley Stream, which resulted in the killing of five persons on Decoration day, rendered a verdict that the Long Island railroad was criminally negligent in not having the signal bell at the railroad crossing in working order.

A VETERAN'S WIFE.

Affected With Heart Disease and Given Up to Die—Saved in a Wonderful Way.

From the Press, Utica, N. Y.

There is no one better known or respected in the village of Brookfield, Madison Co., New York, than Mrs. John Fisk, the wife of an old resident and veteran of the war of the Rebellion. In April of this year, Mrs. Fisk lay at death's door from neuralgia and heart disease, the family physician having recommended her to settle all her worldly affairs, as she was liable to be taken at any minute, and inquiring friends expected at each visit to hear that she had passed away.

But Mrs. Fisk, to the surprise of her neighbors and physicians, suddenly began to mend, and now she is as strong and healthy a woman of her advanced age (76 years) as can be found, and really does not appear nearly so old as she is. The following is her own story of how she was cured. "I consider it a duty to myself and the community to tell of my extraordinary recovery from what was thought by my physicians, my husband and friends to be a fatal illness. I had long been suffering from neuralgia in its worst form, enduring agonies that only death seemed to bring relief. Such torments know, until my heart became so affected functionally and organically, that the doctor said I was liable at any time to pass away. He had done all in his power for me, and I thank him much for his kindness and attention, and believe him to be a good, faithful physician. I was not disposed to die, however, if I could help it, and he having done all he could, I felt at liberty to use any other means that held out a chance of life, and determined to try a remedy that had been recommended by a friend who had been at death's door from rheumatism and heart disease, but who now is in good health.

"Whatever doubt I may have had as to this remedy's efficacy in a dissimilar disease, to that from which he had suffered, was dispelled on reading in the Press of a case identical with my own being cured, with the name and address of the person who had been cured, and I bought a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took them according to directions, and within a very short time the pains began to disappear, my heart's actions became normal, and four weeks ago I ceased taking the pills, and am entirely cured, and able to do my housework as well as when I was a young woman. "I had always, until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, looked with suspicion on all advertised proprietary medicines, but now my ideas have undergone a wondrous change in the direction, for under God's all-wise Providence, 'Pink Pills' have renovated me, and apparently given me a new lease of life.

"This is no secret in this locality, and I hope this certificate may be the means of other sufferers in distant places securing the same benefits that I have enjoyed."

"CLARENCE FISK."
Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

Guy—Could you spare me a cigarette?
Gontran—My dear fellow, my doctor has strictly forbidden me to smoke. A fortnight later Guy meets his friend ailing away at a splendid Havana.
Guy—I thought you had to give up smoking?
Gontran—Oh, my doctor died week ago.—Le Figaro

Lovell Arms Co. (of which the indefatigable Col. Ben S. Lovell, known all over the world, is treasurer and acting head) has made and for a half century maintained its great reputation by the manufacture of the highest quality of goods. It is still the world's headquarters for the highest quality of goods. The company was the moving spirit in forming the combination of the four leading manufacturers in this country, the "Big Four," so-called, to hold up the grade and hold down the price of wheels. Those who were handling the thousand and one wheels the manufacturers were ashamed to father "kicked." The profit on the cheap wheels was very large. But they kicked to no purpose, and today a cyclist may ride a first-class guaranteed wheel at the price it has before cost to ride one made like the famous "rascals," to sell. For this reason the public owes the Lovell Arms Co. thanks. A catalogue of our regular bicycle stock and a special list of wheels issued by the Big Four Combination will be mailed free on application to the John P. The Ocean Disturbed.—The Yellow Flag on the Pacific Coast—Hard on Gamblers—Opposing a Stamp Tax—A Queen's Generosity.

Hot Weather in Savannah.
This has been the hottest July 1 ever known in Savannah. The maximum temperature at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon was 102 degrees. No prostrations.

Sold for Export.
One of the leading exporting houses in New York is expected to ship half a million in gold on Saturday's steamer. No more shipments were announced up to the close of the market Thursday.

Protest Against the Stamp Tax.
The governors of the New York stock exchange have sent to Washington a telegram, protesting against the proposed tax on stock and bond transactions and asking that the finance committee of the senate grant them a hearing.

Drastic Anti-Gambling Statute.
The new law prohibiting gambling in Montana is being universally observed. The law even prohibits shaking dice for drinks and according to the attorney general construction, makes playing cards for prizes in social gatherings, unlawful.

The Robber's Indefensible Right.
A dispatch to the London Times from Constantinople, dated Wednesday, says Tewfik Pasha will announce to the ambassadors of the powers to-morrow (Thursday) that the cabinet maintains the indefensible right of Turkey to retain Thessaly by virtue of conquest.

Generosity of the Queen.
Pardoning the municipality of Manzanilla Thursday, Capt. Gen. Weyler pardons granted to political prisoners were only due to the generosity of the queen regent and not to the political influence of any party. Joaquin Pedrosa and Antonio Rojas, were shot to death in the Cabanas fortress Friday.

Flying the Yellow Flag.
The Pacific mail steamer Acapulco arrived at San Francisco, Cal., Friday, from Panama flying the yellow, and is now in quarantine. During the voyage up the coast four deaths occurred on board, one passenger, one steerage passenger and two of the crew. The cause assigned is "pernicious fever."

The M. K. & T. Wreck.
The north bound passenger train on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas ran into the south bound Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe local at a crossing near Celeste, Texas, Friday afternoon. The sleeper and one coach were wrecked. Two ladies and a man were severely injured, the latter perhaps fatally.

Rioters in Chilpan.
The situation in the suburb of Chilpan, East India, is now much more reassuring. But the police patrols were compelled to fire on the rioters. It is estimated that at one time more than 5000 were holding the northeast portion of town. The number of killed and injured is not yet known, but it is believed to be considerable.

A Marine Phenomenon.
There was a strange phenomenon at Barcelona, Thursday. The sea rose and fell a yard every ten minutes for several hours. The moorings of the British warship Surprise were carried away and she had to put to sea. The same phenomenon occurred at the time of the earthquake which destroyed Krakatoa, a volcanic island in the Straits of Sunda in 1883.

The Pennsylvania Wreck.
A fast freight and a coal train on the Pennsylvania Railroad collided Friday morning at Thirtieth and Spring Garden streets, Philadelphia, and Robert Reagan, a fireman, was instantly killed. Both engines were completely wrecked, involving a loss of over $10,000. The accident is said to be due to the freight engineer disregarding the red signal.

Fought to the Death.
Thursday morning while working in the field, Jesse Brumlow and C. D. Williams, brothers-in-law, fought with pocket-knives. Brumlow died immediately and it is thought Williams cannot recover. The sheriff is upon the scene of the tragedy. The combatants married sisters, daughters of W. Carr. All are farmers residing about ten miles northwest of Stephenville, Texas.

Currency Shipped to New Orleans.
The sum of $200,000 was shipped to New Orleans, La., Thursday, from the sub-treasury, at New York City. This was the second shipment of this kind from New York this season. The money is to be used to move the cotton crop and further demands of a like nature will be awaited with interest, as the gauge of the business conditions in the country tributary to New Orleans.

Mayon Eruption.
Additional details of the eruptions of the Mayon volcano, in the Province of Alborno, Philippine Islands, show that 120 of the inhabitants of the village of Libong perished. The village was greatly damaged, and the tobacco crop of the vicinity destroyed. The eruption was accompanied by an earthquake, the shocks being felt over an area of one mile. The volcano of Mayon has been asleep since 1617.

Earthquake Accounted For.
A Chillicothe, O., special says that residents in the neighborhood of the supposed volcanic eruption near Bainbridge believe they have fathomed the cause. It has been known for years that there is a cavernous formation in that locality and the belief is that the caves are falling in. There has never been any thorough investigation to ascertain their extent. The inhabitants are still apprehensive of a further disturbance.

The Southern Hot Wave.
The mercury registered 96 in the shade at Memphis Friday. There were several prostrations from the heat and two deaths. James MacMullen, a laborer, was prostrated and died shortly after. Friday night, John O'Brien, a wealthy shoe dealer, was overcome in his store and died within a few minutes. At Helena, Ark., Hernando, Miss., Decatur, Ala., and Milan, Tenn., the thermometer registered 101, while many places in Tennessee and Arkansas reported the figures from 96 to 100.

Bids have been opened for the construction of the Puget Sound fortifications at Marrowstone Point, near Townsend. There were fourteen bidders in the competition, representing firms from as far east as Chicago. The lowest figure submitted was that of the Pacific Bridge Company, of Portland, the amount of the bid being $143,353.50. The other two points opposite Port Townsend, contracts for which are soon to be let, are Admiralty Head and Point Wilson, the bids for the former being advertised for July 1.

Worse Than Supposed.
The plight of fugitive Internal Collector Welborn, of San Francisco, Cal., is far worse than the investigating officers of the government at first supposed. The inquiry that has brought disgrace upon the collector has opened a veritable mine of fraud. It is asserted that while he was buying champagne with checks he had no right to sign; he was telling saloon men that they need not pay their licenses. It is not yet known how many saloon keepers enjoyed Welborn's favor in this regard, but the investigation will be continued until the facts are discovered.

Girls Make a Daring Attempt at Escape.
Maggie Gaffer, of Covington, aged fifteen and Millie Huber, of Cincinnati, aged sixteen, made a daring escape from the convent of the Good Shepherd in Cincinnati after midnight. They dropped twenty feet from a fourth story window to a roof, and then scaled the convent walls. Millie Huber sprained her ankle, and her companion would not desert her, so the police took charge of them. The girls tell stories of starvation, hard work and cruel treatment, and threaten suicide if they are returned. The police will investigate.

Chicago Assassination.
While Charles Nelson, 3,238 Graves street, Chicago, a stenographer, sat on a bench in Washington Park, Thursday night, with his companion in a bike ride, Miss Margaret Staples, 1,557 Michigan avenue, an unknown assassin fired three bullets at him from the cover of a lilac bush. One bullet entered Nelson's body near the heart, another pierced his neck and the third wounded him in the fleshy part of the leg. Nelson was immediately taken to the hospital where the physicians pronounced the wounds fatal. After firing the three shots, the assassin ran away and was lost sight of in the large crowd that gathered. The cause of the shooting is unknown.

Nicaraguan Canal Commission.
The New York Herald's Washington special says: Upon the return of President McKinley from Canton he will send to the Senate the names of the men who will form the new Nicaraguan Canal Commission. The slate as made Thursday bears the names of Rear Admiral John G. Walker, U. S. N., retired; Capt. Oberlin M. Carter, corps of engineers, U. S. A., and Prof. L. M. Haupt, who formerly held the chair of engineering in the University of Pennsylvania. The slate was prepared by Mr. McKinley after consultation with secretary of War Alger, Secretary of the Interior Bliss, Secretary of the Navy Long and Brigadier General Wilson, chief of engineers United States army. The president is anxious to secure as members of the proposed commission men of known ability and integrity and whose report will be without question.

DR. RICHARDSON DEAD.
The Well-Known Presbyterian Divine Passes Away at Memphis.

Rev. E. M. Richardson, D. D., secretary of education of the Presbyterian church in the United States was found dead in his bed in Memphis last Wednesday morning. He was one of the best known divines in the south, his official duties calling him to almost every city of any size in the country. The deceased was 68 years of age. Heart failure was the cause.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

BAGGING AND TIES PLACED ON THE FREE LIST.

The House was in Session Only Two Days This Week—Fair Progress Made with the Tariff Bill by the Senate—Playing Cards Taxed 20 Cents.

SENATE.

MONDAY.—The senate made good progress on the tariff bill to-day, disposing of the paragraph relating to hides which have been the source of most controversy. Mr. Allison proposed a change in the paragraph, making the rate 20 per cent. ad valorem in stead of 15c per pound; and also striking out the proviso relating to drawbacks. The paragraph as amended reads: Hides of cattle, raw or uncurd, whether dry, salted or pickled, 20 per cent. ad valorem. The vote was then taken on the hide paragraph as amended by the committee and it was agreed to, 39 to 20. Mr. Allison proposed a substitute for paragraph 215, relating to cattle, as follows: Less than a year old, $2 a head, on all other cattle, if valued at not more than $13, $3.50 a head; valued at more than $14 and not more than $25, twenty-five per cent. The substitute was agreed to. The bill was laid aside at 5 o'clock and after an executive session the senate adjourned.

TUESDAY.—After a tedious consideration of the tariff bill throughout to-day, the senate wound up with a half hour of lively and amusing colloquy between Senators Tillman, of South Carolina, and Chandler, of New Hampshire. During the day the senate disposed of the lead paragraphs, the committee rate of 15c per pound on lead ore being agreed to, 30-33. The other paragraphs considered were of comparatively minor importance.

WEDNESDAY.—As a result of the rapid work on the tariff bill to-day, the close of the long debate in the senate and the final vote is felt to be near at hand. Two of the most important provisions—those relating to the Hawaiian treaty of reciprocity and the duty on coal, were perfected to-day, while another source of much conflict, the reciprocity section, was matured by the finance committee and presented to the senate. Aside from these larger items, a great many minor ones which have caused more or less conflict were disposed of. The Hawaiian provision of the house bill was restored, after brief debate and without the formality of a vote. This has the effect of leaving the Hawaiian treaty of reciprocity in full force and effect. Quite a number of the minor paragraphs of the free list went over for future consideration. At 5:15 p. m. the bill was laid aside and after an executive session the senate adjourned.

THURSDAY.—The finance committee suffered several unexpected reverses during the progress of the tariff bill to-day, being defeated on three important votes. Cotton bagging was placed on the free list, 30 to 45, and cotton ties also, by a vote of 29 to 23. The duty on white pine lumber was reduced from $2 to $1 per thousand, 31-31. The amendment on pine occasioned the greatest surprise and led to a general breaking up of party lines on both sides of the chamber. During the early stages of the debate the duty on lumber, including pine was placed at $2, after a protracted contest. To-day Mr. Teller returned to the contest and moved to place white pine lumber on the free list. The amendment was defeated by the close vote of 32 to 33, four Republicans, Baker, Carter, Hansbrough and Quay, joining the Democrats, Populists and silver Republicans in the affirmative, while three Democrats, Bacon, McEnery and Martin, voted with the Republicans in the negative. Following this close vote Mr. Mantle moved to reduce the rate on white pine from $2 to $1, and this was carried by a majority of one. Two Republicans, Baker and Carter, voted with the Democrats in the affirmative, and three Democrats, Bacon, McEnery and Martin, with the Republicans in the negative. The bill is now completed, with the exception of the reciprocity section and some comparatively minor paragraphs. Much progress was made to-day in clearing up detached paragraphs heretofore passed over. Only three of these—coal tar, potash and tea—remain, so that these items, the reciprocity section and the brief internal revenue and administrative provisions are all that remain of the bill to be disposed of before the final vote is taken.

FRIDAY.—Reciprocity and retaliation were the two phases of the tariff bill to occupy the attention of the senate to-day to the exclusion of all other subjects. Both provisions were agreed to, although the debate on the reciprocity clause was protracted to 6 p. m. Shortly before adjournment Mr. Allison endeavored to secure an agreement on the time for a final vote. Mr. Teller would not consent to fixing the time until proposed amendments had been submitted to the senate. Mr. Allison was not prepared to submit these amendments and he withdrew his request, although there is still hope that an agreement will be reached tomorrow. The retaliatory clause provides that whenever any country bestows an export bounty on any article there shall be levied, in addition to the duties provided by the act an additional duty equal to the amount of the bounty. The clause was agreed to, 33 to 19. The reciprocity clause empowers the president, with the advice and consent of the senate, to make reciprocity treaties, giving 20 per cent. reduction in duties on designated articles or placing articles on the free list. Adjourned.

SATURDAY.—The tariff bill has gone over until Monday. Mr. Allison reported a new amendment from the finance committee, giving a bounty of one-quarter cent. a pound on beet sugar made from beets grown in the United States. Mr. Thurston, of Nebraska, one of the prime movers, arose and withdrew the amendment, saying his action was inspired by patriotic motives and for the purpose of removing all obstacles to the passage of the bill. His colleague, Mr. Allen, immediately renewed the bounty proposition. During the day the bill was brought to a state of practical completion, the only remaining items being the new provisions submitted by the committee and individual senators. Among the features disposed of were the anti-trust sections, the provisions of the Wilson act on that subject being re-enacted. Mr. Mills, Democrat, of Texas, brought forward a new amendment for a tax of 20 cents a pack on playing cards, which was agreed to by unanimous vote, amid much amusement and surprise, as Mr. Mills had not expected this result. All of the administrative sections of the bill and that repealing the Wilson act were disposed of during the day, and the paragraph proposing a tax on beer was withdrawn by the committee.

HOUSE.

MONDAY.—The session of the house to-day lasted long enough to call the roll on Mr. Dingley's motion to adjourn. As soon as the journal had been approved, the floor leader of the majority remarked that as he was not aware of any matters claiming the attention of the house to-day he moved an adjournment. Mr. Bailey, of Texas, challenged the statement with the observation that the bankruptcy bill and the Cuban belligerency resolutions were unacted upon. The opposition applauded when the rising vote showed them in the majority, the vote resulting 85 to 86 against Mr. Dingley's motion. Thereupon Mr. Dingley demanded the yeas and nays and the roll was called. The motion was carried, 97 to 88. At 12:45 p. m. the house adjourned until Thursday.

THURSDAY.—Mr. Settle, Democrat, of Kentucky, after the journal had been read, raised a question as to the truth of the journal of last Monday's proceedings, by offering a technical amendment to correct the journal. Upon this amendment he got the floor and proceeded with an extended speech on the general question of the power of the house to adjourn over three days at a time, which he declared was a direct violation of the constitution. He drifted into a general arraignment of the Republicans for not taking action on the bankruptcy bill and the Cuban belligerency resolution. Mr. Settle's amendment was rejected by 90 to 105, and at 1:30 the house adjourned till Monday.

Tin Plate Scale Not Yet Adopted.

The second conference between committees of manufacturers and the Amalgamated Association on the tin plate wage scale began at Pittsburgh, Pa., at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. There was a full representation on both sides. The manufacturers held a meeting during the morning to discuss the situation. At the close of the manufacturers' meeting Chairman George Greer, of Newcastle, said he could make no prediction as to the outcome of the conference. "We positively will not pay the scale demanded by the workers," said he. "The condition of trade will not warrant an increase in the production." The workers' scale committee held a preliminary meeting during the morning. They are as determined as ever to make no concessions from their original demands and are confident of success.

Illinois Miners Strike.

Miners of Springfield, Ill., have voted, unanimously, to obey the order of the national executive board of the United Mine Workers of America to mine no more coal after July 4. The miners are not the only ones that will quit work, but all the employees of the companies whose wages rise and decline when the wages of the miners are affected have been asked to come out. This puts a serious aspect upon the situation, for if the mines are allowed to remain idle without the constant attention of the trappers it would not take long for them to cave in.

Calling Out Coal Miners.

Next Sunday, or prior to that day, circulars will be placed in the hands of all the bituminous miners in the United States calling them out on a strike. It is estimated that 250,000 men will be involved. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and parts of West Virginia and Kentucky will contribute to the movement. The strike is to enforce the Columbus scale of 63c per ton for Pennsylvania, 60c for Ohio, 60c for Indiana and 55c for Illinois.

Residence Destroyed.

Fire destroyed a residence owned and occupied by J. Mr. Hubely and family, of Eufaula. The inmates had a narrow escape. Very few of the effects were saved. The fire originated in the kitchen, it is thought, from a defective flue; insurance, $1,300.

Struck by Lightning.

The home of Thomas Crosby, of Renfro, was struck by lightning and his wife, who was confined to her bed with illness, was instantly killed. The bolt did not strike Mrs. Crosby, and it is thought that she died from the nervous shock.

Tax Collector's Report.

The following tax collectors have made reports to the Auditor at Montgomery: W. J. White, of Barbour; R. E. Peagler, of Butler; W. A. Hendricks, of Chilton; W. J. Holland, of Escambia; John H. Turpin, of Hale; W. H. Platt, of Pickens, and J. A. Germany, of Tallapoosa.

New Compress.

Two cars of machinery for the West Huntsville compress for the making of cylindrical cotton bales have been received and several other cars are due to arrive within the next few days. As soon as the ginning machinery is selected, dirt will be broken for the building. The gin will be ready for work in time to enter business in the cotton picking season.

Gold Bonds Sold.

The Commissioners of Tuscaloosa county have sold $12,000 of county gold bonds at a very handsome premium. The bonds were awarded to Mr. Fenton Robertson, of Columbus, Miss., the highest bidder. Mr. Robertson bid $665 premium for $15,000 in denominations of $100. They bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, interest payable semi-annually.

The Right of Way.

In Mobile the jury to condemn the right of way of the Mobile and Ohio railroad from that city to State Line, Miss., for the use of the Postal Telegraph company, made a decision Monday assessing the damage at $5. It is stated that the railroad company claimed $200 per mile as the value of the right of way. The Postal company intends to build a line from that city to St. Louis.

Will Not Accept a Reduction.

The miners at Broodside, Brazil, Cardiff, Blossburg, Blocton, Adger, Johns and Sumter coal mines are idle, having refused to accept a reduction. Three hundred coke ovens at Johns have been shut down and notice given that work is indefinitely postponed. In Birmingham and Gate City two rolling mills have closed, awaiting the signing of the scale of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers.

Pension Scheme Swindle.

An article in a recent issue of the Montgomery Journal says that the old fraud of swindling ignorant negroes on the promise of a pension is being worked near that city. The headquarters of the swindle is in a fat some two miles from the city and those who conduct the duping scheme are said to be a white man, a woman of the same color, and a negro man. The people claim to be "right-hand bowers" of President McKinley, sent there to "register" all negroes for the purpose of securing pensions for them. The charged for being registered is 25 cents.

Export Shipments of Iron.

The report of export shipments of iron from the Birmingham district the past six months show an average of 15,000 to 20,000 tons shipped per month, or in the neighborhood of 120,000 tons all told. It being fair to presume that the second six months will make at least as good a showing on account of the willingness of cotton vessels to take iron as extra cargo, it is fairly estimated that iron shipments for export out of the Birmingham district for 1897 will be 240,000 to 250,000 tons.

A Suit Compromised.

A suit of eight years' standing, involving $144,000 was settled at Huntsville last week. Isadore Newman, of New Orleans, was the plaintiff and the Sheffield and Birmingham Coal and Iron company was the defendant. The litigation grew out of the purchase of certain certificates of stock in the defendant company by Mr. Newman, which the company declined to pay when they fell due. There were present at the settlement Col. E. W. Cole, of Nashville; J. T. Neely and Napoleon Hill, of Memphis, of the defendant company, and Isadore Newman, plaintiff.

The O'Brien Tax.

Justice Haralson, of the supreme court, has submitted his opinion in the appeal of the State of Alabama from Birmingham city court, which held that the Southern railway could not be forced to pay the O'Brien school tax, it being considered by the court unconstitutional. The supreme court sustains the city court and says: "If this were allowed it would sanction the levy of a tax by the state for public education in the city, which the city itself is prohibited by the constitution from levying and collecting, and which if sanctioned as to one city, might be extended to every other locality in the state in overthrow of this fundamental law. It would allow a thing to be done indirectly, which is forbidden to be directly done."

LARGE DEAL CLOSED.

An English Syndicate Ready to Buy the Coal Lands.

Maj. E. E. McCrosby, the agent for an English syndicate in Knoxville, Tenn., has received a cable dispatch from London, England, worded as follows:

"Deal has been closed all right. Taylor will be with you soon."
The deal referred to is that whereby an English syndicate has secured options on nearly all the coal mines now in operation in the Jellico districts of Tennessee and Kentucky, and of many of the mines along the Cincinnati Southern railroad in Morgan county, Tennessee, and Whitely county, Kentucky.

The "Taylor" referred to is the financial agent of the English syndicate, who has already sailed for this country. The lands involved in the deal comprise 100,000 acres, which include seventy mines now in operation. Maj. Crosby stated that the money for the first payment, $5,000,000, is on deposit in the Bank of England.

This announces officially the acceptance of the options and the consummation of the largest purchase of coal lands in the history of the south.

More War Possible.

A pessimistic view of the negotiations for peace between Turkey and Greece are taken at Athens and even the resumption of hostilities in the near future is regarded as possible. It is stated that in such an event King George will command the Greek troops.

CALERA, ALA., JULY 8, 1897.

On last Saturday a difficulty occurred in Selma between two young men, cousins, Newton Cothran and M. G. Sharpe, in which Sharpe was severely and perhaps fatally cut in two or three places by Cothran with a pocket knife.

Says the Montgomery Advertiser: "The 15th of July is a day big with promise for Birmingham and the south. If the effort to make steel proves successful, it will be worth untold millions to this portion of the United States."

The Second Regiment Alabama state troops is now in camp at Tuskalooosa. This camp has been named Festus Pitts Camp in honor of Col. Festus Pitts, an esteemed citizen of Tuskalooosa now deceased, who was a member of the state troops—an honor worthily bestowed.

Thirty-two persons died last Sunday from heat in the cities of Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Nashville, Dayton, Lima, Ohio, Jackson, Mich., and Louisville. According to official records the temperature in Louisville was higher than at any other point, but private thermometers at St. Louis, Nashville, Cincinnati and Detroit went higher. Many serious prostrations are reported in addition to those which have resulted fatally.

Mr. Julian Bingham of Montgomery, has been appointed Internal Revenue Collector to succeed Mr. R. O. Randall, the present incumbent. Mr. Bingham was Register of the United States Land Office at Montgomery during the Harrison administration and made a very acceptable officer. He is a son of the late Arthur Bingham and has always been a staunch republican. He will no doubt make a good officer.

Centerville is evidently on the up grade. The building of the M. T. & M. road is infusing new life into all of Bibb county. The Sentinel notes with pleasure the many signs of enterprise and improvement. A bank, a much needed institution for that section of the state, we see will be opened at Centerville between the 10th. and 15th. of the present month with a capital of $50,000, Col. J. B. Wadsworth of Birmingham is to be the president and John P. Kennedy, of Centerville, cashier. The Sentinel wishes the new enterprise every success.

The National Conference of the People's party held in Nashville during this week demonstrated the fact that the "Middle of the Roaders" are determined to perfect and build up a national organization. The delegates present seem to be violently opposed to fusion with other parties, and very much in earnest for the re-organization and building up of their own party. A national organization committee was appointed with Milton Parker, of Dallas, Tex., as chairman, W. S. Morgan, of Arkansas, as secretary, D. W. Crowe of Alabama, treasurer. This committee was invested with almost plenary power in the matter of forwarding and perfecting the party organization.

Calera failed to secure the agricultural school for this district, but she can have and she intends to have one of the very best schools in the district. She proposes to erect comfortable and suitable buildings equip them fully for the purposes intended with as little delay as possible. She is in earnest in the educational line, and does not propose to lag behind any of her sister towns. Our people are enthused on this subject and are all pulling and working together for the upbuilding of our city and the advancement of its moral and educational interests and they intend to succeed.

THE AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

FOR THIS THE FOURTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

The Board to locate the Agricultural School for this, the Fourth Congressional District, composed of Gov. Jos. F. Johnston and Hons. J. O. Turner and I. F. Culver, met in the capitol in the city of Montgomery on Monday, the 5th inst., and selected Sylacauga as the location for said school. There were five candidates for this district school, viz.: Sylacauga, Childersburg, Heflin, Columbiana and Calera. The members of the Board had, during the past month visited each of the places and examined the locations and offers. On Monday delegations from each aspirant appeared before the Board and submitted final bids and arguments in behalf of the respective places. The Board received the bids and heard the arguments of all patiently and courteously. The Governor then announced that the application of each candidate would be carefully considered by the committee before a decision was made and the delegations were excused. Upon the final summing up by the committee the choice fell upon Sylacauga, and that will henceforth have the honor of being the site for the agricultural school of the Fourth District. The competition for this honor and the large number of representatives from the different towns competing clearly indicates the interest felt by the people of the district in the cause of education. All the bids presented were very good ones, and each was well worthy of securing a school, and the only regret of the Board no doubt was that it could not place a district school at each of said places. As it was, however, one alone could win, and in this instance Sylacauga won the plum. Calera was very much interested and did her best, but fortune did not smile upon her. She has the satisfaction, however, of feeling that she presented one of the best, if not the very best offer, made. We of course think that her bid taken altogether, her central location in the district, her accessibility to all portions of the district and her healthfulness of location together with a new modern brick school building and other property, aggregating about $12,000 or $20,000 in value was the best offer made, but the Board it appears could not see it in that light. Calera therefore has no kick to make, but concedes with the other unfortunates and congratulates her fortunate competitor upon winning the prize and wishes that Sylacauga may prove the right place, and may make the school a grand success and an honor to the district. The following have been named as the Board of control: R. B. Kelley, of Anniston, J. M. Thornton of Talladega, Edwin J. Smith of Sylacauga, J. L. Walthall of Harpersville, and J. F. Morgan of Heflin. Messrs. Smith and Walthall to serve six years, Thornton and Morgan four years, and Mr. Kelly two years. The first meeting of the Board will be held at Sylacauga on Friday, July 16.

INCIDENT AT THE REUNION.

The meeting and mingling together of old comrades in arms at Nashville recalled many tender memories and brought forth many touching scenes. It was the privilege of the writer to be present and witness many of them, but our space at this time is too limited to dwell upon them. There was one however that came to our knowledge that illustrates the kindly comradeship of the old soldiers in a striking manner. This was a meeting between Major Culver, our present excellent commissioner of agriculture and a private soldier of his old company. This old soldier had received a wound about the head injuring his mental faculties to some extent, and from which he had never fully recovered. This rendered his lot in life since a rather hard one, particularly as it made it more difficult for him to earn a living. He and the Major had not met for a number of years, and when they met on this occasion old memories surged to the fore and eyes were dimmed as they cordially grasped hands. After exchanging kindly greetings and asking after each other's welfare, the Major seemed impressed with the fact that the world had not dealt any too kindly with his old comrade in the way of this world's goods, and simply, without ostentation, avoiding as far as possible the observance of others, he pressed into the hand of his old comrade a ten dollar note to help him on his way.

The name of Mr. Jas. Nunnellee, editor of the Morning Times, is being suggested for the Senate from Dallas county. The Sentinel thinks he is in every way qualified for this honor. His sound democracy, firm convictions, intelligence, honesty, patriotism, and loyalty to country and state, fit him for the place. Should he consent to stand for the honor, he will make a good race, and if elected will make a fine Senator. By the way Dallas is always lucky, and "Jim" might get to be president of the Senate.

The weather bureau in its account of the crop conditions for the week ending July 5th, makes a very favorable report. The past week it says has been very favorable and corn has made rapid growth, but cotton is needing rain over the greater portions of the cotton belt. The bulk of the winter wheat crop has been harvested as far north as Indiana and spring wheat is doing well.

The coal miners of Pennsylvania and other portions of the mining regions to the north of us are in the throes of a great strike. The strike order of the National Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of America has been obeyed by from 10,000 to 15,000 of the 21,000 miners of the Pittsburgh district. The miners elsewhere, however, appear to be rather slow in responding.

The Mathews Cotton Mills, soon to be sold at foreclosure, a condition brought about by the failure of the Commercial Bank, will close down Friday. Three hundred people will be thrown out of employment. The Selma Cotton Mill has employed half of the hands and will run night and day.

The highest temperature yesterday was 80, about 1 o'clock and the lowest was 73 at 7:30 a. m. Not since the 17th of June has the maximum temperature been as low as 90. The rain fall was slight, having been about eighth of inch. The prospects are good for more and in larger quantity today.—Mont. Adv. 7th inst.

The preliminary hearing of Wm. J. Reese, Jr., for the killing of Frank Riggs at Belknap, June 21, was concluded today and Reese was admitted to bail in the sum of $10,000. The bond was quickly made. Reese has about recovered from his wounds. No new evidence was brought out in the trial.—Selma Cor. Mont. Adv.

Coosa Advocate: In regard to the back tax law, there is an instance on record in this county which shows that the law is resulting in good to the state. County Commissioner Walden informs us that he has assessed $2,000 worth of property in a portion of one beat. This shows that there is a large amount of property in the county which the State in the future will receive taxes on.

An inexhaustible deposit of iron ore, brown, has been discovered near Leeds, Ala. This is very valuable and means much to the iron district of Alabama.
